Visiting M.P. Asked To Speak

Harmer Nicholls, M.P., a member of parliament of the United Kingdom, who is to be an overnight guest of the city, is being asked to speak briefly to the grandstand crowd at the Exhibition tonight.

Peterborough, England, is in Mr. Nicholls' constituency in the industrial Midlands. He is in Canada attending the Commonwealth Parliamentary Conference. He was coming by automobile from Ottawa, due here at noon today, and at 1.30 was going with Mayor Waddell to the Canadian General Electric works, and about 3 p.m. to Peterborough's newest industrial plant at Nashua Paper, Braidwood and Monaghan Road.

Possibly, there will be time for a call at another manufacturing plant.

City council is entertaining Mr. Nicholls at tea in the mayor's parlor at the City Hall to meet some of the citizens and heads of industry. At 7.15, he will be council's guest at an informal dinner at the Empress. It was thought that he would be interested in the Exhibition. There he will be asked to speak as a representative of one Peterborough to some thousands of the people of this Peterborough.

Mr. Nicholls has an invitation to spend the night at the home of Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., and Mrs. Fraser at Burleigh Falls.

After a motor tour of the city Saturday morning he is returning to attend a dinner at which the Commonwealth representatives will be the guests of Prime Minister St. Laurent.

Wonder Who Cracks First, Black, Wilhelm

NEW YORK (AP)—Who will run out of gas first—Joe Black or Hoyt Wilhelm?

The fellow who knows the answer could make a good pick on the National League pennant winner.

With the pressure mounting every day, managers Chuck Dressen and Leo Durocher are quick to look to their bullpens for relief help. When he's in a tough spot, Dressen calls for Black. Whenever he needs to get out of a jam, Leo phones for Wilhelm.

Both the Dodgers' Black and the Giants' Wilhelm boast 13-3 records. Either can become "rookie of the year" if his club wins. But both must be getting tired.

Black went almost eight full innings against the Giants Monday. He had to help out Wednesday night. Wilhelm goes almost every day and sometimes twice a day. So far it's 62 games for Wilhelm, 49 for Black as compared to Jim Konstanty's modern record of 74 appearances for the Phils in 1950.

PRESSURE MOUNTS

With only 3½ games separating the leading Dodgers from the chasing Giants, the pressure will be on the relief men more than ever.

Wilhelm is a sure thing to see action today when the Giants meet Cincinnati in a doubleheader at the Polo Grounds. Either Al Corwin or Montia Kennedy—and possibly both—may need aid before the long afternoon is over.

Durocher can't afford to hold back a thing. Two Giant wins would clip the Dodger lead to 2½ games. Then if the Brooks should lose their Ebbets Field night game to St. Louis, it would be down to two games.

St. Louis, still a factor although eight games back, can decide this pennant race. The Cards, smarting from two losses out of three in Philadelphia, play Brooklyn a single game tonight and one tomorrow. Then Eddie Stanky moves his gang across the river to the Polo Grounds to play singles Sunday and Monday against the Giants.

SAFETY AT HIS FINGERTIPS—Giant outfielder Monte Irvin slides head first into third after belting a triple in the eighth inning of New York-Pittsburgh game at the Polo Grounds. Pirate third baseman Sonny Senerchia waits to take the throw while umpire Bill Engeln watches. Irvin's blast scored Don Mueller to tie the game, 2-2, and set the stage for Mueller's 13th inning game-winning honor.

Weekend Football Results May Set Cup Pattern

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Big Four football teams complete the circuit this weekend and the results should give Eastern Canada fans a fair indication of what to expect along about Grey Cup time. Or will they?

Some zany things have been happening on the eastern and western fronts the last couple of years with clubs that were supposed to lay down and die—according to form—smacking the bejabbers out of their opponents.

The goings-on of the last-place Calgary Stampeders in the Western Conference and Montreal Alouettes in the east at the tail-end of the 1951 season still linger in the minds of fans. They were the clubs that practically forced three-way ties in the standings.

ALL TEAMS PLAY

There's a full schedule on tap for tomorrow in the senior groups. It's Calgary at Regina and Edmonton at Winnipeg in the west; Toronto Balmy Beach at Windsor and Sarnia at Brantford in the Ontario Rugby Football Union and Montreal at Hamilton and Ottawa Rough Riders at Toronto Argonauts.

The Rough Rider-Argonaut clash before an expected 27,000 full house at Varsity stadium could be a dilly.

The defending Grey Cup champion Riders squeezed past the hapless Als 32-28 and then took a 30-8 shellacking from Tiger-Cats at Ottawa last week-end, leading Rider coach Clem Crowe to observe:

"So far we've played only one game—half a game against Montreal and half a game against Hamilton."

If Argos continue their blistering pace, Riders will have to come up with a tremendous effort to topple them. The double blues have been acting like a bunch of old pros—they looked like bums in pre-season exhibition games but in chips-down league competition they practically annihilated the opposition.

They started the season with a 33-13 decision over the Tiger-Cats at Hamilton and then delighted a home-town crowd last Saturday with a 43-0 triumph over the Alouettes.

TIGER-CATS FAVORED

On form it should be Hamilton over Montreal. The Als are angling for new talent and expenses are no deterrent but they can't expect help before the Saturday kickoff.

It should be a shoo-in for the Beaches and Sarnia, co-leaders of the O. R. F. U. with two victories each.

Calgary Stampeders, who perked up early in the season with three straight wins, haven't been able to buy a victory since. They suffered their third straight loss, 7-6 to the Roughriders at Calgary Monday, and coach Les Lear's huskies are out to make amends.

The Roughriders will depend on rookie backfielders with coach Glen Dobbs giving up the signal-calling to Doug Belden. Dobbs plans to start Joe Stracina, a Montreal intermediate grad, at fullback. Wayne Anderson, a Saskatoon junior star a year ago, and Freddie Hamilton, a former intermediate from Hamilton, also will be first-string halves.

Nellie Greene and import Art Stewart both are hobbling around on injured ankles and Dobbs is forced to give the kids a chance to shine.

STAMPS STRENGTHENED

Calgary has added Dave Anderson, 21-year-old former quarter with Arkansas A. and M. College to relieve the injured Stan Heath. Bruce Boa, middle with the University of Western Ontario Mustangs in the senior Intercollegiate Union last season, reported for his first workout Thursday but it is not known whether he will see action.

Winnipeg will be considerably strengthened for its game against the Eskimos with return of scatbacks Tom Casey and Gerry James. Both have been out three games due to injuries.

The Bombers will be gunning for their fourth straight victory. They hold a three-point lead over the Stampeders and a loss still will leave them in the top spot.

Willy Pep Gives Bobby Woods Lesson

VANCOUVER (CP) — Young Bobby Woods took lessons in boxing and wrestling from a former champion last night as Willy Pep danced and mauled his way to a unanimous 10-round decision over the out-classed Californian.

Woods, however, was still strong at the finish and with one of the few strong licks he got past Pep's defences, ripping a gash over the veteran's right eye.

Pep, featherweight champion until he matched holds with Sandy Saddler, fights out of Hartford, Conn. Wood lists Eureka, Calif., as his hometown. Both fighters weighed in at 130 pounds.

Hawks Get New Ownership, Players

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago Black Hawks, long-time also-rans of the National Hockey League, go into the 1952-53 season with a shake-up from top to bottom.

The first change was announced recently—that Sid Abel, veteran Detroit centre, would replace Ebbie Goodfellow as manager.

Yesterday, at the N.H.L.'s annual pre-season meeting, it was disclosed that the club will have new ownership and four new players.

Taking over as proprietors are Arthur M. Wirtz, president of the Chicago Stadium; his business associate, James D. Norris, and Norris' younger brother, Bruce.

GIVE UP DETROIT

James Norris is president of the International Boxing Club, which promotes most major fights, and Wirtz is a member of the I.B.C.'s board of directors. They and the younger Norris gave up their interest in Detroit Red Wings in order to make the Black Hawks deal.

James Norris will function as chairman of the board while Wirtz takes over as president and Bruce Norris as first vice-president. They bought out seven unnamed Hawk stockholders. However, former President William J. Tobin will remain with the organization as a vice-president and general manager. He retained his stock.

No sooner was the ownership change announced than it was revealed that the Black Hawks had traded top goalie Harry Lumley to Toronto Maple Leafs for four players: Roy Hannigan, right winger; centre Cal Gardner; Gus Mortsen, defenceman, and goalie Al Rollins.

The various Black Hawks doings overshadowed other developments of a busy league meeting that produced a revolutionary new intra-league draft setup.

SET UP DRAFT

Under the plan, weaker teams can be strengthened by the drafting of certain players from stronger clubs for $10,000 each. This, said N.H.L. President Clarence S. Campbell, will prevent rookie players being held in control of one club too long.

Spokesmen said the agreement will work like this:

Each club will have 22 players—two goalies and 20 others—in a protective group exempt from the draft. But other players may be claimed by other clubs for the $10,000 draft price.

Once drafted, a player may not be traded or sold for a year. If a club wants to drop a drafted player it must first ask waivers and the player, if claimed, can be bought for $7,500.

The plan becomes effective Oct. 5.

R. S. Hull Chosen President St. Peter's Club

R. S. Hull heads the St. Peter's High School Athletic Advisory Club for another year, and D. J. Fitzgerald is vice-president with Ed Ayrhart secretary, and A. Morris treasurer.

The committee chairmen are Gordon Snape, membership; Bernard Jones, purchasing; Bob McCabe, sports, and Jim Byrne, social activities.

At the first fall meeting, held Thursday night, plans were discussed for the winter sports program, and Rev. J. H. Coughlin explained that more emphasis would be put on basketball, as soon as the gym in the new primary school was ready. An effort is being made to enter the junior rugby team in the junior "A" C. O.S.S.A. set up, while the seniors will probably line up again with the Catholic Conference.

Port Hope Ties Playoff Series

POR THOPE—The O.B.A. intermediate "B" quarter - final round between Port Hope Ontarios and Milton Merchants is all tied up as the resula of Port Hope's 8-7 win here Wednesday night before one of the season's largest crowds. Milton won the first game, 2-1. The deciding contest will be in Port Hope Saturday afternoon.

John Holman, relief pitcher, and Bud Downey were the heroes of the Port Hope win. Holman came in in the ninth with the tying run on bases and no one out and proceeded to strike out the next three batters. In the eighth, Downey laid down a perfect squeeze-play bunt which, with the help of a Milton error, scored the winning run.

Milton used three pitchers. Murray Grenke started but gave way to Murray Tasker in the sixth. Tasker was taken out in the eighth in favor of Jack Marshall who pitched to only one man, Downey. When the winning runs crossed the plate, Grenke went back in and finished out the game.

Karl Kenahan was the winning pitcher, giving up but five hits and striking out 11. Port Hope errors kept him in trouble off and on throughout the game but he worked well until the ninth.

Johnny Keeler was Port Hope's leading hitter with a pair of singles while Ted Toletzka matched this output for Milton.

DODGERS BUY HUGHES

BROOKLYN (AP) — Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday announced the purchase of James Hughes, 28-year old righthanded pitcher, from their Montreal farm. Hughes, who won nine and lost seven for the Royals, reports today.

SARNIA WINS BOXLA TITLE

SARNIA (CP)—Sarnia Beavers last night downed Wallaceburg Red Devils 9-6 to win their third consecutive Canadian-American Lacrosse Association championship.

Sarnia took the seven-game series 4-1 and now advances into Ontario Lacrosse Association intermediate "A" playoff action.

Following the game the Beavers were presented with the Hiram Walker trophy, emblematic of league championship, by League President Jim Brock of Sarnia.

Bruce Johnson paced the Beavers to the title with a three-goal effort. Gord Haddon, Hoot Gibson and Paul Soper split the other Sarnia goals.

Momney scored twice for Wallaceburg, while single tallies were registered by Reg Foster, Junior Foster, Trepanier and George McAffer.

LIVVIES TO DEFEND TITLE

TILLSONBURG (CP) — Tillsonburg Livingstons, Canadian senior basketball champions, will defend their title this year, manager E.L. Redmond said yesterday.

The announcement set at rest rumors that started soon after the Livvies had won the title. They ranged from no basketball team at all for this season to a hot senior crew playing regular games on a floor laid over the arena ice surface.

"We're definitely after that silverware again this year," Redmond said.

With the exception of coach Paul Thomas and Bob Phibbs, Livvies will have practically the same team this year. Little Bill Pataky, the Western Mustang speedster, will help make up for the loss of the two players and there is a possibility of a couple other top players being signed.

PICKS EIGHT WINNERS

TORONTO (CP)—Fred Nobert, former secretary of the Canadian Boxing Federation, picked all eight winners at the Woodbine Race track yesterday in his first visit to a race track in 3 years. His $2 bets on the favorites netted him $79. If he had parlayed his winners he would have won about $29,000.

AQUINO WINS DONCASTER

DONCASTER, England (AP)—The Maharanee of Baroda's Aquino yesterday won the Doncaster Cup and $7,000 added money. The four-year-old, winner of the Ascot Gold Cup earlier in the racing season, beat Sybils Nephew by three-quarters of a length in the 2¼-mile test. Fraise du Bois broke a leg in the dash up the home straight-away and was destroyed.

35 TURN OUT FOR AGGIES

GUELPH (CP)—O.A.C. - O.V.C. Aggies started prepping this week for this year's intercollegiate intermediate football season with about 35 players turning out for practice under the direction of coach Bill Mitchell. Aggies will open their season here Saturday, Sept. 20, against Royal Military College, Kingston, in an exhibition game. They have also arranged exhibition games with Queen's, Varsity and Ryerson Institute of Toronto.

Find McMaster's Prospects Still Remain Big Question Mark

By TOMMY MOORE

HAMILTON (CP) — McMaster University Marauders make their debut in the senior Intercollegiate Football Union this season with a big "if" attached.

If they make good against the other four clubs—Varsity, Queen's, McGill and Western Ontario—they may be granted full membership in the union in 1952. Otherwise, it may be back to intermediate ranks or another fling at the senior Ontario Rugby Football Union.

GAMES WON'T COUNT

They'll play an abbreviated schedule of four games; a concession granted them on the basis of their showing in O.R.F.U. company last year in the semi-pro circuit. The games will not count in the official standings.

The Marauders finished third last season and one of their players, Mel Hawkrigg, won the league scoring title with 70 points. Hawkrig now is with Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four.

Al Smith, entering his sophomore year as a college coach, admits McMaster's prospects are a big question mark.

With a number of last year's squad back, he has gone no farther than Hamilton high schools to find many newcomers who he thinks are "the best we have had since the war."

Missing from the 1952 team besides Hawkrig are Walt Bashak, O.R.F.U. All-Star lineman, and halfback Alex Ponton, both with Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four; snap Bill Borozowski, with Tiger-Cats; and Ken Foster who has lined up with Sarnia Imperials.

SOME STALWARTS BACK

But Smith will have back such four-year men as Ken Stanley and Gerry McTaggart, a pair of six-foot, four-inch outside wings with basketball-developed hands; Lorne Wrigglesworth, 195-pound quarter who has had pro offers from four Canadian clubs; and Lee Munn and Jim McCracken, 215-pound linemen.

In addition he has such holdovers in the backfield as Max Wooley, St. Catharines lacrosse star, Ernie Darragh, Wimp Crawford, Paul Shannon and Johnny McPhee, formerly with Windsor Assumption College.

For his quarterback Smith will make the choice from Ed Parente, all-star on last year's Hamilton Cathedral high school Red Feather tournament champs; Joe Kosakowski, from Hamilton's Dominion champion junior Tiger-Cats; and Don Nelles, a former signal-caller and half with University of Southern California.

Among the other backfielders available are Garnet Williams, up from the junior Tiger-Cats; Burt Kellock, son of the chairman of the board of governors of McMaster and a standout at Pickering College last year; Jimmy Dodds, 175-pound converted-lineman; and Johnny Pelech, Cathedral high product.

HAS GOOD PROSPECTS

Along the line there are a number of promising prospects from the high school ranks, including Louis Donetto, Rusty Radchuk, Keith Rielly, John Boich and outsides Red Morris, Dave Mitchell and John Smith.

Among the other newcomers considered to have a good chance to make the team are outsides Dan Pugliese, Bill Milawski and Dave Fisher and snaps Bill Currie and Murray Howlett of St. Catharines.

North Durham Playoff Called For Darkness

MILLBROOK —(ENS) — The third game of the North Durham league finals for the Johnny James' Cup was played in Millbrook between the local team and Port Perry before a record crowd. When the game had to be called on account of darkness in the top half of the sixth, the score was 11-8 for Millbrook. Port Perry was up to bat with one man out, one man on base, and two balls on the batter. The game is to be finished immediately before the next game of the series in Port Perry on Friday evening. Millbrook run up a lead when they scored six runs in the second inning. After that the scores were 9-4, 9-5, 10-5, 10-6, 10-7 and finally 11-8 with Millbrook always in the lead, but with Port Perry showing signs of closing the gap. The team which wins four games out of seven takes the series. It is even now.

Millbrook: Wright c.f.; Brackenridge s.s.; Edmunds 3b.; Magill c.f. and p.; B. Dawson p.; Armstrong r.f.; Skitch 1b.; G. Lord c.; M. Lord 2b.; B. Lunn 1b.

Port Perry: Gibson c.f.; Lawrence c.f. and s.s.; Pat Hayes 1b.; Doug Hayes s.s. and p.; Griffin c.; Wallace p. and l.f.; Owen 2b.; Ashbridge r.f.; McLean 3b.

Umpires were Hutchinson behind the plate and Wood on bases.

Emperor Signs Pact For Colony

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (Reuters)—Emperor Haile Selassie yesterday signed the act making Mussolini's African colony of Eritrea part of the Ethiopian empire.

Eritrea's new constitution automatically went into effect as he signed. The new administration will be sworn in before Selassie at Asmara Saturday. The outgoing British administration will hand over the reins in a midnight ceremony Sept. 15-16.

Britain has administered Eritrea since British troops took over the country from the Italians in 1941.

Plans for the federation of the former Italian colony with Ethiopia were approved by the United Nations Dec. 2, 1950.

Passports Refused After Consultation

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies said today Australia's decision to deny passports to prospective delegates to a forthcoming "Peace Congress" in Communist China was taken after consultations with Britain.

Menzies told a press conference, however, that he did not know what action Britain planned to take in cases of prospective delegates from her territory. The Prime Minister said he believed the United States also was withholding passports to the congress.

Menzies told the House of Representatives yesterday that the Peiping meeting will be just a fake and Australians desiring to attend it will be denied passports.

Deadlocked Over Criminal's Fate

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Tribune said in a newspage story yesterday that the Manitoba and federal governments are deadlocked over the fate of Mike Negrey, notorious criminal who has twice escaped from jail.

Negrey was refused admission to Stony Mountain federal penitentiary because he suffers infectious advanced pulmonary tuberculosis, the paper says. As a result, he was confined in a Winnipeg detention home at the province's expense.

The cost of three special guards alone is more than $7,000 a year, a total outlay of about $20,000 for Negrey since his confinement.

The province maintains he is a federal responsibility because his conviction on safe cracking called for a seven-year sentence. Any sentence of two years or over required federal imprisonment.

The federal government says it is not responsible for any convict suffering an infectious disease.

Smart Alec Police Curbs Co-operation

WINNIPEG (CP)—Judge Ralph Maybank of Manitoba Court of Queen's Bench said yesterday "smart alec cops" and "foolish" laws are the greatest barrier to public co-operation with police.

He also told chief constables at their annual conference that there is a need for co-operation between police forces on all levels.

Judge Maybank urged delegates to form a committee to encourage co-operation among police forces and the public.

4 Men Die In Flaming Rail Caboose

Runaway Locomotive Caused Accident, Workers Trapped

SEPT ILES, Que. (CP) — Four men were burned to death last night in a freak railway accident on the railroad line being built into the Labrador ore fields north of this lower St. Lawrence River town.

The men died in a flaming railway caboose which had been struck by a flat car rammed into it by a runaway diesel locomotive on the line 20 miles north of here.

TRAPPED IN CAR

The caboose was crushed by the impact, the men trapped inside, and an overturned stove set the car afire.

Names of the victims were withheld by construction company officials pending notification of next-of-kin.

Two other men were injured, one slightly.

The accident occurred about 6 p.m. when the diesel was standing on an inclined siding running up to a pit where ballast was obtained for the railroad construction.

The locomotive, pulling a load of ballast, slid down the incline on to the main railway line and struck the flat car, sending it careening into the stationary caboose.

Construction workers tried to reach the men inside but, as one witness reported, the splintered caboose "went up in flames like a matchbox."

LOSES FOREARM

One of two other men in the caboose, Russ Collins, a worker from Newfoundland, suffered the loss of his forearm, but now is reported "resting comfortably" at the camp hospital.

The sixth man, Jim Stewart, a civil engineer employed by the construction company, was in the caboose tower and was thrown clear of the burning wreckage. He suffered only minor bruises.

An investigation was opened into the cause of the accident.

The line is being operated by the Quebec North Shore and Labrador Railroad.

Two Ships Collide

PORT HAWKESBURY, N.S. (CP)—The 350-ton car ferry John Cabot collided today in pre-dawn darkness with the 2,963-ton freighter Canadian Victor and beached herself here with a large hole in her starboard quarter. There were no injuries. The ferry, which runs between Mulgrave and this port across the Strait of Canso on Cape Breton island was carrying two trucks. There were no passengers.

A. B. MacDonald Dies In Ottawa, Ill Long Time

OTTAWA (CP) — Angus Bernard MacDonald, one of Canada's co-operative leaders who stepped out of country school teaching, educational pioneering and agriculture to become national secretary of the co-operative Union of Canada, died in hospital today after a prolonged illness. He was 59.

He had been awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree by St. Francis Xavier University in a bedside ceremony at the hospital last night.

The big, white-haired six-footer, familiarly known to his colleagues as "A.B.," helped build the co-operative movement in Canada after a career that centred on Nova Scotia's educational and rural life and then expanded into national and international affairs, including welfare work for the United Nations.

The Nova Scotia farm boy, born on a Glassburn, Antigonish, farm, introduced C.A.R.E. to Canada and for two years served as national chairman of the United Nations international children's emergency fund.

He was a pioneer in extension work at St. Francis Xavier University, working, in 1930, as assistant to Dr. M.M. Coady, the director.

In the 1930s, he directed the credit union movement in the Maritimes, organizing the N.S. Credit Union League and taking over as its first managing director.

Finally, in 1944, co-operative leaders saw the need for a larger, more active national co-operative organization and picked "A.B." to get it organized. This was the Co-operative Union of Canada. Mr. Macdonald served as its national secretary until his death.

"A.B." started out on his varied career with a job as school teacher in Guysboro county, N.S. He studied at St. Francis and the Nova Scotia College of Agriculture, graduating with honors. He also spent some time at the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, and for a period served as Nova Scotia's first district agricultural representative and as a federal livestock official.

Power Plant Hammered In UN Attack

Troop Concentrations Hit Heavily In Biggest Raid

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—United States B-29 Superfortresses last night and early today hammered the Communists' partly-repaired Suiho power plant—largest in Asia—in the first of two Allied blows at the doorstep of Manchuria and Russian Siberia.

At dawn, planes from the U.S. navy carriers Bon Homme Richard and Princeton struck a troop-concentration centre at Hoeryong, 1½ miles from Manchuria and 41 miles west of Siberia. More than 35 Superforts from Okinawa and Japan droned through Red flak for more than 2¼ hours over Suiho, 3,000 feet south of Communist Manchuria.

It was the northernmost penetration of the Korean war by the giant bombers. They hurled 350 tons of explosives on installations undergoing repair from the massive Allied fighter-bomber raid in June. Suiho's generators once supplied power to all North Korea and to many Chinese Communist industries in Manchuria.

Reconnaissance reports of moved transformers and new transmission lines, the air force said, indicated "the one-time fourth-largest power plant of the world was again ripening as a target." One of the three B-29 wings carried 2,000-pound armor-piercing bombs intended to knock out Suiho's heavy machinery for keeps.

The B-29 raid was even heavier than the June raid, an air force spokesman said.

The navy said eight buildings were destroyed and 22 damaged at Hoeryong, where reconnaissance pilots earlier this week had spotted baggage of incoming troops.

Planes from the carriers yesterday pounded factories and east coast waterfronts between Chongjin and Wonsan, to the south.

Prairie Authorities Alerted On New Evidence

TORONTO (CP)—The hunt for four of Canada's most notorious criminals centred in Western Canada today. A senior police official said last night that Edwin Alonzo Boyd and his three henchmen who escaped last Monday from Don jail in Toronto are somewhere on the Prairies. All police forces between here and the Pacific coast have been put on the alert. Although reluctant to give details, the official said it was certain the four men—Boyd, Steve Suchan, Leonard Jackson and William Jackson—left Toronto by train. All four face charges of bank robbery. Suchan and Leonard Jackson are accused of murder.

Police on the Prairies are on the watch. This was illustrated in Saskatchewan yesterday when a railway conductor spotted a man in an open box car.

TRANSIENT SUSPECTED

At Grenfell, 82 miles east of Regina, an armed posse of citizens led by an R.C.M.P. constable surrounded the car and seized the man who turned out to be a harvest worker bound for Swift Current.

Although they have had many tips since it was discovered about 7 a.m. last Monday that the men had escaped, Toronto police looked on the information on the flight west as their first legitimate lead in the hunt.

So far, the search has concentrated mainly in Toronto and elsewhere in Ontario with some activity in Quebec. Heavily-armed officers carried out scores of house raids and set up dozens of road blocks, with orders to shoot to kill, if necessary, to get the men who carry a $26,000 price on their heads.

SPECIAL PROTECTION

In Toronto yesterday the banks and police had a special reception ready for the bank-robbing gang. But the guests didn't show up.

Friday is pay day in the Toronto area, one of the busiest days of the week for the banks which stay open until 6 p.m. Usually they close at 3 p.m. Police reasoned that with more cash than usual in the banks the four might strike to obtain money they need to stay in hiding.

Police squads were distributed through 34 square miles around Toronto, none more than a few minutes from a bank. Bank employees were ready to sound quick alarms.

New Nazi Party Breaks Up In W. Germany

HANNOVER, Germany (AP)—The biggest threat of a Nazi political comeback in West Germany exploded yesterday with the break-up of the Socialist Reich Party.

The ultra-nationalistic group, whose former Nazi leaders preached many of Hitler's doctrines, dissolved voluntarily without waiting for the outcome of a government suit to outlaw it.

The S.R.P. secretary-general, Fritz Heller, announced the dissolution was ordered to protect "the lives and limbs of party members from Communist secret police" of East Germany.

HAVE SUSPICIONS

But many West German and Allied authorities suspected there might be something more behind the party's strange suicide. They suggested that the party might "go underground" to escape the threat of being outlawed by the West German Supreme Court, or that some of its leaders might try to sidestep the feared court ruling by forming a new party.

The S.R.P. came on the West German political scene in 1950 with a Nazi-like platform, Storm-Trooper trappings and successes in state elections that alarmed both Allied authorities and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's conservative government. There has been no national election since then, however, and the party has been confined to secondary roles in state parliaments.

Warns Canada Must Share Its Riches

HAMILTON (CP)—Canada must be prepared to share its riches with less prosperous parts of the world, Prime Minister St. Laurent said last night in the closing speech of a 16-day tour of Ontario and Western Canada.

Speaking at a meeting in celebration of the founding of the Canadian Club in Hamilton 60 years ago, Mr. St. Laurent keynoted his address with a Bible quotation: "To whomsoever much is given, of him much shall be required."

The Prime Minister said he believed Canadians have dropped the philosophy which accepted poverty as a natural phenomenon and have demanded that their government do something to alleviate the suffering of the starving masses in other areas of the world.

KNOWLEDGE NEEDED

It was not food or money that was needed, but the technical know-how which this country could supply.

"We will not triumph in the struggle against communism by arms and production alone, essential though they are," he said. ". . .We will rid the world of this modern menace only if we practise what we preach. That means we have to tolerate those with whom we honestly differ. It means we must allow creativeness and we must preserve freedom for others to say and believe what they will. . ."

Mr. St. Laurent said Canada will do everything possible at the Commonwealth Economic Conference in London in November to foster helpful co-operation within and beyond the Commonwealth.

Although the United States has never understood the arrangement by which Canada gained the right of self-government from London, he said, the Americans have "sensed and respected our firm resolve to be ourselves."

So Hot In New York Swims Up Hudson

HOBOKEN, N. J. (AP)—The hot weather in New York was too much for 31-year-old Harold Marshall of Collingwood, Ont., he told police, so he went for a swim in the Hudson River yesterday.

The swim took him all the way from New York to Hoboken, where he turned up in dripping swim trunks at a coffee plant.

Marshall's appearance in the plant disrupted work, plant officials said, and they called police, who arrested Marshall on a disorderly persons charge.

Police Chief John Reynolds said Marshall told officials he came to New York from Canada by bus Thursday. When the temperature hit 89 yesterday he looked for a place to cool off, changed into swim trunks in a deserted area and hopped off a New York pier. Reynolds said Marshall, who gave his address as 485 Birth St., Collingwood, will be questioned by United States immigration officials.

Red Forces Double Armies Of NATO

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department reported today that the United States European allies now have more than 2,000,000 men under arms compared with Russia's 4,000,000. The figures were cited in a 50-page report about progress made in building Europe's defences under the three-year-old North Atlantic Treaty. The figures do not include other forces which fit into the over-all east-west picture. Not mentioned is the total U.S. strength of 3,500,000 men under arms, the armed manpower of friendly countries such as Australia, Yugoslavia and Spain, or the armies of Russia's satellites and Communist China.

A-BOMB A FACTOR

The report also referred to Russian possession of the atomic bomb as a major element in Soviet power—a reference reflecting conviction among officials here that Russia has such a bomb.

The White House has announced three atomic explosions in Russia. Other sources have estimated that Russia has a stockpile of 100 or more A-bombs.

The departmental survey of progress said that, aside from the men under arms in Western Europe and in Russia, millions more are in reserve and that Russia's strength includes 175 front-line divisions "with 100 deployed in Soviet-occupied Europe."

The great current problem of the North Atlantic Treaty, the booklet said, is how to balance the security

25 Mothers Given Break

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP)—Because a mother died 40 years ago before one of her 10 children could give her "a real vacation," 25 mothers are enjoying a sumptious vacation today.

Dr. Earl Baker, a retired doctor of philosophy who turned resort operator, is playing host for four days with accommodations that would cost $20 a day, "not for publicity, but for enjoyment and to fulfill an old, old promise."

Dr. Baker, "between 60 and 70," said he promised his ailing mother 40 years ago that if he couldn't give her "a real vacation," he'd see that when he could afford it, other mothers of big families got vacations.

Dr. Baker picked 25. The mothers can play cards, talk about their babies, go swimming, or "just take off their shoes and rock and rock for four days, without hearing a kid yelp once."

Powerful Warship Fleet Sails For Big Manoeuvres

GOUROCK, Scotland (AP) — A powerful fleet of Atlantic Treaty warships slipped out of the River Clyde today for action stations in the North Sea as the curtain went up on "Exercise Mainbrace"—13-day naval war games with 160 ships of eight countries participating.

British and United States aircraft swept out over Scottish coastal waters in the path of the North Atlantic Treaty organization warships, searching for planes and submarines of the "enemy" Orange force.

The Orange forces are supposed to have invaded North Norway. The Blue commander's task is to provide sea, air and land reinforcements for meeting the invasion and to stage an amphibious landing in Denmark.

COVER WIDE AREA

The manoeuvres, which began officially at midnight, will be waged over a sea area of 500,000 square miles. They will involve 85,000 men from Britain, the U.S., the U.S., Canada, Belgium, France, The Netherlands, Norway and Denmark.

The N. A. T. O. "Blue" task force racing into the North Sea was ordered on the alert shortly after clearing port when an intelligence report warned that an Orange surface raider might be athwart its course.

Nine tankers and 14 other ships, representing the supply train for the warships, left here yesterday. Included in the squadron were Britain's light aircraft carrier Triumph six British and American destroyers, four American destroyer-escorts and three British frigates.

Canada is represented by the aircraft carrier Magnificent and the cruiser Quebec.

"Mainbrace" is the kingpin in about 40 Allied manoeuvres, mostly local ground operations, to be staged before the end of 1952.

Rain and knee-deep mud slowed infantry and grounded planes in Italian war games in north Italy yesterday.

LAND OPERATIONS OPEN

More than 250,000 troops—Canadian, British, Belgian, Dutch, Norwegian and Danish—were taking up positions for the biggest autumn manoeuvres to be held in the British zone of Germany since the Second World War. They will take part in two land-air exercises, dubbed "Holdfast" and "Scandia Three," opening next week.

"Scandia Three" and a part of "Mainbrace" will be conducted in Schleswig-Holstein, on the Danish-German border, under the direction of Maj.-Gen. Bjoern Christopherson, Norwegian commander in Germany.

A-Scientists Crowd Port

ONSLOW, Australia (Reuters)—Atomic scientists, officials and troops crowded this Western Australian port today amid reports that Britain will test its first atom weapon within two weeks.

Twenty-six British scientists and armed forces officers have already departed by sea for the Montebello Islands, 80 miles west of here, scene of the test.

The Melbourne Argus reported that atomic experts and observers are "raining down" at Onslow. Their exact number could not be determined.

No official will say what type of atomic weapon will be tested; whether bomb, rocket or guided missile.

About all that is definitely known is that steel landing places have been erected on the prohibited islands, along with a generator, workshop and refrigerating plant.

Faulty Oil Gauge Blamed In Crash

OWEN SOUND (CP)—Trooper Roland Chandler of Camp Borden yesterday blamed distraction over a faulty oil gauge for an army truck crash near Meaford last Saturday which took six lives.

Chandler, on trial for careless driving, said previous reports that he swerved to avoid a dog on the road were not correct.

The little black spaniel reported at the accident scene after the crash was in the cab when the mishap occurred, Chandler said. He had obtained it from a man he met on the road a short time earlier.

The truck hit two trees on the roadside. The six men fatally injured were among 21 cadet officers riding in the back of the vehicle.

Magistrate E. C. Spereman reserved judgment on the driving charge to Sept. 22.

Saturday's Fair Fare

Judging: light horses at grandstand in afternoon.

Expressmen Vote On Merger

TORONTO (CP)—The 4,000 members of the Brotherhood of Express Employees will vote shortly on whether to merge with one of two larger railway unions, it was reported last night.

The referendum is expected to offer a three-way choice: retaining the present union, affiliated with the Canadian Congress of Labor; joining the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (C.C.L.); or joining the International Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks (A.F.L.-T.L.C.).

The Brotherhood of Express Employees represents Canadian Pacific Railway employees and is one of the 19 unions on the joint bargaining committee with the railways.

Tulyar Wins St. Leger Race

DONCASTER, England (AP) — Tulyar, the Aga Khan's three-year-old colt, today won the 176th running of the St. Leger, the last of the 1952 British classic races.

Earlier in the year Tulyar won the English Derby on the rolling Epsom Downs track.

A red-hot favorite at 10-to-1 odds, Tulyar just about clinched the European three-year-old title by whipping the classy field of British and French thoroughbreds.

Offers Plan To Settle War

OTTAWA (CP)—A Republican Senator from Vermont yesterday outlined to the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association a plan he said would settle the Korean War.

Senator Ralph E. Flanders urged establishment of a neutral zone in northwestern Korea; union of North and South Korea; reconstruction of industries, transportation and housing, and a free election after the reconstruction period.

"To destroy them endlessly without giving them acceptable peace terms is to plumb the depths of human iniquity," said Senator Flanders.

He outlined his plan at a closed session of the association's biennial conference. The week-long conference will end today after more discussion on defence and foreign affairs.

SET UP NEUTRAL ZONE

Senator Flanders said establishment of a neutral zone in northwestern Korea, inspectable only by Asians, would meet Communist China's demands for protection against invasion of Manchuria by or through Korea.

North and South Korea had to be rejoined because neither section could survive independently without foreign aid.

After a period of reconstruction, the Koreans should be allowed to choose their own form of government.

Los Angeles Decides To Change Sound

LLOSS AN'-JUH-LESS (AP) — Now you know how to pronounce the name of the City of the Angels. And it's official—even to the phoenetic spelling.

A jury of civic leaders had hoped to agree on a pronunciation in time for Los Angeles' 171st birthday Sept. 4. But they split on whether the "G" should be hard or soft.

Yesterday they met again and voted 19 to 1 in favor of the softer accent. Henceforth it's to be Loss An-Juh-Less, with the accent on the first syllable.

Mayor Fletcher Bowron, a hard "G" man himself, issued a proclamation making it official and added that for him it would mean "changing the habit of a lifetime."

"YES SIR, THEY'RE MY BABIES says Bossy as she looks at two tired youngsters who were caught napping in the cattle barn at the Exhibition. Eleven year old Wayne Kerr of Campbellford was tuckered out after an eventful day at the fair. He curled up here with one of his charges. Farm Income Drops During 1952

OTTAWA (CP)—The flow of cash to Canadian farmers eased by $25,000,000 to $1,226,700,000 during the first half of 1952 as a decline in income from livestock and other sales overbalanced higher receipts from grain, dairy and vegetable shipments. Ontario farmers suffered the bigest drop.

The Bureau of Statistics estimated yesterday an overall two-percent decline in cash income from the sale of farm products from $1,251,900,00 in the first half of 1951. In addition, prairie farm assistance payments totalled $2,436,000 down from $9,265,000 last year.

A big decline in cattle sales, probably a result of foot-and-mouth disease in Canada, was a major factor in the slip in income. Cash income from the sale of livestock and poultry declined by almost $93,000,000 to $408,600,000 from $501,200,000. Egg sales declined to $52,117,000 from $59,723,000.

FRUIT INCOME EASES

Cash from forest products sales slipped to $43,748,00 from $44,006,000. Fruit income eased just slightly to $8,274,000 from $8,300,000.

A bare 1,500 grain handlers in Hall's union could tie up the key elevators at the Head of the Lakes —the funnel for export—and stall the 656,000,000-bushel wheat crop at the height of its movement to market.

Test Validity Of Copyright Fees In Radio

OTTAWA (CP)—A test case of interest to all Canadian radio stations will be heard by the Exchequer Court in November.

The case will determine the validity of copyright fees fixed by the Copyright Appeal Board for 1952. Private radio stations will argue that the government-appointed board exceeded its powers in basing the fees on the gross revenues of stations.

Mr. Justice J.C.A. Cameron of the Exchequer Court will hear the case at Toronto.

BASED ON REVENUE

The action stems from a decision last March of the three-man Copyright Appeal Board, headed by Mr. Justice J. T. Thorson, president of the Exchequer Court.

Each year this board fixes the copyright fees payable to the Composers, Authors and Publishers Association of Canada by radio stations and others for the use of works in the C.A.P.A.C. repertoire. Part of the fee then goes to the authors of such works.

Until this year the fees for radio stations were based on the number of licensed radio receiving sets in Canada. In 1951 the fee amounted to 14 cents a set, with the CBC paying seven cents and private stations, as a group, paying a similar amount.

In 1952, C.A.P.A.C. asked that privately-owned stations pay 2¼ per cent of their gross revenues plus 4-5ths of a cent per capita of population. The CBC would be required to pay 2¼ per cent of commercial revenue plus one cent per capita.

It was estimated the change would increase the bill of private stations to $500,000 from $152,000 a year; that of the CBC to $180,000 from $152,000.

TOTAL FEES

After hearing arguments, the board ordered private stations to pay C.A.P.A.C. 1¾ per cent of gross revenues, or approximately $350,000. The CBC was ordered to pay 1¾ per cent of commercial revenues plus one cent per capita, or an estimated $170,000.

The Canadian Association of Broadcasters, whose membership includes most of the privately-owned stations in Canada, decided to contest the decision. Since the association, as such, pays no copyright fees, it was decided that the test case would be brought against station CHML of Hamilton.

The association will back the Hamilton station in the case.

It will be argued that under the Copyright Act fees should be so fixed that a user of music is able to estimate in advance how much he will have to pay. This would give the user the opportunity to decide whether or not he will use the music.

With a fee based on gross revenue, the association will argue, a station operator cannot estimate in advance what his fees are going to be, because he does not know in advance what his revenues are going to be.

It also will be argued that the board is empowered to fix fees, charges and royalties and that a percentage of gross revenues is none of these things.

The decision of the Exchequer Court in the case can be appealed to the Supreme Court of Canada.

Official forecasts issued by the Dominion public weather office in Toronto at 9.30 a.m.:

SYNOPSIS:

How long the hot weather will last is still too early to tell. However, the territory held by the warm air mass has been diminishing slowly but surely. The edge of cooler weather now runs northward through southern Colorado thence through southern Manitoba. From there it curves eastward close to James Bay, then southeastward passing near Montreal.

Cool air is piling up over Hudson Bay and northern Quebec and over the Canadian prairies. It now appears to be only a matter of days before the warm air is forced to retreat well to the southeast. In southern Ontario it seems unlikely this could happen before Monday or Tuesday.

Regional forecasts valid until midnight Sunday:

Lake Erie, Lake Huron, Lake Ontario, Niagara, Georgian Bay, Haliburton, Kirkland Lake regions; Windsor, London, Toronto, Hamilton, North Bay and Sudbury cities: Sunny and hot today and Sunday. Patches of early morning fog. Winds light today, south 15 Sunday. Placing Party Affiliation On Ballot Meets With Mixed Reception In Ottawa

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A C.C.F. proposal that the party affiliation of each candidate be listed on election ballots was given a mixed reception in federal political circles.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, said he favors the proposal. Spokesmen for the Liberals and Progressive Conservatives said the matter is one for study by the Commons committee on elections.

Nelson Castonguay, chief electoral officer, said the change would make little difference in the mechanics of handling an election. He recalled that similar proposals had been rejected by the Commons committee.

Liberal and Progressive Conservative members of the committee said no one has authority to dictate the party affiliation of a candidate.

OPTIONAL MATTER

Candidates are not required officially to declare their affiliation to any party, but most of them do. The "official" candidates are considered those chosen by party conventions in each constituency. However, there is nothing to prevent another candidate from claiming that he is the official representative of such and such a party.

At present, the ballots used in federal elections simply list the names, addresses and occupations of the candidates. There is nothing to indicate the party they support. Officials at the polls are not allowed to give voters the party affiliations of candidates.

In Britain, the ballots list only the names of candidates. An official of the United Kingdom Information Office said the theory is that voters should elect a man and not a party to represent their constituencies.

In the United States the party affiliation of candidates is plainly shown on ballot papers.

TO AVOID CONFUSION

The C.C.F. said adoption of its proposal would eliminate confusion at the polls, particularly in constituencies where there are two candidates with the same surname.

Mr. Low said he agreed. Often, voters pay little attention to the names of candidates within their own constituencies. They align themselves with a party and leave it at that. When they reach the polling booth on election day they are confused when they cannot remember the name of the candidate supporting the party of their choice.

Mr. Low said Alberta decided some years ago to add the party affiliation of candidates to ballots. The move appeared to eliminate a lot of confusion. If the system had not been used in the recent Alberta election, he said, confusion could have resulted in Edmonton where Premier E. C. Manning was opposed by M. E. Manning, Progressive Conservative.

One party spokesman said that sometimes, more by design than by accident, a party will field a candidate with the same surname as another in the running. This confuses the voters.

Laying Plans For Expedition To B.C. In 1953

LONDON (CP) — Preliminary plans already are being laid for next year's expedition to British Columbia by some 70 young members of the British Schools Exploring Society.

Since 1932, hundreds of British boys between 16 and 18 have taken part in such scientific "dream trips," organized by the society.

It is estimated the Canadian undertaking will cost about £15,000, of which more than £5,000 will be set aside to meet the expenses of boys selected, but unable to meet the outlay of £150 for each member of the expedition. A campaign to raise the required funds now is in progress.

TO ICELAND IN 1952

This year the society sponsored an expedition to Iceland. The party of 74 youngsters, was led by Capt. J. A. Taplin, assistant leader on the first post-war expedition to Newfoundland in 1947.

During explorations of Iceland's rugged interior, the budding scientists tramped over miles of jagged lava fields, visited inactive and smouldering volcanos, and saw giant geysers in action.

For the most part, the youthful explorers roughed it on their own. The party, however, was supervised by experienced men, qualified to cope with any emergency. Among them were officers of Britain's armed forces, doctors and technicians.

Says Union Deal With PC Party

FREDERICTON (CP)—A deal between the Progressive Conservative party and an international representative of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (T.L.C.-A.F.L.) was charged last night in an election campaign address by Premier John B. McNair. He spoke over a network of New Brunswick radio stations.

Mr. McNair quoted the union representative, H.C. Tracy, as having said he had been promised that if the opposition party were successful in the provincial election Sept. 22, it would bring all provincial government employees under the provincial labor relations act.

The Premier said Mr. Tracy was fighting tooth and nail for the Progressive Conservatives and electioneering for them.

Convicts Hold Family Captive

HAMBURG, Pa. (AP)—Police mobilized Pennsylvania's biggest manhunt in many years Friday to capture three shotgun-toting jailbreakers who held a family captive in its home 19 hours, then sped 65 miles to rob a roadside diner and a little later raced past a police road-block on a main highway to New York City.

Hundreds of state and local officers and a swarm of Federal Bureau of Investigation agents, joined in the search. They were cautioned by F.B.I. circulars that the convicted bank robbers are desperate and vicious.

James Hill, sales manager of a hosiery plant at Lansdale, near Philadelphia, telephoned police that he, his wife and five children had been held captive by the fugitive at gunpoint for 19 hours in their home.

Hill, who lives just north of Philadelphia, said the men appeared at his house early Thursday, strode in and told Mrs. Hill, alone at the time with three young sons, that they would not be hurt if no effort was made to inform police.

12 More Canadians Will Be Arraigned

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Twelve more Canadians will be arraigned Monday in Detroit following their indictment on charges of entering the United States illegally.

The same day the jury is expected to report its findings in the cases of Mrs. M. M. Prest, Mrs. Nicholas Steigerwald and Roy H. F. McBride for parts they are said to have played in obtaining visas in an illegal manner.

The 12 indicted yesterday are: Joseph George Bellmore, Angus William McPhail, Beria Matilda McPhail, his wife; Metro Stasiuk, Gordon Thompson Brown, Joseph Nemeth, Alexander Lytwyn and his wife Olga; Edmund A. H. Gignac, Genevieve Helen Lusczukoski, Bernard Gignac and Rita, his wife.

Ten other Canadians similarly charged were given one-year sentences which were suspended if they agreed to return to Canada and stay there.

The State Department said the U. S. must continue to give "full support" and argued that American financial help is "an essential underpinning for the defence program of our allies."

SPENDING UP

The report observed that defence spending in the other Atlantic alliance countries has gone up steadily, and that total may reach $11,700,000,000 in the present fiscal year. If Germany joins the defence effort the defence budget of the allied European powers may hit $14,000,000,000, the report said.

It declared that morale and unity in Europe have gone up along with defensive strength, and that Communist influence as shown in Communist party membership has steadily dropped. The report said Communist party membership in the 12 European-area N. A. T. O. countries has dropped 34 per cent, or from 3,900,000 in 1846 to 2,600,000 in 1951.

DR. JOHN W. WOODSIDE, Ottawa, a former moderator of the United Church, will be guest speaker Sunday at special services being held in Trinity United Church as the Church's new Sunday School Hall is opened.

New Sunday School Opens At Trinity

TRINITY UNITED CHURCH HALL with its auditorium-gymnasium (above) and modern church kitchen (below) was completed this week in time for the dedication service to take place Sunday. The addition was begun in June, 1951, and was constructed at a total cost of $196,566. — (Examiner Staff Photos).

IN 1916, THE TRINITY UNITED CHURCH, then Methodist, was formally dedicated, thus replacing as the place of worship the Charlotte Street Church. The Trinity Church is built of Credit Valley stone, trimmed on the facia work with Indiana sandstone, and is one of the most beautiful churches in Peterborough.

THE CONGREGATION OF TRINITY UNITED CHURCH had its origin in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church shown above and situated on the corner of Charlotte and Reid Sts. where the Peterborough Clinic now stands. In 1891, the Sunday School Hall at the rear of the building and facing Reid St. was added.

A milestone in the history of a Peterborough church which dates back 80 years will be passed next week when a series of events will mark the opening of Trinity United Church Hall.

Citizens of Peterborough have watched closely the erection of a handsome addition to a beautful building since the turning of the sod ceremony which took place June 10, 1951. And now this community interest can be turned into applause for a congregation which has been able to complete a difficult and expensive project.

A program of services and gatherings starting Sunday have been planned to dedicate and celebrate the opening of the new hall. At this time the Trinity congregation are giving members of other congregations an opportunity to inspect the building and join with them in thanksgiving.

GUEST SPEAKER

Dr. John W. Woodside, a former moderator of the United Church of Canada (1940) and minister of Chalmers United Church, Ottawa, for many years, will conduct the dedication service for the new hall Sunday afternoon. The dedication will follow a regular church service at which Dr. Woodside will preach. This prominent Ottawa clergyman will also conduct a service of Thanksgiving which will be held Sunday morning.

For the remaining nights of the week special meetings and activities will take place in the new hall. C.G.I.T. groups and the Explorers will meet Monday night to be addressed by Miss Marian Brown, a leader in C.G.I.T. work in George St. United Church.

Tuesday night a rally of all the Young People's groups of Peterborough Presbytery will take place. The guest speaker will be Miss Nellie Lewis, of Toronto, who is a prominent leader in Y.P.U. work.

Wednesday afternoon and evening will be open house, when all members of Peterborough congregations are invited to inspect the building. The open house is under the auspices of the Official Board and the Women's Association of the church.

CHOIRS MEET

A number of the city's church choirs are meeting at the church Thursday night for a fellowship hour, following their various practices.

Friday night the W.M.S. groups of the church are holding a house party and Saturday evening the Trinity Church Badminton Club will hold their first meeting.

The program of activities will come to an end Sunday, Sept. 20, when the Rev. Peter Gordon White, assistant editor of Sunday school publications of the United Church of Canada, will be the guest preacher. Before the morning service Mr. White will also conduct the first Sunday school, to take place in the new hall. This date will be Religious Education Day at Trinity Church.

When members of Trinity congregation and visitors see the new hall they will see in reality the completion of what started in 1914. This was the year the church building was erected and was then known as Trinity Methodist Church. Architects Burke, Howard and White of Toronto, when they designed the church, drew the plans to allow for just such an addition on the church lot. This year the same firm completed the initial plans.

Although the present church building was erected in 1914, the history of this church goes well back into the 19th century.

On Dec. 7, 1873, the formal opening of the Charlotte St. Methodist Church took place. This building stood on the site now occupied by the Peterborough Clinic at the corner of Charlotte and Reid Sts.

HALL SOLD

Eighteen years later a new Sunday school hall to the rear of the church facing Reid St. was opened. In 1942 this hall was sold and became the synagogue of Peterborough's Jewish community.

When the congregation built Trinity Methodist Church, much of the materials in the Charlotte St. church were donated for the building of what was then St. James Methodist Church. The lighting, equipment, seats, pulpit and choir loft were also used in St. James Church.

The cornerstone of Trinity church was laid by Senator George A. Cox on Sept. 21, 1914 and the church was formally dedicated Jan. 3, 1916, by the Rev. S. D. Chown, general superintendent of the Methodist Church of Canada.

Thirty-five years later, Dr. H. A. Kent, principal of Queen Theological College, Kingston, officiated at the cornerstone laying ceremony for the addition which marks the final stage in the completion of this building.

Ohio Sandstone Used To Build New Trinity Hall

Ohio sandstone makes its first appearance in Peterborough with the completion of the new Trinity United Church hall on Reid St.

This 90 foot by 85 foot three-storey structure was built at a cost of $196,566.

The central part of the building is a modern auditorium-gymnasium complete with stage. It is surrounded by classrooms, washrooms, and a fully-equipped church kitchen on the ground floor.

The mezzanine floor follows the same pattern of classrooms, but the ladies' parlor and kitchenette and the church office are also on this floor.

The third floor is not completed but there are plans for more classrooms as they are needed, and also a chapel.

Asphalt tile has been used for flooring in all parts of the building except the corridors where linoleum has been laid.

The architects were Horwood and White, of Toronto, and the contractor was Charles Huffman.

Building was started in June, 1951, and the last of the building operations will be finished in time for the opening ceremonies starting Sunday.

Tells French Wives Haggle Over Prices

PARIS (Reuters)—Premier Antoine Pinay yesterday urged housewives to learn to haggle with shopkeepers over food prices.

"The government does not do the housewife's shopping for her," he said. "It is up to her to defend her budget. Consumers must not buy at any price, as if there were a shortage. They must learn to haggle."

He based his radio talk on the measures his government took Thursday when any rise in prices over those prevailing Aug. 31 was banned.

The government also ordered all retail shops in the Paris area to display price tickets showing both wholesale and retail prices for poultry, eggs, fruit and vegetables.

Will Improve Chances For French Canadians

OTTAWA (CP)—The army said yesterday it is going to improve the chances for French-speaking Canadians to serve in any of its branches.

Under a new scheme a recruit who speaks only French will get both his basic and corps—that is, infantry, armor, signals—training at a training school at Valcartier, Que. From there he will be posted to the school operated by his corps or to an infantry unit for further instruction and employment.

At the corps schools, training will be conducted in English but bilingual instructors will give instruction in French to those who need it.

Short Court

Police court lasted only a couple of minutes Friday. The court did not begin till 2 p.m. and within five minutes it was deserted.

Leo Grisdale, 40, of no fixed address, pleaded guilty to having liquor when he was on the interdicted list. In August he was convisted of illegal possession, so Friday's charge was considered a second offence.

Grisdale was fined $50 and costs, the minimum, by Magistrate E. A. Gee of Lindsay.

Find Arm Shots Clear Cataracts

NEW YORK (AP)—Shots in the arm promise to clear up eye cataracts without surgery, it is reported today in Science, journal of the American Association for Advancement of Science.

Several blinded persons have regained "practically normal vision" after a series of the shots. Cataracts are a fogging of the lens of the eye.

The injections are protein material obtained from the lenses of fish eyes. Just how they act to clear up human cataracts is not yet known.

The discovery is announced by Drs. R. F. Shropshire, Jacob R. Ginsberg and Mendel Jacobi of the Cataract Institute, South Kortright, N. Y.

SEES INVESTMENT REPAID

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government's investment in the education of Second World War veterans should be returned by 1955, the Canadian Vocational Advisory Council was told yesterday. The $17,000,000 invested probably will be repaid by veterans in income tax by that time, said Dr. H. W. Jamieson, superintendent of training in the Veterans' Department.

Plan Head Offices Established In Toronto

MONTREAL (CP)—The Newspapers Advertising Managers' Association of Eastern Canada is considering establishing head offices in Toronto, President James C. Anderson of Kitchener, said yesterday at the asociation's annual convention.

Mr. Anderson made the statement in announcing completion of incorporation of the association, made up of advertising managers of eastern Canadian daily newspapers.

CCF Launches Intensive Election Plans

OTTAWA (CP)—The C.C.F party has launched the most intensive organization program in its history to be ready for the next federal general election.

Donald C. MacDonald, national organizer, said yesterday the C.C.F. plans to nominate 200 candidates. More than half of them will be in the field by the end of the year.

Hazen Argue (CCF—Assiniboia), R.R. Knight (CCF—Saskatoon) and other C.C.F. members of Parliament will assist in nominating conventions in Ontario during November.

A provincial organizer has been appointed for Ontario, where organizational work has been held up because of lack of organization personnel. Three full-time men are being put on the job.

Convict Minister Of Contempt

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—A minister was convicted yesterday of contempt of court for a sermon in which he criticized a judge.

Rev. Ross Allen Weston, pastor of the Arlington Unitarian Church, was given a suspended fine of $100 by Judge J. Hume Taylor who heard the case after the criticized judge, Walter T. McCarthy, disqualified himself.

The charge was based on a sermon in which the minister criticized McCarthy's ruling that under Virginia law, federal employees can not hold state or local offices. The judge's decision was upheld by the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals Wednesday.

The sermon said McCarthy's ruling coincided with the interests of the state Democratic organization, and that the organization controlled the legislature which appointed McCarthy to the Bench.

Lewis, Miners Meet Review Negotiations

WASHINGTON (AP) — John L. Lewis Friday summoned his mine workers' policy committee to meet here Monday to review contract negotiations and prepare for a possible strike of the coal miners Sept. 22, a week later.

The United Mine Workers' contract with northern soft coal mines expires Sept. 20, a Saturday and a non-working day.

U.M.W. President Lewis has been negotiating separately for new contract terms with northern and southern segments of the soft coal industry and with Pennsylvania's anthracite industry.

Rome Paper Urges Birth Control Used

ROME (AP)—The financial newspaper 24 Ore urged in a front-page editorial yesterday that predominantly Roman Catholic Italy repeal its birth-control laws as the only means to solve the problem of overpopulation.

The editorial said the population is increasing at well over 1,000 a day, far beyond the possibilities of balance by emigration. The editorial called also for repeal of granting cash bonuses to families with many children.

"You Owe Me Twenty Cents"

The following story, which we believe to be of general interest, was told to us recently by a local merchant. During the summer an American lady came to his store and asked to see some British merchandise of a type which sells much more cheaply in Canada than in the U.S.A. After half an hour passed in making her choice, she chose an article priced at a dollar, and asked to have it boxed and gift-wrapped. She then laid down an American dollar bill on the counter and said, "Remember, young man, you owe me twenty cents." The merchant explained some of the facts of the international exchange to her, and suggested that if she would not accept his word she would do well to consult a bank. She left, taking her dollar with her, and did not return. She had been told in Cleveland, she said, that her dollar was worth $1.20 in Canada, and she clung to that belief.

* * *

It looks as though Canadian currency would remain at a premium for some time, and we think that the burden of explaining exchange to American visitors should be lifted from the shoulders of merchants and hotel-keepers. It is never pleasant to have to tell a man that his money is not worth as much as he thinks, and in citizens of the U.S.A., who have not known such a condition within living memory (the end of the Civil War was the last time their money dropped far below ours) it gives rise to emotion which is sometimes spectacular in its expression. Would it not be wise to have legislation against the use of foreign currency in Canada, or to enforce such legislation if it exists? In Europe, facilities for the exchange of money are provided at every border; sometimes these are private services and sometimes they are provided by the state. If we had such provision at our own border a good deal of difficulty could be avoided.

Who Wrote Shakespeare?

Nearly two hundred years elapsed after the death of William Shakespeare of Stratford, gentleman, before any doubt was cast on his authorship of the works attributed to him. Since that time several efforts have been made to prove that his plays and poems were the work of other hands. The nineteenth century was the age of the "higher criticism," and the "higher critics" enjoyed themselves immensely in the realm of authorship. According to them Moses did not write the Pentateuch, the Gospels were certainly not written by the Evangelists, and Homer was written by a woman!

The chief theory assailing the traditional view of the authorship of "Shakespeare" was the Baconian theory, first propounded by an American lady in 1857. By a strange coincidence her name was Delia Bacon, and whether related to Francis Bacon or not she tried to prove that the real author of the plays was the illustrious lawyer and philosopher and contemporary of Shakespeare. Many other proponents of the Baconian theory came forth, and there is even a society devoted to the dissemination of Baconian propaganda. Other theories favouring the Earl of Oxford, the Earl of Rutland, and so forth, have also been advanced.

The objection to the orthodox view is based on the few details of Shakespeare's life that have come down to us, for of all great authors from the Renaissance to the present day Shakespeare's life is possibly the most obscure. From the little that is actually known it was surmised by the Baconians and their kind that Shakespeare could not possibly had had the necessary background and education to write the plays. They were appalled at the idea that a successful actor-manager (for such he was) in the rough and tumble of the Elizabethan theatrical world could also have written the immortal plays: ergo, somebody else must be invented as the real author, somebody of high rank and superior education who had some compelling reason to keep his connection with the stage a dead secret.

None of these theories has found acceptance among the vast majority of serious Shakespearian scholars. They are content to accept the miracle of Shakespeare as it stands, for no matter what the condition of his birth the appearance of an universal genius of the order of Shakespeare would be a miracle. It is true that several scholars are inclined to the view that certain passages betray the work of collaborators, as though Shakespeare himself were pressed for time and left a few scenes to be filled in by members of his company: but this view is based on the somewhat doubtful hypothesis that Shakespeare was incapable of writing a weak line. Even Homer nodded, and the great John Sebastian Bach could churn out inferior music when not working at top pressure.

The latest theory, that Marlowe, Shakespeare's contemporary, wrote Shakespeare, is not entirely new. J. M. Robertson as far ago as 1922 suggested that large chunks of Marlowe and other Elizabethan dramatists had been incorporated without acknowledgment into the Shakespearian Canon. What is new is the suggestion that Marlowe, who is supposed to have been killed in a tavern brawl in 1593, was in reality involved in a "fake murder" staged by Sir Thomas Walsingham, Marlowe's friend and patron, as a way of extricating him from serious dangers into which he had fallen as a result of his reckless way of life. According to this theory he remained in hiding for the rest of his days and was believed dead by the authorities. He then recommenced writing plays, and Shakespeare was paid to act as foster-father to them.

The weak point in this theory lies in the internal evidence. There is little to show in Marlowe's acknowledged works that he would have developed into the masterly portrayer of character that Shakespeare was. There is no trace, either, of the humour that enlivens even the most sombre of Shakespeare's tragedies. Doubtless the crudities of Marlowe's style, as we know it, might have been eliminated, but the peculiar excellencies of Shakespeare are scarcely hinted at except in the fine quality of many memorable lines.

There is a further weakness, which so far as can be ascertained has not been explained. Robert Green, who died in 1592, warned three of his friends who wrote plays (probably Marlowe, Peele and Nashe) of an "upstart crow" who "is in his own conceit the only Shake-scene in a country." That this upstart crow is Shakespeare himself is clear from the pun on his name. Evidently he had begun to acquire some sort of reputation a year before Marlowe's alleged death. It is unlikely, to say the least, that Shakespeare, already beginning to feel his powers and possessed (according to Greene) of a pretty high opinion of himself, would consent to act as foster-father to Marlowe's work.

The case is not proved, and in the meanwhile we subscribe to the unspectacular notion that Shakespeare wrote his own works. In any case the most important question for us is not who wrote Shakespeare but who reads him.

Delicious Flavour of Paper

The argument about the merits and demerits of teabags has been carried on in so many papers that we feel we must get into it, and as always our desire is to make peace, rather than war. We like tea, and we like it made as follows: pour boiling water in a warmed pot, float the tea carefully on top of the water for three minutes; then stir it gently (sinking the tea) and pour it after another two minutes. But we do not expect everybody to abide by our method, and we have had excellent cups of tea made from teabags. What we do not like is tea made from water which has been poured on already used teabags.

Teabag tea has an excellent flavour in which we can detect, very faintly, a taste of paper. But we rather like the taste of paper, and teabag paper is very good paper. We think that, among connoisseurs, that hint of paper will assume the standing that a faint hint of chicory has among the connoisseurs of coffee. Plain coffee is good, but really satisfactory black coffee needs a whisper of chicory in it.

Plain tea, or teabag tea—both can be admirable. What the connoisseur of tea cannot bear is stewed tea, the black and coppery brew which can only be drunk when liberally doctored with milk and sugar. Both milk and sugar, we feel, should be kept away from tea, for they turn it into an entirely different drink—a kind of soup, excellent in itself perhaps, but bearing no relation to the Chinese herb.

From The Foreign Press

Assembled by "MONITOR"

COMMENTING ON Mr. Anthony Eden's impending visit to Yugoslavia and a possible British effort to bring about a solution of the Trieste problem, the Italian newspaper Corriere Della Sera speaks of what it calls the "black series" of Britain's recent diplomatic enterprises (Egypt, Persia, the defence of the Middle East, etc.) and expresses anxiety lest the activity concerning Trieste should be made a continuation of this series. The paper, which is not always distinguished by pro-British feelings, concludes; "A solution materially different from the tripartite declaration of Turin (in 1948, which promised the return of Trieste to Italy) could not but provoke grave shocks for the Italian people and Parliament. It is even most likely that such a solution not only would not be approved by the Senate, but could also lead to the fall of the Government, and this, in present circumstances, would be more than a small misfortune for the Atlantic community with all its possible consequences for Italy's future foreign policy."

"Therefore, the British ought to be very careful not to start in a wrong direction; for a solution which would sacrifice Italy's vital interests would not only reinforce the Communist Left, traditional beneficiary of every national set-back, but also, and in particular, the neo-Fascist Right which would be provided with fresh fuel for its fire."

ONE OF the originators of the Nazi racial theories and their principal "scientific" propagandist was a certain Dr. H. F. K. Guenther. After some years of silence he is writing again, and his latest work, entitled "The choice of the Spouse" and published by his old publisher, is full of his old ideas.

A review of this book for the Journal of the German Anthropological Society contained the following sentence: "One is amazed by the lack of realistic sense of an author who can advocate his old ideas without the slightest feeling for or any mention of the devastating effect which this same ideology had in Germany only a few years ago." This sentence did not please publisher of the Anthropological Journal, and he prevailed upon the editor to cut it. Some members of the editorial staff disapproved of the editor's surrender and resigned, and one of them, Professor W. E. Muehlmann published the facts of this remarkable case. In the course of this statement, Professor Muehlmann said: "It should be brought to the knowledge of a wider circle than those immediately interested that even the mildest denunciation of the consequences of the Third Reich's racial ideologies is already today impossible in a German scientfic journal."

A SCHOOL which is probably unique in the world has just been opened at Nuremberg (Germany) according to a report in Die Welt. The two hundred and eighty children who are to attend it belong to no less than thirty-four different nationalities, speak as their mother tongue about the same number of different languages, and belong to nine different religions, including Roman-Catholics, Greek and Russian Orthodox and Muslim.

It is, of course, a school for children of Displaced Persons and refugees, of whom nearly five thousand are still accommodated in the Valkalager camp at Nuremberg. Classes are to be held in the German language only, and as not all of the pupils have already mastered that language, seating arrangements in the classrooms are made in such a way that every non-German speaking pupil has an "interpreter" as his neighbour.

The German authorities had, in spite of some protests from the camp inmates, insisted on the use of German as the teaching language and are making considerable financial sacrifices to run the school.

The reason for the school is a rather sad one, as the camp commandant explained: "In establishing this school we have been prompted by the certainty that ninety per cent. of the camp inmates have not the slightest chance of ever leaving Germany. We cannot resign ourselves to letting the young people grow up only to become recipients of public assistance and a burden on the community."

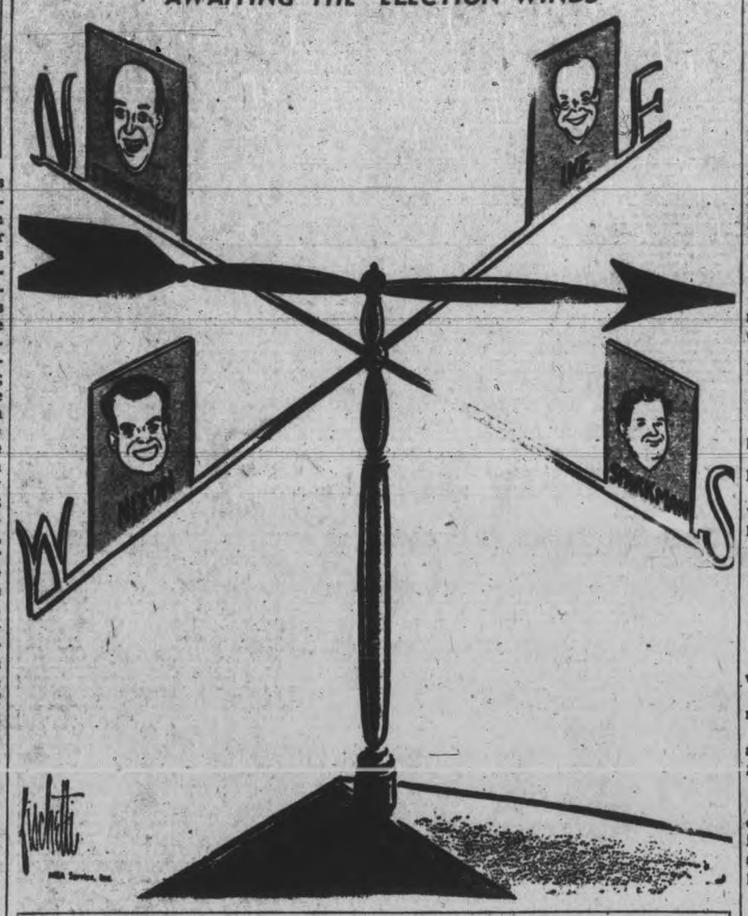
GERMAN CHAMPAGNE manufacturers have been asking for the reduction of the special tax now levied on their product at the rate of three marks (five shillings) per bottle. The Bonn Ministry of Finance has just pronounced itself against such a measure, reports the Frankurter Allgemeine Zeitung.



The reasons stated are significant. In the first place, the Ministry points out, the tax is not unduly high in relation to taxes on other goods of greater importance. Indeed, the champagne duty amounts to only about twenty-seven per cent. of the sales price, whilst the corresponding figures for such essentials as salt and matches are thirty and forty-eight per cent.

The second reason is even more interesting. The champagne makers had complained that the tax throttled consumption, and had already produced serious under-employment as compared with the years 1937 to 1943. To this the Ministry replied that champagne consumption in those years (one of Hitler's first acts of government was the abolition of the tax) had indeed been very high but was mainly determined by the heavy demand of .... the armed forces.

AWAITING THE ELECTION WINDS

Hours Of Sale Should Not Be Compulsory

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

THE general merchants of Kingston are seeking passage of a by-law which will establish compulsory uniform closing hours for all merchants in this classification. The majority of these merchants now observe a 6 p.m. closing hour every weekday except Friday, on which evening they remain open until nine o'clock. A minority however, remain open later than 6 p.m. on Saturday. The obvious intent of the proposed bylaw is to force this minority to close at six o'clock on Saturday. If the majority petition was submitted by three quarters of the merchants in this particular group, we understand that City Council is obliged by statute to enact a bylaw within thirty days, if no valid objections are entered.

The proposed bylaw contravenes the principle this newspaper has consistently upheld—the right of any merchant to establish his own hours of sale under certain conditions. One of these conditions is that no merchant must be allowed to work employees longer hours than those set forth in the protective statutes. Another is that no merchant must be allowed to operate a store in a manner which would make it a neighbourhood nuisance. Apart from these, we can see no reason why any merchant should be compelled to obey the dictates of the majority in his classification.

If the majority of merchants in any classification wish to observe certain hours, they are perfectly free to enter into an agreement to do so. But if other merchants in that classification wish to provide additional service to the public through working longer hours personally, there is no reason why they should not be allowed to do so. The same holds good for any merchant who may wish to operate shorter hours than those set by the majority.

As we have pointed out before, the legislation which enables compulsory bylaws of this nature is wrong in principle and unfair in practice. Majority rule, in a democracy, must be accompanied by recognition of certain minority rights. This is most decidedly a case in point. It is an attempt at improper and arbitrary imposition of the will of the majority on individuals who do not wish to conform and who should not be required to conform in a free competitive economy.

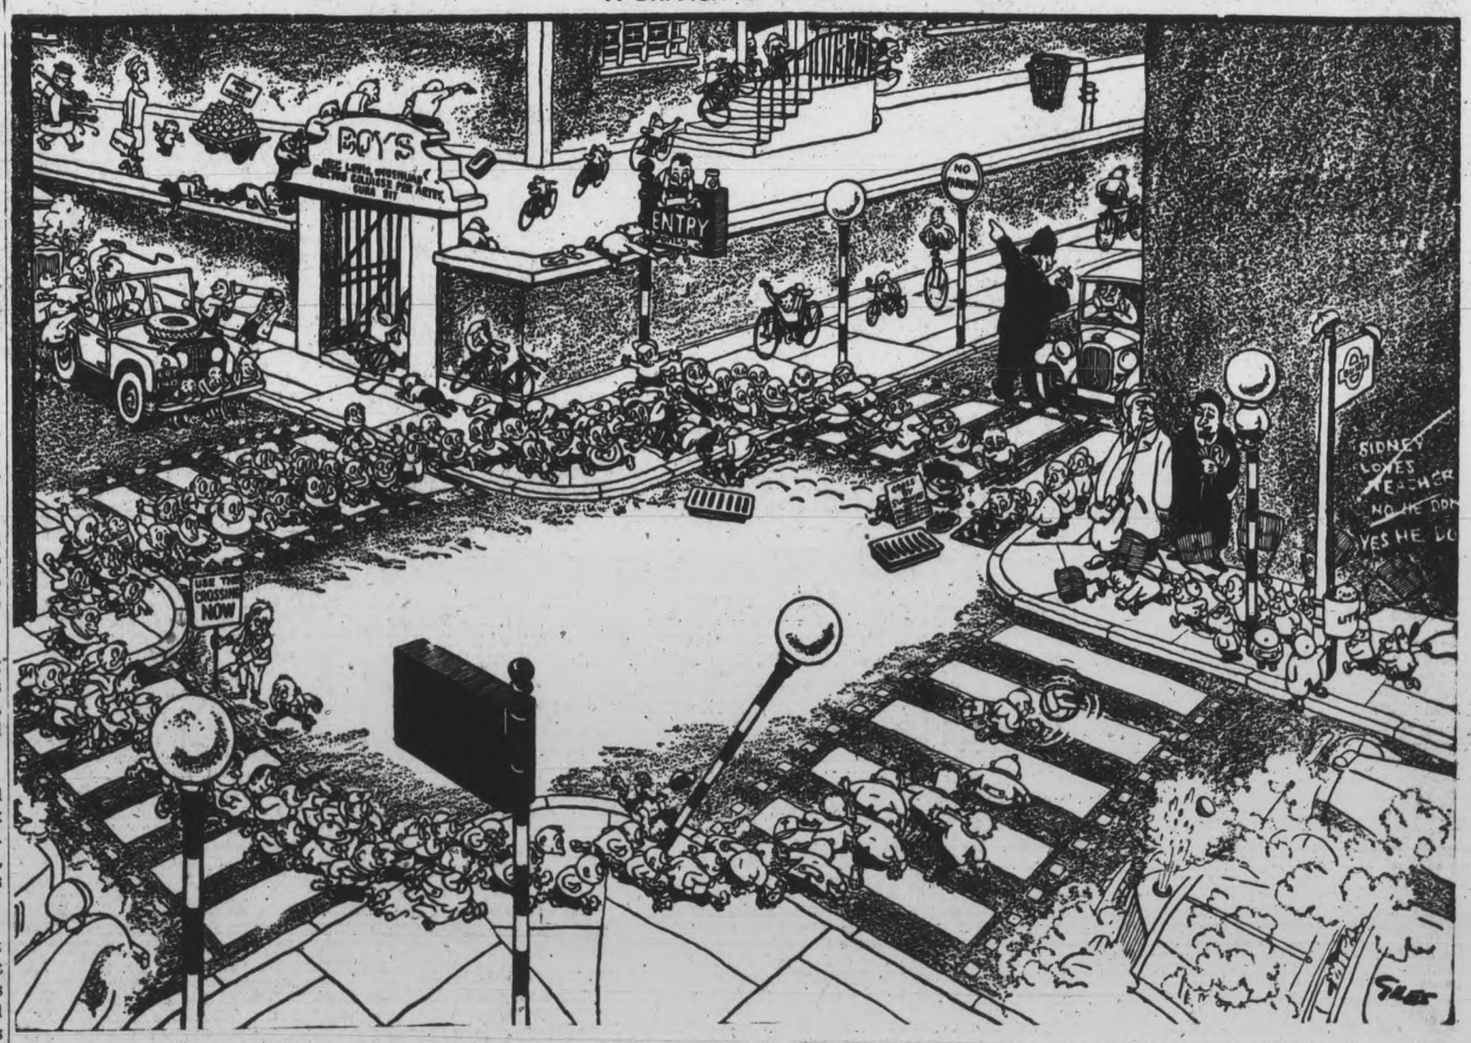
Letter To The Editor

CALLS IT TOMFOOLERY

Sir: I've been reading the letters re: Buckhorn Road. I have this much to say as to our part of country; we had far better roads when we had old statute labour. As it is now, these engineers and road supervisors as they are called, also our reeve and more or less councils, it's lucky the Fool Killer don't happen their way.



One road here, running by an old couple's place for 60 years, with some bulldozing done to a hill on each side, using the stuff off top of hill and putting in between would have made it a good road. Oh no, they changed it a good step away on to a hill, and spent far more of hard earned taxpayers' money and dawdled in a lot of time at their expense also. As it was the old people were able to go out to their mail box, if it hadn't been moved to new road. Also mailman and friends would stop and bring groceries and medicine to them, by being close to the road. Now, being set back they often go on and not stop. It looks like meanness, no brotherly love shown, that's sure to change the road.

What do those engineers know of people's needs and conveniences? It's all right to shorten roads in places where no one is living maybe, but ask any tourist if he doesn't like to go close by where some one is living and see a nice, neat place or a bare road side. So it's hoping they don't do those things to your road or you might better fix it yourselves.

Yes, we have enough money issued, but it's just wasted by those put in to handle it and I can prove it. Men doing the work, laugh and tell of their beating in time, think it's smart. A soft time those engineers and other bosses have. I'd say leave the old roads where they are and do the work on them. Instead of other tom-fool notions, use a little horse-sense leave the roads in front of people's homes.

It is never pleasant to have to tell a man that his money is not worth as much as he thinks, and in citizens of the U.S.A., who have not known such a condition within living memory (the end of the Civil War was the last time their money dropped far below ours) it gives rise to emotion which is sometimes spectacular in its expression. Would it not be wise to have legislation against the use of foreign currency in Canada, or to enforce such legislation if it exists? In Europe, facilities for the exchange of money are provided at every border; sometimes these are private services and sometimes they are provided by the state. If we had such provision at our own border a good deal of difficulty could be avoided.

Who Wrote Shakespeare?

Nearly two hundred years elapsed after the death of William Shakespeare of Stratford, gentleman, before any doubt was cast on his authorship of the works attributed to him. Since that time several efforts have been made to prove that his plays and poems were the work of other hands. The nineteenth century was the age of the "higher criticism," and the "higher critics" enjoyed themselves immensely in the realm of authorship. According to them Moses did not write the Pentateuch, the Gospels were certainly not written by the Evangelists, and Homer was written by a woman!

The chief theory assailing the traditional view of the authorship of "Shakespeare" was the Baconian theory, first propounded by an American lady in 1857. By a strange coincidence her name was Delia Bacon, and whether related to Francis Bacon or not she tried to prove that the real author of the plays was the illustrious lawyer and philosopher and contemporary of Shakespeare. Many other proponents of the Baconian theory came forth, and there is even a society devoted to the dissemination of Baconian propaganda. Other theories favouring the Earl of Oxford, the Earl of Rutland, and so forth, have also been advanced.

The objection to the orthodox view is based on the few details of Shakespeare's life that have come down to us, for of all great authors from the Renaissance to the present day Shakespeare's life is possibly the most obscure. From the little that is actually known it was surmised by the Baconians and their kind that Shakespeare could not possibly had had the necessary background and education to write the plays. They were appalled at the idea that a successful actor-manager (for such he was) in the rough and tumble of the Elizabethan theatrical world could also have written the immortal plays: ergo, somebody else must be invented as the real author, somebody of high rank and superior education who had some compelling reason to keep his connection with the stage a dead secret.

None of these theories has found acceptance among the vast majority of serious Shakespearian scholars. They are content to accept the miracle of Shakespeare as it stands, for no matter what the condition of his birth the appearance of an universal genius of the order of Shakespeare would be a miracle. It is true that several scholars are inclined to the view that certain passages betray the work of collaborators, as though Shakespeare himself were pressed for time and left a few scenes to be filled in by members of his company: but this view is based on the somewhat doubtful hypothesis that Shakespeare was incapable of writing a weak line. Even Homer nodded, and the great John Sebastian Bach could churn out inferior music when not working at top pressure.

The latest theory, that Marlowe, Shakespeare's contemporary, wrote Shakespeare, is not entirely new. J. M. Robertson as far ago as 1922 suggested that large chunks of Marlowe and other Elizabethan dramatists had been incorporated without acknowledgment into the Shakespearian Canon. What is new is the suggestion that Marlowe, who is supposed to have been killed in a tavern brawl in 1593, was in reality involved in a "fake murder" staged by Sir Thomas Walsingham, Marlowe's friend and patron, as a way of extricating him from serious dangers into which he had fallen as a result of his reckless way of life. According to this theory he remained in hiding for the rest of his days and was believed dead by the authorities. He then recommenced writing plays, and Shakespeare was paid to act as foster-father to them.

The weak point in this theory lies in the internal evidence. There is little to show in Marlowe's acknowledged works that he would have developed into the masterly portrayer of character that Shakespeare was. There is no trace, either, of the humour that enlivens even the most sombre of Shakespeare's tragedies. Doubtless the crudities of Marlowe's style, as we know it, might have been eliminated, but the peculiar excellencies of Shakespeare are scarcely hinted at except in the fine quality of many memorable lines.

There is a further weakness, which so far as can be ascertained has not been explained. Robert Green, who died in 1592, warned three of his friends who wrote plays (probably Marlowe, Peele and Nashe) of an "upstart crow" who "is in his own conceit the only Shake-scene in a country." That this upstart crow is Shakespeare himself is clear from the pun on his name. Evidently he had begun to acquire some sort of reputation a year before Marlowe's alleged death. It is unlikely, to say the least, that Shakespeare, already beginning to feel his powers and possessed (according to Greene) of a pretty high opinion of himself, would consent to act as foster-father to Marlowe's work.

The case is not proved, and in the meanwhile we subscribe to the unspectacular notion that Shakespeare wrote his own works. In any case the most important question for us is not who wrote Shakespeare but who reads him.

Delicious Flavour of Paper

The argument about the merits and demerits of teabags has been carried on in so many papers that we feel we must get into it, and as always our desire is to make peace, rather than war. We like tea, and we like it made as follows: pour boiling water in a warmed pot, float the tea carefully on top of the water for three minutes; then stir it gently (sinking the tea) and pour it after another two minutes. But we do not expect everybody to abide by our method, and we have had excellent cups of tea made from teabags. What we do not like is tea made from water which has been poured on already used teabags.

Teabag tea has an excellent flavour in which we can detect, very faintly, a taste of paper. But we rather like the taste of paper, and teabag paper is very good paper. We think that, among connoisseurs, that hint of paper will assume the standing that a faint hint of chicory has among the connoisseurs of coffee. Plain coffee is good, but really satisfactory black coffee needs a whisper of chicory in it.

Plain tea, or teabag tea—both can be admirable. What the connoisseur of tea cannot bear is stewed tea, the black and coppery brew which can only be drunk when liberally doctored with milk and sugar. Both milk and sugar, we feel, should be kept away from tea, for they turn it into an entirely different drink—a kind of soup, excellent in itself perhaps, but bearing no relation to the Chinese herb.

Assembled by "MONITOR"

COMMENTING ON Mr. Anthony Eden's impending visit to Yugoslavia and a possible British effort to bring about a solution of the Trieste problem, the Italian newspaper Corriere Della Sera speaks of what it calls the "black series" of Britain's recent diplomatic enterprises (Egypt, Persia, the defence of the Middle East, etc.) and expresses anxiety lest the activity concerning Trieste should be made a continuation of this series. The paper, which is not always distinguished by pro-British feelings, concludes; "A solution materially different from the tripartite declaration of Turin (in 1948, which promised the return of Trieste to Italy) could not but provoke grave shocks for the Italian people and Parliament. It is even most likely that such a solution not only would not be approved by the Senate, but could also lead to the fall of the Government, and this, in present circumstances, would be more than a small misfortune for the Atlantic community with all its possible consequences for Italy's future foreign policy."

"Therefore, the British ought to be very careful not to start in a wrong direction; for a solution which would sacrifice Italy's vital interests would not only reinforce the Communist Left, traditional beneficiary of every national set-back, but also, and in particular, the neo-Fascist Right which would be provided with fresh fuel for its fire."

ONE OF the originators of the Nazi racial theories and their principal "scientific" propagandist was a certain Dr. H. F. K. Guenther. After some years of silence he is writing again, and his latest work, entitled "The choice of the Spouse" and published by his old publisher, is full of his old ideas.

A review of this book for the Journal of the German Anthropological Society contained the following sentence: "One is amazed by the lack of realistic sense of an author who can advocate his old ideas without the slightest feeling for or any mention of the devastating effect which this same ideology had in Germany only a few years ago." This sentence did not please publisher of the Anthropological Journal, and he prevailed upon the editor to cut it. Some members of the editorial staff disapproved of the editor's surrender and resigned, and one of them, Professor W. E. Muehlmann published the facts of this remarkable case. In the course of this statement, Professor Muehlmann said: "It should be brought to the knowledge of a wider circle than those immediately interested that even the mildest denunciation of the consequences of the Third Reich's racial ideologies is already today impossible in a German scientfic journal."

A SCHOOL which is probably unique in the world has just been opened at Nuremberg (Germany) according to a report in Die Welt. The two hundred and eighty children who are to attend it belong to no less than thirty-four different nationalities, speak as their mother tongue about the same number of different languages, and belong to nine different religions, including Roman-Catholics, Greek and Russian Orthodox and Muslim.

It is, of course, a school for children of Displaced Persons and refugees, of whom nearly five thousand are still accommodated in the Valkalager camp at Nuremberg. Classes are to be held in the German language only, and as not all of the pupils have already mastered that language, seating arrangements in the classrooms are made in such a way that every non-German speaking pupil has an "interpreter" as his neighbour.

The German authorities had, in spite of some protests from the camp inmates, insisted on the use of German as the teaching language and are making considerable financial sacrifices to run the school.

The reason for the school is a rather sad one, as the camp commandant explained: "In establishing this school we have been prompted by the certainty that ninety per cent. of the camp inmates have not the slightest chance of ever leaving Germany. We cannot resign ourselves to letting the young people grow up only to become recipients of public assistance and a burden on the community."

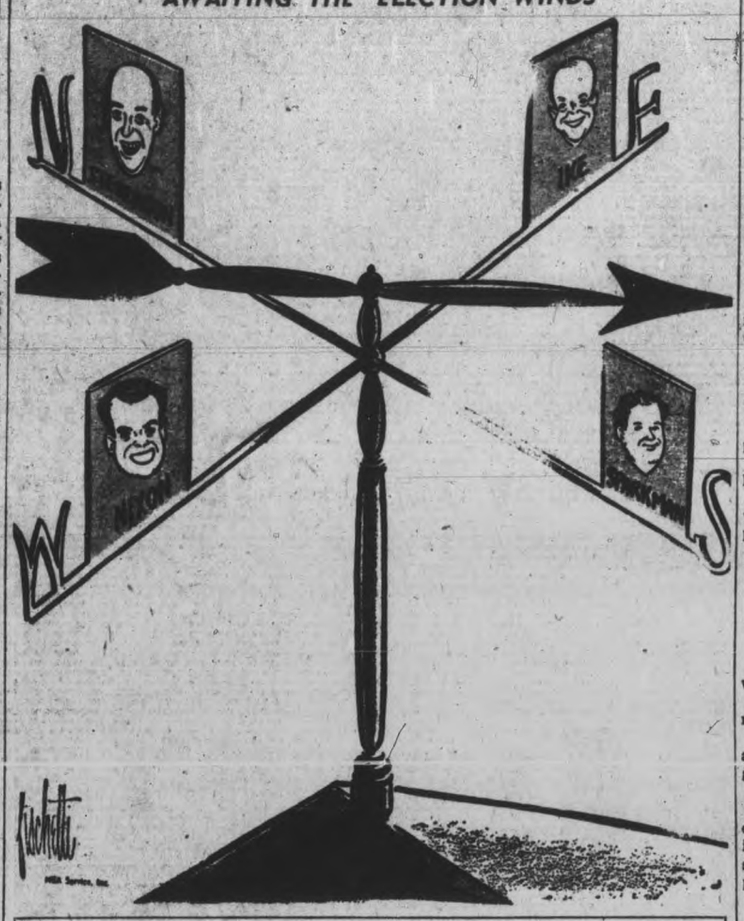
GERMAN CHAMPAGNE manufacturers have been asking for the reduction of the special tax now levied on their product at the rate of three marks (five shillings) per bottle. The Bonn Ministry of Finance has just pronounced itself against such a measure, reports the Frankurter Allgemeine Zeitung.



The reasons stated are significant. In the first place, the Ministry points out, the tax is not unduly high in relation to taxes on other goods of greater importance. Indeed, the champagne duty amounts to only about twenty-seven per cent. of the sales price, whilst the corresponding figures for such essentials as salt and matches are thirty and forty-eight per cent.

The second reason is even more interesting. The champagne makers had complained that the tax throttled consumption, and had already produced serious under-employment as compared with the years 1937 to 1943. To this the Ministry replied that champagne consumption in those years (one of Hitler's first acts of government was the abolition of the tax) had indeed been very high but was mainly determined by the heavy demand of .... the armed forces.

AWAITING THE ELECTION WINDS

Hours Of Sale Should Not Be Compulsory

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

THE general merchants of Kingston are seeking passage of a by-law which will establish compulsory uniform closing hours for all merchants in this classification. The majority of these merchants now observe a 6 p.m. closing hour every weekday except Friday, on which evening they remain open until nine o'clock, A minority however, remain open later than 6 p.m. on Saturday. The obvious intent of the proposed bylaw is to force this minority to close at six o'clock on Saturday. If the majority petition was submitted by three quarters of the merchants in this particular group, we understand that City Council is obliged by statute to enact a bylaw within thirty days, if no valid objections are entered.

The proposed bylaw contravenes the principle this newspaper has consistently upheld—the right of any merchant to establish his own hours of sale under certain conditions. One of these conditions is that no merchant must be allowed to work employees longer hours than those set forth in the protective statutes. Another is that no merchant must be allowed to operate a store in a manner which would make it a neighbourhood nuisance. Apart from these, we can see no reason why any merchant should be compelled to obey the dictates of the majority in his classification.

If the majority of merchants in any classification wish to observe certain hours, they are perfectly free to enter into an agreement to do so. But if other merchants in that classification wish to provide additional service to the public through working longer hours personally, there is no reason why they should not be allowed to do so. The same holds good for any merchant who may wish to operate shorter hours than those set by the majority.

As we have pointed out before, the legislation which enables compulsory bylaws of this nature is wrong in principle and unfair in practice. Majority rule, in a democracy, must be accompanied by recognition of certain minority rights. This is most decidedly a case in point. It is an attempt at improper and arbitrary imposition of the will of the majority on individuals who do not wish to conform and who should not be required to conform in a free competitive economy.

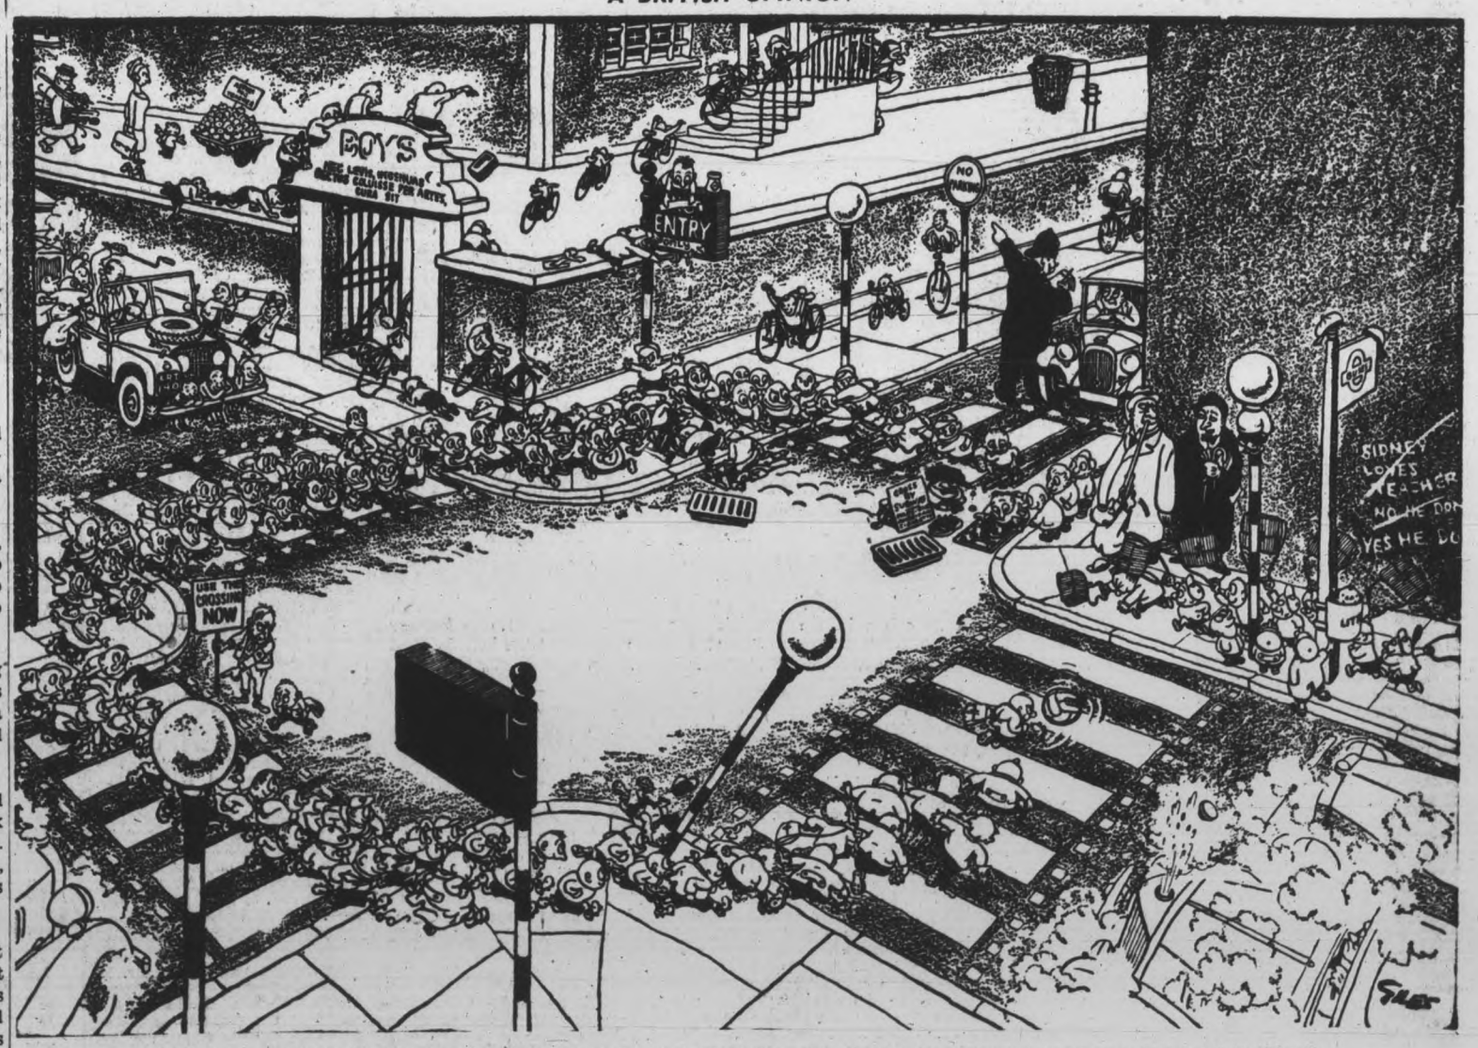
Letter To The Editor

CALLS IT TOMFOOLERY

Sir: I've been reading the letters re: Buckhorn Road. I have this much to say as to our part of country; we had far better roads when we had old statute labour. As it is now, these engineers and road supervisors as they are called, also our reeve and more or less councils, it's lucky the Fool Killer don't happen their way.



One road here, running by an old couple's place for 60 years, with some bulldozing done to a hill on each side, using the stuff off top of hill and putting in between would have made it a good road. Oh no, they changed it a good step away on to a hill, and spent far more of hard earned taxpayers' money and dawdled in a lot of time at their expense also. As it was the old people were able to go out to their mail box, if it hadn't been moved to new road. Also mailman and friends would stop and bring groceries and medicine to them, by being close to the road. Now, being set back they often go on and not stop. It looks like meanness, no brotherly love shown, that's sure to change the road.

What do those engineers know of people's needs and conveniences? It's all right to shorten roads in places where no one is living maybe, but ask any tourist if he doesn't like to go close by where some one is living and see a nice, neat place or a bare road side. So it's hoping they don't do those things to your road or you might better fix it yourselves.

Yes, we have enough money issued, but it's just wasted by those put in to handle it and I can prove it. Men doing the work, laugh and tell of their beating in time, think it's smart. A soft time those engineers and other bosses have. I'd say leave the old roads where they are and do the work on them. Instead of other tom-fool notions, use a little horse-sense leave the roads in front of people's homes.

$100,000 Paid To Widows and Orphans In 60 Years By Almira Foley Trust

By RICHARD F. CHOATE

"Aunt Foley" was a human being—very human.

With all due solemnity I make this statement. It is not merely another tag-end of hearsay evidence and my belief in its truth is derived from the fullness and immediately of boyhood recollection.

In this anniversary year (the sixtieth since her death in Toronto, September 20, 1892) it seems to me to be meet and right to offer my testimony as a reminder to those who had no first-hand contact with "Aunt Foley".

For, sadly enough, she has been envisaged by a good many Peterborough people not as a Human Being at all but as a Statistical Entity, persisting only in the dreary yellowing pages of Public Accounts ledgers into which our County Councillors peer annually when they meet on Court House hill.

MRS. FOLEY HERSELF

Is it not fitting that on this anniversary occasion Peterborough people should disengage their minds, momentarily at least, from the Almira Grover Foley Fund for Deserving Widows and Orphans of Peterborough County — the book-keeping symbol of her life and work—and give a thought to the dynamic, existential Mrs. Foley herself as she was when she established the Trust? For no epitaph is ever likely to say that Mrs. Foley was a mute and inglorious and non-viable person who had her being in the realm of legalistic fictions.

No postscript to the records of 60 years could be written which would do justice to the social or other values that the Fund has called into being. But a monetary recapitulation may be arrived at without going into the higher mathematics. It gives us one view of the scope of the operations since 1892 and its totals provide impressive testimony to the breadth and keenness of Mrs. Foley's vision.

Let us glance at the figures. In the 60 years payments have been made annally from her funded estate valued at $43,850 to the County Council. The benefits distributed under supervision of a special council committee to deserving widows and orphans now amount to $1,500 a year. For two or three years in the depression period of the 30's the sum declined to about $1,000. But according to courthouse information the income from the estate and amount disbursed through the earlier years was about $2,000 annually.

Computed at these rates a sum aggregating upward of $100,000 has been distributed in the sixty years, as directed by Mrs. Foley in her will, "to the benefit, comfort and support of sober, moral and industrious but destitute and needy widows, orphans and other helpless persons of the County of Peterborough, who were bona fide residents of the said County before becoming destitute or needy."

In a judgment delivered December 6, 1894, Chief Justice Meredith ruled on an issue which had been taken before the court. He held that the town of Peterborough was to be considered part of the county, insofar as the distribution of the benefits was concerned. The interesting point about which the legal arguments in the case centred was whether the word "county" as used by the testatrix signified a municipal county or a territorial division of the province. The court's judgment emphasized the fact that the official persons Mrs. Foley had named as trustees (the senior judge, the sheriff and the registrar) were all officials of the county as a territorial division of the province, not as a municipal county.

A committee report on October 22, 1907, directed a division at the ratio of 3-8 and 5-8, city and county, respectively.

The original executors of the will, of course, have long since passed. They were John Almus Butterfield, postmaster of Norwood, a nephew of the James Foley and business partner of Mr. Foley; John Moore, one time principal of the Norwood High School (husband of Celestia C. Choate of Warsaw and uncle of the present writer); and R. Clark Steele, of Toronto (head of the Steele, Briggs Seed Company). Later Thomas M. Grover and William E. Roxborough, both of Norwood, and Sheriff J. A. Hall, of Peterborough, served to fill vacancies.

Distribution of the estate is to continue in perpetuity. The Victoria and Grey Trust Company, of which T. J. Carley, Q.C. of Peterborough is solicitor, now is administrative advisor, having recently been allowed $2,000 for five years' services on court order.

INVESTMENTS

Jennie A. Spurway, county clerk and treasurer, says that the funds of the trust are all invested in first mortgages, except one Dominion of Canada $1,000 bond at 3 per cent purchased during the last war. One of the mortgages is at 6½ per cent, one at 6 per cent and the remainder at 5 and 5½ per cent. The accounts have been passed recently before the trustee in Toronto.

But the history of Almira Grover Foley and her husband, James Foley, cannot be written on an adding machine. Indeed the record of this remarkable couple might well be woven into the warp and woof of a human document, of more engrossing interest than that of many full-dress novels.

The Grover family lived in Grafton, Ontario. Almira (Mrs. Foley) being a daughter of John and Mary Mirriam Grover. The present writer's grandmother, Hannah Grover (Mrs. Thomas Choate of Warsaw) was a daughter of Jonah and Lucia (Baldwin) Grover. The intimate friendship of girlhood continued until the closing years of the lives of the two women when "Aunt Foley", as she was known to the writer as a boy, (and indeed to a wide circle of other kindred) visited our Warsaw home periodically, the last time being in the late 1880's, a few years before her death, "Aunt Foley's" reading of her Diary, with expository comment, remains as one of the most vivid memories of the writer's youth.

Mrs. Foley was an avid reader, and a keen observer. She missed little that was going on about her. Hence in her diary, which was written in the course of her extensive travels abroad in her later years, she brought home fascinating and informative word-pictures of life in Europe, particularly that of Switzerland and Spain. Her descriptions of the Swiss Alps reached a dramatic climax when she read or talked of the venturesome visiting ladies who mounted the mountainside on stairways to dizzy heights. All was merry while the ascent went on, platform after platform. But sooner or later a glance into the terrifying abyss below froze the brave spirit of "Upidee" and paralysed feminine muscular power (for Victorian ladies, after all, did have muscles or some other invisible and indelicate means of locomotion somewhere beneath the voluminous drapings we find pictured in copies of Godey's Ladies' Book). So it seemed to be a case of muscles or nothing with the return trip downstairs to be negotiated. What to do? At length, thanks to the trusty guide to whom the ways of woman on the Alpine heigths were all in the day's work, the victims of the jittery nerves ceased from troubling as they were thrust unceremoniously into sacks and carried below on stout shoulders.

Whatever the attitude of her sisters in distress, it is difficult for the present writer to envisage Mrs. Foley suffering herself to be thrust into any man's packsack for a piggy-back ride on a mountain-side. That wasn't like "Aunt Foley"!

But thought of Switzerland had for Mrs. Foley a painful and tragic as well as a pleasant side. For it was in Geneva that her daughter, Ada, who was carrying on there advanced studies, was stricken with a fatal illness.

FIRST FOLEY CAME IN 1817

The first Foley who came to Canada was James who had lived in London, England, an uncle of the James who married Almira Foley, and of the latter James's brothers, William and Patrick. The uncle, arriving in 1817, bought Foley's Point, near the mouth of the Indian river, on Rice lake, and property at Belleville. He remained only a year or so but returned from overseas in 1826 bringing with him the Foley family of Cork, six in all. James Foley II built a shanty at "Old Orchard" before there was a village of Keene. There was then of course, no dam at Hastings and the Rice lake level was much lower than it is now.

At the instance of Col. H. C. Rogers, President of the Old Peterborough Historical Society (which lethargic and myopic Peterborough people have permitted to lapse), William Foley gave a vivid account of the real life drama of the family in the pioneer days. Black flies and mosquitoes were then a "dreadful pest". Wolves and bears were numerous, the former killing many deer.

DROWNED BEAR

William recounts the story of an adventure with a black bear which he and his brother Pat found swimming near Foley's Point while they were rowing. They had no gun, so belaboured the animal with an oar until the oar broke. At length, Pat, contrived to hold Bruin's head under water until drowning ensued. The bear weighed 400 pounds and brought $11.

William tells also the story of a terrifying night spent in the cabin at the site of the later Hastings village when as a small boy he found the body of an elderly man on the forest trail along which he was carrying the washing of his brother James. Left alone by his elders on guard while they went in quest of a magistrate to whom they might report the grim facts, William, barring the door and covering himself with blankets, remained alone with the dead body until the others returned in the morning. Losing no time he scampered back the 10 miles to his mother.

James Foley first found work in the shanty, but in the winter of 1829-30, in conjunction with Peregrine Maitland Grover (Mrs. Foley's brother) he conducted a store opened by Dr. John Gilchrist, which was the first at Keene. Grover and Foley were associated in a retail store business at Peterborough as well. Mr. Foley opened the first store at Norwood in a small house. The business prospered and he built a frame store and residence, greatly augmenting his stock. Later he had as his partner John Almus Butterfield, a nephew. The second post office in Asphodel was that opened at Norwood by Mr. Foley in his store (the first being at Westwood). He was succeeded in this office by Mr. Butterfield: also in the post of Division Court clerk on his death in 1864.

A SIZEABLE FORTUNE

By resourcefulness and business acumen, James Foley and his helpmeet built up largely in Norwood the estate left in her hands on her husband's death. In those days an estate of $40,000 to $50,000 represented a sizeable fortune. Probably the only cleemosynary bequest of the time in Peterborough comparable with Mrs. Foley's was that of Mrs. Robert (Charlotte) Nicholls — her gift of the Nicholls Hospital (opened in 1890) and other institutional buildings. The extensive and many-faceted Nicholls and Hall business made possible these large benefactions which were proportionate to the scope enjoyed by business in a fast-growing city.

Almira Grover Foley was congenitally forthright — or shall we say, trenchant?—in her modes of expression. Her ordinary habits of speech are mirrored in the phraseology of her will and its multiple codicils.

Hearken to preamble as it appears in the testament declared Nov. 17, 1887, before A. P. Pousette, Peterborough barrister:

"None of my friends have ever allowed me to be under any pecuniary obligation to them. Not one, even in my childless widowhood, has ever aided me by advice itself, tho' I have often solicited it. None of my own or my husband's relatives have ever aided us in making or saving a dollar, not one of them has ever to my knowledge done one dollar's worth of anything for either of us that they have failed to get a dollar for it.

"I have given to my husband's relatives all the uncultivated land he left me besides other property of which if good use is made they will all have a competence independent of their own property. I am grateful to God that He has kept me independent of them all, and I am grateful, too, to them for it; because it has left me free to do as I choose with the means with which God has blessed me; to Him alone I am indebted for what I have; and after the legacies mentioned I give it all to His poor, the widows and orphans not otherwise provided for and other virtuous but helpless people of the County of Peterborough."

And that was that!

A fourth codicil drawn in Toronto in the year of her death, 1892, shows no decline in Mrs. Foley's power of plain, very plain, speech:

"I commenced boarding with Miss —— about the middle of March in the year 1890. The whole household was very kind to me and attentive to my necessities and I hoped to spend my days with them. I paid to Miss —— every week while there the price agreed upon for my board and lodging. At one time I made her a present of one hundred dollars in cash because I loved her. I saw that they found making a living very hard work and I expected to live to be old and consequently helpless and troublesome and wishing her to be well paid for extra trouble that I might be to her I added a codicil which I gave to her, to my will, bequeathing to her one hundred dollars extra besides the payment for my board and lodging, which I attended to regularly, for every year that I live beginning with commencement of my residence with her, on condition that I should live and die there with her, never doubting that I should be sure of good care and knowing that she would be well paid and that, too, at a time when her necessities might possibly be as great as mine. I was not near my will so that it (the codicil) could not be attached to it but she could see that it was forthcoming at my decease. I have lived to myself to pay her for all that she or any of hers have ever done for me, all that she had any right to expect. I have never been confined to my bed one day nor taken one meal in bed during my stay with them. And now I wish to cancel the said codicil. She has not kept her agreement with me and she has treated me in such a way that I could not endure it, and when all did their best such circumscribed quarters and want of kindness and courtesy (became) unbearable. I lost all confidence in her and it was quite evident that she thought that I could not help myself. No extra service has ever been rendered to me so I protest against their being allowed anything from my estate."

And that, furthermore, was that!

The will provided for bequests to members of the families of James Foley's brothers.

Bequest of money or land was directed to Thomas Maitland Grover, barrister, and to J. A. Butterfield, both of Norwood. A Norwood lot and an annuity were provided for Mary A. Grover, niece; and provision was made for certain other kindred and friends. Furniture and library were devised to Mr. Butterfield and "my French books I give to his daughter, Mary".

To the Home for Incurables, Toronto, was bequeathed $200 annually on condition that the Home provide for, if need be, one Peterborough County patient.

Mrs. Foley's will speaks clearly in respect of those who are to share in the benefits of her Widows and Orphans Fund: "Neither politics, creed or country shall be considered in cases of the needy. All are to be assisted alike".

The testatrix directs that she shall "be buried by the side of my late husband in Little Lake Cemetery, Peterborough"; and that the burial place shall be put in perfect condition and so kept forever". For all time it is "to be reserved and kept for my husband, my children and myself".

In a later article the writer hopes to review briefly some of the interesting phases of the life and work of Mrs. Foley's brother, Peregrine Maitland Grover of Norwood, who was first M.P. for East Peterborough after Confederation and served with distinction in public affairs through many decades.

ALMIRA GROVER FOLEY, widow of James Foley, Norwood merchant of pioneer days. September 22, 1952, marks the sixtieth anniversary of Mrs. Foley's death. In the years intervening since 1892, upwards of $100,000 has been distributed to deserving widows and orphans of Peterborough County from the income of the estate of $43,850 she bequeathed. Payments, supervised by the county council, will continue in perpetuity. Benefits given in earlier years were at the rate of $2,000 annually. At present, they are $1,500. Married In Bare Feet By Rev. S. Armour

The people, sights and ways of Cavan a century aro are recalled in an article published in The Examiner in 1913. This item dealt with the visit to Peterborough of John H. Meir, of Toronto, in the summer of 1913. Mr. Meir, interviewed by The Examiner, reminisced about old timse, and what he had heard from his father.

Mr. Meir was born at Sharp's Corners, now known as Ida post office, Cavan, in the early 1850's, but left it when he was a child. His father had settled in Cavan about 1840 and remained there for twenty years.

KNEW EVERY MAN

In those days there were no railroads and few good roads of any kind. Neighbors were few and far between. His father knew every man living in the four townships. Rev. Sam Armour, father of Chief Justice Armour, of Cobourg, was rector of Cavan from 1832 to 1850.

Mr. Meir said his father remembered Peterborough when there were only about a dozen houses here. At that time Port Hope and Cobourg were the largest towns in this district and did practically all the business. Mr. Meir counted 100 teams pass his home within ten hours with grain for these towns.

Mr. Meir told of a man who was married in his bare feet by the Rev. Samuel Armour, after whom Armour Hill is named. Mr. Armour, headmaster of the first Government school in Peterborough and first Anglican clergyman in Peterborough, had solemnized many marriages in unusual circumstances, judging from the late Mr. F. M. de la Fosse's history of St. John's Church.

In Mr. de la Fosse's sketch of the Rev. Samuel Armour is related an account by an old Cavan resident:

"I think it would be in the years of 1845 and 1850 that he used to come into Manvers and hold an occasional service in my father's log hut, built as it was of wood. He used to hold baptismal services, at certain times in the summer season when settlers would be able to come with their children. I think he generally came on horseback as there were no roads made at that date and I remember on one occasion his son, who was almost a young man, came with him also on horseback. On one occasion (he) had a marriage ceremony in my father's cabin. . . I remember the old gentleman was very kind and used to have his pockets filled with apples.

Another old Manvers resident recalled, in the same history, seeing as a young girl Mr. Armour perform marriage ceremonies. "The roads were very bad and people had few vehicles, so he would arrange with the wedding party to meet him at the 'Church' as he called our house—but would not go a step farther. Many times without warning he and a wedding party would arrive. He often had to use my mother's key ring for the wedding ring."

An interesting incident recalled by Mr. Meir was the strength of the Methodist Church in Cavan. "Their Quarterly Meeting and Love-feast was quite an event," Mr. Meir said. The service generally lasted three or four hours at a stretch.

FOOD STOLEN

One day the ladies of the congregation got dinner ready before the service began. When the meeting was over and the worshippers went to enjoy the feast they found all the victuals gone. It was thought some practical jokers among the Cavan Blazers had made away with the grub.

Mr. Meir tells of another incident, that is fully vouched for, of life in Cavan in those days. Quilting bees were much in vogue, and to which the ladies, from far and near would gather to make quilts. A young man troubled with bashfulness, whose bedroom was situated above the room where the bee was in progress, fearing to face the ladies, climbed, by aid of a ladder to his bedroom window.

FELL ON LADIES WITHOUT PANTS

The floor of his room was simply loose boards, which were too short to reach a rafter. The young man, without having donned his trousers, fell through the floor on top of the outstretched quilt.

The ladies fled shrieking and the bashful young man covered his nakedness with the quilt.

A sad even took place about 1845, when a lady, Mrs. Lough, was knocked down and trampled to death by a pet deer they had raised. She was the grandmother of the present postmaster of Ida, Cavan. Mr. W. Lowe, who then (1913) lived at 786 George St., had a distinct recollection of this event in the early life of Cavan. Mr. Lowe was then 85 years of age and was well acquainted with the late Mr. Meir.

Autumn Best Time For Lawn Planting

Autumn-planted lawns are the best—and each year repetition of this advice is made for the benefit of home gardeners, both old and new.

Make new lawns in autumn because:

THE SOIL is warm and workable—a condition not often found in early spring.

RAINS provide plenty of moisture.

COOLER WEATHER is very favorable to the germination and growth of grass seed, and autumn-made lawns produce sturdy, deep-rooted grass plants that will be in condition to make rapid growth in the spring, ahead of the weeds.

NO COMPETITION comes from weeds, since few weed seeds germinate at this time.

When to seed: Seeding should be done between now and the end of September, depending, of course, on the locality.

Preparation of the seedbed: Spade or plow the area thoroughly to a depth of six to eight inches. Thoroughly pulverize. If soil is too sandy work in clay or peat moss until the right texture. If there is too much clay, work in sand or peat moss to break it up.

Application of plant food: After the soil is pulverized and graded apply a complete balanced food, with an analysis of 6-10-4 or its equivalent, either by hand or with a spreader, applying at the rate of four pounds per 100 square feet, and working it into the top inch or two of the seedbed.

ROLL YOUR newly planted lawn to imbed the seed. Only a light roller should be used.

A complete, balanced food plant will supply all of the nourishing elements grass requires from the soil to make a beautiful healthy turf, with deep extensive roots. Incomplete materials will not achieve the same results. It is best to wait one day after plant food is applied, before seeding.

Seeding: Sow good grass seed, adapted to the location where it is to be sown. Follow the recommendation of your seedsman. Apply one-half of the seed crosswise of the area, and the other half lengthwise. This will give even distribution. A spreader can be used to advantage in sowing seed.

Rolling: Roll the lawn to imbed the seed and insure perfect contact with the soil. This step should not be omitted. Use a light roller; a heavy one packs the soil, thus excluding air from the tiny roots of the seedling grass.

Watering: Water thoroughly, using a fine spray. Keep moist by daily sprinkling, until the grass is established. On established lawns light sprinklings are never advisable. Once the grass is established, soak thoroughly when you do water so that the soil becomes saturated to a good depth, thus inducing deep rooting of the grass, which is desirable from every standpoint.

Cutting: If a newly-sown lawn makes a growth of more than three inches, it should be cut before it becomes dormant. It is not adbisable to allow the lawn to go into the winter at a height greater than three inches, although it should not be cut extremely short either.

A·F·I·E·L·D with NICK NICKELS

I have news for gardeners with brown thumbs—who are not to be confused with people who are said to have green thumbs and who seem to be able to make anything grow. We Brown Thumbers never come close to the target of seed catalogue pictures; things just wither and die.

However, I have found something that will grow despite all the hexes against us. It is the weeping willow tree. All you have to do is to cut off a branch of the parent tree, shove it in your front lawn and water it diligently. The graft languishes at first but comes to and flourishes.

Learned books tell us that the weeping willow originated in ancient China. Do you remember their designs on willow wear plates, cups and saucers? It was evidently considered a symbol of sorrow at one time, too; I saw its design on an ancient tombstone at St. George's Cemetery, Gore's Landing.

It is truly a beautiful ornamental tree if left to grow at its own gate. Some growers persist in bobbing the lower branches evenly all around which detracts from their weeping charm. Wonderful shade trees, quick-growing.

The myth that darning needle dragonflies will light on one and do fancy and painful hemstitching is no myth. One lit on my shoulder while gardening last weekend and stung like a wasp. Have an itchy bump to prove it, still.

Trying to salvage something of American deer hunters' revenue in the Kawarthas this coming fall while the U.S. Government still claps the hoof-and-mouth ban on Canadian imports, Jack Paris of Young's Point comes up with this idea:

Thinks he, properly tagged deer carcasses in freezer lockers might be forwarded to the States under a special shipping permit when the ban is lifted. I passed this suggestion along to officials of the Department of Lands and Forests at Queen's Park who thought the idea had merit. They will mull it over, at any rate, and adapt some ruling, pro or con. Seems like a good bet.

Some recent newspaper accounts that American hunters may be able to take home some boned and cooked venison, are not official. There is still nothing wrong with taking back stuffed trophy heads, but part carcasses, so far, no.

Bradley Bay down the Trent River below Campbellford produces the greatest assortment of fish in these parts. King-size lunge, bass, pickerel, sturgeon, eels. And last week that freshwater swordfish, the gar-pike; lockmaster John Potts was the lucky man. This ugly thing weighed 8 pounds and was 45 inches long.

♠ ♠ ♠ ♠

Monday night is the sad time for trout fishermen. The season closes on Sept 15 for Speckles, Browns, Rainbows and Kamloops. Not too many of any of these types were taken in district waters this year, at least they were not reported. The trend has been to get away to unknown lakes, mostly north of Peterborough County. It was as much as your life was worth to ask the location of these spots and if you revealed them secretive trouters would run the rep through with the complete length of a fly rod.

Some nice lunge in the better-than-twenty class have been recorded this week at the Chamber of Commerce; Order of Kawartha Muskie winners, of course. Miss Joanne Hutchinson of Lakewood, O., took a 24½-pounder in Pigeon Lake under able guidance of Stan Taylor. Mrs. R. R. Laughlin of Chagrin Falls, O., a 24-pounder from Lovesick and Jim Coleman of Columbus, O., a 22-pounder from Buckhorn Lake.

Unreported, except by mere chance, was a small-mouth black bass that went over the 6-pound mark. It was weighed on the spot by an indignant conservationist who found it on the village dump in the village of Apsley. What gives?

♠ ♠ ♠ ♠

Have it on good authority that the Royal Ontario Museum of Archaeology will publish a popular version report of their field party's findings at the Serpent Mounds, sometime this fall. Many Kawarthans will look forward to it with interest.

♠ ♠ ♠ ♠

May be talking to myself in beaming a suggestion at our Peterborough Historical Society but here it is: Scrapbooks of branches of Women's Institutes throughout the district should be examined and photostated. And where their librarians have done an excellent job and are of good memories, a running tape-recording commentary should be made. Able Mrs. Jane Thompson, 83, of Westwood has compiled a scrapbook that is out of this world; there is another worthy volume at Bobcaygeon.

Don't let us hear someone say regretfully in the near future, "Too bad we didn't do it." Let it be done NOW.

Kingston Monarchs Win Against The Petes For Lead In Loop Finals

Kingston Monarchs trounced the Petes 15-8 here last night to take a 2-1 lead on the Stewart squad in their best-of-seven C.O.B.L. finals. Third game is tonight in Kingston and fourth back here on Monday. Some 500 fans viewed the lengthy tilt last night, a game pretty well free of errors but marked with a flock of walks, stolen bases and extra-base blows. It was a parade of pitchers, with the winners using two and the losers four. The hits were even, the Petes had the only two miscues, and a total of 16 batters got free tickets to first.

PARADE OF HURLERS

Billy Richards lasted till out in the eighth inning on the Kingston mound. He was not effective, but his mates built him a good lead, and Babe Stinson took over when the Petes began narrowing the gap with a four-run splash in the eighth. He put out the fire. Tony Kotowski started for the Petes and, while he fanned five in less than three frames, he was wild to issue seven walks and give the visitors a hefty early lead. Ed Whitehill started well in a relief role but was bingled hard in the sixth and gave way to Larry Foley. The junior got by with two runs next heat and then Bill Edger finished up, allowing two more markers in the ninth.

The raft of walks, plus a couple of hit batsmen, five stolen bases, several wild pitches and in-the-park homers by Rank and Levandoski to deep centre, as well as other extra-base blows, all helped pad the count for the K's. The Petes threatened at times and crept up fairly close to make it 13-8 in the eight, but lacked the winners' punch in this fray.

A LUSTY BAT

Joe Levandoski led Kingston at bat with a homer, triple and double in four tries, while Eric Rank hit a homer, double and single in six. Lorne Ferguson also tripled and drove in three. Rank drove in three, as well. Bill Huntley hit a triple and single in three to drive home three runs, Arn Dugan had one for two, Don Pagett a double and single in four, Gary Kearns two in five tries, and Don Bigford a three-bagger. Some fine fielding was shown by Kearns at second, up from junior ranks, especially a running catch and a hot pickup. Joe Lowrey and Lorne Ferguson also roped in neat grabs on the run, and the winners pulled off a double-play.

Toronto Horse First Twice In 2.15 Harness Race Event

Norval G, owned by L. J. Ryan of Toronto and driven by his 20-year-old son, Len, stole the show Friday night in the harness racing events at the Exhibition track, before the largest crowd of the fair to date, including Mayor Hugh Waddell and Gordon K. Fraser, federal M.P. for the riding. The 18-year-old free-legged pacer pranced over the one-mile course in the 2.15 event—second heat—in 2.10½, to better its own 2.11¼ mark for the first, to win going away; and set a record for the week, to the applause of an appreciative gallery. Miss Corporal Grattan, reputed to be the fastest steed in Western Ontario, rated second in the summary with Silk Grattan third.

BELONGS TO M.P.

The former is owned by A. Cunningham and handled by his son Elmer; the later is the property of Clayt Hodgson, M.P. for Haliburton, and driven by Ross Dawson. Bert Patch, Jr., and Harvest Moon, owned by Hugh McLean, of Port Elgin, brought up the rear in the thrilling heats.

In the 2.24 trotting event, Will Sharpe's Peter M. Grattan, with a win in the first heat at 2.16½ and a place in the second behind O. Cunningham's Richard Grattan's 2.16 and the runner-up.

A. Black's Rink Captures Title

By a score of 19-15, A. Black's rink defeated R. F. Downey's rink for the club championship on Friday night.

It was a good game to watch, well played.

Taking an early lead of 10 points in the first four ends, it looked as if the Downey rink was going to have a walk-away, but by steady playing the Black team pulled up on even terms. From then on till the finish it was see-saw and only in the last couple of ends did the Black quartet win out.

Maple Leafs Whip Royals 5-1 As Montreal Leading Series

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Al Papai has jumped from rags to riches in one short week.

A week ago, the veteran knuckleballer was toiling for last-place Houston in the Texas League. Yesterday he hurled Rochester Red Wings into the finals of the International League playoffs as the Wings completed a four-game sweep of Syracuse Chiefs, winning 5-2.

The righthander, hurling his first game in the league since being recalled, limited the Chiefs to six hits in going the route. He yielded only one walk and one extra-base hit, a double by Andy Carey, when the Chiefs grouped three hits for their two runs in the fourth inning.

Rip Repulski and Ray Jablonski led the Red Wing attack with two-run homers.

Bobo Holloman, who retired for a pinch-hitter after giving up 10 hits in seven innings, suffered the loss.

Toronto Maple Leafs, playing in the playoffs for the first time since 1945, whipped the defending champion Montreal Royals 5-1. The Leafs won the game in the seventh inning with a four-run outburst. Montreal leads the series 2-1

Pinch-swinger Frank Colman singled home the first two runs. Wilmer Fields doubled across the third marker and scored the fourth.

Vic Lombardi, the diminutive southpaw, pitched the first seven frames but needed aid from Johnny Hetki, who held the Royals hitless over the final two innings. The defeat was charged to rookie Johnny Podres.

Bobby Del Greco continued his hitting spree for the Leafs as did Don Hoak for the Royals. Greco collected a pair of doubles and a single in four trips while Hoak banged out his eighth and ninth hit of the series for Montreal.

The best-of-seven game series continues today at Toronto. Ed Roebuck will go for the Royals while Duke Markell is the choice of the Leafs.

TUNA TOURNAMENT—This undersized fish—a mere 303 pounds—clinched the first day's lead for the British Commonwealth team in the ninth International Tuna Tournament at Wedgeport, N.S. It gave the British bonus points for the most fish. Smiling in the background is Commodore Duncan Hodgson, of Montreal, who made the kill. Assisting his guides in bringing in the blue-fin is Dr. Edwin Coetzee, of South Africa, British team captain.

Predict Western Planning Tougher Opposition This Year

By BOB GAGE

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Toronto Varsity and McGill Redmen can expect a much tougher season from the University of Western Ontario Mustangs in the senior intercollegiate union this year.

The purple-clad Mustangs, who finished third behind the Varsity Blues and Redmen in 1951, will do a lot better this time out, says Coach Johnny Metras. "I can't see any reason why I should get the crying towel out when I know that we shall have a good ball club," he said.

Metras isn't predicting a championship for his Mustangs, once the scourge of intercollegiate ranks. But he wants it known that Western will be a much better club than the squad that won two, lost three and tied one in 1951.

LOST KEY MEN

Metras has lost several key men through graduation and scholastic difficulties and he is depending on untried rookies and a switch from the single-wing offence to the split-T. This will be the first season that Western has gone exclusively split-T.

"We dabbled a bit with it before but never as our basic offence," says Metras.

Biggest losses suffered by Western were in the line where they lost six players. Lost through graduation were middle McMonagle, inside Milt Cork, centre Reg. Ortand and outside Don Beatty.

The Mustangs also lost middles Bruce Boa and Ken Burgess through scholastic troubles.

"The loss of McMonagle and Beatty really hurt us," moans Metras.

Middle will be the hardest spot to plug and may cause Metras and his staff plenty of worry. Metras will be forced to do a lot of improvising. Jerry Fewster, a regular last year, is back along with reserve Dick Martin for the middle position. Denis Higgins, a big end from the intermediate team, is being converted into a middle while freshman Ted Collins, a 195-pounder from London Beck, is being groomed for the spot. Both Higgins and Collins lack experience.

While the middle spot appears to be weak, the outside and inside positions are in excellent shape.

ENDS HIGHLY RATED

Metras figures that he has the three best ends in the league in Doug McNichol, Ted Roman and Bob Turner. At inside, returning veterans include captain elect Jack Wyatt, Jack Thompson and Jack Fowler are available. The fourth spot will go to Mike Newediuk or Ian Malcolm, a pair of rugged sophomores.

Miller Gallow, a big 200-pounder will be first-string snap and will be backed by Charlie Cunningham and Doug Hamilton from the intermediate team of last year.

With the advent of the split-T the quarterback spot takes on added significance and Metras figures he has the player to fill the bill in hefty Bud Obal, a sophomore from Toronto. Obal, an excellent punter and passer, is also an adept ball handler.

TRUANT AT RIGHT HALF

Other quarterbacks available are Bob McMurdo and Don Getty. Ray Truant, left-handed passer and signal caller last year, has been switched to right half.

Metras has three speedsters at left half in Jimmy Carroll, Cam Church and Murray Henderson.

At right half, the Mustangs will have Gino Fracas and Truant and at fullback, Jacques Belec, Blair Thomson and Don Prowse are fighting for the first-string berth. At flying wing, Metras has been using Jack Jacques, Ted Sahaiduk and Walt Chmara, all rookies in senior company.

Kiner Swings Bat Hard To Win Home Run Crown

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Ralph Kiner, pride of the down and out Pittsburgh Pirates, is swinging his big bat hard and often these days in a stretch drive to win his seventh straight major league home run crown.

The Buc outfielder put two over the fence last night in the first game of a twi-night doubleheader with Boston Braves at Boston. That gave him 36—just one short of Hank Sauer, of Chicago Cubs, who has been pacing the majors all season.

Weak starts and strong finishes with the over-the-fence-punch are an old story to Kiner. This year has been no exception.

As the season passed the midway mark, Sauer was setting the pace with 23 homers and Kiner had a miserable 13.

BURNS BRIEFLY

The old flame burned briefly late in July when Kiner cut Sauer's lead to five. Not for long though—by Aug. 30, Sauer pulled away with an eight-homer lead. The standings: Sauer 34, Kiner 26.

But in the last four days, Kiner has turned on the steam—five homers in four days—and three of them at the Giants' Polo Grounds where he hadn't lifted one over the fence all season.

Now Pirate fans are willing to take an even bet that Ralph makes the grade for the seventh straight year.

Northend Boys Victorious To Get Series

Northend bantams defeated Welch's squad 10-8 at the Bowl last evening to capture the P.M.B.A. bantam title for the season, R. Brady's East City Braves winning the peewee crown over Westenders. It was the windup of a rather short Peterborough Minor Baseball Association season. There were no midget playoffs, and the peewees and bantams won their best-of-three series in two straight.

O'Connell pitched well for the Welch bantams. Haig went well till the later innings, being relieved in the seventh by Brown, with two on and two out, the latter whiffing O'Connell. Hollingsworth turned in a neat game. The winners got six runs in the first inning, one each in the third and fourth, with two in the sixth. The losers tallied one in the second, two apiece in the third and sixth, with three more scoring in the seventh. Teams:

Welch's—Ayotte, cf; Towns, 3b; Cavanagh, rf; Masterson, 1b; Harding, ss; Garvey, 2b; Lustic, c; Clarke, lf; Mackie, lf; O'Connell, p.

NOTED TRAINER DIES

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—W. A. Hurley, 81, the man who developed Bimelech and other famous race horses for the late Col. E. R. Bradley, died yesterday. He was a trainer for Bradley's Idle Hour stock farm for about 46 years and retired from racing in 1940 after Bimelech won the three-year-old championship.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Today's O.R.F.U. intermediate "A" test in Cobourg will show what our grid Orfuns have this semester. Oshawa Raiders were soundly trimmed last weekend by the classy Ghosts, and Mike Rodden seems pretty high on Kingston Tanks in this grouping. We note Joe Byrnes of this borough at right half in drills. Being an army outfit, the Kingston players come from various places. Stitt is from New York, Jim Shields of Sarnia, Bill Glover from Hamilton, Mike Hughes of Montreal, Gord Nunn hailing from Toronto, Mike Gauthier of Ottawa, Anderchuk from Winnipeg, Ralph MacIntosh of Vancouver and so on. The Tanks play four-pointers, so will show here only once.

O.H.A. manager Bill Hanley of Toronto has advised vice-prexy Frank Buckland that Orillia and Stouffville have both notified him that they wanted in a senior "B" puck grouping with Peterborough, Belleville, Kingston and Oshawa. Making it a six-club setup, if the Peterborough Eagles don't come in. Latter were undecided the other day, though they paid Kingston the money owed that club and made application for re-instatement of officers. Players have been re-instated already. Club officials feel that this Sunday's meeting to arrange a grouping in Oshawa should not close the door on them if they want in—since this meeting comes before the O.H.A. conclave later this month when their officers' application for re-instatement will be considered.

Honors Go To Thompson

Executive of the men's City Softball League and the press voted Neil Thompson most valuable player in the loop this year, and he gets the Peller Trophy and also a shield—keeping the latter. The smart young shortstop of the champ Seabrooke squad is a fine fielder and good hitter. Howie Dalton of U.E.W. and Jack Mackness of Revoy's were runners-up in the voting. Each club voted a player from that team and submits the names for the executive decision. Terry Woods of the East City crew won it last year, and previous winners were Ray Garvey, Howie Dalton, Bob Greenlaw and Red Sullivan. So, Neil Thompson's name is added to an impressive list.

Kingston Monarchs lead the best-of-seven C.O.B.L. finals by two games to one, but it could be all square again tonight. Provided Lefty Bill Dadson can again southpaw the K's into submission on their own terrain. Looks like the Petes have to win all their away games, plus one at home, if they want to wrap up this series. Their two losses have been at Riverside. 'Twas 15-8 to remind Friday night fans of some of those lacrosse scores. Yet not too many hits or errors—nope, walks had a lot to do with the big count, there being no less than 16 bases on balls. Kingston drew nine of 'em, besides a couple of hit batsmen, to pretty well make the difference.

Showers Were Kept Busy

It proved a parade of pitchers, with Tony Kotowski, Eddie Whitehill, Larry Foley and Bill Edger all having a mound turn for the Stewart squad. The winners used Billy Richards and Babe Stinson. None of the twirlers showed too much in this lengthy scrap. Some heavy hitting seen in the joust with Joe Levandoski having a large night at the plate with a homer, triple and double in four. Eric Rank also lost the ball in deep grass by the scoreboard for a homer, and others bingled triples and doubles. Our side clouted a few long ones, too, Bill Huntley driving in three runs with a triple and single in three attempts. The Petes are pretty thin on pitching and are also using several juniors to good advantage here and there in the lineup. Gary Kearns did right well for 'em at second and at bat last e'en.

Fast times were clocked in the harness horse racing events at the Ex. last gloaming before a filled grandstand. Norval G of Toronto kicked up the dust in lively manner to take both heats in the 2.15 class. Peter M. Grattan won one and Richard Grattan the other in the 2.24 pace. More racing there this aft and eve to wind up the four-day meet. Hon. Earl Rowe will attempt to better Danny Direct's 2.6 record tonight for the mile made this year. He drives Celia's Counsel in the big free-for-all, which will show some real class in horseflesh. Weather has certainly been ideal so far for the fair and the track excellent for the pacers and Trotters.

Fish More Popular

REGINA (CP)—The people of Saskatchewan are taking their place in the national picture as fish-eaters. The Provincial Bureau of Publications says per capita consumption during 1951 was 6.4 pounds, compared to about 11 pounds for the rest of Canada. Consumption of domestic fish had been as low as two pounds a person in former years.

Drives Home Three Runs To Give Yanks 6-4 Victory Over White Sox

By JACK HAND, Associated Press Sports Writer.

The American League race is boiling toward a showdown tomorrow when Eddie Lopat of New York Yankees meets Cleveland's Mike Garcia in a game that may decide the pennant. There still will be two weeks to go after this last meeting of the top contenders but a victory in the big game may be the convinces. Unless Boston Red Sox spoil Bob Lemon's plans of becoming the Indians' third 20-game winner today, first place will hang in the balance in their meeting with the Yankees.

YANKS HOLD LEAD

Billy Martin kept the Yanks out front last night by driving home three runs with a homer and a triple in a 6-4 win over Chicago White Sox, protecting their half-game margin.

Early Wynn shut out the Red Sox with three hits, 5-0, to keep the Tribe hot on the Yanks' trail with a nine-game win streak. It was the fifth shutout in the Cleveland string, two by Wynn and three by Garcia.

Brooklyn won the game Charley Dressen said he "wanted to win more than any other all season," whipping St. Louis 8-5 to move four games out front of New York Giants in the National League.

The Giants blew a chance to gain at least a half-game by losing the second game to Cincinnati 8-7 after taking the first 4-2.

Casey Stengel pulled the Yanks home with a trio of second-line pitchers—Tom Gorman, Ray Scarborough and Ewell Blackwell.

HOMER BREAKS TIE

Martin broke a 3-3 tie with his third homer of the year in the fourth with Gil McDougald on base. The peppery Yank second baseman tripled after McDougald doubled in the ninth to add an extra run.

Wynn never gave Boston much of a chance as he posted his 21st win. He was in serious trouble only in the third when Dick Gernert singled and reached third on a sacrifice and wild pitch. Wynn settled down to retire Sid Hudson and Dom DiMaggio to end the inning.

Andy Pafko drove home five runs with a pair of homers and a single in Brooklyn's important victory over the Cardinals. The Brooks chased Gerry Staley with four runs in the first and called for Joe Black when Preacher Roe was knocked out.

Durable Joe, making his 50th relief appearance, earned his 14th win to three defeats.

The Giants won the opener with the Reds when old reliable Hoyt Wilhelm, pitching in his 63rd game retired the last five men in succession to save Al Corwin's sixth straight win. Monte Irvin's fourth homer and successive triples by Bobby Thomson and Hank Thompson led the Giants' 13-hit attack.

MAGLIE FAILS AGAIN

Sal Maglie, the 1951 ace, failed on relief in the second game when the Giants blew a 3-0 lead and then fought back twice to tie it at 5-5 and 7-7. Ninth-inning doubles by pitcher Frank Smith and Bobby Adams brought the world crashing down around Maglie's ears.

Irvin continued his sensational pace since returning to the line-up by blasting three hits in each game—six for eight for the day. He is hitting .367 with a 14-game hitting streak.

Ted Kluszewski had a homer in each game, and Johnny Temple of the Reds and Bobby Hofman of the Giants hit their first big league homers. Temple's came off Jim Hearn with the bases loaded in the second game.

Chicago swept a twi-night double from the Phillies 5-1 and 7-0. Ralph Kiner hit his 35th and 36th homers in Pittsburgh's first-game triumph at Boston, 8-1. The Braves did all the slugging in the second game when they overwhelmed the Pirates 16-0.

Philadelphia Athletics rallied for three in the seventh and three more in the eighth to nip Detroit's four-game win streak, 7-6. Rookie Marion Fricano, up from Ottawa, picked up his first big league win.

Freddie Marsh singled home Ray Coleman in the 10th inning for St. Louis Browns' 5-4 win over Washington. That was enough to give Satchel Paige his 11th victory.

Invite Queen To Run Colt

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen has been invited to run her $140,000 colt, Gay Time, in the $47,000 International Race at Maryland's Laurel Park track Oct. 18.

The Queen, at Doncaster today to see Gay Time race in the St. Leger, will discuss the invitation with Noel Murless, leading British trainer who has charge of the colt.

The invitation was sent to the Queen by John Schapiro, head of Laurel Park.

Laurel Park has limited the number of American-trained horses in the race to three.

Other entries are expected from Argentina, Australia, France, Germany, and Ireland. Indian Hemp, English-bred horse owned by Max Bell, Calgary publisher, was flown to the U. S. this week for the race.

SOCCER SCORE CORRECTED

LONDON (CP)—Swansea Town defeated Doncaster Rovers 2-1 in an English League soccer game Sept. 4. A transmission error by Reuters News Agency erroneously reported the score as 3-1.

1952 Tigers Worst Team Detroit Has Had

DETROIT (AP) — Two more losses and the 1952 Tigers will have made it official—that they're the worst team in Detroit history.

Their 7-6 loss to Philadelphia Athletics yesterday was their 92nd setback of the campaign.

Only two Detroit teams ever lost more games. They were those of 1920 under Hughey Jennings, and 1931, under Bucky Harris. Those teams had identical 61-93 records.

Even if the 1952 Tigers managed to win all 14 of their remaining games they still probably couldn't escape the inglorious distinction of being the first Detroit team to finish in the cellar. The Jennings and Harris teams managed to end up in seventh place.

Detroit—so far—is the only city in the majors never to have finished last. But the seventh-place St. Louis Browns now are out front by 9½ games and would have to win only five more to finish ahead of Detroit, even if the Tigers won 14 in a row.

Corn And Cash Add Up To Great Baseball Year

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Black cats. . . models. . . opera singers. . . helicopters. . . ponies give-away nights . . $225,000 cash for new players. Add them together and you've got probably the greatest hellzapoppin' professional minor-league ball town in North America.

Corn and cash. That's the secret behind the gosh-darndest year Toronto has had in its 65-year International League history. The paid attendance, not including the current play-off series with Montreal Royals, totalled 469,325—almost 120,000 over the previous all-time record of 353,247 in 1949.

The figure was the best in the triple A league. And it reversed the almost-general trend of minor-league ball—and some major league clubs—despite the fact, it was touch and go whether the club would make the play-offs until late in the season.

GOOD CONCOCTION

If nothing else, it points up the idea that baseball and corn are good mixers.

Behind it is 39-year-old Toronto millionaire Jack Kent Cooke who bought the stumbling Leafs July 4, 1951, and some mob-psychology geniuses who made the fabulous Bill Veeck of Cleveland Indians and St. Louis Browns fame a trifle dull. Cooke, one-time $11-a-week stock exchange runner, and his promotion experts didn't miss a trick.

People who probably didn't know a bull pen from second base went to the 24,000-capacity ball park on the shores of Lake Ontario to see what went on under the lights. They wouldn't be surprised if a clown patrolled the outfield and a juggling act was held on third base.

Hard-bitten fans derided Cooke and his cohorts for mixing corn with baseball but they came back because the nattily-attired Cooke used some of the juicy box-office returns to buy players. Right now he owns 36 outright and has 17 on option to various American clubs—San Antonio, Scranton, Spokane, Tulsa, Charleston.

JUST SLIP OF PAPER

When Philadelphia Phillies pulled out their working agreement—and players—the Leafs hooked on to St. Louis Browns and got nothing except a slip of paper. Cooke, who owns a Toronto radio station and New Liberty magazine, shopped around and picked up players wherever he could get them.

The idea then was to fill the stands and Cooke and his front-office hired help teased the populace with screwy gimmicks along with some fair baseball.

On Friday, June 13, anybody who could lay hands on a black cat—pedigreed or alley variety—was admitted free. The only stipulation was that the animal must be alive. Another night any redhead, whether dyed or naturally carrot-topped, didn't need a ticket to get in.

Toronto merchants went for the idea of giving prizes, even to the extent of new cars. The publicity jazzed up lagging turnstiles. They had a kid's night with a pony and dogs going as prizes.

Vaudeville acts from local theatres and night clubs were delivered at home plate in convertibles to entertain the crowds before games. One night a helicopter dropped down in centre field with a comedian aboard.

"NUTS ABOUT BASEBALL"

There were nights for policemen, firemen, taxi drivers, streetcar operators, families and Ladies Appreciation Night when prizes included tins of honey, ear-rings, chocolates and aluminum cooking utensils. A fashion parade was tossed in.

Cooke, who says he is "nuts about baseball," adopted as the club's slogan "First in '52." This notion exploded in his well-tailored lap and when the club was flirting with fifth place—one notch below the last play-off berth—he fired Manager Joe Becker and brought in Burleigh Grimes who piloted Toronto to its last pennant in 1943.

They made the post-season series almost at the close of the regular schedule.

Cooke paid $65,000 for a cleaning job on the stadium this season and some of it went to paint this deathless sentence over each of the stadium's 10 entrances:

"Under these portals pass the most wonderful fans in the world."

CASH AND CORN—That's what owner Jack Kent Cooke depended on to lure a record-breaking 469,325 paid attendance to Toronto Maple Leaf baseball games this season. Fans were apt to see anything from night-club acts mixed in with baseball — and they loved it. Cooke (right) paid out $225,000 cash for players and manager Burleigh Grimes piloted the Leafs to the first division after taking over from Joe Becker at mid-season.

In the Time Of King David Peace Brought To Israel

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

David, first successful King of Israel, after the tragic downfall and suicide of Saul, the first chosen king, has become a great figure in succeeding centuries, a sort of religious symbol down to our time.

He is the harpist and singer, symbolizing music in life and worship; he is the Psalmist, voicing life's deepest emotions and aspirations; he is a symbol of the loyal and affectionate friend in his love for Jonathan, a counterpart in the religious world of the famous Damon and Pythias; and perhaps, more than any other famous man except Abraham Lincoln, he symbolizes magnanimity and elemental gentleness in such incidents as his sparing the life of Saul and in the famous incident of the water from the Well of Bethlehem (II Samuel 23:14-17).

But what of Israel during David's time? What was the condition religiously and socially of the people whom he consolidated for the first time into a nation?

For hitherto, I think it might be said, the Jews had been a people rather than a nation, with a tribal rather than a national organization—a fact strikingly interesting in our own time when there is again a Jewish nation in Palestine.

David, the successful man of war, brought peace to Israel. For the first time since the return from Egypt there was the opportuity for some permanency of building and prosperity.

Despite the fact that we are living today in a war economy and our evident prosperity seems built largely upon vast production and expenditures incident to war, I think that history shows that the great eras of social and economic prosperity have been based on peace.

Iron curtains, fears, suspicions, and hostilities have almost abolished international trade and exchange, the potential volume, power and wealth of which can be only dimly imagined if all the progress of communication and transportation could be brought into effect and action in a world of international peace.

David brought peace to Israel, and an abounding prosperity, the full nature of which became evident in the heritage he left to Solomon who continued to build upon the foundations David laid.

This prosperity brought its own problems, as prosperity has brought them in successive generations. A spirit of materialism arose in contrast with the religious aspiration and expression that found its highest and noblest utterance in Solomon's prayer at the dedication of the Temple (I Kings 15:53).

So in the national life, as in the lives of individuals, the conflict between good and evil, between religious aspirations and materialism went on until evil eventually, or temporarily, triumphed to bring the nation down in division, dispersion and exile —with an ultimate restoration, fortunately, in the days of Ezra and Nehemiah.

A CORDIAL INVITATION TO ALL

PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

VOL. CV. No. 62 SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1952

MAIN STREET TOPICS

EXPENSIVE FAGS

Visitors to the Peterborough Exhibition would be wise to take along their cigarettes with them. One booth on the grounds Friday night was charging 50 cents for a package of 20 cigarettes. They sell in stores for 39 cents.

BEST LADY DRIVER

Mrs. Jean Due of Champagne, Ill., on a holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allan B. Mann at The Hawthornes, Bridgenorth, was at the Exhibition Friday, and took a notion to enter the class for lady drivers in the horse show. And, in her best form of other years, she won first prize.

FLIES

The fly situation at the Peterborough Exhibition has been beaten the past three years by a special fogging operation under the supervision of Ronald MacPherson, sanitary inspector. The livestock barns were fogged Sept. 5 and have been relatively free of flies all during the exhibition.

LIBRARY BOARD MEMBER

Donald Loucks is the new representative of the Board of Education on the Library Board. He succeeds the late William A. Richardson. "Mr. Loucks has shown a keen interest in the library for many years," was the recommendation of G. Wilson Craw.

CRACKS LEG BONE

Two-year-old Linda Rayburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Rayburn of 391 Armstrong Drive, cracked a bone in her left leg Friday when she fell from a ladder. A wartime house was being moved next door and the little girl started to mount a ladder that had been left there by a workman. She lost her balance and fell. After treatment at Civic hospital she was taken home.

BOOST MINIMUM SALARY

The minimum salary of a principal in public school has been raised to $4,300 a year. This was decided by the Board of Education because it was found that a vice-principal's maximum was more than a full principal's minimum. The $200 difference has been re-established. Under the previous salary scheduled a promotion from vice-principal to principal could result in a loss of salary.

ADJUST KENNER BOUNDARY

There has been a readjustment of the boundary for students of the Grade IX vocational class at Kenner Collegiate. Now all Grade IX vocational students south of Lansdowne St. will go to Kenner. This means, at most, an addition of seven students—five separate school students, one living on Lansdowne, and possibly one living south of the exhibition grounds. The boundary was arbitrarily arrived at to accommodate just the number of boys for the one class. The Department of Education would approve the one class only.

Visitor Predicts Great Fair In 1,200 Years

A bright future in 1,200 years was predicted for the Peterborough Exhibition by Harmar Nicholls, visiting M.P. from England, while speaking at the grandstand show Friday evening.

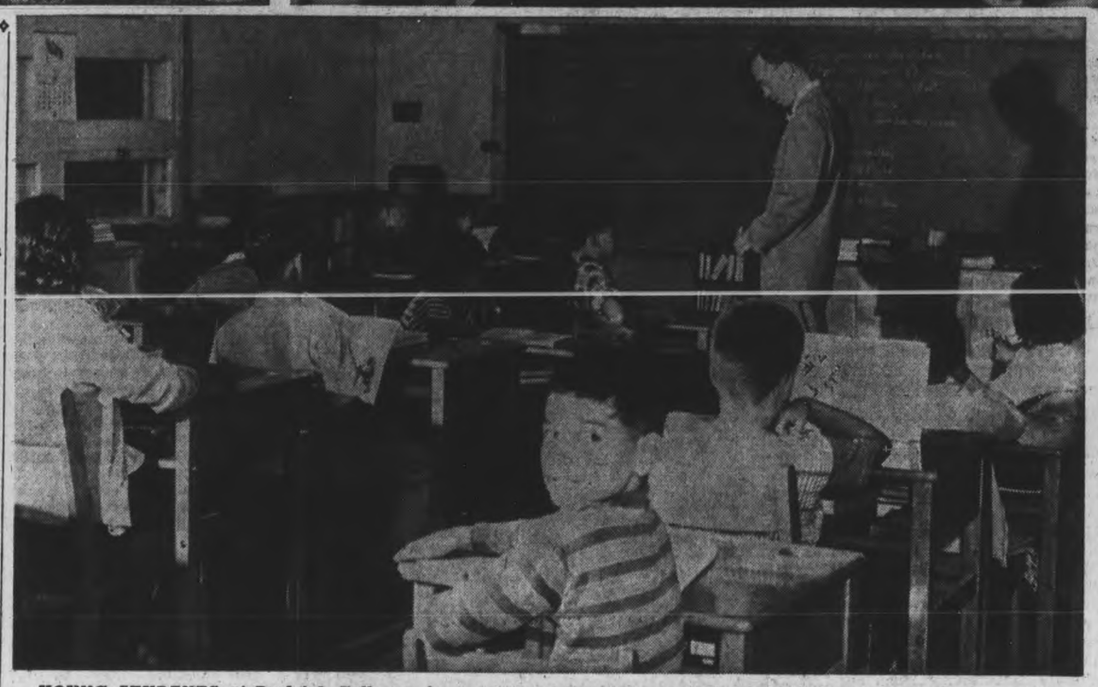
"All I can say is that if you make such a success of your fair in 100 years, you'll have a stupendous fair at the end of 1,200 years."

Mr. Nicholls said that Peterborough, England, had had an annual exhibition for 1,200 years, but that it closed each evening at 5 p.m. Here, he said, the fair was just reaching its peak about 8 p.m.

He said that he found the fair, Peterborough and all of Canada that he had seen in the 14 days he had been here, extremely invigorating.

He brought with him the greetings and thank-yous of Mayor Martin of Peterborough, England, who visited here last October with then Mayor of the city George Chamberlain.

He told the audience at the grandstand: "You are sitting on top of great wealth and opportunity for the future, and I'm sure the future is in very worthwhile hands."



Mr. Nicholls was introduced by Mayor Hugh Waddell.

WINTER THOUGHTS

It's obvious that at least one Examiner advertiser is anticipating the approach of winter even if the thermometer today does threaten to nudge 90 degrees. Among some items offered for sale by Mrs. Bruce Gordon of 371 Park St. are a coal-oil heater, skates and boots, four-foot skiis, ski boots and poles. If you're interested see classified advertising.

Double Loss

A visitor to the Peterborough Exhibition today is excitedly trying to find his false teeth—both sets. He isn't sure where he laid them down, but it was in one of the livestock barns. However, there is a chance they will be found and returned to the exhibition office. All livestock at the fair are reported to have good sound teeth of their own.

YOUNG STUDENTS of Burleigh Falls are busy getting an education these days in the school that was built in spite of indifference of the Department of Indian Affairs which would admit no responsibility for the young half breed Indians of the area. Local residents believed a school would be an instrument to improve the lives of everyone in the district and are now beginning to see results which seem to bear out their faith. The attractive school is seen in the upper left photo. Students are seen in the other two photos with their teacher Herbert Knox. —Examiner Staff Photos

R.C.A.F. To Mark Air Anniversary

By WYNNE THOMAS

LONDON (Special to Examiner)—When the world's greatest air show, the Society of British Aircraft Constructors' annual display, was staged at Farnborough, Hampshire, last week an unofficial but exciting curtain-raiser to each day's flying was provided by Sabre jet fighters of the Royal Canadian Air Force and the United States Army Air Force.

A particularly impressive display of high-speed formation flying and aerobatics was provided on the opening day by R.C.A.F. Sabres from North Luffenham Airfield in Leicestershire, which is the R.C.A.F.'s main base in England.

Altogether there are now four R.C.A.F. fighter squadrons operating in England, all of which are equipped with Sabre jets. They all form part of No. 1 Fighter Wing, which is commanded by Group Captain Hale, of Hamilton.

Serving at North Luffenham from the Kingston and Peterborough areas are: Flying Officer John Greatrix, 22-year-old pilot, who has spent more than a year in England with 421 Sqdn., of Peterborough; Cpl. Alvin Casey, of Peterborough, who is a Radar Operator with 421 Sqdn; Cpl. Desmond Foley, Peterborough, a radar operator; Leading Aircraftsman Robert Reid, of Peterborough, who is serving with 439 Sqdn. at North Luffenham; Leading Aircraftsman Len Boswell, 23-year-old member of 439 Sqdn. whose home is in Kingston, where he worked for the Aluminum Company of Canada before joining the R.C.A.F., and 21-year-old Leading Aircraftsman R. C. Clark, a clerk, of Kingston, who was a civil servant before enlisting in the R.C.A.F.

The English public will have an opportunity of meeting the R.C.A.F. personnel and inspecting their airfield and aircraft on September 20, which is the anniversary of the Battle of Britain. Each year many Royal Air Force stations are thrown open to the public on this day. Flight Lieutenant Alan Marshall of Peterborough who is Press Relations Officer for the R.C.A.F. over here has disclosed that No. 1 R.C.A.F. Fighting Wing, which is 'At Home' at North Luffenham on September 20, has planned a first-rate flying display.

On September 13 R.C.A.F. personnel at North Luffenham presented a 'Canadian Fair' to which all residents of the district were invited. Proceeds were in aid of the restoration of the local village church.

Burleigh School Brightens Lives Of Children, Adults

By JIM ENGLISH

For years, there was no school for the Indian children in the Burleigh Falls district. The lack of schooling was reflected in the high rate of disease among the families and the death rate from tuberculosis was at an alarming height. There were people who wanted such a school, but they were faced with a problem in that the Indians in that district are mostly half breeds. They could see conditions of squalor worsening in the families and the incidence of disease growing greater. They felt that with a school, more sanitary conditions in the Indian settlements would be effected, and as a result disease would decline.

The federal government refused to do anything; this was just before the Second World War started. The government's attitude was that they were responsible only for full-blooded Indians, not half-breeds.

GET PROMISE

From Mitch Hepburn's provincial government, the interested people got a promise. Backing would come if they could find a teacher.

Among the interested people were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon K. Fraser, R. F. Downey, Leo Copp and Leonard Buckley. Mr. Fraser, of course, is Progressive-Conservative member for Peterborough, Mr. Downey was inspector for schools for Peterborough West, Mr. Copp at that time was his assistant, and Mr. Buckley was an adjutant in the Salvation Army.

It was their interest that sparked the drive for the Indian school. Parents of white children had complained that they did not want their children going to school with the Indian children.

And so the first school board was formed. There were problems: where to hold classes? Who would teach? Would the school board have the expected effect? The answer to the last was the question they wagered their enterprise on.

NO CLASSROOM

At first, there was no classroom. In the summers, Leo Copp, now Normal School principal, spent his time going from home to home to give children elementary lessons in drawing, counting, and so on.

Eventually a classroom became available. Mrs. Frances Brown, who operates a Burleigh Falls store, offered a room in the store to the board to use as a classroom.

Again the question of who would teach faced the board. Miss Edith McLaren, onetime textbook illustrator, came to their aid.

"She had the missionary spirit," said Mrs. Fraser. Miss McLaren offered to be teacher for the Indian school, although she was not a licensed teacher. With enthusiasm, she overcame the lack of technical qualifications and was approved as teacher for the school.

The school was started, but to the groups that had established it, that was not enough. They went on to the next step: a proper school. What they had learned in their fight to get approval for a school for the Indian children they applied in working toward a school building.

Three years ago the school was built, and for two years Miss McLaren and her students and the board worked to improve it. Fill was hauled to build up a playground on the rocks, and other work accomplished.

The Storms Construction Co., building road north of Burleigh, trucked load after load of rich black muck to the front of the school for a garden and rockery. They did this in the same spirit as that of the original group who worked for the school.

THIRD PRIZE

The work paid off. Last year the Union School at Burleigh Falls won third prize in the competition among rural schools for the best grounds.

Mrs. Fraser, a prominent member of the Peterborough Horticultural Society, gave flowers for the rockery and others contributed what they could. Today the brown and cream school is fronted by a handsome rockery with flowers brilliant in it.

The school is a handsome one, one well worth the work that went into it, says Mrs. Fraser. It has a coal furnace,, shortly to be changed to oil, and indoor toilets for both boys and girls. There is a small teacher's room off the vestibule.

The school is not just for Indian children; this year four white children are there. "It's there for anyone who wants to use it," said Mrs. Fraser. "Not only as a school, but as a community centre."

BEATING TB.

The change the school has made in the years it has existed is startling. From a district once riddled with TB, the Burleigh country — as far as the Indians are concerned — has become relatively free of tuberculosis.

In the past two years, only one case has been reported, that of a girl who left the district and returned after contracting the disease.

Homes are cleaner, and diseases other than TB are nearly gone from the Indian settlements. It would be pleasant, said Mrs. Fraser, to think that all this has been accomplished by the school and its associated works, but that isn't the case.

Many Indian men are working now with road gangs in the district, making good wages, and are consequently able to provide better living conditions for their families. Summer guiding pays well and helps out.

Miss McLaren, the teacher and "missionary" of the school, is no longer employed there. Because she had no teaching certificate, she was asked by the Department to relinquish her post. Her place has been taken this year by Herbert Knox, of Peterborough. Miss McLaren is living in Toronto.

Present members of the board—Mrs. Fraser, Mr. Downey and Gerald Wood, Monaghan Road — are seeing a hard-fought-for dream come true.

Exhibition Attendance Down As Heat Takes Toll Receipts Continue Higher

7,000 Pour Into Grounds In Evening, Grandstand Packed; Officials Expect Bigger Crowds Today.

Friday's attendance figure at the Peterborough Exhibition was down from last year, but receipts continued to show an increase over the 1951 totals. Attendance for the day totalled 8,324. The same day last year it was 9,052. High temperatures were blamed Friday for a low attendance in the afternoon when not more than 1,000 people were on the grounds. However attendance started soaring about 6 p.m. when more than 7,000 adults and children poured in.

Total receipts for the day were $5,390.50 as compared to $4,078 for the same day last year and up about $1,188 from Thursday. Receipts at the grandstand were $1,523.25.

The increase was again due to a larger attendance at the grandstand performances. Friday evening's attendance was 2,601 and in the afternoon 2,053 for a total of 4,654. The third day of the 1951 exhibition 2,595 people were on the grandstand.

EXPECT BIG DAY

Officials are expecting a big day today with sunny skies continuing.

All judging except for light horses was completed by Friday. By four p.m. this afternoon exhibitors will be starting to take out their animals.

The barkers selling gadgets and soap stole the show at the midway on Friday. Although the midway was jammed, few people were playing at the booths. The majority crowded around the various barkers.

These are the attendance figures:

	Adults	Chldn.	Total
Main Gate ..	5,095	1,031	6,126
Park St.	1,375	145	1,520
McGill St. ...	584	94	678
Total	7,054	1,270	8,324

Cope Transport Rifled Of $50

A breakin at the Cope Transport office on Lansdowne St. early today netted thieves about $50.

A drawer in an office desk was forced and the thieves helped themselves to the petty cash money that included both bills and change. Also missing is a cheque credited to Cope Transport Ltd.

The office is situated at the rear of Don Farrell's wood specialty shop, just west of Armour Rd. A pane of glass, 12 inches by 8 inches, was broken in a rear door and the night latch was released.

Police report that nothing was touched in the warehouse; but papers were strewn around on an office desk and the drawer containing the petty cash was forced open.

The breakin was reported at 4.10 a.m. after a driver on the night shift, Fred Salisbury of Adaline St., noticed that the window on the rear door was smashed.

Finishing and Maintaining Your New Wood Floors

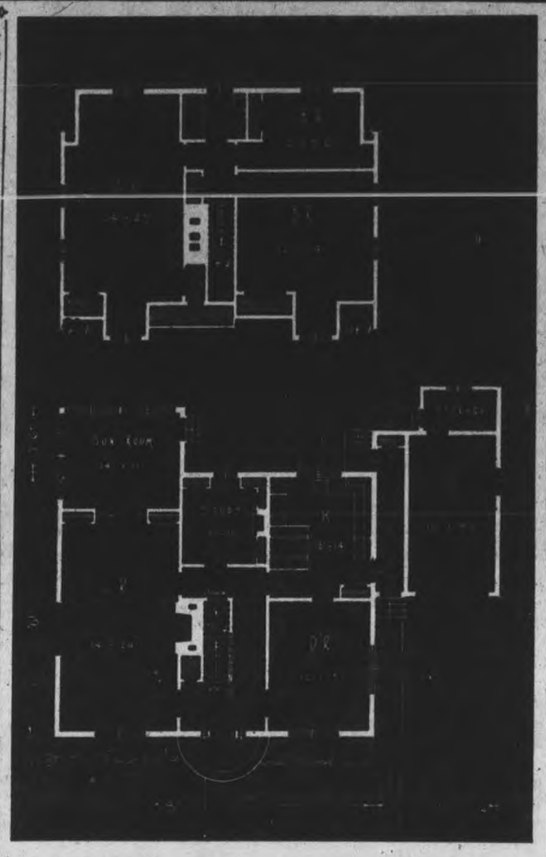
All wood floors require some kind of finish to protect the fibre of the wood, improve the appearance and make it easier to clean. To be satisfactory, the finish must insure economy of maintenance, so that resanding and complete refinishing will not be necessary for some time. Unless a home owner has the proper equipment and has had some refinishing experience, he will probably find it more satisfactory and economical to have his floors sanded and polished by experienced workmen, rather than to attempt to do the work himself.

In applying finish to a floor, it is important to follow instructions on labels of products being used. These instructions usually explain when a floor needs refinishing an dhow it should be maintained. They may also describe how to prepare a floor for finishing, how finish should be applied, number of coats needed, drying time for each, and how to obtain a stained effect.

TWO GENERAL METHODS

New wood floors or those from which the original surface has been removed are usually finished by one of two general methods: The first consists of treatment with filler, sealer, and floor wax; the second, with filler, sealer and shellac or varnish. The advantage of the first method is that worn spots can be rewaxed without refinishing the whole floor; the second produces a bright, clean lustre when first applied, but cannot be refinished at points of wear without "doing over" the entire floor.

Electrical floor-finishing machines may be rented by the day for a nominal charge and are much more satisfactory than hand scrapers or polishers, especially for initial finishing. An electric waxer and polisher will work the wax well into the wood and smoother floors will result. Afterward, the floor can easily be maintained either with paste waxes that need buffing or with water-emulsion waxes that are self-polishing.



USE PASTE WOOD FILLER

For both types of finish, after a floor has been sanded to a smooth, even surface and thoroughly cleaned of dust, all open-grained wood should be filled with wood filler colored to match the floor. As soon as the wood filler is dry and the surface has been buffed smooth again, the sealer should be applied in a very thin coat, allowed to dry and buffed in. This will seal the pores of the wood, help to keep out dirt, and resist stains.

After floors have been filled and sealed, wax should be applied. A number of thin coats will be more satisfactory than one thick coat, because a heavy coat makes the floor slippery. Each layer of wax should be allowed to dry thoroughly and should be polished before adding the next layer. Finishing a floor in this manner will give an attractive, satin-like sheen to the wood and a finish that will not be slippery, will not mar, scratch, or flake off—one that can be touched up at worn spots or in heavy lanes without completly refinishing the entire floor.

After filler and sealer have been applied, either clear or orange shellac may be brushed in, with the grain of the wood, and allowed to dry thoroughly. Should other than the natural wood color be desired, the floor can be stained before applying the shellac. The shellacked floor may also be waxed in a very thin coat, but if this is done, the wax should be the self-polishing type because buffing the other type with a machine might cause the shellac to mar, scratch, or flake off. Varnish may be applied in the same manner as shellac.

HOUSE NO. 61-65—This design illustrates several points in favor of combining the architectural flavor of the past with the necessities and designs of the present—without sacrificing too much of either. No one will deny the charm of the exterior—and there's every convenience in its centre hall plan. One feature, very small in cost, which we believe worth special mention is the storage shed backing onto the garage—how handy this must be for the storage of all the gardening tools and equipment required to keep the grounds in their beautiful condition shown above! For working drawings, write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Build Floors To Rigid Specifications

The virtues of a well-laid and serviceable floor need no explanation to the Canadian home owner. A good floor is its own best argument. It is easy to keep clean, and in appearance is an important part of the decorative scheme of the house interior. On the other hand, a floor that develops cracks and irregularities after laying is unsightly. It catches dust and dirt, creaks underfoot, and is a lasting source of exasperation and disappointment.

N.H.A. Requirements

The following requirements for flooring in homes built under the N.H.A. establish good building practice you'll want to follow whether you build under the Act or with private financing.

(a) Sub-floor may be ⅞" boarding, at least equal to the following grades: No. 5 common for Write Pine; No. 4 (Quebec 5ths) for Eastern Spruce; No. 1 cull for Red Pine; No. 3 common for Douglas Fir, Western Hemlock, Western Red Cedar and Western Spruce. Boarding shall be laid diagonally and ends shall be cut over joists. A layer of building paper should be placed between the sub and finished flooring. Adequate supoprt must be provided for all ends of sub-flooring.

(b) In one-storey dwelling, the sub-flooring may be omitted, providing the joist spacing does not exceed 16" o.c., and the finished flooring is not less than 25/32" thick hardwood matched flooring No. 2 grade or better or ⅞" endgegrained B.C. fir.

(c) All upper floors in all dwellings shall have sub-flooring laid diagonally as herein specified.

(d) Plywood for sub-flooring shall be ½" minimum thickness 5-ply "Sandard Quality" Sheathing Grade applied lengthwise across joists spaced 16" o.c. with ends of panels bearing on joists.

(e) Panels shall be securely nailed to joists with 2¼" common nails spaced 6" at edge bearings and 12" on intermediate supports.

(f) Where floors are to be finished in wood, the material used shall be birch, maple, beech or oak, preferably 25/32" thick matched flooring in No. 2 grade or better, but ⅜" thick hardwood flooring may be used if laid on properly prepared sub-flooring. Douglas Fir, edge grain flooring No. 2 Clear or better, ¾" thick is also acceptable.

Kitchen and Bathroom Floors

(a) Kitchen floors may be of hardwood or of softwood covered with inlaid Gauge "A" or better linoleum laid according to manufacturer's instructions. Rubber flooring and asphalt composition colored tiles may also be used.

(b) Bathroom floors of ceramic tile are desirable, or rubber flooring linoleum Gauge "A" or other impervious materials if applied by experienced workmen over a specially prepared underfloor and properly cemeted thereto. A suitable underfloor is ⅞" T and G pine flooring or ½" 5-ply "Standard Quality" plywood or or ⅞" rough flooring covered with 3/16" plywood or ⅛" hardboard or 3/16" Masonite untempered prestwood.

Young African Enjoys Canada

HAMILTON (CP)—A smiling young African woman was introduced to the 15th biennial general council of the United Church yesterday.

She was Maria Shela, a teacher at the missionary school at Chassanba, Angola, in Portuguese West Africa. Speaking in her native tongue she told the 400 commissioners through an interpreter:

"The people of Angola are very happy for all the work you are doing to bring them the kingdom of God."

Miss Shela was introduced by Mrs. John McKillop of Toronto, president of the Women's Missionary society. The W.M.S. is sponsoring her six-month goodwill tour of Canada.

Later, with the aide of her interpreter, Mrs. S. R. Collins, whose husband is a missionary in West Africa, she told a reporter that the things about Canada which impressed her most were: Cold water, the hustle and bustle of city life; the big buildings, and the milk.

Mrs. Bruce Cabot Halts Divorce Action

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Mrs. Bruce Cabot hastily halted her divorce from the actor yesterday because she's about to have a baby.

Her lawyer, Jerry Giesler, explained that since she obtained an interlocutory decree last Nov. 27 she and Cabot had attempted a reconciliation and as a result a child will be born to her soon.

Shellac Calls For Dilution With Alcohol

Pure shellac, because of its strength and durability, is one of the most popular finishes for floors and furniture. Called the world's toughest film, it is used on bowling alleys, gymnasium and dance floors. The American Bleached Shellac Manufacturers Association claims that 70 per cent of the floors in most cities are now finished with shellac.

One of its advantages is that it dries so quickly the dust particles that often detract from slower-drying finishes do not have time to settle and stick to its surface.

Because of its sealing qualities, a complete coat of shellac will prevent doors and drawers from sticking and jamming because of seasonal swelling. When used as an undercoat for paint, shellac will prevent stains from wood sap, water, oil or coal tar.

The cut of pure shellac is shown on the label. A 4-pound cut means four pounds of shellac to one gallon of denatured alcohol (not anti-freeze alcohol). Four-pound cut shellac is too thick for most purposes. For floors it is wise to dilute this mixture with an equal amount of denatured alcohol. This can be applied in two thin coats and a slightly heavier cut can be used for the third coat. It used to be that fine homes called for five or six thin coats.

MASONRY STRENGTH

The strength of a brick or other masonry unit wall depends upon the strength of the mortar joints. If mortar can be loosened by light scratching, the quality is poor.

SIGN OF WASTED HEAT

Heat is being wasted if the furnace room and basement is warmer than 70 degrees. The loss can be avoided by applying insulation to the furnace and heat pipes.

Cracks In Cement Universal In New Homes

While new home buyers may well have given their houses complete inspections before moving in they cannot foresee all problems which may develop later. But they can prepare to deal with some of the more common ones.

This article and others to follow will discuss some of the normal problems which develop in nearly all new homes. Once prepared for them, an owner will recognize that these problems are universal and will be less likely to be upset.

Foundation or basement walls, for example, expand in summer heat and contract in winter cold. Due to this expansion and contraction, as well as the natural shrinkage which takes place in concrete as it sets, it is easily possible that some cracks may occur.

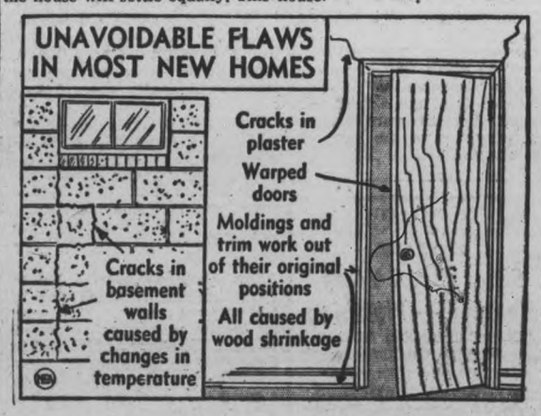
Home builders emphasize that these cracks do not affect the strength of the wall in any way.

No matter how thick the foundation walls and no matter how solid may be the ground upon which the house is built, such cracks can occur—and there is no way the builder can avoid them.

Masonry basement walls, like every other part of the house, are not waterproof in themselves, and are subject to expansion and contraction under wide temperature ranges. To reduce the possibility of leakage, the outside of the foundation, underground, is covered with a suitable waterproof coating. This helps keep the house dry.

It is just as impossible for the home builder to avoid the cracking of cement work as it is to avoid cracks in concrete highways, driveways and walks.

When frost penetrates the ground it will often raise the concrete to the point of changing the course of surface drainage from downspouts, etc. When warmer weather arrives, the concrete will sometimes return to its original position.



The structural lumber in a new home has been selected in sizes and grades that provide a large factor of safety above and beyond that necessary to carry the intended load. But shrinkage in all wood is inevitable.

The home's frame has been designed so that shrinkage may be as nearly even as possible, and the house will settle equally. This shrinkage in the framing explains why moldings, trim and quarter-rounds seem to work out of their original positions.

Wood shrinkage can cause joints in woodwork to open, doors to warp slightly and hairline cracks to appear in plaster—particularly around door openings, plastered arches and stair wells.

Shrinkage, which occurs even in kiln-dried wood, can be minimized by keeping the temperature in a new home at not higher than 70 degrees, particularly during the first year. This will cause a more uniform drying-out process.

It is most important to remember to avoid overheating in a new house.

WOOD SHRINKAGE can be minimized by maintaining a temperature not higher than 70 degrees, but cracks in cement can't be prevented.

R. Ferren Winner With Percherons

Percheron entries were light in the heavy horse class at the Peterborough Exhibition Friday. Judge Robert Cruikshank of Wingham remarked that the heavy horse is disappearing from the agricultural scene in Canada as the need for it grows less.

The same, he said, was true of the Clydesdales and Belgians. Although entries were fairly heavy in the Clydesdale division, only two Belgians were entered, both by one man.

Results are:

Shipping Record Set

SAULT STE. MARIE (CP) —The Great Lakes Iron ore shipping fleet established a shipping record in August when haulage exceeded 14,000,000 tons. This was 1,000,000 tons more than in the same month last year. Seven new freighters were added to the Great Lakes iron ore fleet last month.

Fire Hazard High

TORONTO (CP)—Because of hot, dry weather, the forest fire hazard in Ontario is increasing steadily, the Department of Lands and Forests reported yesterday. The hazard is greatest in southern and western ontario.

KING AT HELM — King Frederik of Denmark conducts the Radio Symphony Orchestra in his shirt-sleeves for a recorded program which will be played by a number of North American radio stations this fall. Week Of Whoopee Marks Saskatoon's 70th Birthday

SASKATOON (CP) — Saskatoon is preparing for a week of whoopee interspersed with a dose of culture. It's all part of the city's 70th anniversary celebration opening tomorrow and continuing for a full week.

Saskatoon was founded in 1882 by John N. Lake who came to the west from Toronto with a group of temperance folk who were looking for a location where "Old Man Barleycorn" would never be tasted and where farm opportunities existed.

He arrived on the east bank of the South Saskatchewan, was thrilled at the prospect opening up before him and decided to call the spot Saskatoon, the closest approach he could make to the Indian name for the berries which grew in profusion along the river banks.

BECAME CITY IN 1906

Lake and his Temperance Colonization Society took up land and Saskatoon began its development. From that small beginning the place developed until in 1906 it became a city, supposedly with a population of 5,000 persons. But oldtimers today recall that a few dogs may have been included in the count.

A highlight in the city's development was the arrival of the Barr Colonists in 1903 who were headed for Lloydminster on the Alberta-Saskatchewan border. Many remained in Saskatoon and business men here enjoyed a flourishing trade equipping the newcomers.

Today the city has a population of 55,000.

These phases of the city's history will be recalled in a pageant which will be presented several times during the coming week at the Saskatoon Arena. There will be concerts, military events, sports, dancing and a barbecue, fireworks and a general round of activities.

BEGINS SUNDAY

Appropriately enough in view of the city's foundation, the ceremonies will begin Sunday afternoon with the unveiling of a cairn to the pioneers on almost exactly the same spot from which John Lake named an empty tract of land, Saskatoon.

A giant cake with 70 candles will be set up in the middle of the main street and each day ceremonies will centre around this symbol of the city's history.

MP Has Problem At N.B. Dinner

OTTAWA (CP)—Jack Charlton, Progressive Conservative member of the Commons for Brant-Wentworth, has a problem.

He was the spearhead of his party's attack at the last session of Parliament on the way the government handled the foot-and-mouth disease outbreak in Saskatchewan cattle. His main target was Dr. Thomas Childs, veterinary director-general in the Agriculture Department.

Next week at the annual meeting of the Canadian Veterinarians' Association in St. Andrew's, N. B., veterinarian Charlton will be presiding at a luncheon and introducing the speaker: Dr. Childs.

The subject: How to prevent foot-and-mouth disease.

St. Lawrence Project Fills Power Need

KINGSTON (CP)—The best and most economical answer to Ontario's power need is the St. Lawrence River project, Hon. George H. Challies of Toronto, minister without portfolio and vice-chairman of Ontario Hydro, said yesterday at a dinner meeting of the Eastern Ontario Regional Planning Conference.

Mr. Challies said: "The flooding of land along the St. Lawrence will not only provide us with urgently needed electric power and with improved transport facilities, but will also provide us with a fine opportunity and stimulus for scientific community planning.

"Whether this opportunity is fully realized to the benefit of the communities will depend largely upon how aware the inhabitants are of the possibilities that present themselves."

Sentenced to Death

LONDON (Reuters)—Raymond Jack Cull, 25, yesterday was sentenced to death for murdering his 17-year-old bride of three months with a bayonet. His wife had left him after one month of marriage.

Tent Theatre Has Successful Summer Season

TORONTO— (CP) —Toronto's theatre in a tent, Melody Fair, ends its second summer season tonight with its bank account bulging and a future as bright as the musicals it presented this year.

Its success in the Canadian entertainment scene is regarded as spectacular. So much so that Montreal has decided to have its own Melody Fair next season and plans are under way for a branch in Calgary.

This summer more than 120,000 persons paid $250,000 at the box office, a 40-per-cent increase over last year. The theatre's success was assured by a $30,000 advance sale compared to $3,000 in 1951.

ACCEPT IDEA

Toronto theatre-goers, at first a bit puzzled by the unusual stage presentation, now have accepted the idea. The audience is seated about the stage. A minimum of scenery and props is used so the show can be viewed from any angle. The artists make their exits and entrances along the aisles.

Leighton Brill, executive producer of Melody Fair, brought top Broadway shows to Toronto. Among the favorites this year were "Annie Get Your Gun," "Carousell," "Kiss Me Kate," "Finians Rainbow" and "The Great Waltz".

Although U.S. stars sang the leading roles, Canadian singers and dancers were used in the secondary parts and chorus.

According to Mr. Brill and Ben Kamsler, Melody Fair's general manager, the dream is a chain of Melody Fairs across Canada.

Soft Approach Best In Quebec Sales

MONTREAL (CP)—Nolin Trudeau, Montreal advertising executive, said yesterday success of a sales campaign in English-speaking parts of Canada is no guarantee of success in French Canada.

He advised the annual convention of the Newspaper Advertising Managers Association of Eastern Canada that the soft approach is best in Quebec.

He told this story:

A shoemaker tried "repairs while you wait" as an advertising slogan in a French-speaking district. No customers came in.

He took a different tack—"repairs while you rest." Customers flocked in.

Aids British Exports

REGINA (CP)—Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan yesterday announced he has sent out 8,000 letters urging residents of the province to buy more British goods so Britain will be able to purchase Canadian wheat. The letters urged observance of British Trade Week, Sept. 29 to Oct. 4.

Engineers Tour East

WINDSOR (CP) — Six British engineers yesterday started a 12-day tour of Eastern Canada under the auspices of the Engineering Institute of Canada. The engineers, who have been attending conferences in the United States, will visit Windsor, Niagara Falls, Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec.

Send 4,500 More Box Cars Handle Grain

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian railways have placed 4,500 more boxcars in the western grain haul than were engaged in the same work last season.

Under load, the additional boxcars will handle upwards of 8,000,000 bushels of wheat, railway officials said yesterday.

Build-up of the extra car supply needed to handle this year's expected record crops on the Prairies began several months ago, officials said.

CARS SENT EARLY

As soon as it became "reasonably certain" what the size of the western crops would be, they said, the extra cars were allotted and began rattling into the Prairie provinces from all divisions along the two big railway lines.

Some 50,000 boxcars already were in the west, including those set for the grain haul.

Both Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railways have big diesel programs under way, with many pressed into service for the grain movement.

For the most part these diesels are on yard service, switching in big marshalling centres such as Winnipeg and the Lakehead.

Diesels involved in regular grain hauls will carry loads of about 25 cars more than steam locomotives. An added feature is that they don't stop so often for servicing.

Officials are optimistic about this year's movement. They said they can move the Prairie crop to the terminals "just as fast as they can unload our cars."

Can Legally Call Car 'Lemon'

WASHINGTON (AP)—An automobile can legally be designated as a "lemon" in Washington.

The District of Columbia commissioners yesterday repealed a law which had banned public ridiculing of one's own automobile.

By their action, the commissioners legalized the lemons which Marine Cpl. Frank Farkas, 23, painted on the sides of his car.

He had been convicted under the law but had been granted a new trial after his lawyers said they would seek to prove the law unconstitutional.

The case against Farkas will be dropped.

Farkas bought the second-hand 1949 sedan from a Flushing, N.Y., dealer for $1,100 and said that from then on he had nothing but expensive repairs.

Immigrant Gets George Medal

OTTAWA (CP)—The courage of a Netherlands immigrant to Canada has been rewarded a second time.

The air force said yesterday the Queen has approved award of the George Medal to Wilhelm Koele of Exeter, Ont., for saving the lives of two R.C.A.F. flight cadets from the wreckage of their burning plane on his farm.

Last January, the Netherlands government awarded him Holland's Civil Award for the same act. He came to Canada after the war.

An R.C.A.F. Expeditor aircraft from the flying training school at Centralia, Ont., crashed on Mr. Koele's farm and burst into flames last year. Two men were trapped. Mr. Koele pulled the fliers from the wreckage.

Jury Acquits Gazo On Directed Verdict

WELLAND (CP)—A jury yesterday brought in a directed verdict acquitting Michael Gazo of a wife-murder charge on grounds of insanity.

Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven ordered that the man be held in custody. Two psychiatrists expressed belief the man should undergo treatment for his mental condition and said there is "reasonable hope" for recovery.

Dr. Charles S. Tennant of Toronto and Dr. John N. Senn, psychiatrists, said they were convinced Gazo was not responsible for his actions when he strangled his wife in his home here May 29.

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — On stationery bearing the letterhead "The Friendly Church," a local pastor announced the title of his Sunday sermon: "Why half the people I know ought to go to hell."

SHORT CUT HOME—Firemen, policemen, railway employees, left, pull the completely tar-covered body of 38-year-old Gerald Childers from a tar sump at the rear of the Union Pacific yards in Las Vegas, Nev. Childers said he was taking a short-cut home when he stepped into the sump. At the right is Oliver Hornsby, 19, who discovered Childers and jumped into the sump to hold his head above the tar. Both men were taken to hospital for treatment of shock and tar burns.

Deplore Division Of Religion At Synod

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—In the final meeting of its 18th Synod the Church of England in Canada yesterday deplored "the great danger we are in by our unhappy division" of religion.

In a plea for church reunion, the Synod passed a motion stating: "Apathy concerning the great dangers we are in by our unhappy division is one of the hindrances to progress. . .the subject of the reunion of Christendom should be brought to the attention of all our people, the issue carefully explained, and the prayers of the church for (unity) offered more frequently and more faithfully."

The Synod's Lower House also passed a resolution calling for "all possible co-operation with the United Church," now conducting conversations with the Anglican faith with a view to reunion.

DISCUSS VARIED ITEMS

The church's marriage laws and a proposed revision of its communion service also were discussed in the final day of busy meetings that began Sept. 4.

The Synod decided to hold intact its law against allowing the remarriage of the "innocent" person in a divorce case. It referred to a committee for study a proposal to allow the re-marriage of a divorced person where the union could have been rendered void by an annulment.

In earlier sessions, the synod decided to provide Episcopal assistance for Most Rev. Walter Barfoot, Primate of All Canada; voted down a proposal to change the church's name to "The Anglican Church of Canada"; asked for greater British immigration to this country; described alcoholism as at the crisis stage; called for a change in narcotic laws and asked the federal government for greater aid to needy peoples.

Eventual revision of the church's communion service, including the addition of an 11th Commandment, was proposed at yesterday's afternoon session.

The revision, a subject of continuing study, was presented by Rt. Rev. W. T. Hallam, Assistant Bishop of Huron, who said "always before us was the thought of those to whom the very words of the communion are vehicles of grace."

The synod referred the suggestion for further study after Bishop Hallam declared: "We must not undertake a thing like this under pressure of time. Haste would be fatal."

SHORTEN COMMANDMENTS

It was suggested that at the opening of the service recitation of the Commandments be shortened by abbreviation of the Second, Fourth and 10th Commandments.

The 11th Commandment would be introduced — the Commandment given to the Disciples at the institution of Communion, reading:

"A new Commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another; as I have loved you, that ye also love one another."

Dr. R. F. Palmer of Sault Ste. Marie, member of the revising committee, said the shortened form proposed for several other Commandments would give them "more punch."

"Because people's morals are not good enough today there is a crying need for the revival of these Commandments in everyday life," he said.

Expect Strong Demand For Ministers' Salary Hike

By CRAIG ARMSTRONG

HAMILTON (CP) — Strong demands for an increase in ministers' minimum salaries are expected in later sessions of the General Council of the United Church of Canada following yesterday's action of giving administrative officers a yearly increase of at least $1,000 each.

The salary scale agreed to by the 15th Biennial Council was much higher than the one recommended by the Board of Finance. The Council set the scale at $7,000 a year for secretaries, $6,400 yearly for associate secretaries and $5,800 for assistant secretaries.

The increase, which will cost the church more than $40,000, affects 41 administrators in the nine boards and departments.

During the lively debate, several delegates pointed out that the minimum salary for ministers is $2,600 a year and said they also should receive more money.

MINISTERS NEXT WEEK

The question of ministers' salaries — always a provocative one in United Church General Councils —will come up before the 400-member Commissioner Council next week when a committee will report. One-half the delegates are clergymen.

Mr. Justice H. F. Thompson of Regina represented the report of the Finance Board which recommended that administrative officers receive increases ranging from $400 for a secretary to $600 for assistant secretaries.

He said church officers had "played the game all along," and the church is "looking for the best, and it wants only the best."

Just before the question was put to the commissioners representing the church's 2,000,000 members, the chairman of the Finance Board, W.N. McLeod of Toronto, said he was certain the members of the board would be "happy" to go along with the wishes of the Council.

He said they had thought it was better to have a spontaneous move from the floor for even higher salaries than to bring in a report which wnt too far.

After the board's report was moved, Rev. G. H. Villet, Alberta College, Edmonton, moved the amendment providing for the higher salaries.

Referring the Finance Board's report he said: "I think it is a ridiculous recommendation. Everybody knows that many United Church ministers in cities are making more than $6,000 a year with marriage and other fees in addition. A secretary's fee should be at least $7,000. It's the only decent thing we can do."

Rev. Norman Lawson of Hamilton, after noting the difference between what churches in the United States and the United Church pay their ministers, said: "Let us when we call men to positions of leadership in our church, pay them so they can maintain that position in dignity."

Burglars Rob Jeweller

WINDSOR, (CP) — Thieves who tunnelled through from a next-door business establishment stole an estimated $5,000 worth of goods from Domino Jewellery yesterday. An attempt to get into the store's safe, which contained a large number of diamonds and watches, failed.

NEIL KENNEDY, Cobourg businessman, whose hobby is restoring antique cars to their original condition, will leave shortly for the 1952 A.A.A. Antique Auto Tour, for the Glidden Trophy. This is an event sponsored by the Veteran Motor Car Club of America in co-operation with the American Automobile Association. Exhibitors from various parts of the States and Canada will converge on Harrisburg and then proceed to Washington. Mr. Kennedy will take his car by trailer to Watkins Glen and then proceed under her own power to Harrisburg and Washington. The renewed car, which is shown above, with Kennedy at the wheel, was a sorry looking sight when he picked it up over a year ago. New parts had to be made by a machinist, a new paint job was done, leather was restored, new tires put on, brass polished and by means of much hard work, the 1910 McLaughlin was made as good as new and looks like it.—(Murray Smith Photo).

Believe U.S. Political Situation Affecting Toronto Market

By HARRY KINGDON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Toronto stock market traders received a belated answer this week to their fortnight-old question: "What's going to happen after Labor Day?"

The market took its sharpest dip in months before it started to recover Thursday.

Western oils declined 5.43 points on the Exchange's index between Sept. 8 and Sept. 10—their sharpest three-day decline this year. Base metals lost 3.68 index points during the same three days for their sharpest drop since February.

Industrials dropped four index points in the same period—their quickest loss since late last March.

U.S. POLITICS FELT

Some traders blamed the sharp declines partly on United States politics.

Their argument runs on this fashion:

United States influence has been strong on the Canadian market for some time and the thoughts and actions of U. S. traders have a part in many price changes here.

Many U. S. traders now are betting on a victory for Dwight Eisenhower in the presidential election and they feel his election would result in a measure of deflation. On this reasoning there has been some liquidation of speculative positions.

The Toronto market started the week with a decline led by industrials and in Montreal industrials and papers also slipped. The downward trend continued in both centres Tuesday and Wednesday but on Thursday western oils in Toronto started to lead a recovery. Papers in Montreal felt the upward influence, but industrials continued down.

On Friday, the position in Montreal was reversed as papers went down and industrials up. In Toronto Friday, golds gained but other sections declined.

NEW YORK LOSES

The New York market started the week with losses that continued Tuesday. Wednesday was still weak but showed signs of a rally that appeared Thursday. On Friday, the decline continued.

From Friday to Friday the Toronto Stock Exchange indices showed industrials down 6.02 at 323.49, golds down 1.02 at 90.95, base metals down 4.55 at 192.71 and western oils down 5.38 at 132.25.

In the Montreal averages, banks were up .14 at 31.59, utilities down 0.2 at 87.6, industrials down 6.9 at 211.8, combined down 4.6 at 170.4, papers down 26.15 at 698.33 and golds down 2.93 at 67.34

In New York the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was down $2.50 at 105.50.

Light Horses Delight Of Fair Goers

J. Lance Rumble of Larum Farms, Durham, president of the Canadian Horse Shows Association watched the light horse classes with interest on Friday afternoon, and did alright for himself in a number of entries.

Mr. Rumble is a Hackney man at heart, and will gladly tell anyone the history of the breed. The Hackney originally came from England where it was used as a carriage horse because of its stamina. They drew coaches for royalty and English noblemen, and the sleek animals were usually the envy of anyone who did not own one.

The Canadian Horse Shows Association sponsored the equestrian team from Canada at the Olympic Games this year, and the team did very well. The aim of the association is to standardize rules at fairs across the country, a job which it is fast accomplishing.

Ringmaster for the judging was Dr. Harold Worton, who has been ringmaster at so many fairs that he can no longer keep track of them.

Judging Close Breeders Show Fine Herefords

Eight Hereford breeders of Central Ontario provided the feature event of the beef cattle judging Friday at the Exhibition.

"An excellent show" was the tribute of the judge, Joseph S. Dunbar of Gelph. "The breeders brought out some fine cattle today, and the competition was keen. I enjoyed being with them here in this section of the province, and seeing what they are doing for the breed."

John R. Walsh & Son of Otonabee were the only exhibitors from Peterborough county. The Hereford class would have been even more impressive if some of the other herds in this area had been represented.

The other breeders in the ring were: Charles Fisher & Sons of Bailieboro; R. T. MacAlpine, Fenelon Falls; George Rodanz of Stouffville; Allan R. Linton, Cobourg; J. R. Nokes, Manilla; A. Gibson, Richmond Hill, and T. J. Moore, of Springbrook.

Entries were numerous in most of the sections in this class. The grand championship bull was found in the herd of J. R. Walsh & Son, and the grand champion female was in Allan Linton's herd.

The white-faced cattle were given an outstanding display by their breeders. In that respect it was almost on a par with the Holstein show in the dairy ring Thursday.

The awards were as follows:

Bull, senior yearling or over—1 Allan R. Linton, Cobourg; 2 R. T. MacAlpine, Fenelon Falls.

Bull, junior yearling—1 J. R. Walsh & Son, Otonabee; 2 and 4 George Rodanz, Stouffville; 3 and 5 J. R. Nokes, Manilla; 6 A. Linton; 7 R. T. MacAlpine.

Three Breeders Divide Prizes

Three widely known breeders of Aberdeen-Angus cattle distributed the prize money fairly evenly in that class. They were: Ronald Marquis of Sunderland; Malcolm Bailey of Uxbridge and R. C. Baker of Claremont.

Almost without exception the black cattle looked exceedingly fit and in fine ring shape. Both grand championships went to the Marquis herd, and the Sunderland breeder also earned the Premier Breeder title. J. E. Wiggins of Kemptville, judge, said it was a really good show.

The results of the day's judging were:

Textile Industry Told Must Try Harder

KINGSTON (CP)—Herbert H. Lank of Montreal said last night Canada's technically competent textile industry must make a strong, imaginative effort to capture a larger share of the consumer dollar if the industry is to survive in the competitive world of today.

Mr. Lank, vice-president and director of Canadian Industries Limited, spoke to 500 delegates attending the third Canadian textile seminar at Queen's University.

J. I. Armstrong of Toronto, assistant manager of Primary Textiles Institute, said trained scientists and technicians are among the most valuable assets of Canada's struggling textile industry.

HARVEST—FOR DUCKS — Harvest time in Alberta also means bumper meals for ducks. Migrating ducks are leaving a swath of ruined grain fields in their wake throughout southern Alberta and farmers say their losses will run into many thousands of dollars. A typical big flight is shown in a field a few miles from Lethbridge after feeding on the swathed crops. It's a hunter's boon but a farmer's bane.

South Alberta Duck Hunters' Paradise

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP)—Two years of abundant moisture in Alberta have turned the southern part of the province into a duck hunter's paradise and a farmer's headache.

Migrating ducks are leaving a swath of ruined grain fields in their wake throughout southern Alberta. Farmers say their losses will run into many thousands of dollars.

Ducks—thousands upon thousands of them—seem to hit the south just as the wheat ripens and one farmer in the Raley district claims the birds wait at the roadside, ready to pounce on the crops as soon as they are swathed.

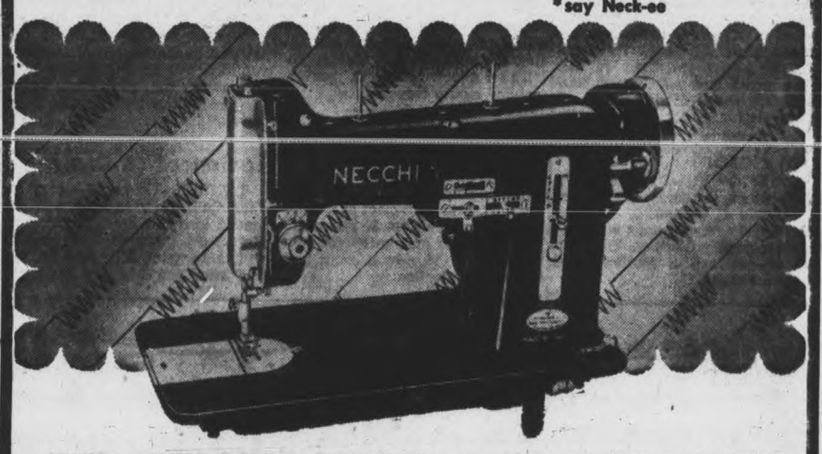
A field of winter wheat on the farm of Mrs. Herbert Walker of Raley was swathed and within a few minutes a horde of ducks swarmed upon it. The field was cleaned out.

"There were only a couple of kernels left in each head of wheat —not even enough to make the swathing worthwhile," Mrs. Walker said.

In the Warner district, south of here, a farmer swathed a mile-long strip of wheat. He said that a week later, while he was combining, the ducks poured into the far end of the field. There wasn't enough left to thresh.

At Burdett, near Medicine Hat, another farmer reported the loss of almost an entire quarter section of wheat through duck damage.

Attempts to frighten the birds off with scarecrows have been futile.



Now Alberta farmers have been issued permits allowing them to recruit seven others to kill waterfowl whose appetites for grain are causing serious losses. Even this hasn't discouraged the grain-eaters.

Many feel the open season on ducks should begin with harvest. Others would like some sort of insurance to assist those whose crops have been heavily damaged by the birds.

Meanwhile, it's a hunter's boon and a farmer's bane.

Guelph Kiwanis Here For Day

Peterborough Kiwanians tried a new stunt at their regular meeting day Thursday when they invited members of their Guelph counterpart to visit them in the Kawarthas. The Galt Club was also invited but did not show up.

Arriving in the city after lunch, the Guelph men were fishing at Lovesick Lake; bass fishing luck was fair, according to district standards, but it is said that the Guelph men were very satisfied with the sport.

The rest of the Peterborough members, 80 per cent strong, joined the fishermen for dinner at Forest Hill Lodge.

Dinner speaker was Charles Weir, of the Department of Lands and Forests, Lindsay, who told the audience a great deal they did not know about the fish fertility of the Kawartha waters.

People who complain of poor fishing, he said, were not at the right spot at the right time; his job as district biologist enables him to know that our lakes contain many more fish than are ever taken.

Mr. Weir appealed for the good sportsmanship and co-operation of everyone to make perpetual fishing a possibility. The spaker was introduced by Ralph Standish and thanked by Andy Purdon. The dinner was under the chairmanship of president Walter Howell.

3 British Soldiers Released By Russians

BERLIN (AP)—Three British soldiers missing in the Russian zone since last Tuesday have been returned to British authorities in Berlin, it was announced Friday.

A British Army spokesman said the three were apprehended by Communist East German police when they inadvertently drove off the super-highway through the Russian zone on their way from Berlin to West Germany.

Earlier yesterday, the Russians had released two British Army officers arrested by police in the Soviet sector of Berlin for taking photographs and detained for more than two days at Soviet headquarters.

Make Exception For Remarriage

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The house of bishops of the Anglican Church in Canada have agreed to one exception for remarriage of persons who have been divorced, the church's 18th Synod was told Friday.

Most Rev. P. Carrington, archbishop of Quebec, said the bishops would allow re-marriage in church in the instance of a person who obtained a divorce where an annulment would have been possible.

"If it can be proved and shown that an annulment would have been possible, we would allow the person to be re-married in church by our clergy," the archbishop said.

Whether a person obtains a divorce or an annulment sometimes depends on the laws of his province, he added.

6 Cities Show Living Costs Down In July

OTTAWA (CP)—The Bureau of Statistics said yesterday cost-of-living indexes for six of nine sample cities went down between July 2 and Aug. 1 but increased in the other three.

The indexes went up for St. John's, Nfld., Saskatoon and Edmonton, but decreased in Halifax, Saint John, Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

The bureau said the decreases resulted mainly from substantially lower prices for fresh vegetables which offset a continued rise in the price of eggs.

Montreal with an index reading of 191.7 was the highest in Canada, followed by Vancouver with 189.5, and Saint John with 186.1. The bureau emphasized, however, that the indexes show changes in retail prices and services in each city and do not indicate whether it costs more or less to live in one city than another.

The index is based on August, 1939, equalling 100.

Youth Admits Forging Cheques

LINDSAY (ENS) — A sixteen-year-old Haliburton youth, Oshie Sims, appeared in magistrate's court here Friday, charged with forging and uttering three cheques to the value of $151.96. He pleaded guilty to the charge and after the evidence was presented for the Crown, was remanded until Monday for sentence.

The evidence showed that Sims had forged and cashed three cheques on brother-in-law, Noel Griffin's account, within a period of three days, Sept. 1 to 3. Two of the cheques were for $47, and the other for $57.90.

SPREE IN TORONTO

Sims himself, when questioned by Crown Attorney Lorne Jordan, stated he didn't know why he had taken the money. But he did admit that he had spent it all on a four-day spree at the C.N.E. in Toronto. Magistrate Gee commented on hearing this, "you must have been taken on some of those wild games they have down at the fair there."

Constable G. L. Langton, of the O.P.P., Haliburton, showed the cheques in evidence, which had been returned from the banks to the merchants who cashed them, marked "signature irregular." He told of arresting Sims, and taking a statement from him, in which the youth admitted the forgeries. Crown Attorney Jordan was of the opinion that Sims was in need of a lesson after it became apparent to him that "he doesn't seem at all repentant."

Magistrate Gee asked the boy's father what he would do about it, and he replied that the boy would pay back the money. The magistrate recommended that the boy and his father have a talk about the matter over the weekend and remanded Sims until Monday for sentence.

Technician Almost Becomes Big Game

SAND LAKE (CP) — Fish were what Lionel Affleck wanted when he took his fishing-rod to a nearby stream.

Big game was what the technician for the Lands and Forests Department almost became.

First a large timber wolf strolled from the bush 60 feet away.

Three smaller wolves appeared.

Affleck retreated. He swished his fishing-rod and wished.

The wolves spread out fan-wise. Fifteen feet now.

Affleck remembered his knife, on a desk at Sault Ste. Marie, 132 miles to the south.

He backed closer to the stream. He called to his companion, Deputy Chief Ranger Koski, to bring an axe.

Koski crashed out of the brush.

The wolves retired.

Affleck continued fishing.

Say Japanese Communists Have Switched To New Policy Lately

By SYDNEY BROOKS

TOKYO (Reuters)—After brief campaigns of mass violence, Japan's Communists have apparently switched to a new policy in accordance with directives from Moscow.

The Japanese police detected the change of policy in July and this was confirmed in August when Communist gatherings on the anniversary of Japan's surrender were non-violent.

The usually well-informed Japanese police intelligence service believes that the party discovered too late that its mob violence tactics of May and June were alienating public opinion.

All Japan was roused to anger and fear of Communist-directed mobs which involved innocent citizens in fire-bomb and acid-throwing, and police counter-attacks.

ARTICLES SENT

Directives for a change of policy came here in the form of articles, written in the Cominform Journal and widely reprinted in the Soviet and Japanese party press, by the party secretary general, Kyuichi Tokuda, now believed to be living in exile.

Tokuda's phraseology covered such principles as "aligning" the party in Japan with the "aspirations of the people."

POST-WAR FLOURISH

Before the war, the Communist Party was not strong here.

During the war, Japanese police methods effectively stifled Communism.

In the post-war spirit of Democracy, Communism flourished. The party gained a registered membership of about 100,000 and put 35 representatives in Parliament.

By 1949, however, Japan's Communists were subjected to their first real ideological test, with instructions to introduce a more active policy and extend the use of force.

The directives were followed by a local disagreement in which one group advocated immediate action on the new instructions and another argued in favor of a more gradual change.

MAINLY QUIESCENT

The threat of strict military action against any manifestation of Communism kept the party in the main quiescent.

But two days after Japan recovered her independence, on April 28, 1952, the big May Day riots in Tokyo showed that the Communist Party organization had continued its planning and organization without any real interruption.

Now, the absence of real mass violence in Japan during August seems to show the line has changed again, although the fact that cases of sabotage were some 300 per cent above normal in mid-August suggest that individual violence has not been ruled out.

PASTOR AND MRS. DIRK VANDERVALK of Le Flambeau Mission, Bondville, Que.—Dutch Canadians who have made themselves French missionaries in Canada. Mr. Vandervalk began his career in this country about 22 years ago as a farm laborer near Plainville, Rice Lake.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

French Children's Home Founders Visit All Saints'

Missionaries on their own—foreign missionaries right in Canada—visited Peterborough briefly Friday. Pastor and Mrs. Dirk Vandervalk, who operate the first French-Protestant home for children in the North American continent, stopped here on their holiday trip to tell their friends of All Saints' W.A. more about their work.

Le Flambeau Mission, Bondville, Que. (near Knowlton), was founded by this Dutch-Canadian couple just four years ago. In that short time 80 children from broken homes and city streets of Quebec have been restored to health and vigor and normalcy by simple, loving care. At present the Vandervalks have just 18 children at home, but they expect six to eight more to come in after their return.

They will take children of any age from babyhood up, but have decided they cannot accept any over 12 years because by then they are so hardened that they can be helped very little and they have had a bad influence on the other children. They now have 12-year-old Emil, raised in Montreal's red light district to be a shoplifter, a cigarette butt smoker and a drinker. He is receiving special attention and guidance but the result is as yet uncertain.

The Vandervalks work with God as their director and benefactor and are making steady progress. Financial and other aid comes to them from unexpected and often unknown sources, and usually just at the very minute it is needed. Just a small group heard them speak at All Saints' last evening, yet the collection for the mission amounted to $37, and to this was added a toy dog for the babies.

Some parcels have been sent by the W.A. since the Vandervalks visited here two years ago. Several families of the church have collected children's clothes from their friends and delivered them to the mission during their holiday trips this summer. Mrs. Vandervalk says that right now she really needs only boys' clothing, right up to man's size, especially boots and socks. Money for their daily needs and for extension work would be welcomed. Though they did receive the family allowance for children in their care for a time, that source of income was cut off nearly a year ago and has not been restored though parliamentary officials are working for it.

Le Flambeau consists of two farms, situated 60 miles southeast of Montreal, and comprising 220 acres. The girls live in one rambling farmhouse "Le Nid Fleuri (the Flowered Nest) and the boys in the other, "La Ruche" (the Beehive). Mr. and Mrs. Vandervalk have moved to the boys' house so as to exert their disciplinary authority on those who get notions about removing the plaster from the walls by various means. They say that punishment of an hour in bed during the day is usually sufficient to calm the youngster down, but they keep a heavy black strap handy and use it when necessary.

An annex which is intended to be a two and half storey building with school rooms on the first floor, boys' dormitories on the second and storage on top, is now under construction. It was taking shape very slowly under the hands of Mr. Vandervalk and his boys, but two carpenters arrived on Labor Day with half a dozen helpers, and again on Tuesday and the carpenters remained all week, so they hope the lower part will be ready for classes to start Monday. A recent article in a Canadian national magazine has netted to date enough money for a single softwood floor and roofing paper for the building. Hardwood flooring, insulation and more siding is yet to be secured.

Mrs. Vandervalk is faced with having to teach several grades as well as doing the cooking and housekeeping this next term. She is not actually a teacher but trained in social work in Holland and then worked in the slums of Paris for a while. When the mission first started with just a few children she taught them beside the stove and prepared meals at the same time. It might be noted that the children all work too when they are not in class, with the Vandervalk's own two boys the leaders. Their eldest boy, who is 16, has just gone out west to enter high school, but their 14-year-old and a younger child are with them. They also have two legally adopted children.

Often now they are asked to take English children but feel they should refuse because their object was to establish a French Christian home for orphaned and destitute children. French is the language spoken at the mission but the Vandervalks are also fluent in English as well as German and Dutch. Their older children call them Mon Oncle and Ma Tante and the younger ones Papa and Maman.

What they have to give is just an abundance of love and care, for the couple are dollar poor. They depend on Higher Power to supply their monetary needs and it has been done so far, even to a brand new station wagon which will likely be waiting when the couple get home this weekend. The vehicle is being paid for by an old gentleman who has allowed them to have the two farms with payment of only $4,000.

Pastor Vandervalk studied the ministry in a Baptist Seminary at Fort Worth, also obtaining a B.A. from Baylor University. He now describes his religious affiliation as "interdenominational." He is the editor and publisher of a four-page monthly leaflet "Le Flambeau Evangelique" of which up to 20,000 copies are now distributed in Canada and elsewhere among French readers.

Y.W.C.A. Ready For New Season

The Y.W.C.A. health education, club and social program is now open for the '52-'53 season. It begins in an almost completely redecorated setting with new directors of swimming, gymnastics and dancing who are expected to revamp past routines slightly into the modern trends.

Registration has been open all this week and the response has been good but there are still openings in most classes. There is a slight increase in most rates this year which is due to the extension of time to one full year, and, surprisingly, there have been no complaints about this.

It is expected that members will be pleased with the plans for a more recreational program this year. As it is not expected to present a spring pageant as has been done for so many years past there will no longer be a rush and regimented practicing in the second term.

The new color schemes will most likely be the first changes members will note, for the entrance hall and even the front office desk have undergone a change in color.

Most spectacular change is in the swimming department which coral and green paint has transformed into "Peterborough's Florida." A special paint which will resist the effects of chlorine was made up by paint factory chemists for this job.

The directors offices and that of the new dietitian, have all been done over, including the furniture, in different attractive color combinations, and new drapes have supplied the finishing touches. Another basement club room has also been attractively prepared for the new season.

"Open House" is to be held next Thursday, September 18, and the public is invited to come and look over the building as well as view a section of the program offerings.

A membership tea is planned to start the fall activities really rolling.

Girl Plans 7,000-Mile Trip To Meet Future Husband

Her fiance, Constable Robert Wood of the R.C.M.P., is security officer with the Canadian immigration office in Rome. They will be married Oct. 3 in the Canadian embassy there.

The overseas trip will be the last chapter in the romance of the attractive brunette and the Mountie, which started four years ago when Wood went to an Edmonton drug store to have some films developed. There he met his future wife, who has been an employee of the store for five years.

The couple had planned to be married last June but before the wedding day the Mountie was posted overseas. Miss Koluk will sail from New York Sept. 17 for Rome.

DEVELOPMENT of historic sites in Canada is bringing alive much of this nation's history. The monument ABOVE in the Provincial Legislature grounds at Charlottetown, P.E.I., commemorates the 400th anniversary of the landing of Jacques Cartier in Prince Edward Island.

FOR PARENTS ONLY:

Canada's History Alive Through Sites

By NANCY CLEAVER

"A wise nation fosters national pride and love of country of perpetual reference to the sacrifices and glories of the past," wrote Joseph Howe, Canadian Maritime statesman of the last century. Our National Historic Parks and Sites are dedicated to this very purpose. There are over four hundred of these administered by the National Parks Service. Their selection has been made by the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada. This group is made up of historians from the different parts of our Dominion.

Perhaps you have motored by one of these smaller sites and have scarcely noticed it until you have passed. The traffic may be heavy and you are dubious about trying to turn back so that you can park nearby, let the family get out and examine the site on foot. It is well worth your while to write to the Canadian Travel Bureau and ask for their printed booklet, "National Historic Parks and Sites in Canada."

IMPOSING MONUMENTS

The illustrations in this excellent little booklet do show that although a motorist might not notice a tablet or even a cairn, there are many imposing monuments which can be seen for some distance and cannot but attract attention. On the cover is the picture of the statue of Madeline de Vercheres, Quebec; the bust of Sieur de Monts on the monument in the Fort Anne National Historic Park, Annapolis Royal, Nova Scotia, and the Jacques Cartier Cross, Gaspe, Quebe; General Brock's monument on top of Queenston Heights all dominate the surrounding landscape.

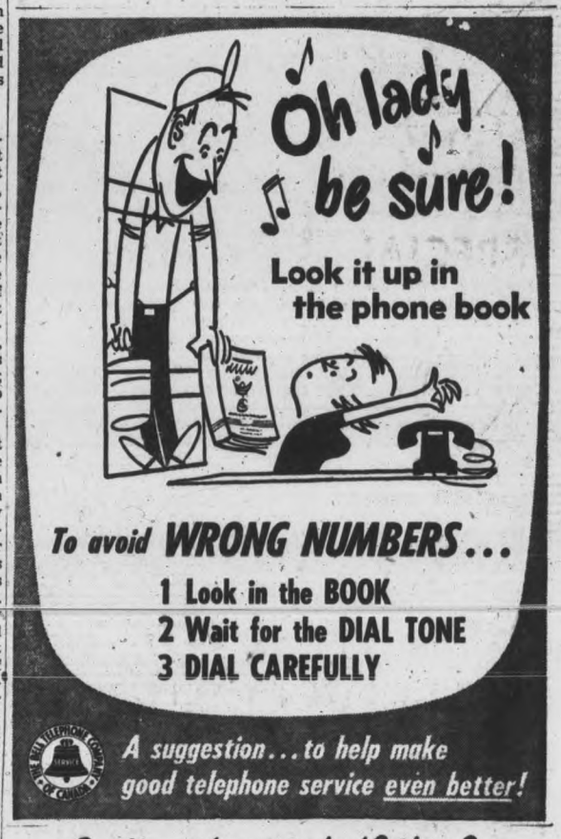
The pictures in this booklet also show that there is a wide variety in the ways by which historic sites are marked and in the kinds of events which they recall. At the Port Royal National Historic Park at Lower Granville, Nova Scotia, there is the site where the first settlers in Canada erected their homes. Early in the seventeenth century Champlain and De Monts directed the establishment of the Port Royal Habitation on the shore of the Annapolis Basin. The settlement with its excellent harbor became the first permanent trading centre of this continent north of the Spanish centres on the Gulf of Mexico. The illustration of the central courtyard with a covered well and solid wooden buildings turns back the pages of history almost three and a half centuries.

Quite a number of explorers are named in various places. At Boucheville, Quebec, is found the cut stone monument to the memory of Father Jacques Marquette who with Louis Jolliet discovered the Mississippi River in 1673. In St. John's Park in Winnipeg there is a cut-stone monument to the memory of Thomas Simpson, explorer in the Arctic, while in Devon Park, The Pas, there is a cairn in memory of Henry Kelsey, Hudson's Bay fur trader and explorer. There is also a monument on the Marine Drive in Vancouver to mark the place where Simon Fraser ended his exploration of the Fraser River from Fort George in 1808.

MONUMENT AT ORILLIA

"Playing Indians" is one of the most popular activities of small school boys and reminders of the Indians never fail to interest them. No one who has seen the magnificent sculpture work in Couchiching Beach Park, Orillia, commemorating the treaties with the Indians is apt to forget this fine piece of art. A great many of the historic sites in Western Canada mention the First Canadians. The cairn at the Hudson's Bay Company Post at Norway House, Manitoba, tells that here the Cree Syllabic System was invented.

Quite a few sites recall treaties with the Indians as the cairn at Carlton, Sask., and that at Cluny, Alberta, on the Blackfoot Indian Reserve. Strife with the first inhabitants of this continent is recorded at some sites and at Frog Lake, Alberta, there is a cairn at the cemetery in memory of these massacred by rebel Indians during the North West Rebellion. But on the Reserve, Gleichen, Alberta, there is a fine cut stone monument to Chief Crowfoot of the Blackfoot Confederacy, who was "fearless in war but a lover of peace, he promoted amity among the tribes of the plains and friendship with the white mass." What a simple, moving tribute to this leader of the Red Men!



Our National Historic Parks and Sites can mean a great deal more to our younger generation if parents would take a greater interest in planning visits to them and in encouraging their children to find out more about the events and people they recall. These places can greatly enrich our appreciation of the men and women who put their very best in many walks of life into the building of our Dominion. They can make history come alive for your child! So do find out where they are and make a point of visiting them as a family!

Faith, Activities Can Cure Loneliness For Man Away

DEAR MISS DIX: How can I ease the ache of my sweetheart's departure for service? I am 20, and very much in love with a boy who went into the Army last week. This might seem silly, but since he has gone I am really sick with worry over him, and miss him so much I cry every night. I don't want to go out or see anyone. We have been chilhood sweethearts. I feel that we will not be able to marry as we planned.—JUDY.

ANSWER: Your feelings are quite natural since your sweetheart so recently went into service but be assured, as time goes on you'll become reconciled to his absence and the two years will pass quickly enough. Looking ahead they seem like an eternity, I know, but it really isn't so long. The thing for you to do is find activity to fill the gap.

You must, first of all, learn to have faith in the well-being of the boy and in the fact that he will be home. Go to church regularly and often—not just Sunday. Drop in for a few minutes during the day to pray for the boy. Read the Bible or your prayerbook and you'll find more consolation therein than a world of psychologists or psychiatrists could ever give. You must not give in to the morbid fear that your marriage will never take place. Thousands of girls are waiting for the return of their soldiers, preparing with happy anticipation for their wedding days.

If you continue in your melancholy state, it is bound to be evident in the letters you write the boy. Is that a nice way to treat a lad who has had to leave home and family for a strange, and not particularly comfortable, life? He deserves more than that. Cheer up, and let him see that you are not forsaking the world during his absence.

Learn to forget your own troubles by alleviating those of other people. For this I know of no better way than to do volunteer work with the Red Cross, or a similar agency. Through them you will be aiding other servicemen instead of mourning over just one. Hospitals desperately need volunteer help, too.

If you have lots of spare time and want to put it to good use, how about taking a home economics course at your local YWCA or college? By doing something tangible about your forthcoming marriage, you'll lose the hopeless feeling that it will never occur.

Share yourself with others, and you'll have no time for self-pity, or needless apprehension.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Five years ago I lost my husband. I am now in my middle 50's, and have been seeing and writing to a widower whose wife died two years ago. He is in his early 70's. He says he thinks a lot of me but cannot love me because he cannot forget his wife. Do you think if we married he would still think of her? He says marriage wouldn't be fair to me since he couldn't put her out of his heart.—EDNA.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER; Since the man and his wife were undoubtedly married for a good many years, it would be expecting the impossible to assume that he could ever forget her. Have you forgotten your own husband? If you want the whole-hearted devotion from a recently widowed man of 70, you will be disillusioned. I don't think marriage feasible under these conditions.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My problem is my mother. We go down to see my in-laws twice a year and I am at my folks' house almost every day. However, when I tell my mother that we are going to visit my husband's people, she gets very nasty and insinuates that I am under my husband's thumb.—LETTY R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your mother is an unreasonable, selfish woman—of a type found all too frequently. You've spoiled her by seeing her too often, and doing too much for her. Cut down your visits and, if she sulks, leave her alone.

Toronto-Born Eva Langbord TV's Casting Director

By JOHN PATERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—When Jimmy Durante thrusts his big schnozzle forward and rasps "everybody wants to get inta da act" audiences love it.

But when dark-haired, attractive Eva Langbord says it, she moans a little. She is casting director for CBC television in Toronto.

Toronto-born Miss Langbord has been a leading lady in several Broadway productions, active in New York radio and, coincidentally went through the early days of United States television—as an actress.

FLOOD OF TALENT

"So far I've seen, talked to or corresponded with about 1,000 actors and singers before station CBLT went on the air Sept. 8," she said in an interview.

"We managed to squeeze in about 300 auditions on camera, between experimental shows by producers and technical personnel and while contractors still were putting the finishing touches on the building here on Jarvis St.

"Fortunately there is a large professional group with considerable experience in radio or commercial theatre here. Some are from Toronto but many have come from all parts of Canada, attracted by radio, theatre or the coming of television.

"A television studio during a broadcast is a hectic place.

"The pace is terrific. There are only a comparatively few hours to rehearse. The studio is cluttered with cameras, lights and their long cables. There are many technical people around and unless an artist is in complete command of his medium he is lost."

MUCH EXPERIENCE

Miss Langbord went to New York while young and was a scholarship pupil at the famed Neighborhood Playhouse. She was "discovered" by Orson Welles and played with him in "Panic," on Broadway This led to her favorite role, Miriamne in "Winterset," with Burgess Meredith which won the first Critics' Award. Her own acting also won a players' award.

Then followed much radio work. With television emerging in the mid-1940s she was in demand and acted with some of the biggest names in theatre.

"Almost every big television show in those days was a 'first' of some kind," she said.

"I was in 'Winterset' which was the first full-length play, televised as a stage play. It ran 2½ hours. NBC estimated the audience at 20,000. Big then in September, 1945, but now audiences run into millions."

She returned to Toronto early in 1951 to scout the possibility of establishing theatre-in-the-round. She met Mavor Moore, chief producer for CBLT, and joined the CBC about a year ago.

Starting from scratch she built up the elaborate—and first—organization for casting. Here, actors and singers are cross-indexed as to type experience, specialties and availability.

Her ambition?

"I want to be a producer. I hope I shall get a chance soon."

LOTS OF SPOOLS

Canadian wood-turning factories make more than $1,500,000 worth of wooden spools, bobbins and shutters each year.

CASTING DIRECTOR — Attractive Eva Langbord is the casting director for CBC television in Toronto. Born in Toronto, Miss Langbord was leading lady in a number of Broadway productions and in radio and television in New York before returning to set up the casting organization for CBC television in Toronto. It is her ambition to be a television producer.

Readers' Saturday Column

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: Being married only two months makes me appreciate your column more and more each day. I would certainly appreciate it if you would send me your recipe for preserving peaches and anything else you think a bride would appreciate receiving to help her feed a hearty eater . . . her husband—Shirley V.

ANSWER: That's what I'm here for, Shirley—to help gals like you feed hearty eaters. I keep feeding the fuel for your beloved ones to you through the column every day. It isn't so precious that you shouldn't miss it, but it might have something in that just suits you. I hope you saw the columns I've been running in the past few weeks on meals for two.

CANNED PEACHES

(Hot water bath).

Use thin syrup: 3 cups water to 1 each sugar. Bring to boil and keep at simmering while you are useing from it. Blanch (dip in boiling water) ripe, firm peaches for 15 to 60 seconds. Drain and dip in cold water at once. Peel, cut in halves and remove seeds. Drop at once into brine bath that is a little warmer than your hand made of 1 tablespoon salt and 1 quart warm water. When you have enough halves to fill a quart jar, put sterile rubber on jars, drop peach halves in cut side down, fill jar, tipping to allow juice to go under peaches, leave ½-inch headspace. Seal to within ⅛ turn of tight. Lower into hot water bath, water in it being slightly warmer than jars. Water should cover jars. Put lid on hot water bath, heat to boiling. Count processing time from when water boils. Quarts require 25 minutes, pints 20 minutes.

OVEN-CANNED PEACHES

Use same method as above up to place where jars are sealed to within ⅛ turn of tight. You must have automatic heat control. Heat oven to 275 deg. Fahr., but do not use top burner to preheat oven. (Never process tin cans in oven.) Seal jars that are to be oven-processed to within ½ turn of tight. Do not use so-called "vacuum-type" sealers for oven canning. Place oven rack on second slide from bottom, stand sealers 2 inches apart—they must not touch—do not stand on pan or in pan of water. Place shallow pan on bottom of oven to catch any liquid which might drip from jars. Count time after temperature returns to 275 deg. Fahr. after you have placed jars in oven. Allow 25 minutes for both pints and quarts. Leave oven ajar for 2 minutes before removing jars. Tighten seal. Never loosen it. Allow jars to cool but be sure all windows and doors are shut as draughts may make them crack.

QUESTION: I appreciate your valuable cooking hints . . . would you please give me recipe for a ripe cucumber pickle.—Mrs. A. M.

ANSWER: I wish I had in my files more ripe cucumber pickle recipes to choose from, but I have only this one that I can depend on. Maybe other readers who see this could send me their methods if they are well-tested.

RIPE CUCUMBER PICKLES

Wash and pare 4 large yellow cucumbers and cut into chunks about 1 inch square. Remove seeds and discard them. Cook until barely tender in mild brine of 1 tablespoon salt to 1 quart water. Drain and dry. Make a syrup by boiling together for 2 minutes 3 cups sugar, 1 cup vinegar, 4 whole cloves, 3 inches of stick cinnamon. Then add dried cucumber chunks, bring to boil, then seal in sterile pint jars.

QUESTION: Kindly give me recipe for Green Tomato Mincemeat.—Marjorie I.

GREEN TOMATO MINCEMEAT

ANSWER: Three lbs. green tomatoes, 3½ lbs. tart apples, 2 lbs. each brown sugar and seedless raisins, 1 cup ground chopped suet, 1 tablespoon each salt, nutmeg (freshly ground), grated lemon rind, 2 tablespoons cinnamon, 2 teaspoons ground cloves, ¼ cup lemon juice, 1 cup vinegar. Chop or grind tomatoes, sprinkle with the salt and let stand 1 hour. Drain well. Barely cover with water, bring to boil and boil three minutes. Drain. Pare, core and chop apples and stir them into the tomatoes as you chop them to prevent them discoloring. Add all other ingredients. Simmer 1 hour, stirring frequently. Pour into sterile pint jars and seal. Makes approximately 7 pints.

Army QM Corps Beats Sinking

EDMONTON (CP)—The Canadian Army had a major supply problem on its hands this week after the Canadian Pacific Steamship liner Princess Kathleen sank off the coast of Alaska Sunday.

Aboard the ship were 35 tons of foodstuffs destined for Whitehorse to supply army and air force installations in that area. Of this, 20 tons were urgently needed for issue by Sept. 18.

Supplies then had to be gathered and inspected at Edmonton and civilian truck transport hastily arranged.

Approximately 30 hours after Western Command headquarters in Edmonton had received word of the original supplies being lost with the Princess Kathleen, the 20 tons of foodstuffs needed immediately had left Edmonton for Whitehorse.

Two trucks each carrying 10 tons of suplies pulled out from Edmonton Thursday for the 1,200-mile haul up the Alaska Highway to the Yukon Centre. They were expected to reach Whitehorse Monday.

The men responsible for the fast job were Col. J. L. Lapointe of Perth, Western Command supply and transport officer; Lieut. H. A. Anderson of Saskatoon, a supply officer, and Gordon Hinks, Edmonton agent for the Department of Defence Production.

Playoff Game Site Chosen By Coin

CHICAGO (AP)—If the American League pennant race ends in a tie between New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians, these teams will meet in a single playoff game Sept. 29 in Cleveland.

The winner of that contest will be the league champion and will go into the World Series against the title-winning club of the National League.

The site of the playoff game—if one is necessary—was determined yesterday in a coin-flipping ceremony in the Chicago office of Will Harridge, president of the American League.

Charles Dunkley, Associated Press sports writer, spun the coin in the air. Dan Topping, president of the Yankees, called "tails." The coin landed head up.

Here And There In Sports

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

I.B.L. MAY LOSE GUELPH

GUELPH (CP)—Guelph Maple Leafs won't return to the Intercounty senior baseball wars next season unless a new sponsor or sponsors can be located.

Jim Kendrick, secretary-treasurer, said yesterday the present officials won't attempt to operate the team next season as a group although one or two are considering carrying on alone.

"On the other hand if we get a fair offer for the franchise we'll probably take it," he added.

There have been reports of sponsors interested in buying the franchise but none has approached Kendrick who scoffed at reports the team lost $11,000 in the 1952 season when it finished second and was knocked out in the playoffs. "I figure we didn't lose any more than $3,000 to $4,000 at the most."

The Leafs drew approximately 29,000 fans during the season, about 3,000 less than last year.

EMMS HIGH ON FLYERS

BARRIE (CP) — Coach Hap Emms figures his Barrie Flyers will finish no lower than fourth in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A group this winter.

"I am bitterly disappointed in last season's showing," when the team failed to make the playoffs, Emms said yesterday. "I still feel the team was good enough for the playoffs. But that is water over the dam and this is another season."

Emms has the nucleus of a strong team in the holdovers from last season: Defencemen Larry Thibault, Don Cherry, Ralph Willis and Ken Robertson; centres Don McKenney, Allan Teal, Johnny Martan and Bob White; left wings Doug Mohns, Hillary Menard and Ken Collins; and right wing Fred Petsch.

Right now Emms' biggest hunt is for a goalie. He reports he has a "few irons in the fire."

GENOVESE WINS ANOTHER

TORONTO (CP)—Nick Genovese of Dundas yesterday won his third golf title in a week when he carried off the Ontario Blind Golfers' championship by shooting a 101 over the Toronto Summerlea course. Earlier he won the Canadian title and scotch foursome honors. Blinded in an industrial accident four years ago, the 24-year-old Genovese is a music student.

HORSE SALES POOR

LONDON (AP)—Tightness of money in Britain was reflected in the big drop in receipts at the four-day Doncaster sale of thoroughbred yearlings. At the 1952 sales, which ended yesterday, total receipts for 309 horses were 382,438 guineas—$1,124,367 — compared with the 1951 figures of 454,743 guineas for 325 horses. Experts regarded the sales as disappointing.

100,000 Catholics March In Vienna

VIENNA (AP)—About 100,000 Austrian Roman Catholics marched into the Russian-occupied sector of Vienna yesterday and publicly prayed for Catholics persecuted behind the Iron Curtain. They also prayed for the persecutors.

The solemn paraders marched in a torrential rain and thunderstorm to show their defiance of the Russians, and their pity for them.

The demonstration was part of "Catholic Day" ceremonies commemorating the defeat of the Turks at the gates of Vienna 269 years ago.

Cramahe Couple 50 Years Wed

WARKWORTH (ENS).—Mr. and Mrs. Richard Knight of Cramahe township celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Wednesday. Mr. Knight, a son of the late William Knight and Martha Bonney, was born in Haldimand township. Mrs. Knight who was the former Edna Clarke is a daughter of the late Henry Clarke and Anne Inglis also of Haldimand township.

They were married at the Castleton parsonage by the late Rev. W. A. Bunner.

Since their marriage they have spent most of their married life in Cramahe township and for many years have lived a few miles west of Norham.

Mr. and Mrs. Knight have two sons, Douglas of Warkworth and Donald of Cramahe township.

As Mrs. Knight is in rather poor health, a reception was not held, but the family treated them to a motor trip to Niagara Falls, as they had never been there before and they also visited in Toronto.

They received a shower of cards from friends far and near and also several gifts from the relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Knight are active members of St. Paul's United Church, Warkworth. Mr. Knight has been a member of the choir for many years.

Hold Nursing School In Grove Basement

The Board of Education have approved the use of a basement room in Grove School for the Y.W.C.A. nursing school.

Last year — the first year this school for pre-kindergarten children was tried—classes were held in Grace United Church. However the accommodation was not warm enough for the children and the Y.W.C.A. asked the help of the Board.

Mrs. Paige Rowell explained that the nursery school operated under Mrs. Victor Northcott and two volunteer helpers. It continued for eight months, five days a week; and though a fee was charged it operated at a deficit.

The north basement room at Grove School was found to be ideal for the nursery school. It will begin Sept. 29.

"Nursery schools are needed in Peterborough," said W. B. Gordon, chairman of the Board, "and we should do anything we can to encourage them."

2 School Caretakers Transferred To Kenner

Several transfers and appointments have been made by the Board of Education's property committee.

J. E. Doleman of P.C.V.S. and Frank Allen of Queen Mary have been transferred to the caretaking staff at Kenner Collegiate. Mr. Allen will assist Mr. Doleman.

Stewart Anderson and Donald Langton have been appointed to the caretaking staff at P.C.V.S.

Bernard C. Chambers is the new building supervisor of the Board. His appointment, dating from June 1, will be for the probationary period of one year. Mr. Chambers succeeds Frederick L. Finnie.

"Mr. Chambers has given us excellent service," said Frank Jobbitt, chairman of the property committee.

Pimmett Wins With Shorthorns

M. H. Pimmett and Sons, of Indian River, collected an armful of ribbons, all the championships and something like $300 in prize money as they swept through the Shorthorn class with light opposition from only one other exhibitor.

Pimmett Shorthorns made it 1-2-3 in some of the classes. Opposition entries failed to pick up one first prize. Lorne Pimmett remarked that there wasn't much satisfaction in that ring, except the prospective cheque. The other contesting breeder was Newton Taylor and Son, of Burketon Station.

The Pimmett herd included Strathore Duthie Violet; Louada Barone, Strathore Duthie Marshall and Strathore Ranson Marshall.

The Premier Breeder honors were easy picking for M. H. Pimmett and Sons. The judge was W. H. Black, of Moffat.

E. J. Collins, assistant manager at the Peterborough office of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, has been appointed manager of the Sarnia office. He will leave Peterborough this weekend, assuming his duties on September 17.

Mr. Collins will be succeeding M. A. MacIntosh who resigned. During Mr. MacIntosh's term of office in Sarnia plans for a defence home building program were launched. He will leave the Sarnia office on September 30.

Mr. Collins came to Peterborough in January of 1951 from Ottawa where he was an administrator in the Corporation's rental sub-office.

US Fast Approaching Economic Illiteracy

TORONTO (CP)—The United States is "sliding down the road of economic illiteracy," William A. Paton, professor of economics and accounting at the University of Michigan, said yesterday at the final session of the National Tax Association convention.

Mr. Paton told the conference that he watched the rise of the Canadian dollar with pleasure. "It may put some sense in the United States," he said.

Claiming that U. S. economists and planners ignored "basic truths," he said rising social service expenditures were feasible only when matched by rising production.

Next spring the gravel surface will be fixed up after settling during the winter and then the grounds will get a coating of fine crushed stone.

Two species of eagles are found in Canada, the golden eagle and the bald eagle.

THE MOVIE COLUMN:

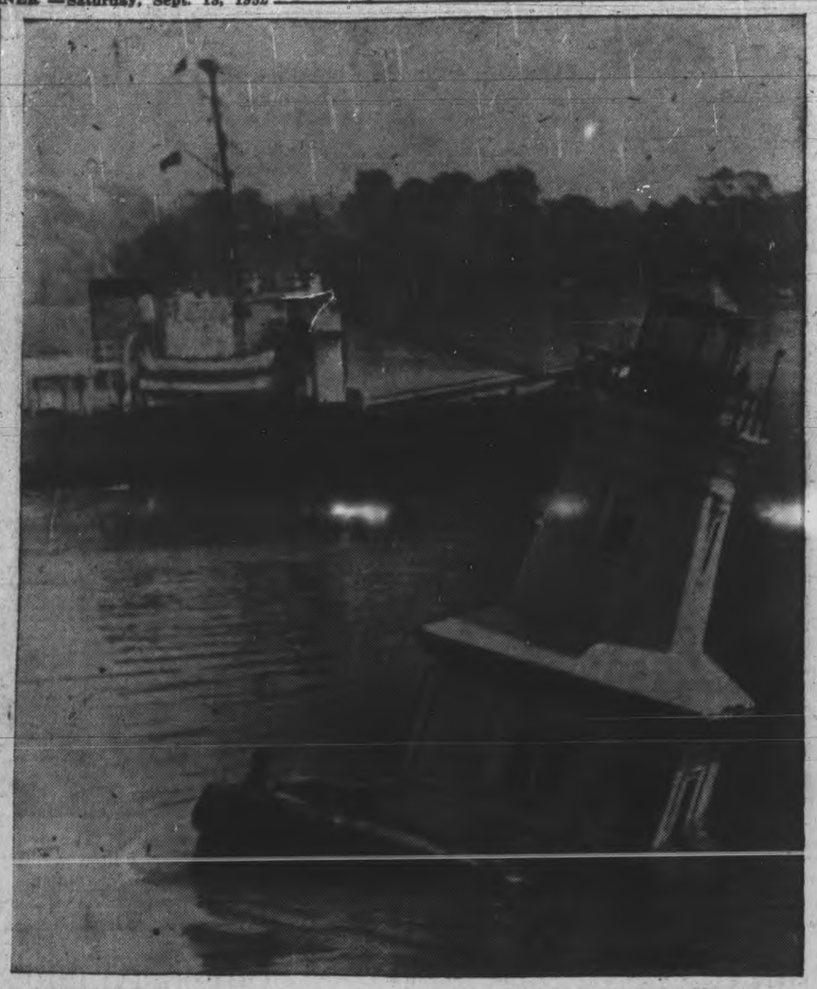
Film Production Fallen Into Doldrums

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Film production is in the late summer doldrums.

A look at the shooting schedules this week provides a dismal report. Twentieth-Fox has but one picture shooting locally; Universal-International one, Monogram one, and Republic, Columbia and M-G-M have a pair apiece.

Warners is booming along with four. There is only one independent film shooting in town. RKO has been dark for weeks.

Of course, there are pictures shooting in such places as Kanab, Utah, London, Fiji Islands, Rome, Munich, Samoa, Africa, Quebec and Calabasas, Calif. But that doesn't help the columnist, unless he wants a hot ride to Calabasas for a Randy Scott interview.



The studios assure that they have "dozens of pictures" starting in the near future.

Hollywood's publicity men were licking their wounds on another score this week. On Tuesday night, both Adlai Stevenson and Dwight Eisenhower delivered speeches in which they spoke of "press agents" in derogatory terms.

LONG WAIT

Janet Leigh is anxiously awaiting news of the possible release of "Jet Pilot." That's the Howard Hughes epic which she started three years ago. Off and on, she spent a year with the picture, sometimes working on Sundays while she was doing other films.

The picture has already cost $4,000,000. People have argued that the jets in the picture will be obsolete by the time it is released, but that doesn't seem to worry Hughes. According to Miss Leigh, he has injected some of the sexiest dialogue heard in recent years. Maybe the censors are the ones who have held the picture out of release.

HIT AND RUN—The Livingston Channel Lighthouse, long a marker for Great Lakes shipping, sits at an angle in the water near Amherstburg, Ont., after being hit by the Wilson Lines freighter E. J. Koolin. The keeper, Everett McGuire, of Windsor, was forced to swim for his life when his "accident-proof" dwelling was suddenly knocked askew. After a short time in the water he was picked up by a small boat. The vessel in the background is a tender.

Draft Horses Scarce At Exhibition

Entries in the Clydesdale class of draft horses were light this year ,except in the yeld mare section, where eight mares were entered, all of good quality.

Robert Cruikshank of Wingham, the judge, said there were seldom the heavy draft horse entries that were seen in past years. The need for horses on the farm was not now so great, and as a result, there are few entries.

"Those yeld mares that were shown Thursday were good looking animals, but that was the only large section," he said.

Only two Belgians were shown, a foal owned by Russell Oliver of Bobcaygeon, and a brood mare, also Mr. Oliver's.

Results of judging were:

Foal of 1952—Russel Oliver.

Presbyterian Young People Plan Ontario Rally In City

Delegates from the Young People's Societies of the Presbyterian Church, located in Ontario, are scheduled to hold their annual convention in Peterborough, commencing Friday, October 10, and lasting through the weekend. More than 600 delegates are expected for this provincial conference, which will be the last one for the entire province, for following this year the various synods in Ontario will hold their separate conventions. The convention will be held in St. Paul's Church.

George Malcolm, a third-year student in Knox College, is the president of the provincial society and the Peterborough organization which is planning the convention is headed by Miss Barbara Luther.

The convention will open on Friday evening and three sessions will be held on Saturday. On Sunday morning the delegates will attend a special Communion service at 9:30 and then the regular church service at 11 o'clock. There will be a session on Sunday afternoon and in the evening there will be a rally service followed by a song service and a question forum. The closing session will be held on Monday morning.

The conference speaker will be the Rev. M. di Gangi of St. Enoch's Presbyterian Church, Hamilton, and the Rev. J. Alan Munro will lead the missionary rally. Mr. di Gangi is formerly of the Italian Presbyterian Mission, Montreal, and is one of the outstanding young ministers of the Presbyterian Church.

On Saturday evening a banquet will be held at Club Aragon, to be followed by a program at St. Paul's Church.

Degree Given Sick Leader

OTTAWA (CP)—Angus Bernard MacDonald, 59, a leader of Canada's co-operative movement, last night was awarded an honorary degree of doctor of laws by St. Francis Xavier University in a bedside ceremony at the hospital where he has been seriously ill for some time.

The degree was to have been conferred on him next year at a convocation celebrating the 100th anniversary of the university at Antigonish, N.S.

It was conferred instead in a brief ceremony by Daniel Gaspar, president of the Ottawa branch of the university's alumni association, who was acting for the university president, Rt. Rev. P. J. Nicholson.

Mr. MacDonald is national secretary of the Co-operative Union of Canada, representing credit unions throughout the country.

21 Die In Blast

BERLIN (Reuters)—An explosion of hydrogen containers—for filling toy balloons—killed 21 East Germans Aug. 9, the West German newspaper Neue Zeitung said yesterday.

Industrialist Reject Scientist's Idea

TORONTO (CP)—A number of Canadian industrialists with United States connections yesterday rejected a suggestion of Sir Eric Rideal, British scientist, that Canada needs more native research.

Sir Eric suggested that Canada could become a mere factory site for U. S. industrial genius unless there was more native research.

A toronto television manufacturer estimated his sets would cost $1,000 apiece if he had to duplicate in Canada the research carried out in the U. S. Now he pays a nominal annual fee to share in the findings of U.S. research.

Harold M. Turner, president of Canadian General Electric and chairman of the Ontario Research Foundation, said: "I didn't take Sir Eric's remarks seriously. Everybody has to have a theme and sometimes there's no water in it."

A spokesman for General Motors at Oshawa said Canada lacks the means to match U. S. research facilities.

Heads Planners

KINGSTON (CP)—H.V. Jackson of Vancouver yesterday was elected president of the Community Planning Association of Canada at the group's second annual meeting being held in Kingston in conjunction with the anual Eastern Ontario Regional Planning Conference. He succeeds W. Harold Clark of Toronto.

RCAF Wing Stages Preview Of Battle Of Britain Role

NORTH LUFFENHAM, England (CP)—Airmen of the No. 1 fighter wing of the R.C.A.F. staged a preview here yesterday of the role they will play in the Battle of Britain flypast Monday and the Air Force Day display Sept. 20.

Twelve of the 24 Sabre jets that will take part in the program went through an elaborate display of aerobatics and formation flying.

The squadron, under the leadership of Flt. Lt. Bill Bliss of Port Arthur, Ont., roared above the flying field for nearly an hour in a succession of spectacular manoeuvres and full-throttle dives. At speed approaching sound the Canadians shot off for the southeast coast resort of Southend, about 100 miles away, and were back over the station in a matter of minutes.

The preview ended with a daring exhibition of aerobatics by FO. Norm Ronaasen, 24, of Mellowdale, Alta. Ronaasen flashed past the control tower just above the heads of the watchers and then zoomed almost vertically to an altitude of 17,000 feet. On the way down he put his craft through eight vertical rolls and finished off by sweeping down to about 50 feet above the ground at more than 700 miles an hour.

Team Research New In Science

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. Lincoln R. Theismeyer, president of the Pulp and Paper Research Institute of Canada, said last night a slow evolution is taking place in the world of science. Team research is replacing the solitary scientist.

In a speech at a government dinner for delegates to the sixth Commonwealth Forestry Conference, Dr. Theismeyer said the scientist is no longer free to follow the dictates of his own whims in selecting his pursuits.

He now is usually part of a team in a laboratory undrwritten by groups of small companies which could not aford their own separate research staff. Or he was part of the research program being launched by governments to ensure their national security.

"There are some who contend that this socialization of science is not likely to produce as good results," Dr. Theismeyer said. "I believe such a thesis can be readily refuted but must admit that the change is new and we need the perspective of history to evaluate it."

Suspend Police Chief

PERTH (CP)—Carson E. Smith has been suspended as police chief of this eastern Ontario town pending a special meeting of town council next Tuesday.

Sister Of Scottish Baron Takes Male Christian Name

ABERDEEN (Reuters) — The sister of a Scottish baron announced today that she had "re-registered her birth" and taken a male Christian name.

An advertisement in the Aberdeen Press and Journal said Elizabeth Forbes-Sempill would in future be known as Ewan Forbes-Sempill.

The announcement landed a problem in the laps of experts on the rituals of the British aristocracy. If she now can assume the rights of a male member of the family, it will put the family tree out of joint.

As a male, she would become the next in line for the title "Sir" attached to a baronetcy, linked with the main title of baron.

The problem doesn't arise with the main title of "Lord" — The baron — because it can pass to females and the baron's daughter, Moira, 32, remains heir presumptive.

Elizabeth-Ewan is 40, has hair close-cropped and brushed in male fashion and is a doctor. Photographs published today showed her in male kilted attire.

All she would say to inquiring newspapermen today was: "The facts are as stated. I was known as Elizabeth but am now known as Ewan. I am not prepared to say anything further."

Bank Manager Dies

HAMILTON (CP)—Charles Edward Watson, 77, former bank manager at Calgary and Ottawa, died in hospital yesterday. He formerly served on the Canadian immigration staff at Niagara Falls, Ont. He became manager of the Union Bank at Calgary when he was 24 and later managed its branch at Ottawa.

Will Disclaim Responsibility For High Water Damage

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) —The Canadian and United States governments likely will disclaim responsibility for damage caused this summer by high water in the Great Lakes, External Affairs Minister Pearson believes.

Mr. Pearson expressed the view in a letter to George Nixon, Liberal Member of Parliament for Algoma West. Mr. Nixon released the contents of the letter Thursday without comment.

The International Joint Commission has yet to report on its findings at a meeting here last month at which property owners and civic officials testified concerning damage resulting from high water in this area. Some witnesses at the hearing blamed the damage on the handling of compensating gates governing the flow of water from Lake Superior into the St. Mary's River here.

The commission's findings will probably be that the operation of the gates had little to do with the damage, Mr. Pearson wrote. Some of the property owners had ignored previous suggestions from the commission about safety factors.

Production Increase Cuts Unemployment

TORONTO (CP)—National Employment Service, in a survey issued yesterday, reported an encouraging production increase in Ontario in August which cut unemployment and brought bigger retail sales.

The survey showed that heavy industries such as foundries, along with textile, mining, rubber and radio firms all needed more workers. The number of persons on industrial layoffs declined during the month by 4,000.

Firms which had cut back production got going at a faster pace. At St. Catharines manufacturers of soil pipe and heating equipment moved back into full production. At Port Colborne a foundry recalled men laid off earlier in the year. A Guelph foundry reported the highest number of employees in its history and other plants there hired more men.

TETILES BETTER

In textiles, short-time conditions ended in St. Catharines mills though production is under last year's levels. A new shirt company opened at Collingwood. At Cornwall, one mill is on a five-day week and two are on a four-day week.

In Toronto there is an active demand for textile workers, mainly in the cotton section. Mills in the Galt area were increasing production.

In mining, a shortage of experienced men was reported in the Porcupine gold fields and there was an increased demand for men at Sudbury.

Improvement was reported in employment at London with the number of jobless down to 1951 levels after a sharp increase earlier in the year.

In Kitchener, radio and television industries brought demands for skilled workers, mainly cabinet makers. Kitchener furniture factories reported a marked increase in business. At Owen Sound wood working plants were busy and skilled men needed in veneer assembly and finishing departments.

RUBBER INDUSTRY BUSY

The rubber industry was active at Kitchener and Toronto. Machinery manufacturing kept pace at Brantford and Toronto. At Kingston, machinists were urgently needed for manufacture of diesel locomotives and a diesel plant at London will need 400 more men by the end of the year when a $2,500,000 expansion program is completed.

Construction, which had lagged this year, also showed improvement in August.

The report said retail trade reflected improved employment. Department store and mail order sales increased. Thre was increased demand for clothing, textiles, food and household appliances. This brought increase in demand for office and sales help. Toronto, London and Kitchener reported a lack of suitable applicants for these jobs.

STUDENT SHOT—Jacob S. Floyd, Jr., 22-year-old University of Texas student, died in Alice, Tex., of bullet wounds that were apparently intended for his father, a local political leader. Police said the killing was "political" since his father had been warned that "killers" were after him.

Police Search Near Cabin For Alleged Slayer Seguin

HULL, Que. (CP)—An all-day search by Ontario and Quebec provincial police yesterday on the St. Pierre de Wakefield area north of here found no trace of Henri Seguin, sought on a charge of murder.

Police followed a mountain trail into a lonely cabin on a lake five miles northeast of St. Pierre de Wakefield. The cabin was empty but there were signs it had recently been occupied.

Inside was a copy of an Aug. 19 newspaper containing stories of the Aug. 16 slaying of Leonard Z. Hurd at Maxville, Ont. Police have a warrant for the arrest of Seguin, a Cornwall, Ont., man, on a charge of murdering the Maxville taxi operator.

Police also found an army dunnage bag carrying two serial numbers. The bag was taken to army headquarters at Ottawa to determine if it had belonged to Seguin.

Yesterday's search was made on a tip from two women who operate a freshment stand at Wilson's Corners near the trail to the cabin. One of them, rose Marie Degenais, 31, said a man ran from the woods and grabbed at her as she was gathering firewood, but ran back into the bush when she fled.

Hurd was found shot to death in his taxi on a lonely road near Maxville. The search for Seguin has since centred in the Gatineau Valley country north of here.

2 Hamilton Men Missing In Warehouse Explosion

A MAN DIED when this car careened off Highway 7 east of Havelock and hit a telephone pole early Sunday morning. Raymond Nobes, 36, of Marmora, pinned in the wreckage, died about an hour later. His companion, William Cain, 27, Ottawa, was not seriously hurt. No one discovered the accident until about 7 a.m., two hours after it happened.—(W. W. Reid Photo)

Marmora Man Dies In Crash

HAVELOCK (ENS)—One man was killed and another is in hospital with injuries not considered serious, following an automobile accident on Highway 7, about five miles east of here early Sunday morning. Dead is Raymond Nobes, 36, of Marmora. His death is attributed to a fracture of the skull and internal chest injuries. William Cain, of Deloro, whom police believe was driving the car, suffered scalp and facial lacerations and severe shock. He is in hospital in Havelock. The accident is believed to have happened shortly after 5 a.m. Sunday, but was not discovered until 7 a.m. Marks on the pavement and in the ditch beside the highway indicate the car, a 1949 model, travelling west, skidded out of control for about 800 feet. During its wild plunge, it struck a telephone pole, breaking it off a few feet above the ground and hurled a 10-foot section of the pole for about 200 feet.

The car plunged off the highway, rolled over several times, at least once end over end, and came to rest in dense second growth brush more than 50 feet from the highway. It was practically invisible from the highway which accounted for the accident being undiscovered until after daylight.

NOTICED SKID MARKS

William Chard, of Cordova, who works at the Building Products Company plant east of Havelock, had just come off shift and was driving home. He noticed the skid marks on the road and saw the wheels of an auto protruding from the bush at the side of the roadway. Stopping to investigate, he noticed a man in the rear of the overturned vehicle.

Immediately rushing for assistance, he succeeded in rousing a farmer nearby and the two men went to the wrecked car. On approaching it they heard moaning in the bushes some distance from the car, and turned their efforts in that direction.

They discovered a man later identified as William Cain, age 27, of Deloro, who was partly conscious, about 30 feet from the wrecked car. Whether he was thrown to the spot by the impact of whether he crawled there after the car came to rest, police have

Doctor, 3 Nurses Calm Hysteria In Train Wreck

By J. R. MEAKES, Publisher, Sudbury Star

MATTAWA (CP)—Until 4:15 a.m. Sunday, "train wreck" meant to me a tragic but remote accident that usually made headlines. Then in a blinding flash of momentary spinal concussion, "train wreck" became to me a carnival of chaos. My head crashed into the partition of lower 10, in No. 900 sleeper of Canadian Pacific Railway train No. 9, westbound from Montreal. I realized the sudden paralyzing shock meant only one thing—collision.

When the pain of the head blow passed, I reached for my clothes, wondering somewhat that arms and legs functioned, despite a spine twisting back wrench.

GROANS OF PAIN

Cries of "What did we hit" interspersed groans of pain from shaken passengers. In shirt and trousers I tumbled into the aisle, just as Bob Pearson, Sudbury Star advertising manager with whom I had been travelling, climbed from the opposite berth.

Together, we pushed towards the forward end of the sleeper. Nothing could be heard but murmurs from still shocked passengers, and the hissing of steam, then the sharp voice of a man who was running toward the tail end of our train. It was No. 9's conductor, J. Gillan, of Ottawa, shouting "Where are the fusees, get the torpedoes, protect our tail end—No. 7 will be along in a few minutes from Montreal."

Then Gillan headed up the incline from the track, to flash the first hasty report over the emergency railway phone already clipped to the tangled telegraph wires. "Mattawa despatcher, No. 9, we have just piled into No. 10 eastbound, which over-ran its switch at our meet, outside Morel (five miles west of Mattawa). We have our head and tail ends protected. Get help and stretchers out fast."

REALIZED SCALP CUT

Three women — all nurses — turned the corner of the aisle. "Where are the first aid kits?" Then, to me, "Where is the blood coming from?" Looking down I realized for the first time that the blow to my head must have caused a scalp wound. Blood dripped down on my shirt front. The nurse said, "Your scalp is cut. But we haven't any first aid material yet."

With that, Pearson and I headed up front toward the baggage car. Eighteen feet of wooden "reefer" type box car had plunged through into its head end. Aid was being given to the engineers and firemen of both trains.

24 Race Horses Lost In Fire

BELMONT, N.Y. (AP) — Fire swept a Belmont Park barn last night on the eve of the famous race track's three-week fall meeting. Twenty-three valuable thoroughbreds were burned to death. Another had to be destroyed. And a groom was taken to hospital for smoke poisoning.

One of the mounts was Noble Gesture, owned by E. P. Taylor of Toronto. Another Taylor horse, Navy Page, was among 25 thoroughbreds saved.

TO RUN TODAY

Navy Page, an internationally-known stake race winner which ran with the top two-year-olds at the recent Saratoga meeting, is entered in today's opener, the $20,000-added Fall High-Weight Handicap. Primate, Kentucky Derby hopeful of last season from the Starmount Stable, also was saved for today's feature.

The blaze engulfed the huge wooden structure in 15 minutes. Some of the rescued horses were injured.

Some of the other horses that died were listed by track officials as Greensboro, a two-year-old owned by E. B. Benjamin of New Orleans; Devil's Spy, Wild Jamie, Buzzing Bee and Tocoli, all owned by Willie Knapp; and Eraser, Big If, Ornament and Burladero, owned by J. T. Moloney.

Washburn, trained by Morris Dixon, Jr., had to be destroyed.

The value of the lost animals was estimated to be in the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The groom, Mike Novack, was the only person taken to hospital. Several firemen were treated at the scene for minor injuries.

The fire levelled the barn. Nearby is the wreckage of another stable in which a young groom and 21 valuable thoroughbreds were killed by fire last spring.

KNOCKED UNCONSCIOUS

OSHAWA (CP) — Blake Chesebrough, 14, today was knocked unconscious at the top of a 60-foot tree when he touched a hydro wire carrying 44,000 volts. Pat Winniker a passing garage worker, climbed the tree and brought the boy down.

100 Injured As 2 Flyers In Collision

Train Overruns Siding On Curving Track High Above Lake

MATTAWA, Ont. (CP)—A Canadian Pacific Railway transcontinental passenger train roared out of a dense fog early Sunday and struck a standing train head on. No one was killed but about 100 passengers were hurt.

Five express and baggage cars cushioned the shock for the 150 passengers on the two trains. But the engineer and fireman of the standing train were gravely injured and were unconscious in hospital here last night. Three other crew members and one passenger remained in hospital for treatment.

The trains collided about five miles west of here and some 35 miles east of North Bay. Railway officials say train No. 10, eastbound for Montreal, overshot a siding and stopped. Before it could get back to the siding and pull onto it, it was struck by train No. 9, westbound from Montreal, on a stretch of curving track at a high embankment above a lake.

IN SERIOUS CONDITION

No. 9 slammed headlong into No. 10. The locomotives were virtually welded together by the impact. The three express and baggage cars on No. 10 and the two on No. 9 were torn apart.

But the passenger cars, carrying 97 on No. 10 and 53 on No. 9, escaped with only a terrific jolt. None left the rails.

Engineer Samuel Donaldson and fireman B. A. Morgan of No. 10 were seriously hurt. Engineer Victor Sullivan and fireman Regis Kelly, former professional hockey player, walked away from the locomotive on No. 9, but were taken to hospital later. All are from North Bay. Trainman Victor Newman of Prescott, Ont., and Harry Lee Cooke, a passenger from Winnipeg, also were in hospital. Their condition was not serious.

Charge 7 Airmen With Thefts

WINNIPEG (CP) — Seven airmen from the R. C. A. F. station at Gimli, Man., have been charged with the theft of $15,000 worth of clothing and supplies from air force stores. The men appeared today in court and were remanded one week without plea.

The accused are: Reginald Ralph Simnes, John Robert Simpson, Ronald James Vernon Lobb, Alfred Elliott, James Robert Switzer and Donald James McCallum. None is above the rank of corporal.

The thefts are alleged to have taken place between Nov. 1, 1951, and last June 30.

R. C. M. P. released no details of the thefts.

Down 9 Red Jets In New Attack

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — United States Sabre jet pilots today reported they shot down nine Russian-made Mig 15 jet, probably destroyed another and damaged two in air battles over North Korea.

The air force also announced that Allied fighter-bombers hurled a crushing aerial blow at the Red industrial centre at Sinuiku, near the Manchurian border. Targets included an oxygen plant, an alcohol distillery and a rope factory.

The fighter-bomber attack was made within sight of the big Red airfields at Antung, just across the Yalu River from Sinuiju. The air force said it drew hordes of Communist interceptors into action.

Twenty four F-84 Thunderjets hit Sinuiju in mid-afternoon to get the assault under way. They dropped tons of high explosives and fired thousands of machine-gun bullets.

Pilots reported dense clouds of smoke after the first bombing runs. The air force said the rope factory appeared to be destroyed.

Bombs from other Thunderjets flattened the oxygen plant, a T-shaped group of four large buildings. The bombs set off three roaring explosions.

Remand Mrs. Boyd

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Edwin Alonzo Boyd today was remanded to Sept. 23 on a conspiracy charge arising from her husband's escape from Don jail here last November. The husband escaped again with three other men a week ago today.

Mrs. Boyd last week appealed in vain through press and radio for her husband to give himself up. She is free on $1,000 bail.

Arrest 9 In Gang

TORONTO (CP)—Suburban Weston police Saturday night arrested nine youths to halt the latest in a month-long series of raids by teen-age gangs from outside the town. Revenge for a six-stitch facial cut which one of the outsiders suffered in a fight about a month ago was apparently the motive for the raids, police said. The gang began to collect about 10 p.m., insulting passers-by and attacking those who objected. Police visited the scene a number of times and warned them to leave town. As reinforcements arrived in taxis police commandeered the cabs and took the occupants to police headquarters for questioning.

New Blockade Facing West Berliners

BERLIN (Reuters)—West Berliners today prepared to deal with a new blockade which may force them to fall back on their stockpiled food supplies.

West Berlin trucking firms have decided to "strike" at midnight tomorrow as a result of the Communists' hold-up tactics at the zonal border checkpoints.

The West Berlin city government met today to consider the planned strike.

About 300 trucks a day shuttle from West Germany through a 100-mile strip of Soviet territory into West Berlin. Closing down these runs would immediately affect the city's stocks of fresh vegetables, milk and fish.

"Hard" supplies would not run low unless the strike went on for a long time. Wheat, flour, coal and other non-perishable items have been stockpiled since the city learned its lesson during the 1948-49 "Berlin Blockade" by the Russians.

The trucking companies have listed conditions for resuming service, including Allied guarantees and compensation for losses and delays. They have already stopped accepting freight for delivery to or from Berlin.

The West Berlin road transport companies say that long delays at the Soviet zone border—they often have to wait from 50 to 70 hours for clearance—are causing them enormous losses. They are further harassed by the arrest of drivers and confiscation of goods, and insurance companies are demanding increasingly high rates.

Leadership Battle Begins In Union

OTTAWA (CP) — Delegates to the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees' triennial convention began their sessions today in an air of expectancy over two battles involving the leadership of this biggest Canadian transport union.

Main issues before the 375 representatives threatened the continuance in office of A. R. Mosher, 72-year-old C. B. R. E. president and also president of the 350,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor.

The first fight was due to open at 2 p.m. EDT when James E. McGuire of Ottawa — No. 2 man in the 32,000-member union until he was thrown out of the C.B.R.E. by the leadership in March — began an appeal to the convention for reinstatement in his job as national secretary-treasurer.

Schacht Leaves Iran Will Prepare Report

TEHRAN (AP)—Hjalmar Schacht German financial expert, left Iran yesterday, announcing he will prepare a full report recommending an economic new deal in Iran. He was here for a week at the invitation of Premier Mohammed Mossadegh.

Before he left by plane for Germany, Schacht told reporters that Iran "must increase its productive labor." He called Iranians "lazy" and declared they should work more, if they want to get out of the financial hole.

200-Pound Bear Goes On Bender, Gets Tipsy Invades House, Finally Killed By Housewife

FORT FRANCAS (CP) —What would you do if you were a woman alone at night with a drunk bear in the house?

Mrs. Jake Skibinsky faced that problem recently.

The 200-pound bear prowled too close to the Skibinsky house at the east end of Rainy Lake. Mr. Skibinsky was away. Mrs. Skibinsky tried to poison the animal with a mixture of wood alcohol and honey.

The bear only became tipsy. After staggering around the yard it finally plunged through a window.

Mrs. Skizinsky blazed away with a rifle. The bear retreated to the icehouse. Later it returned.

Mrs. Skibinsky reloaded. She tried again and finally finished the animal as it sat on its haunches in the nearby bush.

Four Injured Reporting For Shift

Hotel, Store Windows Nearly Shattered; Survivors Noticed Gas

HAMILTON (CP)—Two men are missing, believed dead, and at least four injured in an early-morning explosion which rocked the Stevenson Fruit Company office and warehouse and surrounding neighborhood.

Nearby residents were literally blown from their beds. Streets and sidewalks were paved with shattered glass. For a time fire threatened the entire business block on Park street north.

Jerome Moser, an employee of the fruit company, was believed trapped in the basement by the ruins. A second person also was believed caught in the blast. He has not yet been identified but was not a company employee.

THREE IN HOSPITAL

Jerry Sykes suffered burns to the legs and arms. Hospital authorities described his condition as fair.

William Smye, 70, and Robert Watt, 46, also were taken to hospital. Their condition was described as fair.

The superintendent of the company, Alfred Tulk, 54, suffered a gash under the right ear. He had arrived at 6:50 a.m., five minutes before the explosion occurred. He said one of the two men in the building detected an odor of gas and had started into the basement to investigate.

WALL OF FLAMES

Smoke 100 feet high shot over the area immediately following the blast. Flames leaped high in a solid wall. It was impossible for firemen to enter the building until hours later.

Venetian blinds, a calendar and an awning were blown across the street to the opposite sidewalk.

Spasmodic minor explosions followed the first tremendous blast.

Observers said that had it come 15 minutes later more persons might have been injured or killed. Employees are due at work at 7 a.m. Several already had punched in but had gone out for coffee.

Windows of Tiger Delivery Service, Hamilton Auto Parts and of Fischer's hotel were blown in by the force of the blast.

Fire department officials said that so far they have been unable to determine the cause of the explosion although it might have been cooking-gas as there were gas-burners in the cellar to ripen bananas. On the other hand ammonia might have caused the blast.

Hold No Hope In Oil Impasse

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States officials are almost despairing in their efforts to end the Anglo-Iranian oil impasse.

Authorities said privately today that Premier Mohammed Mossadegh has shown no interest in the proposal sponsored by President Truman and Prime Minister Churchill Aug. 30 to get negotiations going again.

Furthermore these officials have no new moves in readiness if the situation should get worse.

Two Iranians who have been closely associated with the premier politically are due here soon and the oil situation is expected to concern them both. The attitude of U. S. officials, while leaving the door wide open to any overtures from them, holds no optimism regarding the outcome.

Imprisoned Pastor Called 'Sick Man'

ROSEVILLE, Calif. (AP) — An overflow congregation of 250 jammed the First Presbyterian church Sunday and heard their imprisoned pastor described as a "sick man who did not know what he was doing."

Dr. Thomas Holden of San Francisco substituted for Rev. William C. McCalmont, who is in jail accused of a $22,408 swindle.

Dr. Holden asked the worshippers to pray for the recovery of Mr. McCalmont.

Police say McCalmont, 35, and Harry Daniels, 42-year-old rail yardmaster, admitted posing as federal agents to frighten a Loomis couple into giving them their savings.

4 Men Picked Up Thought To Be Escaped Boyd Gang

Four men, thought to be members of the Boyd gang escaped from the Don jail a week ago, were picked up 10 miles east of Peterborough today by Provincial Police after a Belleville district restaurant owner tipped off authorities that he believed they were the escapees. The men were: Farnand Cormier, 29, Mederic Major, 24, Roger Blanchard, 19, and Roger Valla, 27, all of Montreal. At 10:30 p.m. Sunday a station wagon car with four men pulled up to a restaurant north of Belleville on the Marmora-Belleville highway. Two men entered while a third slipped behind the wheel and kept the motor running.

The operator told police that he noticed the two men inside were keeping their heads down and talking in low tones. He said he was suspicious and called police in Belleville.

Belleville provincial headquarters radioed the tipoff to Peterborough headquarters where all cars were warned to be on the lookout for the station wagon.

On patrol near Havelock, O.P.P. Constable John Ricard picked up the station wagon and radioed his position, then just east of Havelock, to Peterborough. This was at 11.20 p.m. He followed the car, reporting along the way.

ROAD BLOCK

Meanwhile police cars in the Peterborough district were alerted and sent to Highway 7. A car from the Campbellford detachment joined the chase, and two headquarters cars with police, armed with sawed-off shotguns, high-powered rifles and revolvers set up a road block 10 miles east of Peterborough.

The roadblock was placed just over the brow of a hill, the cars and men zig-zagged across the road. The station wagon pulled over the hill and into the police pocket.

Taking no chances, the provincials took one man at a time from the station wagon and checked them. The men were then driven to Peterborough headquarters where they were further checked, police learning that the men were from Montreal and worked in Peterborough for a sub-contractor on a city school.

O.P.P. Sergeant Stanley Palmateer said today: "I don't know where you'd find two men who would fit the description better than the driver, and one of the men in the back seat."

"We've checked other cars, but we really thought we had something this time," he added.

Band Of Women Spies Smashed In Korea

PUSAN, Korea (AP) — South Korean police have smashed a band of 17 women spies operating from within the United Nations organization, the government announced today.

Police arrested 17 women, including two alleged ringleaders.

The announcement followed by one day a disclosure that a spy ring of 17 men had been broken up.

The two leaders were identified as Miss Pak Chung Ja, 25, and Miss Yoon Chil Sung, 24, both graduates of the Seoul Women's Medical College. The government said Miss Pak received special Communist training in North Korea. She has been working in a U. N. unit.

Crush Unrest At Don Jail, Diet Reduced

TORONTO (CP) — Police appeared to be at a dead end today in their search for the Boyd gang, a week after the four notorious criminals broke out of Toronto's Don Jail.

Since the escape alarm was given last Monday, police from coast to coast have been called into the hunt for Edwin Alonzo Boyd, William Jackson, Steve Suchan and Leonard Jackson. All are accused of bank robbery and the last two of murder in the slaying of Toronto police detective Edmund Tong last March.

A royal commission inquiry into the escape will start Wednesday at 2:15 p.m. EDT. Sittings will be held in the York county building in central Toronto.

Col. Hedley Basher, deputy minister of reform institutions and acting governor of the Don jail, said unrest at the jail since the break has brought punishment and reduced diet to some of the prisoners.

Meanwhile, police continued their dogged hunt for the gang.

In Toronto alone, detectives have checked and double-checked on some 200 tips from citizens and lesser underworld figures. Armed squads have staged dozens of raids on houses suspected of giving refuge to the four men who carry a $26,000 price on their heads.

ROAD BLOCK SET UP

Road blocks were set up to check cars in Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia after reports that one or more of the wanted men had been seen.

Now the authorities are waiting for a break; the next move lies with the wanted men.

"Things are at a complete standstill," a senior police official said last night.

Battle Of Britain Salute Taken

LONDON (CP)—The largest number of jet planes ever to fly over London screamed from the clouds today in an anniversary salute to the handful of pilots who smashed Hitler's Luftwaffe onslaught 12 years ago.

A lone Hurricane, the type of fighter which spearheaded the defence against the Nazi air might in 1940, led the sky parade at a sedate 185 miles per hour It was piloted by an anonymous veteran of the Battle of Britain in tribute to his fallen comrades.

Bringing up the rear in the parade of 212 planes, 187 of them jets, came one of Britain's most modern fighters, the Hunter, racing low over the city at a speed near the sound barrier, which it has often pierced. It was handled by test pilot Neville Duke, who fought in the Battle of Britain.

Among the fast-moving fighters were 24 Sabre fighters from the R.C.A.F.'s No. 1 fighter wing at North Luffenham, Rutland.

Announce Sensation

U.S. Atomic Physicists Make Astonishing Discovery

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Times says atomic physicists at the Brookhaven national laboratory have made a discovery that is "a sensation not equalled since the announcement early in 1939 of the discovery of uranium fissions."

The Times, in a story by science writer William L. Laurence, says a team of physicists has discovered a new principle which would make possible the building of a new high-energy accelerator.

The accelerator, Laurence says, would be capable of reaching an energy of 2,300,000,000 electron volts.

The most powerful accelerator now in existence has reached an energy of 2,300,000,000 electroc volts, the Times says.

The Times says Dr. Leland J. Haworth, director of the atomic energy commission's Brookhaven laboratory on Long Island, confirmed the facts of the discovery but emphasized that construction of such an accelerator is not contemplated at present.

"The new strong-focusing, high-energy accelerator is expected to lead to the attainment of entirely new levels of knowledge about the material universe, it's constitution origins and future," Laurence's story says.

"When and if built, and there is little doubt that it will be, it will put man for the first time in the business of creating protons and neutrons, as well as electrons and mesons, principal building blocks of the material universe, on a grand scale."

Mystery To Agent

Says Albino Iroquois Girl Not From Reservation

ST. REGIS, Que. (AP) — The Indian agent on this island in the St. Lawrence River says he does not know Yalamulankastidanamustsa—Kim for short.

Kim, a blue-eyed 18-year-old girl with white skin, was found Saturday in the woods near Fort Worth, Tex. She told Sheriff Hank Davis she belonged to a tribe of Albino Iroquois Indians who live on St. Regis and that her people become dark of skin when they are about 21.

Kim said her parents were dead, but she had lived on the island with her "adopted father" and her eight brothers and sisters until she hitch-hiked to Texas, where she hoped to train horses.

"MYSTERY"—TO AGENT

Yesterday T. L. Bonnah, veteran agent of the St. Regis reservation, said he never had seen or heard of the girl. What's more, he never had heard of albino Indians, Bonnah added.

Bonnah, who says he knows everyone on the Canadian and American shores and on the islands near this reservation, observed:

"More and more people want to become Indians. People show up here quite often claiming to be Indians who quite obviously aren't."

Kim plays the piano, types and speaks English, French and what she described as a tribal dialect.

The Salvation Army located a room for the girl and Shaitan, her dog.

Defence Forces Inadequate Claxton Says

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton said Saturday the defence forces of the free world are still inadequate to deter aggression.

The building up of military strength must remain the most "urgent and paramount" problem of all free peoples. Unless war is prevented, all other aspirations would be set back for centuries.

Mr. Claxton spoke at the conclusion of the Commonwealth Parliamentary Association's biennial conference.

RECOGNITION A PROBLEM

Mr. Claxton referred to discussions on recognition of the Communist government of China. The fact that so many members had taken opposite views indicated that the matter was difficult and must be given the greatest consideration.

Canada and the United States are among the countries which do not recognize the Communist government of China.

At the conference, first held in Canada since 1928, representatives of 48 Parliaments and Legislatures in the Commonwealth exchanged views on such matters as immigration, trade, financial relations, defence and foreign relations.

The association adopts no resolutions and makes no recommendations to governments.

MANY DIFFERENCES SHOWN

The summaries of the speeches released to the press indicated there were sharp differences between representatives of Britain and India; Britain and Ireland; India and South Africa; and India and Pakistan.

In one speech Professor G. Ranga member of India's Council of States, said India is following a policy of non-involvement in world disputes.

Lord Llewellin, member of the British cabinet during the Second World War, took issue with the statement.

The United Kingdom, he said, could not forget its involvement and what it had cost in the defence of small nations and freedom in 1914 and 1939. If the United Nations was to succeed it could not merely stand cheering on the sidelines.

In the past a Russian invasion over the passes into India had been a concern of the British general staff. It might happen in the future, and if it did he hoped the United Nations would not adopt any policy of non-involvement.

Turning to Ireland, Lord Llewellin said how much better a position it would be in now if it had helped convoys in the last war. Was it going to sit on the sidelines in any future war depending on the arms and fleets of the United Nations?

INVOLVEMENT NECESSARY

Donald Fleming, Progressive Conservative member of the Canadian Commons for Toronto Eglinton, said that in the present interdependence of the world the non-involvement suggested by Professor Ranga wa impossible.

As for China, he could not see that any good results had followed from Britain's action in recognizing the Communist government.

M. J. Coldwell, leader of Canada's C.C.F. party, said recognition of China was recognition of a fact and not approval of a Communist regime.

Shri M. A. Ayyangar of India, replying to Lord Llewellin, said he wished to clarify India's position of non-involvement. If democracy were threatened, India would certainly be involved, but she did not wish to enter any bloc.

Senator Leverett Saltonsall of the United tates said there is a strong feeling in the U. S. that China should not be allowed to shoot its way into U. N. Moreover, the people of Formosa should not be allowed to fall under Communist domination.

Robert Briscoe of the Republic of Ireland said that if a country is to make its proper contribution in the world it must be free. Ireland was asking for full freedom in pressing for an end to partition.

Oil Stove Blast Sets Home Afire

COLDSPRINGS (ENS).—A disastrous $6,000 fire Saturday afternoon, two miles west of Coldsprings, destroyed the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Cusworth.

Mrs. Cusworth was canning peaches at the time, when a coal oil stove exploded, spraying oil all over the back kitchen. Flames quickly spread through the rest of the house.

Mrs. Cusworth grabbed the baby, four and a half months old Jean, and ran to call her husband who luckily was working nearby. He quickly sent in the alarm to Cobourg and within 20 minutes the Cobourg District Fire Brigade was there. The fire was almost extinguished but due to the lack of water it again spread rapidly. Fire ran up the trees close by and quickly demolished them. Barrels and any containers were filled with water from a nearby small dam, but to no avail. There was nothing left of the two-storey 12-room house but the brick structure.

Nothing was saved from upstairs, but most of the furniture downstairs was salvaged. Hundreds of people from far and near gathered to give assistance.

Mr. and Mrs. Cusworth have two boys, Derek, 12 and Allan 9, besides the baby Jean. They came out from England since the Second World War and settled on their present farm. Neighbors have invited them into their home for the time. There was a small amount of insurance on the building.

This is the third bad fire in this vicinity within the last 10 months. Last December 5 the Coldsprings machine shop was burned and on May 9, the home of Reg. McKinley was destroyed.

72% Of Population Granted Citizenship

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya (AP) —A milestone in the social history of the federation of Malaya was passed yesterday when about 72 per cent of the population automatically became citizens.

The Federal Citizenship Bill, published yesterday, is part of the campaign of British High Commissioner Gen. Sir Gerald Templer to fight communism with social, economic and political measures as well as bullets.

Attorney-General Michael Hogan estimated the bill automatically confers citizenship on 2,650,000 Malayans, 1,100,000 Chinese and 180,000 Indians. Malaya's population is about 5,300,000, of whom nearly 2,000,000 are Chinese.

Vice-Moderator Idea Causes Lively Debate

HAMILTON (CP)—The question of a vice-moderator for the United Church of Canada was brought before the Church's general council today but after a lively debate action on the motion was left over for a later session.

A resolution from the lay advisory council, contained in the report of the policy committee, asked that both a moderator and a vice-moderator be appointed, one of them to be a layman.

Judge F. A. E. Hamilton of Winnipeg, a member of the policy committee, said that if more responsibility were given to lay members of the church they would do a better job.

SERVE WITHOUT SALARY

He said he thought the moderator should be a minister and the vice-moderator a layman who would serve without salary.

He said a lay vice-moderator could do a number of things, such as raising money for increased salaries for the general officers, raising money for increased pension allotments and to try to increase the minimum salaries of ministers who serve in small centres and in rural areas.

Rev. B. F. Ennals of New Westminster, B. C., said that he looked forward to the day when the church would have a lay moderator. He said he hoped the time would come when moderators would not be chosen to honor them but rather for their ability. "And ministers have no corner on ability."

Dr. T. T. Faichney of Galt said he feared a "cleavage between ministerial and lay members of the church" if the resolution was passed. He said he took from Judge Hamilton's address that the moderator would always be a minister and the vice-moderator a layman who would serve without salary. This Dr. Faichney said, meant to him a wealthy layman.

not yet learned. An attempt to telephone for medical assistance was stymied by wires being torn down with the uprooted telephone pole. Chard drove to Havelock for Dr. D. J. Holdcroft, who went to the scene and removed the injured man to hospital.

The other man, finally identified as Nobes, but first incorrectly identified tentatively as James Therrion, of Deloro, was then removed from the wreck, but he was pronounced dead by Dr. Holdcroft, who said he believed the man had been dead about an hour. This would mean that Nobes lived for more than an hour after the accident, but the police and coroner believe that due to the skull fracture he suffered, he remained unconscious up until the time of his death.

Dr. Herbert J. Young, coroner, of Peterborough, conducted an investigation at the scene. Cpl. Munroe, of the Peterborough headquarters of the O.P.P., assisted in the investigation, which was carried out by O.P.P. Constable George W. Rose, of Campbellford.

Raymond Nobes was the son of the late James Nobes and Mrs. Mae Nobes and was born in Marmora 36 years ago. He served with distinction as a sniper with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in the Second World War. He was unmarried and lived at home with his mother who is an invalid at present. He is survived by three brothers: Harold and Arthur of Marmora and Everett of Toronto.

Funeral arrangements are not completed but it is expected to be held on Wednesday afternoon.

Police said the Cooks were passengers in a car driven by Mitchell. The others were in the car driven by McConnell.

Thrown from the car either through the windshield or out one of the doors, Mrs. Cook was found on the pavement 16 feet from the wrecked car.

Stock Market Prices Continue To Decline

TORONTO (CP(Stock market prices continued to decline in early afternoon stock market trading today.

Volume for the first three hours totalled 1,530,000 shares.

Steels, papers, foods, refining oils, textiles and miscellaneous industrials led the industrial decline and only utilities held firm. Agricultures and constructions were mixed.

All gold groups slipped although a number of prospects traded actively for penny gains. Among them were Chimo, God's Lake, and Bobjo.

Bellekeno led the base metal group with a gain of pennies on a turnover of about 300,000 shares and Silanco also traded actively for a small gain. Most higher-priced issues slipped.

Western oils recorded a majority of losses as Central Exploration, Del Rio and Highwood slipped. Canadian Williston resisted the trend for a small gain.

The exchange's 1 p.m. indices showed industrials down 1.36 at 322.13, golds down .44 at 90.15, base metals down 1.41 at 191.30 and western oils down .82 at 131.43.

Doctor, 3 Nurses

The porter of our car produced his first aid kit, and nurses were on the job at once. During the first 30 minutes, they traversed the length of our train, plunging along in the dark, through track ballast in high heeled shoes, as they sought out passengers who seemed to need help most.

HERO OF WRECK

Then I met a hero of the wreck. A fair, slight young doctor, whose quiet-spoken Oxford English calmed imminent hysteria, while his sure hands made a rapid examination of injuries.

The only doctor travelling in the two trains, he was bound for Montreal from Western Canada, on No. 10.

Like the nurses, the doctor made us promise "not to mention names." But the doctor does not need to be named to be remembered by the passengers of No. 9 and No. 10.

CREWS SERIOUSLY HURT

His early check established that little harm had come to passengers on No. 10. But the engineer and firemen of both locomotives were seriously injured — the crew of No. 10 critically.

As dawn cleared the heavy ground fog, a gas scooter from Mattawa chugged up and took the first load of the most seriously injured to Mattawa hospital.

At dawn, passengers were able to examine the crumpled baggage and mail cars. Three of the wooden "reefer-type" cars had been tossed off the track, practically smashed to pieces. Many felt these cars had furnished the life-saving buffer between the steel coaches and the locomotives. The wooden cars absorbed the impact, for steel passenger cars remained upright on the rails. All of us thanked God. A druggist returning home to Sault Ste. Marie made the best summary "A modern miracle."

And it was, for, to the north of the curving stretch of track a small lake lay less than 100 feet away down a 45-degree incline. A few more miles an hour, a bit more momentum, and it was in the mind of all of us that many might have died in the lake.

The shock to passengers was severe.

"It was like a bolt of lightning hitting us," said Mrs. Ernest Ablett of Vancouver who was sleeping when the crash smashed her against the end of her lower berth. Mr. Ablett said: "I didn't realize what had happened. It was like getting hit with a hammer."

J. R. Meakes, publisher of the Sudbury Star, suffered head cuts when he was tossed out of his berth. He was treated at hospital along with dozens of others.

"LIKE A BRICK WALL"

Mrs. Ernest Ball of Sudbury, sitting in the day coach of the westbound train with her husband and two daughters, said it was as if the train had run into a brick wall. "Everyone was thrown around the coach. I smashed against the chair in front and turned my ankle."

Trainmen kept the passengers inside the coaches and calmed hysterical women and children. A few hours after the crash, the coaches were hauled to North Bay and Mattawa and the passengers sent on to their destinations in buses and extra trains.

Two of the express cars were loaded with fresh fish which was spread along the track. One was tossed from the rails and tore out telegraph and telephone lines for 400 feet, cutting off communications between Ottawa and North Bay.

Traffic was re-routed over Canadian National Railways lines.

$10,000 Fire Razes Barn During Storm

CAVAN (ENS)—Lightning early today caused a $10,000 barn fire half a mile south of Ida. Owner of the barn is William Wiltshire.

Mr. Wiltshire said he first noticed the fire about 6 a.m., when he was going out to bring in his cattle. By that time, the fire had a strong grip on the barn, and there seemed to be little chance to save it.

All livestock, with the exception of a few hogs, were out of the barn, he said. Lost in the flames were all his crops and implements.

RAIN HELPS

The steady rain that has been falling in the district since shortly before midnight Sunday night is believed to have kept the fire in check. An adjoining shed and the farmhouse nearby were not damaged by the flames.

Mr. Wiltshire said the barn and contents were insured. He and his family have lived on their farm south of Ida for the past eight years.

Tourist Park Poses Problem For Council

LAKEFIELD (ENS) — G. E. Douglas and B. F. Blake were a deputation to the September meeting of the village council, at which Reeve Northey presided and Councillors J. L. Fraser, J. R. Hull and K. W. Morris were present.

The question brought before the council by Mr. Douglas was about the transfer of lease on lot 11, plan 30 and the possibility of purchasing lots in the Tourist Park.

The council had previously met with G. Hancock and Adam Sands of Peterborough regarding the possibility of appraising the lots in the park, but it was felt that such a project would be very difficult and probably not too satisfactory.

As the park had been given to the village as a gift there was a feeling that it should not be sold Another objection raised was that if such a sale of land took place, it was quite possible that buildings of an undesirable type would be erected and the area would cease to be the beauty spot it is now. This matter was explained fully to the deputation by Reeve Northey, but it was decide that the lease on lot 11, plan 30 belonging to Mrs. Annie Louise Douglas could be transferred to Morley E. Ward.

A letter from the Lakefield Home and School Association requesting the erection of signs on certain streets reading "Watch for Children" was referred to the streets committee.

A letter from the Hon. Harold A. Scott and one from W. A. Anderson, highway engineer, the first about drainage on Queen St. N., and the second about drainage on the north end of Queen St., will both be taken up with these gentlemen when they meet with the council.

On motion of councillors Morris and Hull the council will pay half of the phone accounts for Chief of Police, Leslie R. Foster until such time as an agreement between the village and Mr. Foster be signed by both parties.

Accounts totalling $4,753.59 were authorized paid by the finance committee.

40 Sea Scout Leaders Hold Conference In Lakefield

LAKEFIELD (Staff)— The first Ontario-Quebec Sea Scout Conference was held here over the week-end and 40 leaders and association executives attended. The "S.S. Fraser" of the 1st Lakefield Sea Scout Troop was used as headquarters and it's skipper, Kenneth Jakins, and several of his scouts acted as hosts.

To supplement the troop's small collection of watercraft the Grove Prepatory School loaned several dinghies, canoes and whalers. Chief Petty Officer of that school, George Lee, instructed in rowing, Mr. Jakins and his scouts in canoe handling and A. G. Fairhead of Hamilton, member of the 1948 Canadian Olympic sailing team, in sailing. Wind was disappointingly light on Saturday and lectures and other activities prevented a second chance Sunday.

Two main speakers of the conference were unable to attend at the last minute. They were Provincial Commissioner of Ontario W. H. J. Tisdale of Toronto and Executive Commissioner for Training in Canada, E. F. Mills of Ottawa.

Following their motto "Be Prepared" others spoke in their places Chief Executive Commissioner for Ontario Frank C. Irwin and Commissioner J. Harry Rigg of Oshawa. Other speakers and lecturers were Bob Johnston of Toronto headquarters and Doug MacConney of Galt.

WELL THOUGHT OF

Listening to the speakers it was evident that national headquarters in Ottawa thought extreme highly of the Lakefield Troop and its skipper, Mr. Jakins, The set-up that the troop had developed slowly over the past few years is "tops" anywhere, they said. Also the ideal location in the heart of the village, the enthusiastic backing of the village people and the ideal location made officials decide to hold the conference there. It was a second-time boost for the Lakefield Troop. In the summer of 1951, the first Canadian Sea Scout Gilwell training course for leaders was held there.

A dinner in the basement of Lakefield United Church, prepared by the Scout Mothers, was largely attended by guest scouters and village committeemen. Reeve Elwood Northey gave his greetings and welcome. Scout Chaplain the Rev. Lloyd Delaney said blessing and Lakefield Cub Master Tom Payton was presented with a Part Two Akela certificate by Commissioner Rigg. There was a second dinner on Sunday following a private open air service in Lakefield Park.

In addition to those already mentioned, the following were present at the conference:

Toronto: Bob Taylor, George Jones; Port Credit, John Hare, Ron Crossman; Hamilton, J. R. Dunbar, Bob Foster, Glen Tydd, Peter Bengafield, Alex Taylor; Galt, Bob Hedges, Dave Johnston; Preston, Bud and C. G. Pautler, Bill O'Callahan; Oshawa, Don Houlden; Lakefield, Theo Downs, Mel Kingdon, Harold Wilford; Ottawa, Stan Metcalfe, Dick Cowan, Jim Glass, George Ash; Quebec City, Bruce Robertson; Montreal, J. A. Smiley, M. D. Brown, C. R. Mallory, David Green, Russ Ball, Jack Cameron; Orillia, F. C. Conley.

43 Steps On Downhill Road To Alcoholism–Experts

By SIDNEY TAYLOR

GENEVA, Switzerland (Reuters)—There are 43 steps on the downhill road from that casual drink to acute alcoholism.

The steps were plotted in a new report on alcoholism released this weekend by the World Health Organization. They form a "chart of addiction" based on the drinking habits of more than 2,000 male alcohol addicts to enable scientists to classify excessive drinkers.

Women's habits weren't included because their progress to rack and ruin generally isn't as easy to folow as men's and they often sink faster.

CASUAL DRINK THE START

The chart shows that most cases get into trouble with those first occasional pick-me-up drinks. This casual drinking leads to "constant relief drinking" and the first sign of addiction, "alcoholic palimpsests"—technical term for forgetting what happened the night before.

Some of the main stages from then on:

1. The tippler stoops to surreptitious drinking.

2. He becomes preoccupied with alcohol, has one or two before going to a social function to fortify himself against a possible drought.

3. Loss of control. As soon as any small amount of alcohol enters the organism, there is an immediate demand for more.

WARNINGS START

4. Social pressures begin. His drinking behavior has become conspicuous. There is a marked loss of self-esteem as friends and relatives probably begin to warn him.

5. Grandiose behavior—extravagant expenditure and grandiloquence. Also marked aggressive behavior, generating guilt.

6. He "goes on the wagon" quite frequently.

7. He quits jobs. Sometimes he is fired, but more often he takes the initiative himself as an anticitory defence. About here he also beging to be concerned about how his activities might interfere with his drinking instead of vice versa.

8. Change in family habits. His wife and children may withdraw from him.

HEALTH DETIORATES

10. Neglect of proper nutrition begins to ruin his health, often leading to the hospital and decrease of the sexual drive.

11. Regular morning drinking, the beginning of the chronic phase.

12. The inability to do a simple mechanical act such as winding a watch without a drink.

13. The entire rationalization system fails. The addict admits defeat. He now becomes spontaneously accessible to treatment but his obsessive drinking continues, since he sees no way out.

Cobourg Church Free Of Debt

COBOURG (ENS). — Sunday was a special day for the congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church as it marked the clearing of the debt from the new church. The old church was destroyed by fire in 1937 and following a brief but intensive drive for funds, construction of a new church was started the same year and was ready for use in 1938. Miss Isabel Roddick, 92, touched a flame to the $6,000 mortgage document held by R. T. Mohan, who was chairman of the building fund and a member of the church here at the time it was built. The sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. J. B. Rhodes, who was minister at the time of the fire.

Douglas R. Nicholas Heads Oddfellows

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS)—The Oddfellows held their election of officers, with Douglas R. Nicholas being chosen as Noble Grand for the coming year. A. C. Newman was named vice grand and Ernest Archer was re-elected as recording secretary. Treasurer Earl Craighead and financial secretary P. R. Sherwin were re-elected.

Truck And Car Collide

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — A pickup truck and a car, both driven by Seymour township men, collided Saturday on Bridge St., causing a total of $300 damage. Andrew Haig started to drive away from the south curb opposite the Aron Theatre, when the truck of Roy Petherick of R.R. 2, Campbellford, collided with his vehicle.

Neither of the men was injred and acting chief constable W. E. (Fred) Cargin said no charges would be laid.

Firemen's Route To Blaze Blocked By Heavy Traffic

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — A grass fire that got out of control on the cattle ranch of William F. Scott on the outskirts of Campbellford was quelled by Campbellford firemen on Sunday evening, but not before it had spread to a loading platform and destroyed part of it.

The wooden loading platform fell prey to the flames which spread quickly, but the arrival of firemen with a pumper resulted in saving part of the structure.

Scores of automobiles followed the fire truck to the scene of the fire and solidly blocked roadways and driveways in the vicinity, hampering other firemen from reaching the scene.

If the fire had been a serious one, which it could easily have been, it would have been practically impossible for additional equipment or ambulances to get close to the scene.

Assistant fire chief vincent Farrell attempted to go to the fire after the alarm was sounded. The truck had left the firehall only a few moments before, but by the time the assistant chief got to downtown Campbellford, cars were lined up for over a half mile, and in some places proceeding in both lanes of the two-lane highway. The chief did get to the fire, but it took more than half an hour for him to do so, and the distance travelled was less than a mile. The fire truck had to wait until traffic was cleared out before it was able to leave the scene of the fire and get back to the firehall, which is another dangerous situation in itself.

Councillor Dave Ness, chairman of the fire, water and light committee, is quite concerned over the situation. Mr. Ness said Sunday evening that something would certainly have to be done, and pointed out that the town had a bylaw in force which regulates the distance at which vehicles may follow a fire truck belonging to the town, and also has a clause covering the hampering of firemen or their equipment in any way. "If the people continue to disregard the bylaw, then we will just have to make some prosecutions," said the fire commissioner.

Councillor Ness will no doubt mention the condition at the next meeting, asking for the backing of the council in controlling the situation.

C.G.E. Club Sold 4,300 Tickets Summer Theatre

A record sale of approximately 4,300 tickets to C.G.E. employees for the Summer Theatre plays this summer was reported by Bill Bennett, in charge of ticket sales for the Social and Athletic Club at the works.

For each play of season, one night was set aside for C.G.E. employees and for nearly all these nights there was a sell-out with an overflow attending other nights on several occasions.

The Summer Theatre management made it possible for the Social and Athletic Club of the works to purchase tickets in large blocks and sell them to employees at a saving.

Everybody Gives To The Church

The treasurer of the United Church of Canada, the Rev. Victor T. Mooney, has compared Canada's national income with what Canadians have claimed in exemption for contributions to charitable and religious organizations, and has told the General Council of the church which he serves that it amounts to the small figure of 1¼ per cent. He says that this is a small allowance for religious and charitable work, and we agree. But we do not believe that what Canadians claim as exempt on that account tells the true story of what they spend on charitable and religious work; indeed we are certain that it comes nowhere near it. Not only are there thousands of lost vouchers, and vouchers not offered to the tax authorities to be reckoned with; there are other, more tangible sums which are too often overlooked.

* * *

Every Canadian contributes something to the churches of his country, even though he may be a poor churchman, an agnostic or an outright atheist. He helps to pay the taxes on thousands of acres of church property. Such property is not taxed in the ordinary way, but it requires the services which are common in all settled districts and those services are paid for out of other taxation, and the tax-rate is correspondingly increased. The Canadian Broadcasting Company, which is supported by the people of Canada, gives a considerable amount of free time on the air to church broadcasts, and we read that a similar arrangement is to be made for television. All the people of Canada pay for that, and no figure which excludes these indirect contributions gives an accurate account of what the people of Canada give to the churches. It may not be much; it may not be enough; but it is considerably more than 1¼ per cent. of the national income.

* * *

A question of church finance which has been giving the Ontario government some concern of late is one which involves catering. It is a custom of long standing for women's organizations in churches to provide suppers and other meals associated with church causes and no one but a crank would find fault with such an arrangement. But it is not uncommon now for church organizations to undertake catering which is not for the furtherance of church work; it may be for private wedding receptions, or it may be for feeding groups of visitors from out of town, or it may be for a number of reasons. But it is a form of business which pays no business tax, and seriously undercuts legitimate catering firms who have employees to pay and overhead to reckon with. Queen's Park would be reluctant to interfere with what is undoubtedly the outcome of a friendly impulse and a desire to make money for the churches, but some limit must be set to the use which churches make of their many privileges; conducting business on untaxed premises is certainly not one of these.

The Bishop's Gaiters

The Long Island choirboy who brushed aside Victorian ideas on the deportment of children by asking the Archibishop of Canterbury why he wore "short pants" has started something. The official explanation is that bishops used to ride on horseback round their dioceses: now they travel by train or car or plane; but ecclesiastical dress (like ecclesiastical language) is conservative and is reluctant to give up old forms. The vestments used by the priest can be traced back to the costume of the Romans and the vestments used in the Temple. We are a little mystified by the little strings that adorn the episcopal hat: the cockney urchin in Punch surmised "them's 'is wireless aerials", but this appears to be an anachronism worthy of Shakespeare himself. The apron, worn by several higher ecclesiastical dignitaries, appears to be an abbreviated form of cassock adapted for riding. Strangely enough, or naturally enough, when bishops became mounted they still clung to the pastoral staff, which was originally associated with an occupation that is normally pursued on foot. Nearly all these garments had at one time or other a utilitarian character, but now they are either symbolic of doctrine or indicative of rank or office. These survivals of the past are not only of great historical interest, they are also extremely decorative. Bernard Shaw is said to have remarked to Dean Inge that a bishop in full walking-out dress is the most picturesque and handsome figure to be seen in England.

Other professions, too, show many traces of past ages in more or less rudimentary form, like the human appendix, which is now quite useless except for the purpose of contracting appendicitis but once fulfilled a useful function in the process of digestion at some earlier period in the evolution of Homo Sapiens. There is the wig, still worn in English courts of law, and the ceremonial swords whose only modern use is to cut wedding-cakes. Even the ordinary everyday dress of the man in the street shows vestiges of former costumes. The lapels of our coats still sport the notches that commemorate a change of fashion round about 1780, when the coat, which was formerly buttoned up to the top, was folded back from the neck to display the cravat.

A more light-hearted explanation of the archbishop's gaiters is that they are intended to show that the owner is possessed of horse sense. If we had been in the Archbishop's place we might have asked the Long Island choirboy why he too was wearing short pants, using a method of deflecting frivolous questions that has many precedents in Holy Writ.

When Ghost Meets Ghost

An element in the U.S. presidential campaign which astonishes and, we must say, grieves us, is the part which "ghost writers" appear to play in it. Mr. Adlai Stevenson taunts Mr. Eisenhower with not knowing or understanding the speeches which he reads; the name of Mr. Stevenson's speech-writer, on the other hand, is well known and often referred to in the press. We find this situation unnerving.

When Mr. Eisenhower or Mr. Stevenson goes to the White House, will his literary ghost go with him? When the next President of the U.S.A. makes a public pronouncement, will it be in his words or in those of an assistant? Of course, it may be that Mr. Eisenhower and Mr. Stevenson tell their writers what they want to say, and the writer then decides how to say it. But a man who takes orders from one boss may equally well take them from another, and we shall never be quite sure who told the President's writer to say what the President is heard to utter.

We are somewhat alarmed, also, that a great nation thinks a man fit to be its President who is apparently incapable of writing his own speeches. Let no one say that he is too busy. Great leaders in the past (and a few who could be named in the present) prepare their own addresses, and they are the best oratory of the day. We have all read how Lincoln made the notes for his great speech at Gettysburg while travelling on the train. Lincoln did not need a ghost writer.

The notion that an important man need not prepare his own speeches can, if it takes hold, cut the heart out of statesmanship and reduce it to the level of politics. We would rather hear an honest paragraph of what Eisenhower or Stevenson thinks than the most complex speech prepared, under orders, by a stooge.

Teachers As Jurymen

An Ohio judge has caused a mild flurry in that state by refusing to excuse school teachers from jury duty; apparently the importance of their work has gained them exemption before this. In Canada—or at least in this part of Canada—teachers usually serve on juries when they are called, and their occupation is not in itself a reason for exempting them. And we feel that this is as it should be; if we were being tried for some serious offence, we should want the most intelligent jury that could be found, and we would be happy to see a few teachers in the box. Incidentally, we think that a teacher who had served on a jury would gain something from the experience.

There are few people whose work is so unimportant that it can be easily set aside when a call to jury duty comes; sometimes pleas to be excused are so convincing that a considerable number of talesmen are exempted. But whenever possible a good citizen should make the sacrifice and serve his time in the jury box. It is not fair to those who are on trial, nor is it good for justice that juries should be composed of people who have nothing of importance to do outside the court; such people are not the ones to whom extremely important democratic duties should be delegated.

The ideal jury is not one composed of geniuses or experts in matters relating to the case under consideration; the ideal jury, we think, is made up of citizens who are of the more intelligent kind, but who are not removed by exceptional gifts from the ordinary matters of every day. Certainly it is desirable that a majority of people on any jury should be workers in jobs which bring them into touch with a wide variety of people.

Rebuilding Germany's Armies

By RICHARD LOWENTHAL

WEST GERMAN military experts now calculate that recruiting here for German army units may start by January 1 next year, and that the German long-service cadre for the European Army will be completed by the summer of 1953. But after more than a year of planning and discussions, they are still unable to make even a preliminary selection of the top personnel—simply because there is still no certainty whether the European Defence Treaty will be ratified by all the signatories, and if so, when.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE general assumption here is that German ratification will be obtained by the end of October, and ratification by France and the other participants by December. If that comes true, recruiting could start on January 1—and start from scratch. For the moment, the office of Western Germany's Security Commissioner, Herr Theodor Blank, employs a total of about one hundred people in Bonn and Paris, counting economic and legal experts, secretaries and charwomen, as well as a small corps of former Wehrmacht officers. Even they are employed on a purely temporary basis and cannot be certain that they will form part of the future military set-up.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN CONTRAST to Eastern Germany, where the future conscript army will be built around the cadres trained by the military formations of the People's Police, no organized pool of trained men exists in Western Germany for that purpose. The Federal Border Police of nine thousand men is being jealously guarded by the Ministry of the Interior, so much so that the Blank office is strongly opposed to its extension now, so as to avoid the drawing off of the cream of able-bodied youngsters into a professional police career. The larger mobile police detachments, which the Federal Government, with Allied permission, proposed to raise as early as 1950, and which might have developed into the reservoir now needed, were never created owing to opposition by the State governments. The German "service groups" with the Allied armies, where many of the technical specialists required for the long-service cadres could be found, will be dissolved only gradually in the course of the next two years and are not available for immediate recruiting. As for the veterans' leagues, which made so much noise last autumn and winter, their use as a basis of selection has been ruled out for obvious political reasons.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE actual process of building the new cadre army will thus have to start from the top, beginning with the difficult problem of selecting a few high-ranking officers. These will include the "zone commander" for Germany, who is to be in charge of the whole recruiting and training operation during the first eighteen months, and should be an experienced leader of men capable of applying new and more liberal methods of military discipline and of infusing the German divisions with a true European spirit; the German top military expert for the European Commissariat, who should be a staff officer of the highest organising ability as well as of proved capacity to work smoothly with his colleagues on an international board; and presumably a German liaison officer with Shape (Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers, Europe), who should be able to contribute to the planning of the Nato (North Atlantic Treaty Organisation) High Command from the great operative experience of the German general staff.

✧ ✧ ✧

NEXT TO THEM, three of four corps commanders who will have non-German as well as German divisions under their control, and twelve commanders for German divisions, as well as the heads of military schools, will have to be selected with their political record and outlook, as well as their military ability, in mind, and the West German Federal Parliament is sure to take a lively interest in their selection. One suggestion current here is that a mixed committee should be formed for this purpose out of senior officers no longer intending to serve, and of members of the Bundestag (Lower House of Parliament), so as to diffuse responsibility and create confidence in the impartiality of the process from the start.

✧ ✧ ✧

IDEAS FOR GOOD men to fill the top positions are naturally not lacking here, nor is there a shortage of volunteer officers or long service specialists: the problem of overcoming the anti-militaristic mood of large groups of the population will become serious only much later, at the conscription stage. But the best of the former generals may be the most difficult to secure, because they have often been the most successful in finding satisfactory civilian jobs—and nobody can yet promise them for certain whether or when the European Army will want them.

✧ ✧ ✧

EVEN AFTER the officer corps has been recruited, which might be by March, much time will still have to be spent in familiarising them with the progress of arms technique and military thinking since 1945. The plans now under discussion for inviting large numbers of reactivated German officers for training courses in the United States or Britain are welcomed here, but with the wistful comment that if that had been possible at an earlier stage, the men so trained would have been available for training others from the start of recruitment.

✧ ✧ ✧

IF ALL goes well, a long-service cadre of eighty thousand Germans should be available by the summer of next year—and then it will urgently require sufficient modern arms for mass training if keen men with war experience are not to be demoralised by fruitless exercises with sham weapons. As German arms production is as yet non-existent, and will at any rate produce no heavy equipment for a considerable time, owing to the large preliminary investment required for that, the needed weapons will by then have to start arriving from the United States. There are some informal assurances that this will be taken care of as far as possible, but no certainty.

✧ ✧ ✧

DESPITE THE large number of question marks in this timetable, the West German experts are not unduly worried about the advantage the East German Communist regime has gained by its quicker rearmament. At present, the expansion of the Eastern cadre army may have reached a total of one hundred thousand, but it is still kept fairly slow by the reluctance of the young people to volunteer, while Eastern conscription is evidently awaiting the conclusion of the Four-Power exchange of Notes on German unity and the formal public approval by the East bloc States.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE GREATEST difficulty foreseen by military men here for the future development of the Eastern Army is the lack of reliable middle-rank officers with experience of the last war: this group, it is claimed, has been immunised against Communism even more than other Germans by its clash with the Russians. If things go well on the Western side from now on, it is estimated that the build-up of the Eastern Army will be ahead by not more than one year at first—and in the long run the greater manpower reserves of Western Germany and the constant drain of youthful refugees from East to West are bound to tell.

FROM RAGS TO RICHES IN THREE GENERATIONS

Shakespeare And The Party Line

(OTTAWA CITIZEN)

"THE Merry Wives of Windsor" will be produced in Ottawa this season by the Little Theatre, and audiences in Communist-run East Germany will see this Shakespearean comedy, too. But the two versions are likely to be very different. An East German writer has undertaken to make the play ideologically correct, showing Falstaff as the representative of a degenerate feudal class disporting himself in the new bourgeois society. Germany has long been noted for meticulous Shakespearean scholars. Put an excessively-serious German mind to work making "The Merry Wives" into a lesson on the class struggle, however, and the result, it is to be feared, will not bear much resemblance to Shakespeare.

In the play, Windsor society does represent the Puritanism of the new middle class in late medieval times, and Falstaff is an anachronism, an impecunious soldier of fortune unscrupulously battening on other people. All this is implicit in the original version. And it must be admitted that Falstaff is not at his best in this comedy. He comes dangerously close to being just a very nasty old man. Nevertheless, he is more than a stock figure, more than a caricature of knighthood no longer in flower. He is a human being, an individual character, and a good deal more interesting as a personality than the somewhat less than merry husbands of Windsor.

Shakespeare was in the business of play production at a time when political censorship made social criticism inexpedient. Yet he would not have achieved immortality if he had simply glorified society as he found it. He was as much aware of injustices as anyone in those days. In Hamlet, for example, Ophelia's gravediggers deplore the fact that "great folk" are privileged to be buried in consecrated ground even when they hang or drown themselves. Their theory that the only gentlemen are diggers echoes that jingle of the Peasants Revolt: "When Adam delved and Eve span, who was then the gentleman?"

In contrast to the Greek dramatists, who made their characters victims of circumstances determined by the indifferent gods, Shakespeare created people who, whatever the setting, reveal the facets of human nature. He was interested primarily not in plot, ideas, or doctrines, but in character. As St. John Irvine has remarked, "we find more of ourselves in this man's work than in the work of any one else". Though a playwright engrossed in ideology may produce effective propaganda pieces, he will be forgotten. The great artist knows the human heart, and his work is, as Ben Jonson said of Shakespeare, "not of an age, but for all time".

What? No Opportunities!

(Lethbridge Herald)

Who says there are no opportunities any more?

We heard of a "green Irishman" who came to a South Alberta town some six months ago direct from the Ould Sod. He must have been a bit of a hustler. First he got a job on a bread route that takes his time till noon. In the afternoon he sells radios. In the evening he sells deep freeze units.

His earnings from his three jobs are now running at the rate of over $4,000 a year.

No more opportunities? No more frontier? There wasn't a "no" in this Irishman's vocabulary.

"What an interesting mountain. There must be stories about it."

"Sure are. Once two people went up there and never came back."

"Goodness! What happened?"

"Went down the other side."

✧ ✧ ✧

"Why didn't you stop when I signalled?" roared the traffic policeman at the man in the wheezy old car.

"Well, you see," explained the motorist, "it took me over two hours to get this old bus started, and it seemed a shame to stop it just for a little thing like avoiding arrest."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Nebuchadnezzar the king made an image of gold, whose height was three-score cubits, and the breadth thereof six cubits: he set it up in the plain of Dura, in the province of Babylon . . . Wherefore at that time certain Chaldeans came near and accused the Jews . . . Nebuchadnezzar spake and said unto them. Is it true, O Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, do not ye serve my gods, nor worship the golden image which I have set up? Now if ye be ready that at what time ye hear the sound of the cornet, flute, harp, sackbut, psaltery, and dulcimer, and all kinds of musick, ye fall down and worship the image which I have made; well: but if ye worship not, ye shall be cast the same hour into the midst of a burning fiery furnace; and who is that God that shall deliver you out of my hands?

Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, answered and said to the king, O Nebuchadnezzar, we are not careful to answer thee in this matter. If it be so, our God whom we serve is able to deliver us from the burning fiery furnace, and he will deliver us out of thine hand, O king. But if not, be it known unto thee, O king, that we will not serve thy gods, nor worship the golden image which thou hast set up . . .

Then these men were bound in their coats, their hosen, and their hats, and their other garments, and were cast into the midst of the burning fiery furnace . . . Then Nebuchadnezzar the king was astonished, and rose up in haste, and spake, and said unto his counsellors, Did not we cast three men bound into the midst of the fire? They answered and said unto the king, True, O king.

He answered and said, Lo, I see four men loose, walking in the midst of the fire, and they have no hurt; and the form of the fourth is like the Son of God. Then Nebuchadnezzar came near to the mouth of the burning fiery furnace, and spake, and said, Shadrach, Mesdach, and Abed-nego, ye servants of the most high God, come forth, and come hither. Then Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, came forth of the midst of the fire. And the princes, governors, and captains, and the king's counsellors, being gathered together, saw these men, upon whose bodies the fire had no power, nor was an hair of their head singed, neither were their coats changed, nor the smell of fire had passed on them. (Dan. 3: 1, 8, 14-18, 21, 24-27.)

Toe-Twinklers

(Halifax Chronicle-Herald)

An ingenious Japanese shoemaker has invented "firefly sandals" for women. A baby battery is concealed in the heel and a bulb in the toe.

They are only a novelty, of course, but what a boon they could be! If the beam were strong enough, perhaps one wouldn't need to carry a flashlight, and for protection on the roads, they might prove useful as an indication to motorists that a pedestrian was en-route somewhere.

A novelty they doubtless will remain — but a delightful and ingenious invention. No doubt the toe-twinklers will appear on this continent in due order and have their brief moment of popularity.

September

(Guelph Mercury)

September, month of peace and plenty, is with us again. Ripeness touching fields and gardens. Days, though shortening, holding twilight tuned to crickets' serenading. Dawn misty, but later aglow with sunshine. Barn bays filled with meadow harvests. Threshers busy in the fields.

Robins teaching young to fly in preparation for return to the south. Early fall singing of achievement.

Butterflies hovering over milkweed halos. Boneset and Joe Byeweed blooming. Corn filling out in the valleys. Apples, peaches, berries—bounties of a season's mellowness. Royal September lavish ever.

Lcs Reid Champ Third Year In Golf Tourney

For the third straight year, Les Reid of the Peterborough Golf & Country Club captured the men's city golf championship. He posted a 78 Sunday in the second round at the Kawartha links to match his 78 of the previous weekend at Peterborough for a winning total of 156, three under the runner-up, Stan Payne of Peterborough and Errol Hanbidge of Kawartha, each with 159.

Thirty of the best golfers in the city, representing the two clubs here, teed off in the first round Sept. 7 at the northend course, and finished it up Sunday at the westend layout. The final results:

Les Reid (P) 156, S. Payne (P) and E. Hanbidge (K) 159, S. Whiddon (K) 162, Ned Vitarelli (K) and J. Hardill (P) 163, J. Inglis (K) 164, F. Dunfield (K) 165, J. Watson (P) 165, I. PETERBOROUGH'S GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP fell to Peterborough Golf and Country Club's Les Reid for the third time in succession Sunday afternoon at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club. It was the first time that the J. E. Girven Trophy has been won three times by any one golfer Reid chalked up a 78 Sunday and with a 78 a week ago won the championship. With trophy and clubs (above) Reid is well loaded down.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

APPROVE INSURANCE PLAN

TWEED (CP)—The Ontario Minor Hockey Association executive at a week-end meeting here approved a plan of insuring players, managers, coaches and referees against accident or injury. The plan now goes to the annual meeting for approval.

The insurance, to be provided to teams at a low premium rate, covers travel to and from games as well as accidents in play.

The executive also decided to recommend to the annual meeting that teams representing townships would not be admitted to the league—they must represent villages, towns or cities; that referees' forums be abolished and be replaced by rules meetings with managers and coaches.

A presentation was made to President Herbert Parker of Stratford in recognition of his work for minor hockey.

Building Of Trinity Hall "Great Act Of Faith" Says Minister At Opening

This beautiful new hall is in itself a great act of faith and worship, the Very Rev. J. W. Woodside of Ottawa, and former Moderator of the United Church of Canada, said in his message at the opening and dedication service of the Trinity United Church Hall Sunday afternoon.

Aproximately 400 members of Trinity congregation and guests from other churches attended this service of dedication.

RESPONSE TO NEED

"In a time of great achievement such as the completion of this hall I think that we should remember that the United Church was instituted in response to a great human need. And that the church like this hall came into being by a great spirit of co-operation," Mr. Woodside said.

He explained that since the year of union, 1925, not only in Canada but throughout the world there had been a great increase of co-operation. This had been shown in the founding of the Canadian Council of Churches and the World Council of Churches.

"All these organiations have been founded by the common faith that Jesus Christ is our Saviour and Lord," he said.

Mr. Woodside also commented on the exploratory conversations with Anglican Church officials that have been held recently and stated the belief that an issue would come out of these meetings.

Turning outside the church, the Ottawa clergyman pointed out that a spirit of co-operation was manifesting itself in agreements between nations. He mentioned the North Atlantic Pact and the United Nations Organization.

"This spirit of co-operation which is spreading is in answer to the challenge of human need," he said. "If we don't lift more unfortunate nations than ours to our level, they will inevitably drag us down to theirs."

But treaties and pacts or even arms are powerless to bring men the security they want.

SECURITY IN GOD

"Our only real security is in God. God has His plan and we must follow His plan to survive," Mr. Woodside concluded. "Man has spiritual, physical and moral freedom within well-defined limits. There are many things men and nations can do in defiance of God, but one thing neither can do is build upon sand and survive. God is the rock upon which we must build, and we must learn to live in God's way, in co-operation."

During the service greetings were given from the immediate past Moderator of the United Church, the Right Rev. C. M. Nicholson, by Mr. Woodside. The Rev. A. A. Mathews of George Street United Church brought greetings on behalf of the Bay of Quinte Conference.

The greetings of the Peterborough Presbytery were expressed by the Rev. N. Cole, chairman, and of the Peterborough Ministerial Association by the Rev. M. P. Poole of All Saints' Church.

SPECIAL MUSIC

Special music for the service was provided by the choir under the direction of Donald Kennedy, organist, who sang the Hallelujah Chorus from, The Mount of Olives, by Beethoven.

Following the service the congregation were led by the clergy and church officials to the southwest entrance of the new hall which was officially opened for them by the architect, E. C. Horwood, and the contractor, Charles Huffman.

When all were assembled in the auditorium of the hall, Mr. Huffman presented the key of the new building to Mr. Horwood, who in turn presented it to J. E. Girven, chairman of the building committee. Mr. Girven presented it to the Rev. Dr. D. Bruce Gordon, who made the final presentation to R. F. Downey, clerk of the Session.

Each of the participants in this ceremony spoke of the co-operation and hardwork that had been necessary to make the completion of the hall possible. It was called and symbol and a dedication to the spiritual growth of the present and future generations of children.

The service came to an end with the formal dedication by Mr. Woodside with congregation taking part.

A quartette, Mrs. G. Archer, Mrs. J. McNeill, Mrs. C. Crowe and Mrs. D. B. Gordon, sang, Bless This House.

Bad Fumbles Give Argos 24-19 Win Over Rough Riders

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Fumbles will kill you in Canadian football. If proof is needed, ask Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four and Winnipeg Blue Bombers, leaders in the Western Canada conference.

Both clubs were winging to victories Saturday when a bad dose of greasy fingers led directly to their downfall.

Rough Riders, seeking their first victory over Toronto Argonauts in two seasons, led the Double Blue 19-18 with less than five minutes remaining when Bruce Cummings muffed a third-down snap. Argos took over on the Ottawa five and cashed in on a touchdown by pint-sized Doug Pyzer.

The result: Ottawa 19 Toronto 24.

If Riders feel badly about the Cummings miscue, they might consider the case of the Bombers who had 9,600 hometown fans in high glee with a comfortable 9-0 third-quarter edge over the third-place Edmonton Eskimos. Then a couple of kids called Gerry—James and Palmer—developed the jitters, and their fourth-quarter fumbles were just what the Eskimos needed.

TWO BIG TOUCHDOWNS

Before Bombers knew it, the Esks whipped over for two touchdowns with playing-coach Frankie Filchock directing traffic via the aerial route. Those fumbles cost the Bombers an 11-9 loss.

In other games Calgary Stampeders climbed to within one point of the Bombers with a 30-20 victory over Regina Roughriders; the Big Four cellar-dwelling Montreal Alouettes were crushed 30-12 by Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Toronto Balmy Beach made it 24-11 over Windsor while Sarnia trounced Brantford 18-0 in Ontario Rugby Football Union games.

The Als probably will blame an overcrowded backfield, 93-degree weather and a squishy forward wall for their loss at Hamilton. They had fumbles that contributed to their loss but the main trouble was that fellows in the Tiger-Cat black and yellow uniforms were pouring in when the Als had possession of the ball.

Montreal quarter Sam Etcheverry was plastered for big losses by linemen Vince Mazza, Vince Scott and Eddie Bevan. This was going on most of the afternoon, but the final wilting of the Als came in the fourth quarter when Hamilton, leading 13-12, cracked over for three touchdowns.

SHOW EARLY SPARK

The Als, still looking for their first victory, showed their best with a 12-7 lead early in the third quarter, mainly on the play of Etcheverry who tossed a touchdown pass to Tom Hanlon early in the game and then went over himself.

Doug Gray led the Tiger-Cat scorers with two touchdowns. Tip Logan went over for one and added four converts.

The Stampeders, paced by the sensational running of Johnny Bright and Dave West, spotted Regina a touchdown at the game-opening kickoff, went ahead 12-6 at the half and increased it to 18-6 going into the final quarter.

Bright galloped 67 yards for a touchdown and West scooted 112 yards down the side to add another that just about took the heart out of the Riders who have managed only two victories in seven times out.

Playing-coach Glenn Dobbs of the Riders connected for three touchdown passes and Stampeder quarter Keith Spaith hit for two.

The Ottawa-Toronto game was a thriller most of the way. Argonauts, league leaders with three straight victories, came from behind three times to tickle the crowd of more than 19,000 who sat in their shirt sleeves in 90-degree weather.

TRAIL AT OUTSET

They trailed 7-0 at the half and 14-11 at the three-quarter mark and then added two converted touchdowns and a single against a touchdown by Pete Karpuk who plucked an Argonaut pass out of the air and scampered 80 yards for the major.

Ulysses Curtis, the league's leading scorer, went over for two Argonaut touchdowns and import outside Al Bruno got another. Joe Krol converted three of the majors and kicked a single for the other Argo points.

Gene Roberts and Gino Mazzanti took Tom O'Malley's passes for touchdowns and Ottawa's other points came on two converts by Buck Rogers and two singles by Cummings.

Stock Car Driver Dies Of Injuries

PHILADELPHIA (CP) — Larry Mann, of White Plains, N. Y., died last night of injuries suffered when his car overturned during the 250-mile Grand National stock car championship race at Langhorne Speedway.

Another driver, Nelson Applegate, Mount Tabor, N. J., is in hospital with what may be a fractured skull. He lost control of his car and tumbled over the short guard rail.

Takes Verbal Swing At His No. 1 Rival

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Felix Bocchicchio, manager of heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott, today took a verbal swing at his No. 1 rival, Al Weill, manager of challenger Rocky Marciano.

Felix' words were, of course, coincidental with the fact that Jersey Joe and Rocky have a title fight date in Philadelphia Sept 23.

Weill, said Bocchicchio, should be required to undergo a thorough medical examination. The fight "will be a terrible strain on him," said Felix.

"When Walcott hits Marciano on the chin and knocks him out, it is sure to have a mighty bad effect on Weill."

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Whether folks disliked some phases of the Ex. or not at least grandstandees all seemed to enjoy thoroughly the harness horse races in the four-day meet. Peterborough pacers and drivers proved they belong up there with the best by capturing quite a few events. Lady Victoria and Gadabout were most impressive, coming through again Saturday aft to win the 2.27 and 2.22 respectively. Miss Chipso took a first and a third at night in a classified event, the free-for-all going to the Hon. Earl Rowe's classy Celia's Counsel. Hugh Davis was the leading driver of the meet with seven firsts—one more than Jimmy McIntyre, also from these parts. Good going.

It was 12-5 for Cobourg's Galloping Ghosts over our grid Orfuns in the lakeshore town Saturday aft, a day more suitable for sprawling on their fine beach than banging each other's brains out. Tony Kotowski's locals made a creditable showing against the packed Ghosts, who have been busy raiding Oshawa and Peterborough teams as well as bringing 'em in from Toronto. Orfuns had Fred Dufton &Co. (incorporated) in a tizzy by scoring the first major of the melee, but the Ghosts came on later to yank out a win, their second in two starts. They'll have more respect for the Petes from here in. Those Orillia gridders will help plenty, but we didn't have the bench strength the Rapid Wraiths boast. Orfuns open their home schedule this coming Friday eve.

Petes Even Loop Finals

Kingstoh Monarchs and the Petes are all square again in their peculiar C.O.B.L. final series. Each have won two in the best-of-seven set, with the fifth listed for 8.30 here tonight under the Riverside arcs. The odd part is that each club has won twice on foreign terrain, dropping home decisions rather decisively. This can't keep up, or the K's will take the odd tilt for the title. So, it's up to the Stewart squad to click for a victory tonight and get back in the driver's seat. Lefty Bill Dadson came up with a swell two-hit hurling performance, and it looked for quite a spell like a no-hitter. Whole club clicked well, Bill Huntley making it in time for the joust after a rugged rugby session in Cobourg in the afternoon. Yeah, it's developed into a hot series.

* * * * * *

The Peterborough minor lacrosse crews journeyed to St. Catharines on the weekend, where they divided a play-off twin bill. Our bantams dropped a 19-6 O.L.A. bantam "A" semi-final, which puts 'em down 13 goals on the round with the return scrap here on Saturday. Ron Jay was the pick of the pack coached by Gary Robinson. Juvenile joust was something else again, as the young Petes racked up a 15-4 win to tote home an 11-goal margin for the next tilt Saturday eve. Bob Allan sniped four goals for Doug Miller's team, Bob Curtis hit the twine three times, Jack Hobart had a pair, and Lionel Bloom turned in a solid effort, with the club as a whole showing up real well. This series is juvenile "B" finals.

Soccer Club On Rampage

Looks like the local U.E.W. soccer club is going to take the Ontario intermediate title again. 'Twas 7-0 for the Peterborough pack here Saturday aft against Kingston Uniteds, with the return tilt of the goals-to-count final series in the Limestone City this coming weekend. Although the Uniteds put up a real struggle, U. E. seemed inspired and turned in a whale of a performance from goal out. Andy Smith was hotter than somewhat as he scored four markers, Johnny Ryan tallying two and Bob Strong getting the other. Defence was solid, too. U. E. last year won the E.O.F.L. crown and the Ontario cup. Apparently, they are out to duplicate the double win this season.

The O.H.A. senior "B" groups were formed in Oshawa yesterday to play an interlocking schedule. Kingston, Belleville and the Petes are in one, while Stouffville, Orillia and Oshawa make up the other. The Eagles made application by wire to Convener Lorne Cook of Kingston, as a delaying action until the O.H.A. has dealt with officials' re-instatement. However, the feeling of the meeting was that Peterborough should be represented by but one club in order to cut down on too many long trips. Hence, at present it appears as if the Eagles' chances of getting aboard are slim. The session agreed on 15 home games for each club, starting Nov. 1 and winding up Feb. 21. Then top two teams in each group would meet in best-of-seven with the survivors clashing in a similar series to end March 21. That's the dope at the moment.

WHO'S AFRAID OF GHOSTS? Not the Orfuns, said the players Saturday, even though they lost their first game to Cobourg's Galloping Ghosts, 12-5. The Ghosts, a powerful club last year, led 6-5 until the last quarter and didn't show their 1951 power. Meanwhile the Orfuns met them at par. The Orfuns' line worked the Ghosts' backfield over well, Darcy Campbell (top photo, white centre) stumbles over teammate Boyd Hendry while loaded down with Bill Huntley and R. Wilde. A second later Campbell was down as Beavis (extreme left) and Bob White (58) piled on. Jim Wilde, former Orillia star, scored Orfuns' touchdown while on his knees (lower photo, second from left on knees) to give them a 5-0 lead.—(Examiner Staff Photos).

Petes Beat Monarchs, 5-0 On Dadson's 2-Hitter To Even Central Loop Set

KINGSTON (Special)—Kingston Monarchs' amazing dominance on the road and their failure to exhibit superiority over visiting teams in Megaffin Memorial Stadium collaborate in forming a problem difficult to explain. The skein of upsetting events was continued here on Saturday night, when the Peterborough Petes racked up a 5 to 0 triumph and deadlocked the Central Ontario Baseball League finals at 2 to 2 and not a home victory in the lot. Those mysterious goings-on began in the semi-finals when the Monarchs lost two of three tests against the Belleville Redmen in the local stadium but won three or four in the Moira River city. It will thus be seen that in 11 playoff games they have won five of six away and only one of four on their home field. If this trend continues the series will be extended to the best-of-seven limit and the Monarchs will earn the crown in a stricken and astonished Peterborough.

DADSON SHINES

It was a case of too much Lefty Dadson in the Saturday outing here. The crafty portside flinger, who had claimed 14 strikeout victims in his previous local appearance, pitched hitless ball through seven and two-third innings and was knocking loudly at the Hall of Fame door until pinch-hitter Stan Scrutton clouted a freakish infield bounder and beat the throw to first base. Eddie Deans, first up in the Monarch ninth, singled cleanly to left field but was left stranded when the next three batsmen were retired.

Only 32 batsmen faced the clever Peterborough moundsman. Three reached the runway on errors; two hit safely, eight struck out and none walked. Wally Stinson, who allowed five hits and as many runs—only two of them earned—in six innings, was the official loser. Tommy Ryder and Norman Harry, who worked two and one innings in that order, toiled in a lost cause.

NEARLY A SCRAP

Arn Dugan figured in an incident in the sixth inning that almost precipitated a free-for-all battle. Dugan, leading off, was hit by Stinson and was later thrown out when he tried to pilfer second base. Jerry McCormick, who did the tagging, received a painful gash on his right hand when struck by Dugan's flying spikes and during the heated debate that followed, Clark Carnegie and Dugan almost came to blows. McCormick was taken out of the game and replaced by Eddie Deans, who, as related, got the only clean hit off Dadson's perfect control delivery.

Bryan Young, first up in the third inning, broke the hitless spell when he singled to left. He was sacrificed to second by Dadson. Little Gary Kearns grounded out but Bill Edger singled to left centre. Scoring Young, with one out in the next franm, Bill Huntley, who incidentally had participated in Peterborough's losing football effort against the Cobourg Galloping Ghosts on Saturday afternoon, doubled to deep left. Joe Stewart grounded out but Dugan hit to left for two bases, scoring "Ironman" Huntley.

Good fortune smiled on the Petes and frowned on the Monarchs when the former racked up three tainted markers after two were out in the fifth. A walk to Edger and successive errors by Buddy Allan that prevented the extinction of Don Bigford and Joe Lowrey loaded the sacks. Huntley immediately duplicated his two-bagger effort and drove in all three runners.

U.E.W. Soccer Club Takes 7-0 Win Over Kingston To Lead Ontario Playoffs

Peterborough U.E.W. swamped Kingston Uniteds 7-0 here on Saturday to open their home-and-home soccer finals for the Ontario intermediate cup, presently held by U.E. Return game of the goals-to-count series is listed for next Saturday afternoon in Kingston. Despite the score it was a first-class contest here, as the Uniteds put up a battling display, and U.E. turned in a top performance in all departments. Good soccer was the order, in spite of intense heat.

Within two minutes of play, Johnny Ryan tested Goalie Pollard of Kingston. Seconds later, a long shot by Murray was pulled out of the air and then Cumersky tried one which went wide. They kept blasting away with Billy Holroyd at right wing always a threat. He kept sending across some fine centres to the eager U.E. forwards.

KEPT IN CHECK

Gillespie, the ever-dangerous Kingston centre forward was kept under control by Munday but he came close to scoring within the first ten minutes. Ray Titshall was drawn out of the net as Gillespie siezed a loose ball to drive fiercely from 25 yards out, but it hit the crossbar. Andy Smith opened the scoring after 30 minutes on a pass from G. Smith, driving the ball in from 15 yards away.

Two minutes later, he made it 2-0 with a grand shot from the left corner, curving into the top of the net with Pollard well beaten. Kingston kept fighting back, but the half ended 2-0.

Ryan kicked off to send Cumersky away in a clever dash and hard drive that hit the post with the defenders beaten. U. E. began to dominate play again and, after 15 minutes, Johnny Ryan made it 3-0 from a ground pass by Andy Smith. Bob Strong scored shortly after from left wing and the count was 4-0. Andy Smith, always moving and tricky, notched his "hat trick" goal to finish clever work by Billy Cumersky, the tally reaching 5-0.

HAD FIELD DAY

The local forwards were having a field day by now. Glenn Davies in a spectacular dash came close but the defence scrambled the ball away. The U. E. goal was attacked at times but Ray Titshall pulled excellent saves, while Jimmy Craig, Fred Munday and Bob Croll broke up many attacks from well out. Once Croll had to kick the ball off the goal line to save with Titshall down.

With the defence steady, the forwards could concentrate on the attack. Andy Smith scored his fourth goal of the game—despite playing throughout with a broken wrist in a cast—to bring the score to 6-0 for U.E. It was left to Ryan to notch the last one of the match on a fine individual play. It was a fitting climax to a grand display of football by the winners. The team was:

Jimmy Craig (captain), Bob Croll, Fred Munday, Ray Titshall, George Smith, Jock Murray, Bob Strong, Bill Cumersky, John Ryan, Andy Smith, Bill Holroyd, Glen Davies, Bill Allen, John Holt.

Referee, Jack Adams.

Locals Divide Twin Bill In O.L.A. Play

ST. CATHARINES (Special) — St. Catharines and Peterborough minor lacrosse teams split a double-header at Haig Bowl on Saturday night. In the first game, St. Catharines Norsemen handed Petes a 19-6 setback in the semi-finals of the O.L.A. bantam playoffs, and in the second contest Petes came back to defeat St. Catharines' juvenile Athletics by a correspondingly large score of 15-4. Both rounds are based on two games, total goals, and as a result St. Catharines bantams will carry a 13-goal lead into the second game of their series next Saturday and Peterborough juveniles will hold an 11-goal edge over Athletics in the second half of the twin bill at Miller Bowl.

Petes held St. Catharines Norsemen to a 4-2 lead in first quarter of the bantam game but the Garden City club poured seven goals into the Peterborough net in the second quarter and held an 11-3 margin at the half. Brian Hill with five goals, and Walt Urhynuk with four, paced the St. Catharines bantams, while Bob Ewer scored three, Ken Mason two with singles by Jim Troyan, Don Carr, Ron Neuman, Jack Paulmarche and Walt Coupland. Ron Jay was easily the pick of the Peterborough team, scoring four of their six goals with one each going to Larry Ferguson and Ricky Pace.

JUST THE OPPOSITE

The juvenile game was just the reverse of the bantam opener. From the first whistle Petes were the aggressors and held a wide margin in territorial play throughout the 60 minutes. Bob Allan was the top marksman for the good Peterborough team, scoring four goals. However, the most impressive player on the crease was Lionel Bloom whose driving style of play had the 500 fans envisioning him on the senior Peterborough club within the next couple of years. Bob Curtis also scored three for Peterborough, Jack Hobart two and singles by Bob Delehay, Art Batley and Jim Sutherland. For St. Catharines, Peter Saliken scored three and Wimpy Roberts one.

Bantam Petes — Goal, Baker; defence, Parry, English; rover, Lawrence; centre, Atkinson; forwards, Jay, Scharf; alternates, Mahoney, Ferguson, Strano, Parnell, Pace, Hawthorne, Coombes, Robinson.

St. Catharines—Goal, Hutchinson; defence, Hill, Uhrynuk; rover, Mason; centre, Troyan; forwards, Asadorian, Carr; alternates, Ewer, Neuman, Paulmarche, Kretz, Olsen, Benner, Coupland.

Juvenile Petes—Goal, Simmons; defence, Curtis, Bloom; rover, Allan; centre, Holbrook; forwards, Hunt, Delehay; alternates, Batley, Hobart, Foote, Orde, Ferren, Sutherland.

St. Catharines—Goal, Gemmel; defence, Saliken, Lamber; rover, Damico; centre, Page; forwards, Hill, Meighan; alternates, Bradley, Irwin, Roberts, McCallum, Redman, Hastings.

TWO-HITTER — Lefty Bill Dadson came up with a two-hit hurling performance in Kingston on Saturday to blank the Monarchs 5-0 and sew up the best-of-seven C.O.B.L. finals at two games each. The fifth fray date has not been decided yet.

No Ball Game Played This Evening

Manager Joe Stewart of the Petes' senior baseball club stated today that there would be no C. O.B.L. playoff here tonight. There may be one Tuesday, the officials checking into the matter during the day. The pre-series arrangements were for the Kingston and Petes' teams to play four nights in a row, and then make mutually satisfactory arrangements for the remainder of the series.

Kingston, faced with the early loss of Levandoski and Ferguson to hockey, want the series continued nightly the first half of this week. The Petes insist on not playing the fifth game before Tuesday. The league president was called and made the odd suggestion that Petes play in Kingston on Tuesday, with a double-header, if necessary, here Wednesday. The Petes refused to consider this, and there the matter rests at the moment.

Orfuns Drop Opener, 12-5 To Galloping Ghosts In Keen Football Fixture

Red Alexander's end-around play that wound up in a rush through the hole over right tackle was the killer that gave Cobourg Galloping Ghosts their second straight victory in the Central Ontario O.R.F.U. intermediate loop in Cobourg on Saturday. Alexander chalked up the second touchdown of the game for the Cobourg Club and put Orfuns behind to stay. The final count was 12-5 for Ghosts. The second major for the Cobourg club came after the Petes had stood off the Gallopers for nearly three quarters of football played in real heat and brilliant sunshine which would have been better suited to baseball than football.

The game was nearly over when the Cobourg Ghosts started to come. Entering that final session the Gallopers found themselves up against unexpectedly tough opposition from the Peterborough club and the result was a definite pressure by the Cobourg club in the Peterborough end. Alexander ripped through centre for a first down, Paul Currelly sliced through centre for 17 yards and the Cobourg crew within hailing distance were stunned when the next play set them back to their own 25 on a penalty ruling. Then Alexander was given the ball. He slipped down behind the line of scrimmage and suddenly found a hole and went up to the Peterborough 15; threatened from the side, he slipped, swivelled and got away from the closest enemy tackler and raced into the clear to go over standing up.

AN EARLY LEAD

Art Jones converted easily and the Ghosts were well away. Peterborough gained an early lead in the first stanza when the first touchdown of the season was registered against the Cobourg crew. A 15-yard penalty started it and Jimmy Wilde, former Orillia star, ended it by crossing the Ghost line. Huntley's convert attempt was no good and the Petes were content with a 5-0 lead.

The first session ended with Peterborough in the lead but the Ghosts had come back to take command and they were knocking on the door as the teams turned around for the second quarter on the Peterborough five-yard line. The Gallopers sent Don Hall back and he tossed a short flicker pass to Jack Reeves who fired a long forward over the line to Vic Garvin and the score was tied. Then Art Jones came on the scene, adjusted his sights and kicked a nice point and the Ghosts never looked back.

Reeves was the Cobourg star with Darcy Campbell standing out for them. Karl Lenahan was another local boy who gave a brilliant performance for the Cobourg crew. Bill Huntley was the Peterborough star with Milligan, former Orillia standout, going all day to keep the Ghosts in check with a pass attack that that at times seemed to be on the verge of clicking.

Ghosts—Jack Edminston, Spook Graham, Bill Jarvis, Homer Seale, Roy Holman, Tony Horvath, Bob McNally, Art Brantwood, Vern Lees, Zeke Sanders, Ambie Flanagan, Bruce McCallum, Bill Douglas, Boyd Hendry, Art Jones, Bruce Richardson, Ian Hampton, Spike Mathews, Don Hall, Jack Reeves, Red Alexander, Jim Lunn, Kenny Medhurst, Bernie Flesch, Darcy Campbell, Vic Garvin, Paul Currelly, Karl Lenahan, Aubrey Magee, Marsh Glassford.

Orfuns — R. Wilde, J. Wilde, Chas. Jensen, Roy Hodson, Gord Beatty, Bill Huntley, Roy Armstrong, John Berry, Bob White, Lloyd Ouellette, Clive Naismith, Chuck Russelle, Bill Thompson, Jerry McGillis, Rocky Decarlo, R. Beavis, Moe Fraser, Reg Burns, Jimmy Conlin, Robert Menzies, Robert Howe, Ken Newark, Jimmy Milligan, Cam Wasson, Dick Trudell, Frank Fitzerald, Ken Kloetter, W. Thompson, J. Spragg, Don McGillis.

P. Skitch Three Captures Empress Shield

Percy Skitch, of Lindsay, strongly supported by B. Everson and O. Cuthbert, won first honors and the Empress Hotel Shield here on Saturday, in the largest tournament ever held for this competition.

This is the second major event that the veteran Percy Skitch has won on local greens this summer. He and his partner, Mrs. Stevens, recently won the Black Memorial Trophy.

S. McMillan, Oshawa, and M. Letcher, Port Perry, were tied for second honors, and E. Skells, Cannington, was the fourth three-game winner. That one local rink reached the prize department — a record for the club.

GOOD BOWLING

The day was grand, the bowling outstanding and the co-operation wonderful. The club greatly appreciates the generosity of Dave Kerr, manager the Empress Hotel, in presenting this shield and also for donating the first set of prizes; it helped in no small way to make the tournament a success.

The committee of Roy Lewis, Don Anderson, Fred Dearborn, Ches Mcwrey and Fred Martin deserve all credit. They worked hard and long and their efforts bore fruit. It was a big job, well done.

Play began around 2.00 p.m. and the tournament was over by 11 o'clock. The entry of 32 rinks was the largest yet for this tournament.

Tonight, play continues for the Review Trophy. All rinks are requested to be at the greens at 7.30 o'clock sharp.

First—Empress Hotel Shield each a silver-plated water pitcher, donated by Dave Kerr—Lindsay: O. Cuthbert, B. Everson, P. Skitch, skip.

Tennis Tourney In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) —A tennis tournament to encourage beginners and high school students to take up the sport was held here on Saturday. C. Halpike, president of the Campbellford Tennis Club and a member of the staff of the Campbellford High School was in charge.

In the preliminary series, two separate tournaments were held for girls and for boys. All games were doubles and the winners played a doubles match in the final.

In the final set, Miss Barbara Smith and Larry Meyers defeated Miss Margaret Nelson and Ronald Pierce, in a close games which went 7-5 before the former pair won out. They each received a new press for their tennis racquets for taking top honors of the day. The remainder of the 14 participants in the beginners' day tournament received new tennis balls as consolation awards.

The games were played in hot weather, and after their completion, cold drinks and sandwiches were provided by a committee headed by Dorothy Ferris.

Draws for partners for the games were made by lottery in order that the choosing would be impartial.

Brian Guerin Wins Caddy Golf Tourney

Brian Guerin won the Wally McIlmoyle Trophy for 1952, taking the caddie tournament at the Peterborough Golf Club on Saturday over 10 other contestants. Stan McBride, promoter of the tourney, made the trophy presentation at lunch time. Alf Hill, club pro, started the boys off at nine a.m., and some good scores were turned in as play progressed. Prizes were donated by Westclox, A. Black, Harold Hatton, Dit Clapper, and the boys will be guests at the Orfuns' football opener here Friday.

The results: B. Guerin 44, L. Towns 50, Ed Innes 52, Tom Kelly 53, Jack Leahy 58, Ev English 60, Bob Baker 60, Wayne McCarthy 60, Bill Meagher 62, Pat Parberry 64.

Royals, Leafs Divide Weekend Wins

TORONTO (CP)—Montreal Royals and Toronto Maple Leafs moved back to Montreal today to finish off their best-of-seven International Baseball League playoff after a protest-filled week-end in which each team won a game on the diamond.

The protest and a counter-protest centred on Saturday night's game. With the score tied 2-2 in the ninth with two men on base and one out, pitcher Ed Roebuck of Montreal hoisted a foul ball into the Montreal dugout. First baseman Eddie Stevens of the Leafs ran over to try for the catch but Mal Mallette, a bench-warming Royals pitcher, reached out and caught the ball.

The Leafs claimed interference but umpire Tom Fleming refused to go along with them. The Royals went on to win 3-2 but the score was rubbed out when league President Frank Shaughnessy upheld a Toronto protest on the decision and ordered a replay Sunday from the protested point in the ninth.

Hector Racine, Montreal club president, stepped in there with a counter-protest, claiming that Shaughnessy couldn't overrule an umpire. That protest was wiped out on the field when the Royals got two runs in the replay of the ninth inning for a 4-2 victory.

From there the teams moved to the ball field where the Leafs pounded out a 9-3 triumph in the sixth game of the series which Montreal now leads 3-2. A five-run rally in the fifth off Tommy Lasorda and Bob Alexander wrapped up the game.

Kitchener Golfers Retain Somerville Cup

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The Somerville Cup, silverware which has been up for competition for more than 20 years, will be on display at the Kitchener Westmount Club again for the next 12 months, making it the second year in succession that Kitchener golfers have taken the laurels.

The Kitchener contingent, led by Gerry Kesselring and Gordon Ball, chalked up 41½ points at the London Hunt Club yesterday in the second portion of the test, and this, added to a 34-point count made in the first round, gave the Westmount shotmakers a grand total of 75½ points and top honors. London Hunt was second with a total of 57 points, with Hamilton Ancaster third with 43 and Brantford fourth with 40½.

Torrential rain halted play several times.

AIRBORNE ROBINSON—Both feet off the ground, Broklyn second baseman Jackie Robinson flips the ball to first after forcing Cub outfielder Hank Sauer at second in the second inning of Brooklyn-Chicago game at Ebbets Field. Jackie was too late to make the double play as Toby Atwell beat the thow. Cubs won, 11-7.

Yankees Win Big One Downing Indians In Important 7-1 Tilt

By JOE REICHLER, Associated Press Sports Writer

New York Yankees appear to have their fourth successive pennant wrapped up. The fast-fading Brooklyn Dodgers are ready to be taken but New York Giants haven't the guns with which to do it. That was the picture today following Sunday's activities which saw the Yankees win "the big one" from the Indians in Cleveland, and the Giants miss a grand opportunity to cut deeper into the Dodger lead. With southpaw Eddie Lopat and righthander Allie Reynolds collaborating in fine style, the Yankees whipped the Indians 7-1 to increase their American League lead to 2½ games. New York has 11 games left to play and Cleveland 10.

DODGERS HOLD LEAD

Although shut out 4-0 by Cincinnati Reds, the Dodgers were able to retain their three-game National League margin over the runner-up Giants when St. Louis Cardinals drubbed New York 14-4. The Brooks, Giants and Cards each have 12 games left to play.

In other games Philadelphia Phillies swept a twin bill from Pittsburgh 5-2 and 2-1; Boston's Braves and Chicago's Cubs divided a doubleheader, the Braves winning the opener 1-0 and the Cubs the second game 3-2 in 10 innings.

Philadelphia's Athletics took two from St. Louis Browns 10-5 and 2-1, Washington whipped Detroit Tigers 6-2 and Chicago's White Sox nipped Boston Red Sox, 4-3 in 17 innings. The second game of the doubleheader was cancelled by darkness after four innings with the White Sox leading 3-0.

Casey Stengel wouldn't call his Yankees "in," and Al Lopez wouldn't count his Indians "out," but the cold facts show that if the Yankees win only six of their remaining 11, the Indians must win eight of 10 to tie.

Lopat and Reynolds limited the Indians to nine hits. Lopat worked 5 1-3 innings until his arm tired and Reynolds took over, limiting the Tribe to one hit in 3 2-3 innings.

LOSS IS GARCIA'S

Mike Garcia, who hadn't been scored on in 30 innings, gave up four runs in the third inning during a four-hit barrage to be tagged with his 10th defeat. He has won 20.

A pair of rookies were the culprits in the defeats of the Dodgers and Giants. A grand-slam homer by Jim Greengrass, the first homer of his big league career, accounted for all the Cincinnati runs as Herman Wehmeier stopped the Dodgers with six hits.

An 11-run explosion in the fifth inning snapped a 3-3 tie and enabled the Cardinals to administer the defeat to Dave Koslo. The veteran Giant southpaw had beaten the Redbirds 13 straight times.

Harvey Haddix, 26-year-old southpaw, on leave from the army, went the distance for the Cards, allowing four hits.

NIP REDS SATURDAY

Saturday in the National League the Giants nipped Cincinnati 3-2; the Dodgers lost to St. Louis 5-2 and Boston shut out the Pirates 8-0.

In the American the Yankees whipped the White Sox 6-5 while the Indians lost 4-3 to Boston. Philadelphia swamped Detroit 11-5.

Washington and St. Louis in the American and Chicago and Philadelphia in the National were idle.

NON-POLITICAL—Though their fathers are on opposite sides of the fence in the current political campaign, that fact doesn't seem to bother Dorothy Warren and Borden Stevenson as they date at a Hollywood night club. Dorothy is the daughter of Republican Gov. Earl Warren, of California, and Borden is the son of Democratic presidential nominee Gov. Adlai Stevenson.

Say Several Shows Look Good For Broadway Winter Season

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—Looking nine months ahead, there are some likely winners in that frantic fame-and-fortune, free-for-all which is called the Broadway theatre season.

There are a good 100 or more entries in the "winter book" of the season which officially starts Sept. 17 with "Mr. Pickwick." Predicting what goes from then until the final show of the season turns up sometime next June is difficult at best but with a firm grip on the crystal ball, form charts, past performance records and advance reports handy, here's a look at what some of the high points of the season should be.

MUSICAL PERFORMANCES

1. Gilbert and Sullivan repertory polished by the presence of Martyn Green and some of his cohorts from the original d'Oyly Carte Savoyard troupe.

2. "My Darlin' Aida," Verdi's music given a 1952 adaptation by Charles Friedman and with the locale shifted from Egypt to the southern United States during the Civil War.

3. "Two's Company," in which Bette Davis of the cinema makes her singing and dancing debut. Music by Vernon Duke and words by Ogden Nash.

4. "Hazel Flagg"; Ben Hecht adapts his movie classic "Nothing Sacred" and Jule Styne provides the score.

5. "Pygmalion," a Theatre Guild musical adaptation of Shaw's Classic with Mary Martin and Rex Harrison hopefully sought for the main roles.

6. "Seventh Heaven," a musical based on the famous movie and the Austin Strong play which ran 704 performances in 1922.

7. An untitled musical by Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse, to star Ethel Merman in a Leland Hayward production.

8. Hayward again with "The Works," score by Irving Berlin.

9. "The Musical Comedy Man," in which Jose Ferrer is to act, direct, produce (and perhaps rewrite) a partly autobiographical comedy by the late George M. Cohan, who also did the score and lyrics.

10. "My Sister Eileen" in which another film favorite, Rosalind Russell, is to appear with music score by Leroy Anderson.

11. "Can-Can," musical nostalgia for the Toulouse-Lautrec era of Paris, with Cole Porter score and Abe Burrows words.

Doctor Says Nervousness Just Acting Like Baby

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP) — Are you nervous?

Most people probably think they are, says Dr. G. Margery Allen of New York.

Some even pride themselves on being high-strung, sort of superior like race horses over work horses.

Actually nervousness and the high-strung feeling comes from acting pretty much like a baby, she writes in a report to the New York county medical society.

"Every relatively normal person is nervous," she says.

By a nervous person, we mean "an ambitious, tense person in a hurry to get what he wants or one afraid to move in a hurry or in anger—one who stands pat complaining that he can't get what he wants."

NOT WELL ADJUSTED

We consider people normal if they act so they conceivably could get what they want, Dr. Allen says. But if they use methods that are pretty useless, they're not well adjusted, and are ineffectual or "nervous."

Nervousness is not caused by any underlying disease of the nerves or brain, she says.

It is based mainly on attitudes of fear or anger, toward people, jobs, houses or towns, or even against ourselves.

These attitudes usually date back to childhood.

A baby, she explains, has only one way of getting what he wants —by crying. He soon learns that crying works well in getting attention. Later the baby may have to develop better ways of putting things over on his parents.

FORBIDDING WORLD

He grows up in a world that looks awfully big and forbidding. He's told constantly about the dangers in the world — warned not to catch cold, not to get hit by an auto, not to get sick.

If the world looks too tough, he loses hope of controlling the world and getting what he wants and keeps using childish methods.

"He may keep on doing it as an adult. Then he becomes the kind of person who is unhappy, discontented, often a poor eater, a poor sleeper, never feeling vital, usually vaguely uneasy about things in general, often feeling physically low with vague aches and pains."

The only answer, says Dr. Allen, is that he must grow up emotionally, and realize he has the ability to direct his own actions.

$50,000 Damage To Trailer Display

WOODSTOCK (CP) — Damage was reported as high as $50,000 when a trailer housing a display known as "The Last Supper" crashed a railway overpass on highway No. 53 yesterday.

The display had been at Western Fair in London and was en route to Hamilton.

Police said the driver, Ernest Holland, 25, of Dereham, N. C., was proceeding through an early-morning fog and did not see that there was not sufficient clearance for the trailer.

Robot Runs Amok

VIENNA (Reuters)—A giant robot man ran amok in a department store here Saturday and threatened to trample on a crowd of panic-stricken children. After an interruption in the electric current, the robot marched forward towards the children. An engineer quickly gave signals and the colossus turned about and marched back to its place.

Stop Marathon Dance

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Police closed Mexico's first marathon dance contest Saturday after it had run for 29 days. Six couples still were dancing. A city official explained there was fear for the health of the competitors, and that numerous complaints had been received charging the contest was "shameful and immoral." The 43,000 pesos ($5,000) in prize money was ordered divided among eight couples.

Churchill Named Honorary Mayor

PARIS (AP).—Prime Minister Churchill, man of many titles and responsibilities, was confirmed Sunday in a new job—that of honorary mayor of Cap d'Ail on the French Riviera. The Municipal Council elected him to the post Aug. 1 and the official journal published a decree Sunday approving. Churchill now is vacationing at Cap d'Ail.

Urges Radios Have Own Editorial Page

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—The editor of the radio industry's trade paper —Richard G. Lewis of Toronto, editor of The Canadian Broadcaster—Saturday urged radio stations to broadcast an editorial page of the air.

Mr. Lewis spoke at the annual meeting of the Western Association of Broadcasters. He said regular broadcasts of a station's opinion on vital issues would bring the broadcasting industry a new kind of public respect.

Steal Field Day Receipts

KITCHENER (CP)—A safe containing about $1,800 was carried off by thieves who broke into the Kitchener Rockway Golf Club clubhouse early yesterday. Officials said the money was proceeds of the Kesselring Golf Field Day held at the club Saturday in honor of Gerry Kesselring, Ontario amateur and Open champion.

CAPS START FIRE

Boys detonating caps started a fire Saturday that caused about $50 damage to the house of C. W. Kernohan of 527 O'Connell Road. The exploding caps ignited some old papers that were in the basement and a chair. A garden hose and a booster line used by city firemen put out the blaze. Most of the damage was caused by smoke.

COMMITTEE MEMBER

Mrs. Maurice Holt, president of the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Cancer Society, has been appointed a member of the committee appointed to organize the society's 1953 campaign for funds in Ontario. The appointments were announced at the society's third annual Ontario Division conference being held in Windsor.

TOP BRASS AT BREAKFAST

Dave House, who operates a restaurant on Highway 28 south of the city, served breakfast to passengers of a Canadian Army staff car on Sunday morning. The sergeant-driver did the "butling" to a high-ranking officer and his wife in one of the booths. Said Dave to the sergeant, aside: "Who are your passengers?" The man replied: - "Lieut.-General Guy Simmonds, Chief of General Staff, and Mrs. Simmonds." A check of highway motels showed that they did not stay overnight in Peterborough district on Saturday.

I.U.E.-C.I.O. DELEGATES

Four delegates from I.U.E.—C.I.O. locals in Peterborough will attend the annual convention of I.U.E. being held this year in Pittsburgh, October 6-10. From Local 570 (Western Clock Co.), Gerald Dolan, chief steward; from Local 599 (C.G.E. office workers), president Eric May and Gloria Lang; from Local 524 (C.G.E. production workers), Neil McNulty. Minor Shaw, I.U.E. Peterborough organizer, will also attend the Pittsburgh convention.

ASKS LEGION SUPPORT

Tonight at 8 p.m. Branch 52 of the Canadian Legion hold their first post-holiday monthly meeting. On the agenda will be a request from Maurice Ketcheson for support of his petition to have an investigation into the delay in building the Memorial Centre. An investigation can be held if County Judge John de Navarre Kennedy considers it advisable, and Mr. Ketcheson is seeking support for it among the Peterborough public.

Still Sticky

The temperature has climbed down from its high summer-like perch in the upper eighties to a more seasonable 68 at noon today. But citizens who have been hoping for a drop in the humidity with a drop in the temperature were disappointed. It may be cooler, but it's just as sticky.

Fair Attendance 2,000 Higher Than Last Year

Exhibition attendance topped 1951's figures by more than 2,000.

Difference was all made by the heavy (9,000 plus) attendance of children on opening day. That was the biggest single day at the Peterborough Exhibition in the past three years, 15,881 attended.

On every other day of the fair, attendance figures showed a drop from the 1951 totals.

Total attendance for 1952 was 40,593, compared to 37,854 for the four days in 1951. Increase is 2,739.

Through the four days of this year's exhibition, grandstand attendance climbed and reached its peak Saturday when the total at both performances was 3,657. Only decrease from 1951 figures was on Wednesday.

Saturday was not an exceptionally busy day at the exhibition, except for those who were taking their entries home. The crowd came slowly all day, starting about 11 a.m. and never arriving in any large numbers.

MIDWAY NOT BUSY

After children's day, when 15,881 came to the fair, the midway was never busy. This was true, too, of Saturday night. Games were getting little play, and rides were only a little bit more popular.

Exhibits at the horticulture building were cleaned out by 9 p.m. Saturday. Displays in the manufacturers' building were being taken down, and many of the animals had already gone from the cattle and horse barns.

Over the four days, temperatures were high, too high, some officials said, for a fair to be successful. Humidity made it sticky, and not until closing night did the air start to lose its moisture.

Saturday's attendance was 9,626, down more than 2,000 from 1951's final exhibition day, when 11,889 attended. Receipts totalled $4,119.30.

Figures were:

Two Women Hit In Legs By Shotgun

Gun Discharged Accidentally In Kitchen Of Home

Two women were painfully injured Saturday evening when a shotgun discharged accidentally and the charge hit both of them in the legs.

In Civic Hospital are: Mrs. Allan Tucker, 36, 801 Fairbairn St., and her sister, Mrs. Wesley Lee, 44, of Toronto.

Hospital officials said today they are both in good condition. Mrs. Lee was said to have received more of the charge than her sister; she was unconscious when provincial police arrived.

The Lees were visiting the Tucker family over the weekend and after supper Saturday, Mr. Tucker told the children he would shoot at some tin cans with his shotgun.

DISCHARGED AT DOORWAY

The gun loaded in both barrels with Number 5 shot (birdshot), somehow or other discharged as Mr. Tucker was going out the back door. Both women were doing dishes near the sink at the time.

Mrs. Frank Barker, a neighbor, was one of the first at the scene. She said she heard the children screaming, and ran to the Tucker home.

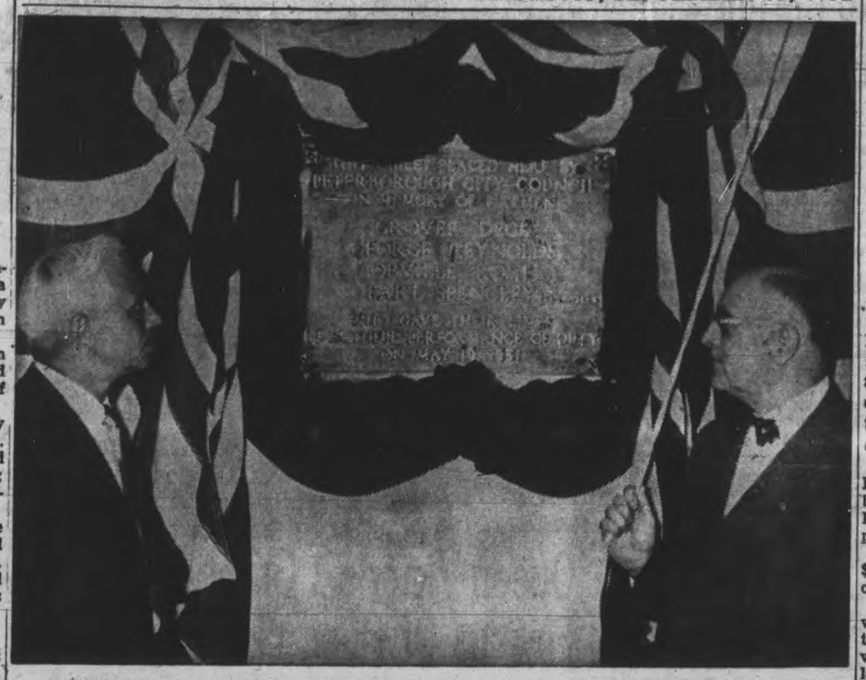
Both women were lying on the kitchen floor, their legs spattered with blood. Police arrived shortly after. The women were taken to hospital by Kaye's ambulance.

Spencer, seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Tucker, said he was in the kitchen when the accident happened. He heard a bang, and then his mother and aunt were lying on the floor.

He said his sisters, Lynne, 11, and June, 9, along with 12-year-old Barbara Lee, were the children for whose amusement the gun was to be fired.

The gun, a 12 gauge, is double barrelled and fitted with hammers. It is a fairly old model.

It was the second stroke of bad luck and injury for Mrs. Tucker within a year. Just less than a year ago, she suffered a broken leg. Complications developed and she was not over the effects of the fracture until recently.



Rockingham To Speak Here

Brigadier C. M. Rockingham, C.B., D.S.O., will be the guest speaker at the resumption of meetings of Peterborough United Services Institute Friday, Sept. 26 at the Empress Hotel. He is Director General of Military Training in Canada.

Brigadier Rockingham served with the Canadian Scottish Regiment as Lieutenant from Nov. 1933 to August 1939 in the N.A.P.M. He went active in Sept. 1939, and proceeded overseas as Captain of the battalion in August 1941. He was promoted to Major in 1942, attended Camberley Staff College, became Brigadier, and commanded in northwest Europe from August 1944 to June 1945.

He returned to Canada in June 1945 and took command of the 2nd Canadian Infantry Brigade, Canadian Army Pacific Force. After a period of return to civilian life, Brigadier Rockingham was recalled to command the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade in the Korean campaign. He organized the Brigade, and commanded it from its inception, both in Canada and Korea, from August 1950 to May 1952 when he was returned to Canada to become Director General of Military Training at Army headquarters.

Officers of the Institute are especially emphasizing to the members the importance of this meeting.

Three Cars Hit In Succession Driver Charged

George Whitehead, 29, of Charlotte St., today was charged in police court with leaving the scene of an accident. It is alleged that shortly before 11:30 p.m. Saturday he collided with two cars and a truck at George and Princess Sts. causing $415 damage to the other vehicles and another $300 to his own car.

Whitehead today pleaded not guilty to the charge and he was remanded for a week on $300 bail.

Witnesses said that a car, identified as belonging to Whitehead, was going south on George St. when it swerved to avoid a northbound bus. The manoeuvring car struck a car parked on the west side of George St., owned by Charles Gordon Ryan of Ottawa, causing $175 damage.

Whitehead's car is then reported to have crossed the road and clipped the rear of a northbound truck, doing $65 damage. The truck is owned by F. P. Barnes of Campbellford. The car then turned east onto Princess St. where it ran into another parked car, owned by F. W. Horton of 368 Brock St., doing $175 damage.

Both sides and the front end of the Whitehead car were badly damaged to the extent of $300.

Hit Parked Car $200 Damage Done

More than $200 damage resulted when a southbound car on Dennistoun Ave. veered across the street and struck the rear of a parked car, owned by William E. Ward, of Haliburton, Sunday afternoon.

An estimated $200 damage resulted to the front end of the car, driven by V. R. Harvey, 143 Dennistoun Ave. The rear of the parked car was damaged to the extent of approximately $30. Constable Robert Menzies investigated.

Plaque Unveiled Honors Firefighters

A memorial plaque in honor of the three Peterborough firemen, Grover Deck, George Reynolds and Orville Rome, and of volunteer fighter, Earl Spencley, who died in the Zacks' building fire on May 19, 1951, was unveiled Sunday afternoon at the city hall by W. J. Scott, O.B.E., Fire Marshall of Ontario.

More than 100 people, including the families and relatives of the firemen, members of the city council, the Peterborough, Smith, Bridgenorth, C.G.E., Lakefield and Belleville fire departments, filled the seating capacity in the south wing of the city offices. The Provincial Federation of Ontario Fire Fighters was represented by David Forgie, vice-president.

The Rev. Ivan C. Morgan, Murray St. Baptist Church, said: "This is not an occasion of mourning or sentiment, but it is a coming together of representatives of this whole community to pay a sincere tribute to the memory of our fellow men; and to place in this city hall a plaque which will tell people in years to come of the deeds of these our friends."

THANK CITIZENS

Mr. Morgan said that there has been no opportunity prior to the unveiling of the plaque when the families could express their gratitude for the friendship, sympathy and material tokens extended to them by the people of the community.

"I know that I can speak for Mrs. Deck, Mrs. Reynolds, Mrs. Rome and Mrs. Spencley, and their children, in expressing their appreciation to the people of this city."

Mr. Morgan added that the city is "very proud to have numbered among her sons, men of such spirit" as the four men. He recalled that at the time of the fire the citizens were shocked and over-awed by the tragedy.

"Since that time, however, our bewilderment has given place to a sincere pride, and that has received tangible expression in this plaque."

Mr. Morgan said that the occasion acted as a reminder of the risks undertaken and the pains endured by public servants such as firemen, policemen, soldiers, sailors and airmen.

"We seldom take time out to express our gratitude to those who stand as ancient watchmen on the city's walls. We seldom concern ourselves with the duties we impose upon them. Let this plaque remind us of the serious responsibilities we ask these men to undertake; and let it remind us too that they put duty first and self second."

FOLLOW EXAMPLE

Mr. Morgan finished with "let us, as citizens, continue to hold in honor and esteem the four families; and let us copy the example of loyalty to duty which these men have set for us. Then the reality which marked them in life and in death will not have been in vain."

A. B. Burrows, chairman of the fire, water and light committee for two years, conducted the ceremony and said in introduction that "three of these men (Peterborough fire department) and a gallant volunteer are being remembered today, and I want to pay my personal homage to these brave men who gave their lives in our service."

At the close of the service, Mr. Burrows thanked members of the six fire departments for attending.

Start On Federal Building Expected In Two Weeks As Contract Awarded

Structure Estimated To Cost $1,300,000
Will House Seven Federal Departments
Post Office Will Operate School For New Men

Construction will probably start within a week or two on the new federal building on Charlotte St., a spokesman for the contractors, M. Sullivan and Son of Arnprior, said today. It was announced Saturday that the Arnprior firm had been awarded the contract. This news came not much more than a week after government architects had recommended that Sullivans be awarded the contract.

A representative of the firm, Don Sullivan, will be in Peterborough some time this week to look over the ground and make preliminary plans.

Estimated cost of the building is $1,300,00. Blackwell and Craig, of Peterborough, were architetcts.

Built of reinforced concrete with stone facing and granite trim, the new federal building will be two storeys high, 208 feet long and 150 feet in frontage on Charlotte St. For the post office, it will provide 34,000 square feet of floor space.

SIX OTHER DEPARTMENTS

Other departments to be housed are agriculture, labor, customs, trade and commerce, and transport (Trent Canal).

The postal section will also be used as a practical training school for headquarters personnel of the post office department. It will be the first such school in Canada.

Young men entering the postal service at headquarters in Ottawa are required to spend one year in practical work. Peterborough was chosen because it was large enough to show the full range of operations and small enough to permit men to be rotated from job to job, and because the city needed a new post office.

40 Women Visit Peterborough For Day

A tour of Peterborough was taken today by approximately 40 members of the Coleridge Union Women's Institute.

This community is situated about 30 miles south of Collingwood.

The group visited the filtration plant and park this morning, where they ate their lunch. This afternoon they toured the Western Clock Co. and the Quaker Oats Co., visited the lift lock and Armour Hill and spent an hour shopping.

Following dinner in the city, they returned home.

House Nearly Struck Twice By Lightning

MEAFORD (CP) — So lightning doesn't strike in the same place twice?

It came mighty close to doing that yesterday on the Richard Solomon home here.

The first bolt hit the house and set the radio on fire. No sooner was that blaze extinguished than a second bolt hit a large tree outside.

3 Breakins Net Small Quantity Of Loot In City

A service station and a private home were broken into about Saturday midnight, the total loot amounting to $50 in cigarettes and chocolate bars plus a bottle of whiskey.

Some time before 1 a.m. Sunday the thieves smashed a side window at Stanley Cann's service station, Armour Rd. and Highway 7, and got into the building. There was no money in the till but they scooped up a large quantity of cigarettes and tobacco.

A large part of the loot was recovered because the thieves threw it away by the side of the road, strewing cartons of cigarettes in the ditch between Armour Rd. and the C.N.R. railway tracks to the east. Two district youths—Paul McIlmoyle and Kenny Barker—saw the cartons of cigarettes and phoned city police.

It was the second breakin in the Armour Rd.-Highway 7 district within 24 hours. Early Sunday morning the nearby office of Cope Transport was entered and the till rifled of $50 in bills and change.

The other Saturday midnight breakin was at the home of Fred Mowry, of 612 Charlotte St., where a bottle of rye whiskey was stolen. Thieves got into the house by breaking a pane of glass in the front door.

Considerable damage was caused to the furniture as the thieves pried open any locked drawers or cupboards in their search for valuables.

Visitors To Fair

Would Like A Little More For Their Money

Public reaction to this year's Peterborough Exhibition has varied from enthusiasm to downright coolness.

This is one complaint that has commonly come to the lips of fairgoers:

"They've got their hands out for money, but they don't give you anything for it."

Prizes at the midway, people felt, were cheap and shoddy. Plaster dolls and boxes of salt water taffy were too frequently offered; only the table lamp offered at the bingo game and another booth were thought to be worthwhile.

RIDES BROKE DOWN

Another complaint concerned the rides on the midway. One man who brought his son down said he took the lad on the merry-go-round, which broke down three times during one ride.

Others remarked that the ferris wheel had broken down with some regularity during the four days of the exhibition.

Cigarette prices at some booths drew criticism. One man came into the secretary's office holding a pack of 20 cigarettes.

He said: "I paid 50 cents for this and when the man at the booth didn't give me any change, I asked him where my change was.

"He said: 'You wanted cigarettes,' then pointed to the package and added: 'There's your 50 cents'."

In the secretary's office he was told that the exhibition board did not attempt to regulate prices at the fair, and he should go and see a policeman.

The man, who refused use of his name, replied: "I just told a policeman about it and he sent me in here."

Understandably bitter about the excessive price, he said: "They make a profit on a package of 20 at 39 cents. Now they want to make 11 cents more profit. What kind of a gyp is this?"

Reaction to the grandstand show was varied as well. Some people thought it was a good show, others said they left half-way through because they were bored.

LOCAL TALENT

One man who had sat through it—"reluctantly" he said—suggested that the Peterborough Exhibition could follow the lead of the C.N.E. and try local talent.

"The collegiate here has a band; why not bring them down? They used the Malvern Collegiate band at the C.N.E., they could have the P.C.V.S. band here if they wanted them."

Local talent, while not always the best available, would certainly draw more people than "a lot of the stuff they peddle as a grandstand show."

In downtown Peterborough, this was the answer given more than once to the question: "Are you going to the exhibition?"

"No. I've heard nothing good about it, why should I?"

On the other hand, there were people who felt the exhibition board had done a good job of securing talent. They recommended the grandstand show to friends and believed it was a good one.

LACKED SPARK

A good many people had this to say: that the exhibition lacked the "spark" it had in previous years. What this spark was, they did not know. They said it was something you couldn't put your finger on, but they believed it was lack of showmanship.

Still another criticism was that there were no benches provided for anybody who wanted to take the weight off their weary feet. There were no drinking fountains available, although fountains were reasonably easy to find in the exhibitions of past years.

Pointing to an area fenced off in front of the manufacturers' building to prevent parking, one fair-goer asked:

"Why couldn't they put benches in there? Lots of people have been asking where they could sit down and rest, and the only place that has benches outside the dining tent is the CHEX tent.

These were some suggestions offered:

A children's pet show with the finalists paraded during the evening grandstand performance; a better midway; some degree of control on prices in the various booths so that excessive prices will not be charged; water fountains; benches in several places in the grounds; and what everybody wanted—a little more for their money.

Poland Giant Factory Doing War Work For Russia

By THOMAS HARRIS

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—Poland's Communist leaders are turning their country into a giant factory doing war work for Russia.

Armor plating, tanks, anti-aircraft guns and food are rolling over the frontier into the Soviet Union while the Polish man-in-the-street complains of increasing shortages everywhere.

Reports received here from Warsaw, and Polish newspapers and technical publications reaching here, tell how this transition to a wartime economy is being carried through by tens of thousands of Russian specialists scattered through the country.

New workshops for servicing submarines have been built under the supervision of Russian engineers at Swinouscie. The workshops have Russian foremen and Russian security guards.

Further along Poland's Baltic coast, at Kolobrzeg, the former German ammunition factory has been expanded. Almost the whole of its output is going to Russia.

ALL FOR RUSSIA

In south-east Poland, numbers of smaller factories formerly manufacturing light metal goods are now turning out cartridges for export to the Soviet Union.

Details of a new Russian anti-aircraft gun manufactured in Poland have also leaked out. The weapon is automatically loaded, like a machine gun and has radar sights.

Cement output has increased by several hundred per cent during the last two years and large consignments are sent to Russia almost daily.

For Russia's railways, the Stalin Kombinat Factory at Wroclaw is working exclusively for Russia. It turns out principally freight cars adaptable for either the standard Polish gauge or the wider Russian gauge.

COAL AND FOOD

Russia is also drawing heavily on Poland for new merchant ships, mainly coal and iron ore ships of up to about 5,000 tons gross registered.

Worst of all, however, from the point of view of the Polish man-in-the-street, are his country's increasing food deliveries to the Soviet Union. In the most difficult immediate post-war years, food was abundant in Poland. Now almost every foodstuff is short, as the newspapers openly admit.

Rescue Workman Trapped In Mixer

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Horace Lavery, 32-year-old workman, had to be cut free with an acetylene torch when he was trapped inside an empty cement mixer Saturday.

He was chipping out the mixer at the site of the Canadian Industries Limited plant at Maitland, four miles east of here, when another workman started the motor. The drum turned about 50 times and Lavery was wedged among the agitators before it was stopped.

He is recovering in hospital here from bruises and minor burns caused by the acetylene torch.

Outlines Ways To Curtail Paper Costs

MONTREAL (CP)—Charles G. Fenn of the London Free Press told delegates to the Newspaper Advertising Managers' Association of Eastern Canada convention Saturday of methods used by newspapers to curtail internal costs in an attempt to offset the rise in newsprint prices.

At closing sessions of the fifth, three-day annual convention he said 20 newspapers sent in full reports on economics which show costs have been reduced by various methods—installation of newsprint rewinding equipment, advanced deadlines, installation of plastic engraving machines and reduction of column widths.

He said a small number of member papers are planning rate advertising increases next year and that a large number of papers put increases into affect this year.

Other reports presented by Mr. Fenn brought general discussion on reduction of publishing days to five a week instead of the generally-accepted six, bonus plans for advertising salesmen, the increase in the use of color in Canadian dailies and uniformity in charges for the use of color and the minimum size of acceptable color advertisements.

Eric M. Wilson, director of advertising, Montreal Star was elected president. He replaces James C. Anderson of the Kitchener Record.

Other officers elected: First vice-president, J. Ross Bates, St. Catharines Standard; second vice-president, Charles G. Fenn, London Free Press; secretary-treasurer, L.-P. Vezina, l'Action Catholique, Quebec.

Directors: William Upton, Guelph Mercury; Roland Mallete, la Voix de l'Est, Granby, Que.; R. W. Pearson, Sudbury Star; J. E. Rolston, Saint John Telegraph-Journal; James C. Anderson, Kitchener Record.

Steel President In Hospital

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Sir James Dunn, 76-year-old president of the Algoma Steel Corporation, is in hospital here where he underwent a minor operation three days ago.

News of Sir James' illness became known when his personal physician, Dr. Herbert Greig of Sault Ste. Marie, received five broken ribs when his automobile overturned about 20 miles east of here Saturday night.

It was known last week that Sir James was taken to hospital. However, the hospital directed inquiries to Dr. Greig and he could not be reached.

It was learned that Sir James is doing as well as possible and there are no complications from the operation.

Police believe Dr. Greig fell asleep at the wheel while driving to his farm on St. Joseph Island.

Queen Victoria's Grand-daughter Envious Of Queen Elizabeth

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

"Queen Elizabeth of England has a difficult position, but it has satisfactions," said Princess Ileana of Romania. "The hardest thing of all is to feel responsibility and to know where your duty lies—and be unable to do anything about it."

"There is satisfaction and happiness in being trained for a job and then having that job to do. It is a dreadful thing, as so many of us have found, to have the one thing you really are trained to do taken away from you."

FACED MANY HARDSHIPS

Circumstances hewed out a rocky and adventurous path for the youngest daughter of Ferdinand I and his famous wife, Queen Marie.

Exiled Ileana, Princess of Romania and Archduchess of Austria, now is a Newton, Mass., housewife, with six children in United States schools and colleges, and a woman who must support herself and her family.

The training of this 43-year-old descendant of Queen Victoria was of the pattern generally followed by her young cousins in England.

"It is hard to explain, she said, "but at the base is a knowledge that you must not do many things which give you pleasure, but that you must conduct yourself in such a way as to give other people—particularly your people—happiness, security or pleasure You feel you must serve, and that you measure up to what they need and expect from you."

In her 20s, Ileana married Anton, Archduke of Austria and a member of a branch of the Hapsburg family.

After the Communists took control of Romania, the Princess and her children were "permitted" to leave the country in 1948. When she arrived in the U.S., the ill Princess had $300 in cash and one thing a Princess should never be without—her coronet, a diamond and sapphire diadem. One of her first acts was to sell the jewels.

Her health improved, and the Princess bought a big, rambling house in the Boston suburb—not an estate, but a comfortable home on a tree-lined street.

To support herself and her family, she turned to the lecture platform. Her husband is stalled by legal technicalities in Buenos Aires and unable to join her.

She has written a book, "I Live Again," of her war-year experiences. It was published last spring. Meanwhile, all her children are attending school. None of them uses a title.

Stefan, her oldest boy, a student at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is enrolled as "Stefan Hapsburg." Her oldest daughter, Maria-Ileana, known as Minola, is at Vassar.

Substance Is Subject Of Lesson-Sermon

"Substance" was the subject of the Lesson Sermon which was read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, throughout the world including First Church of Christ, Scientist, Peterborough, on Sunday.

The Golden Text was "Faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen."—(Hebres 11:1).

Selections from the Bible included the following from Psalms 145:3, 13. "Great is the Lord, and greatly to be praised; and His greatness is unsearchable. Thy kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and thy dominion endureth throughout all generations."

Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook included the following: "Question. What is substance?

Answer.—Substance is that which is eternal and incapable of discord and decay. Truth, Life, and Love are substance, as the Scriptures use this word in Hebrews: 'The substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen.' Spirit, the synonym of Mind, Soul, or God, is the only real substance. The spiritual universe, including individual man, is a compound idea, reflecting the divine substance of Spirit."

Need Regional Group For Seaway Problems

KINGSTON (CP)—Need of a regional planning authority to deal with complicated problems which will arise from the St. Lawrence Seaway and power development was stressed during Saturday's concluding sessions of the two-day Eastern Ontario Regional Planning Conference.

The authority would take care of physical, social and economic planning of communities affected by development, it was suggested.

The conference, which attracted more than 100 delegates, went on record in favor of the creation of regional planning authority for Ontario "to plan in the broader sense" to meet the implications of seaway and power development from Prescott to the Quebec border.

Soldiers Want Actresses To Pay Visit

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What do soldiers in Korea want most in the entertainment field?

"Girls," reports William Holden, home from putting that question to thousands of soldiers. He made a 25-day Korean tour on behalf of the Hollywood co-ordinating committee, which supplies talent for overseas trips.

"There's no doubt about it," he continued, "the thing the boys want to see most are girls. Audrey Totter is a great favorite over there.

MARILYN NO. 1 GIRL

"And if Marilyn Monroe would go across, the war would be over. She is absolutely the No. 1 girl over there. Doris Day is another great favorite, but in a different way.

"But the need isn't only pin-up girls. Mature women like Irene Dunne, Rosalind Russell and Claudette Colbert would do a great job over there. They would bring a bit of home to the boys."

Holden travelled by every means, from jeep to helicopter to thumb. He visited some artillery units that had to interrupt their conversations to fire a few rounds.

OTHER NEEDS

Aside from girls, he discovered that men want:

1. Comedians.

2. Music. "They'd be crazy for singers like Patti Page, Kay Starr and Rosemary Clooney."

3. Western music. "No matter how corny, they like it."

4. Familiar faces. "Fellows like Edward G. Robinson or Jimmy Cagney would make a great hit. So would Charles Laughton reading the Bible."

The soldiers get four films a week, most of them new releases. Admission charge is three cents a head.

What kind of pictures do they like?

"Westerns and musicals, but they have no interest in modern problem dramas. They'll walk out of a picture about whether a young couple will get a divorce."

India Suggests Parley Of Big Five Powers

INDORE, India (CP)—The All-India Congress Committee, final authority for policies of the ruling Congress Party, unanimously approved a resolution yesterday appealing for a conference of the five big powers to settle East-West differences.

The resolution, reported to have been framed by Prime Minister Nehru, deplored high expenditures for armaments and urged that the money be used instead in developing backward countries.

Some of the speeches at the conference criticized U. S. refusal to recognize the Communist regime in China and the crossing of the 38th parallel in Korea.

Only Atomic Blast Worry Races May Be Affected

ONSLOW, Australia (Reuters)—The 200 inhabitants of this peaceful northwest bush town aren't worried about Britain's first atomic blast, expected this month.

As long as the test does not upset their annual horse race meeting—slated for Sept. 23 and 25—they say they will be happy.

A tiny port, 1,020 miles north of Perth, Onslow will be the nearest place of human habitation to the site of the secret atomic operation. It will be carried out in the vicinity of the Monte Bello Islands, 85 miles distant, or the Barrow Islands, about 60 miles from Onslow.

Some experts expect that Onslow will feel air and ground shock waves caused by explosions They note that the town is on the coast, only two feet above sea level, and that any abnormal sea wave resulting from an underwater explosion could wash down both of Onslow's main streets.

But, the residents say, they are mainly perturbed about the possibility of the test coinciding with either of the two race days, the year's greatest local event, when men trek into town hundreds of miles from remote sheep ranches. The town's population is usually doubled.

Grain Handlers Reject Latest Offer

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—Some 1,500 Lakehead grain handlers last night rejected the latest wage concessions of 15 elevator companies and reiterated their intention of going on strike Sept. 18.

In a closed meeting at the Lakehead Exhibition Auditorium, the elevator employees heard reports from committees which have been negotiating with the companies at Winnipeg.

Acceptance of the latest offer was not put to a vote. Union leaders said the men agreed that management's compromise did not go far enough "to warrant formal consideration."

WOULD TIE UP CROP

Unless an agreement is reached within the next four days, the strike will tie up eastward movement of grain at a crucial period—the harvesting of Western bumper wheat crop of 656,000,000 bushels. tushels.

Negotiations will be resumed here today. The talks at Winnipeg ended Thursday without agreement.

Union leaders declined to mention what was contained in the companies' latest offer, but Mr. Hall said it was not $1.50, a figure mentioned in a Winnipeg newspaper report.

The union is seeking a basic wage rate of $1.62 an hour, a 40-hour week and a closed shop. Earlier they rejected a conciliation board's recommendation of $1.27 an hour, a 44-hour week and a voluntary check-off system for union dues.

The elevator employees now are receiving a basic rate of $1.02 an hour on a 48-hour week. The companies granted a 10-cent-an-hour boost last year, raising the figure to $1.12. However, this is not contained in the union contract.

Venezuela Spells Opportunity For Opening Up New Market

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Looking for markets? Try Venezuela.

Rich in oil and with plenty of dollars to spend, Venezuela, eighth largest of the Latin American republics, "spells sales opportunities," says the Trade Department.

Scouring foreign horizons for greater Canadian trade opportunities, the department devoted the entire issue of one of its publications, "Foreign Trade," to assessing the value of the Venezuela market — world's second-largest producer and leading exporter of petroleum products.

It found:

"Venezuela is one of a half-dozen countries to escape the crippling economic malady, the dollar shortage.

NO IMPORT BARRIERS

"It has the money to buy what it desires in the markets of the world. It erects no import barriers, imposes no currency restrictions.

"Soon growing iron ore production will boost its dollar income further."

To most exporters, faced with rigid import restrictions and dollar scarcities in many traditional markets, this appraisal of the Venezuela market would be like a dream come true.

And yet Venezuela, with a population of just 5,000,000, is selling Canada a lot more than she is buying from this country. The big item, of course, is oil. Much of Canada's oil comes from this Latin country.

For example, last year Canada sold that country only $27,000,000 worth of goods, but purchased an unprecedented $136,000,000 worth, mostly crude petroleum. That gave Venezuela a trade surplus with Canada of $109,000,000.

U.S. BIG SELLER

In that same year, points out the department, United States firms supplied Venezuela with $435,000,000 worth of goods, covering more than 2,700 different commodities.

Venezuela is Canada's third largest export market in Latin America. It is the United States' second largest. Both countries get most-favored-nation tariff preference.

To focus the exporter's attention, the department made a detailed analysis of Canada's exports. It found that Venezuela takes Canadian newsprint and paper products and the outlook for increased sales of these "appears most promising."

It also buys Canadian dried salt codfish, canned meats, animal feeds, trucks and automotive parts, textiles and construction materials. In most cases, the U. S. is the big competitor, but J. A. Stiles, Canadian trade commissioner at Caracas, Venezuela's capital, notes that the country is "gradually recognizing Canada as a dependable source of supply."

Leading Paper Bids Governor Resign

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad — (CP).—The Trinidad Guardian, leading newspaper of Trinidad, Sunday published a strong editorial calling on Governor Sir Hubert Rance to resign.

Sir Hubert had promised to publish the report before he left the United Kingdom but stated on his return three weeks ago that he had to discuss the question with his advisers.

Election Touch Noticed Around Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—There's a touch of political expectancy in the Ottawa air these days.

It arises from Prime Minister St. Laurent's statement on his recent western tour that a federal general election is always a possibility.

Mr. St. Laurent's political opponents apparently don't intend to be caught napping.

The C.C.F. has announced the most intensive pre-election organization campaign in its history. Social Crediters plan to field enough candidates to form a government if elected. The Progressive Conservatives are organizing in the constituences.

ALL GET BUSY

The leaders of all three parties in opposition, George Drew, Progressive Conservative; M.J. Coldwell, C.C.F., and Solon Low, Social Credit, all plan western trips.

Mr. St. Laurent returned to Ottawa Saturday and plunged into a backlog of business. From now until the opening of Parliament Nov. 20 he will be busy with matters pertaining to the new session.

He plans no further political tours for the present, and perhaps not until the date of an election is decided. Most believe it will come about October next year.

Rains Delay Harvest In Western Canada

Scattered rains have been delaying harvesting of that tremendous grain crop in the west this week. In southern area, threshing is finished, and farmers are into plowing. The progress belt is reaching into the north. Yields are generally exceeding earlier expectations. Scattered frost has done little damage.

In Saskatchewan 75 per cent of of wheat and 80 per cent of the coarse grains has been cut; and in southern Manitoba 90 to 100 per cent of the wheat. Prince Albert area needs dry weather. Rains have been heavy this week around Edmonton, as reported by the C.N.R. In the Peace River area the news is rather dismal, temporarily: Little progress this week due to cool wet weather. . . . Warmth is needed throughout this whole area."

Bandits Get $2,800

OTTAWA (CP)—Cashier Joseph Lanthrier, 38, had just about finished counting the $2,800 day's receipts from 50 drivers for the Clark Dairy Saturday night when two armed men held him up, grabbed the cash, tied him to a chair, stuck a handkerchief in his mouth and smashed him over the head with a revolver and fled.

Dollar Surplus In Europe Due To U.S. Aid

GENEVA (AP)—The sterling area's gold and dollar surplus in May and June of this year was entirely due to United States military aid, the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe reported yesterday.

The commission's quarterly review of the European economy showed that a constant and heavy drain on the sterling area's reserves, which began early last year virtually disappeared in March and by May, had turned into a monthly surplus of $16,000,000.

This surplus coincided with the period when U. S. military aid came into its stride. In May, monthly British receipts under the military aid program totalled $81,000,000, more than three times as much as in April.

The report expressed alarm at Western Europe's increasing dependence on imports from the dollar area, accompanied by a failure either to develop its own dollar-saving production or to increase its exports to North America. The United Kingdom alone among Western European countries during the first quarter of this year simultaneously increased its dollar sales and cut its dollar purchases.

India's 284 Pensioned Princes Worried

By SELIG S. HARRISON

NEW DELHI (AP) — India's 284 pensioned princes are listening in gloom while politicians publicly argue their fate in a darkening future.

Popular clamor against privileges won by the princes when the new Indian government took over their domains in 1947 has increased since announcement of the recent agreement between India and Kashmir.

Hereditary rule by the Kashmir Maharajah will end under the pact signed by Prime Minister Nehru and Sheikh Abdullah. The Kashmir constituent assembly will elect the state's head.

REACTIONS ELSEWHERE

Obviously referring to the seven other princes besides the Kashmir maharajah who now act as rajapramukhs, or constitutional heads of Indian states, Nehru told Parliament last month "undoubtedly, what is happening in Kashmir must have its reactions elsewhere."

He dismissed the life-term appointments of the rajapramukhs with the comment that "this decision to give life tenure to anybody in a particular office is. . . not in keeping with either modern thought or intelligent thought."

Then Nehru took a swipe at the government's annual 58,000,000 rupees ($12,180,000) pension payments to the princes, terming them "very large, unnecessarily large."

$1,050,000 PENSION

Princely pensions range from the Nizam of Hyderabad's 5,000,000 rupees ($1,050,000) a year to the 192 rupees ($40) received by the one-time ruler of Katodia, a tiny section of the present state of Saurashtra.

Article 291 of the Indian constitution specifically says all such pensions "shall be exempt from taxes on income."

It is this tax exemption which most irks members of Nehru's majority Congress party. Many observers expect the Congress will introduce legislation soon requiring tax payments on the privy purses.

The Communists and other opposition factions are making increasingly effective propaganda use of Congress failure to take the initiative in curbing privileges of the prince.

Laboratory Accident Leads To Development Of New Dye

By FRANK CAREY

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—A laboratory "accident" has led to development of double-duty dyes that make fabrics both water-repellent and colorful in one process, the American Chemical Society was told today.

Dr. Clyde C. DeWitt of Michigan State College said the accidental spilling of a chemical compound designed for another use had paved the way for making dyes that increase the water-repellency of wool by 60 times and of cotton by 12 times — without any change in the texture of composition of the materials.

He told the Chemical Society's national meeting that in methods commonly used today waterproofing is applied after the fabric is dyed, and that most have a shorter lasting waterproof effect than the new dyes.

DeWitt said the dyes are not yet available for commercial use, but would probably have first application in awnings, tents and umbrellas. He said they should have application for treating clothing fabrics but that it might be necessary to modify the composition of present dry-cleaning materials in order to clean fabrics colored by these dyes.

FOUND BY ACCIDENT

Explaining the "accidental" discovery, the chemical engineer told this story:

Five years ago, he was working on the refining of copper ore by a process in which particles of copper are caused to "float" on the top of a complex chemical mix.

He devised a compound that would produce an oily film around the copper particles and at the same time color them so they could be seen readily.

Some of the special compound spilled on the laboratory floor. It was mopped up with a cloth, coloring it in spots. Later, when the same cloth was used to wipe up some water, it was found that the colored portions of the fabric resisted wetting.

Thos. D. Thomson Marries Toronto Doctor

Of wide interest is the wedding solemnized here Saturday afternoon, in Mark St. United Church of Dr. Joan Sheppard Sutton and Mr. Thomas Drummond Thomson, both of Toronto. The groon is the son of the late Lieut. Colonel C. G. Thomson, DSO, and the late Mrs. Thomson who were residents of Otonabee. The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Paul Sutton of Toronto.

The Rev. B. S. Morwood performed the ceremony and the bride was given in marriage by her father. Floral setting at the altar was of white gladioli with ferns and the music was played by church organist Mrs. Cecil Searles.

The bride's gown of feather-white taffeta was fashioned with a fitted basque and draped, square neckline offset by a separate band of heavy Guipure lace, extending to form a wide band over the shoulders, and dropped sleeves were softly draped. Falling from the corded waistline, the skirt featured unpressed pleats and the full back panel ended in a sweeping train. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held by a pearl-trimmed Juliet cap and her bouquet was of deep pink rosses and stephanotis.

Bridal attendant was Dr. Eleanor Setterington of Toronto who wore a pale blue taffeta frock with low round neckline and wide draped collar effect on the fitted basque and a very full skirt with panel of pleated taffeta inset in the front. Her headdress was of blue flowers and she carried a bouquet of pink carnations.

The groom was attended by his cousin Charles Whittington of Peterborough and ushers were Howard MacDonald and James Weir of Peterborough, also cousins of the groom.

The reception was held in the Empress Hotel Kawartha Room with the bride's mother receiving in a black and red taffeta gown with black accessories and white corsage. She was assisted by the groom's aunt, Mrs. Howard Smithson of Peterborough who wore grey with mauve accessories and a corsage of cream roses.

For a wedding trip by motor to Quebec the bride donned a navy blue suit and pale blue accessories and wore a corsage of pink roses when going away.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomson will live at 2676 Yonge St., Toronto.

MR. AND MRS. CECIL ARTHUR MUMFORD of Peterborough, the bride formerly Miss Betty Nicholls, who were married in Bridgenorth United Church Saturday.—(Choate Studio Photo)

Betty Nicholls Wears Blue

Many baskets of multi-colored gladioli decorated the Bridgenorth United Church on Saturday for the wedding of Agnes Elizabeth Mary (Betty), daughter of Mrs. Wesley Nicholls and the late Mr. Nicholls of Bridgenorth, to Cecil Arthur Mumford, so nof Mr. Arthur Mumford and the late Mrs. Mumford of Harcourt.

The groom was attended by his brother, Edward John Mumford and the ushers were Robert Nicholls and Dale Mumford, brothers of the bride and groom.

Red-toned asters marked the church pews reserved for the 85 guests who were formally received afterward in the Forester's Hall, Bridgenorth. The bride's mother was wearing a gown of coffee tan crepe with a black picture hat and corsage of pale pink carnations. The groom's step-mother who assisted in receiving, wore mauve crepe with grey hat and accessories and also had a corsage of pink carnations.

The bridal couple left later for a honeymoon at Huntsville. The bride was wearing a light grey suit with navy accessories. They will live on Adeline St., Peterborough, on their return.

Scottish Retailers Cash In On Popularity Of Festival

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDINBURGH (CP)—With the Edinburgh Festival gaining importance yearly in the market of overseas visitors, Scottish retailers are cashing in on the sales appeal of "a guid piece o' Scots manufacture."

Tartan-draped windows, sporting Celtic brooches and elaborate sporrans, knitting and traditional tweeds, attract Canadian and United States visitors from the stylishly dressed to 'teen-agers in tartan jeans.

In the heart of "auld Reekie"—as Scotland's capital was known to "Rabbie" Burns—North American accents blend daily with the soft lowland burr, as the visitors go about their shopping tours.

WIDE VARIETY

A popular purchase is polished leather shoulder bags with tartan front panels, the pointed flaps sporting a silver Cairngorm thistle or a Celtic reindeer head.

There are soft suede gloves with tartan back panels, tartan umbrellas with shepherds' crook handles, tartan blouses, jumpers, socks and bonnets. And these are just part of Scotland's lead in present-day fashions.

From highland croft to the woollen mills of the lowlands, Scots are working on home products and materials that have already won fashion popularity through public demand.

A festival fashion with definite overseas appeal is the huge, fringed woollen square in shepherds' tartan worn by a theatre-goer to top a simple, black wool dinner dress.

POPULAR STOLES

Scotland is also cashing in on the stole craze with everything from over-sized tartan scarves to gossamer Shetland wool knitted squares flecked and trimmed with sequins, that make attractive evening wear.

Throughout the couture houses of London and Paris this season, buyers will find coats, suits and dresses in Scotland's fine "glen" checks and tartans. Beautifully-styled simple dresses with all-round pleated skirts and matching short jackets lined with moleskin, are found in many shades of the fine Glenurquhart checks.

This check, which had fallen almost completely out of favor for fashionable women's wear in prewar days, is right back on top with many other shadow checks that depend on muted colors for effect.

And at such affairs as the military tattoo that takes place during the festival in the front square of Edinburgh Castle, many of the smart Scots check outfits worn by sightseers were not bought on this side of the Atlantic.

Canadian interest was centred more than ever before on this year's festival as for the first time, a representative band of Canadian pipers took part in the tattoo.-

Magnifying Glass Used In Judging Quilt Seams

TORONTO (CP)—Members of the Ontario Women's Institutes had to sew the finest of seams in a recent quilt competition—because judges literally went over each quilt with a magnifying glass.

Sixty entries with motifs varying from brightly colored autumn leaves to houses, were displayed in the offices of a tea company which sponsored the competition.

"Yes, you can say we went over each quilt with a magnifying glass" said one of the judges, Miss Florence Wright of Terra-Cotta, Peel County.

CALL FOR ORIGINALITY

A trained designer, Miss Wright's particular job was to select the most suitable designs. One of the rules of the contest said they must be original.

"And I was pleasantly surprised at the goodness of the designs," said Miss Wright. "I think the women of Ontario have gone a long way in their quilting in the last 10 years."

The quilts were sent in from women's institutes in widely scattered districts of Ontario. Each was a project upon which five or six women, sometimes more, worked throughout the year. Eligible quilts will be entered in Tweedsmuir Cup competition of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, an annual craft competition.

VARIETY OF PATTERNS

The provincial and regional winners chosen at this most recent competition will be announced later this fall.

Maple leaves appeared the popular choice for quilt patterns. Trilliums and African violets also shared the spotlight.

And at least one Chamber of Commerce would be delighted with the detailed map of Manitoulin Island—intricately worked even to place names.

Considerable thought must have been spent on one quilt which attempted to explain the lineage of Canadians. At the centre is the Parliament Buildings and fanning out in all directions from this are the people who go to make up the population, a Scotsman in national costume, a French peasant, a Greek, a Chinese, Japanese and others.-

DOROTHY DIX

Engaged To Alcoholic, Tragedy In Store

DEAR MISS DIX: A very dear girl friend of mine is going with a boy, and plannig to marry him next June. He drinks to excess and she knows it, but she claims he will stop once they are married. He has broken many a date with her because he was too drunk to come over. Of course, she is convinced that she does not need help, but I am equally convinced that she does.

ANNE R.

ANSWER: And your conviction is so right, Anne! Your friend is headed for certain unhappiness unless she comes to her senses. So many girls have been taken in by the meaningless promise of reform after marriage, and so many, who are even more foolish, believe that marriage will automatically make a man of a spineless creature.

If the following statement were believed by every prospective bride, unhappy mariage would become a rarity: No man who doesn't love a girl enough to try to overcome his basic bad habits before mariage will change afterwards. The nuptial ceremony contains no magic words to create character where none exists.

HE MUST REFORM FIRST

Some faults may be hidden from a fiancee, but an alcoholic cannot conceal his weakness. It is very possible that the faith and devotion of a worthy girl can reform him—but the reform must come before she marries him; it will never come later.

If your friend has a strong will of her own—as she seems to have—it should be directed toward making a man of her fiance now. If he honestly loves her and wants to be a good husband, he will find a strong ally in Alcoholics Anonymous, one of the most marvelous organizations ever founded for the rehabilitation of man. The Salvation Army also performs a wonderful service along the same line. However, all the help in the world will be of no use to a man who is not willing to help himself.

You are probably powerless to extend much assistance to your friend; paradoxically, people who need help most are often those who will listen least.

If you could bring your friend into a home that is being wrecked through alcoholism, her eyes might open. Somewhere in your circle of acquaintances you may know some such home; have your friend talk to the wife and she'll get a fine idea of the life in store for herself.

Whatever she elects to do, stick by her for, I asure you, as the wife of a heavy drinker she will need every friend she has.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been working in a shop during the summer. Working with me is a 24-year-old college man who is also here for the summer. He has asked me to go out with him but I hesitate because I am six years younger than he.

ELISE G. H.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The difference in your ages isn't enough to interfere with friendship, but you must face the fact that when the boy leaves the shop and returns to school, other interests will occupy his mind and time. Don't be too serious over him.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX:We are two young teen-agers, each with two boy friends. We can't make up our minds which we like better. Our parents say we are too young to be thinking of one boy only, but the problem is when we go with one boy the other gets mad.

K. and L.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Since you are definitely too young to be going steady, let the boys know that this is your attitude, and that your parents uphold it. If one boy is annoyed because you go with another, let the irritated one go.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Handy Ready Mixes Help When Need Cake In Hurry

There comes a day in every household when a cake or its equivalent is needed on short notice—and is conspicuous by its absence. Then — ah, then — is when the thoughts of even the fussiest of home-bakers fly to the packaged cake mix on her shelf—and she is thankful once again that she keeps house in this year of Our Lord, 1952. I've talked with you about cake mixes before this but, believe it or not, such an emergency has happened twice to me within a week.

On the first occasion we had just finished dining a dozen or more of our friends at a buffet meal and were about to relax when my youngest unmarried daughter (the only one, too, you understand!), name of Marianne, turned up and whispered she'd like to bake a cake for a party her nurse-in-training friends had planned for the next evening. In vain, I suggested that we order it from one of our fine local bakeries. Marianne's been raised on home-cooked foods — and it seemed wrong to her to do less for her friends than bake a cake at home.

Then it was I bethought me of the gingerbread mix in the cupboard—a compromise with which she was entirely satisfied. Thus, with a minimum of disturbance, of dishes to clean up and of supervision—another minor home crisis was passed.

Today it's Pete who wants his own cake and I've no time. He loves stirring up the ready mixes so he's on his own out in the kitchen (I hope!) with the automatic oven set at 350 degrees, one bowl, one spoon, one baking dish, one cake cooler. Oh, I know there'll be the inevitable frosting mixture later, as well—but I deal with one problem at a time—as you've likely guessed by now.

It's not only inexperienced cooks who are benefitting by these handy ready mixes, I find. For career women, new Canadians, young cooks and (believe it or not) farm cooks are among the best customers for these time savers. In my research about them, I discovered that farm women in many outlying areas were purchasing ready mixes of various kinds by the case!

Perhaps here are some advantages you have been missing. One manuafcturer points out some of them. First, there's their convenience. Second, results are sure. Third, they are economical—in tests made by one group of home economists working with various mixes now on the market it was found that from two to nine cents per mix were saved by ready mixes.

We have worked out a few special ways of using such mixes and I know some of you will want to try them.

CHOCOLATE ICE CREAM SANDWICH

Bake a Cchocolate Cake Mix batter in a loaf pan. When cool, cut in slices. Place peppermint ice cream between two slices and top with chocolate sauce.

COCOANUT RING

Prepare according to directions on package a White Cake Mix and fold in 1 cup cocoanut. Bake in an 8-inch tube pan. When done, turn out on a paper doiley on a baking sheet and cover with a meringue made as follows:

MERINGUE

Beat 3 egg whites until stiff but not dry, add a few grains of salt and gradually beat in 6 tablespoons fruit sugar. Beat until mixture stands in peaks. Spread over cake and brown in a slow oven.

BANANA GINGERBREAD SHORTCAKE

Follow directions for Gingerbread Mix. Bake in two 8-inch round layer cake pans. Whip 1 cup heavy cream, fold in 2 tablespoons fine granulated sugar and ½ teaspoon vanilla. Place the sweetened whipped cream between and on top of layers. Arrange sliced bananas on whipped cream.

Of Interest to Women

What's Right?

You are talking with a couple who have been dating for a long time, and you wonder if they are planning to marry.

WRONG: Ask in a joking manner, "When are you two going to get married?"

RIGHT: Never embarrass a couple by any such personal questions or remarks.

✧ ✧ ✧

There is a certain movie you would like to see and your husband has offered to take you to a movie and asks for your preference.

WRONG: Feel the polite thing to do is say "It doesn't really matter to me. You decide."

RIGHT: State your preference whenever it is asked for.

GEORGE:
I still love you, but I had to leave when Mother told me "We're Not Married." If you can possibly make it meet me in the lobby of the Paramount Theatre next Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday or Saturday.

6—In Memoriam

McGILL—In memory of a loving wife and mother, who passed away September 15, 1942.
Remembrance is a golden chain
Death tries to break, but all in vain,
To have, to love, and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart
The years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never,
The memory of those happy days,
When we were all together.
—Sadly missed by husband, Herman McGill and family.

SANDERSON—In loving memory of my father, Wellie Sanderson, who passed away four years ago today, Sept. 15, 1948.
Gone from us but leaving memories
Death can never take away.
Memories that will always linger
While upon this earth we stay.
—Ever remembered by daughter, Florence, son-in-law, Rollie and family.

WARD—In loving memory of our dear daughter, Effie Doreen, who passed away Sept. 15, 1947.
Deep in the heart lies a picture
Of a loved one laid to rest
In memory's frame we shall keep it
Because she was one of the best —Ever remembered by her father, mother, sisters and brother.

Drew Making European Tour

LONDON (CP) — George Drew, leader of the Opposition in the Canadian House of Commons, left by air today for Geneva to start what he called a "fact-finding" tour of Switzerland, France and Germany.

The Progressive Conservative leader told a reporter he expects to see government ministers and trade officials in Paris and in Bonn, and to attend several international trade conferences. He will return to London in about two weeks to discuss trade matters with government representatives.

"I am primarily concerned with trade between Canada and Britain, both imports and exports," Drew said.

Drew, accompanied by his wife, arrived in London by air yesterday. He is expected to return to Canada some time in October.

Endorse Resolution

DURHAM (CP) — The zone rally of the Canadian Legion (Durham branch) yesterday endorsed a resolution asking that the war veterans allowance be increased from $90 to $125 monthly for married men and from $50 to $75 monthly for single men.

Street Of Destruction Defence School

A carefully constructed scene of destruction, "Rescue Street," is located near Olney, Maryland. Here, key Civilian Defence workers from all parts of the nation are trained in disaster procedures under the guidance of National Civil Defence College. The $200,000 project contains frame dwellings, brick row houses, office, theatre, and apartment buildings, built to simulate conditions that might exist after a bombing raid upon an American city. Plans for constructing a "junior" model of the street may be obtained by interested communities from the Defence College. The junior model costs approximately $8,000 to construct, and experts in rescue work have praised it as being ideal for training volunteer Civilian Defence workers in their own communities.

Two Found Guilty Of Causing Ruckus

Two youths, Steve Morrissey, 20, 76 Aylmer St., and Arthur Batley, 18, 283 Townsend St., were convicted of causing a disturbance on George St., the night of Sept. 1 in police court today.

Batley, who was convicted of assaulting a police officer in May this year was fined $15 and $5.50 costs or 15 days. Morrissey was fined $5 and $2.50 costs or five days, for his part in the fracas.

Both pleaded not guilty to the charges.

John K. Stewart, 279 Euclid St., said he and his wife had just left a restaurant when they saw Morrissey and Batley arguing with a third man. He said Morrissey swung at the man, then, when the man was on the sidewalk, Batley hit him again several times.

"I was afraid he was going to kill the man," Mr. Stewart said and when he shouted at the pair, they both fled. They were later picked up by constables Jack Wilson and Dennis Traynor.

Morrissey denied hitting the man, and Batley said he first hit the man, knocking him down, after he had struck Morrissey.

Drunk Sentenced To Reformatory

Roy Allison, 60, 215 London St., pleaded guilty to a third offence drunk charge today and was sentenced to four months in Reformatory. Magistrate Philp added a recommendation that Allison be sent to Mimico for alcoholic treatment.

Three others, Frank Johnston, 32, Lakefield, William Montgomery and Kenneth Johnson, pleaded guilty to drunk charges and were each fined $10 and $2.50 costs or ten days, as first offenders.

Protestant Sect Plans Court Action Over Ban

ROME (AP)—American Church of Christ leaders said today they planned court action against a police ban on their Protestant services in this seat of Roman Catholicism.

Cline R. Paden, who heads the Rome Church of Christ, said, "we will do whatever is necessary to bring our case before the courts."

Police action against the sect in Italy was climaxed Sunday when worshippers defying the ban were barred by police from the church rooms in a Roman villa. Ralph Perry, Toronto evangelist, was among those turned away.

Later the services were held secretly in the home of a member whose name Paden declined to disclose because it "might hurt him."

Today a Church of Christ delegation called on the Italian ministry of interior to ask quick and favorable action on an application to hold services in Rome.

An informed Italian sources said the crackdown was due to the group's evangelical activities—about 1,000 conversions since the Second World War.

Paden said he had been trying for three years to get official recognition of his church.

Other Protestant denominations, including Methodists and Baptists, have experienced no such difficulties.

Judge Frees 40 Men Says Charges Flimsy

CAPETOWN (Reuters)—A judge today freed 40 South African non-whites, commenting it was "a shame" that they had been arrested on such flimsy charges.

The non-Europeans had been charged with living in shanties on Table Mountain without permission of the man who owned the land.

"Every time they are brought before me I shall reprimand and discharge them," said Magistrate J.J. Coetzer. "What harm have they done to the land? It is derelect."

Flat-topped Table Mountain dominates the bay around which Capetown is built. With the acute housing shortage in the city, homeless Africans have spread out to the slopes of the mountain.

Charged With Theft 3 Men Remanded

Three Toronto men, charged in connection with a series of thefts of outboard motors in the Kawathas this summer, were given a further remand of one week by Magistrate W. R. Philp today.

Lawrence Howell, 43, and Herbert Halstead, 38, are each charged with stealing eight outboard motors during the summer. Joseph Laroque, 39, has already pleaded guilty to retaining one of the stolen motors.

All three are under bail of $3,000 each.

Lighning Blamed In 3 Barn Fires

OWEN SOUND (CP) — Lightning was blamed for three barn fires yesterday.

This year's crop of hay and two calves were lost when flames destroyed the barn of William Scott at nearby Markham.

Sam Koenig's barn was destroyed in Normanby township. The season's grain crop, implements, 30 pigs, a calf and some hens were burned.

A quantity of baled hay was lost when Leslie Hawton's barn burned ate Feversham.

Independent Pastor

NEWTON REIGNY, Scotland (CP)—The 250 inhabitants of this village said they would boycott the church because its pastor, Rev. R. J. Fisher, wrote an open letter supporting the "Red dean" of Canterbury. He says: "Some people will give any excuse for not going to church."

Cancer Society Issue Pamphlet For New Citizens

WINDSOR (CP) — The Canadian Cancer Society may soon begin to publish foreign-language information pamphlets in an attempt to bring cancer education to new Canadians.

A delegate to the society's third annual Ontario Division conference here reported yesterday that immigrants are letting skin cancer reach advanced stages before seeking treatment. He blamed a lack of education.

The conference set up a committee to investigate. If practical, foreign language pamphlets will be published.

IRON OUT DETAILS

The three-day conference was held to help iron out details in community-level planning for the 1953 national drive for funds. Delegates discussed the 1952 campaign which has so far raised more than $400,000 in Ontario.

To handle the 1953 campaign in Ontario, the conference set up a committee of seven: A. E. Stringer, Windsor; Mrs. Morris Holt, Peterborough; Mrs. J. C. Campbell, Port Arthur; A.B. Hood, Toronto; L.M. Dalgleish, London; F.S. Welch, Toronto, president of the Ontario Division, and Thomas Naylor, Woodstock.

Think Fugitives Now Holed Up

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Without a single positive clue for nearly 72 hours, police officials clung today to the belief that three fugitive bank robbers, target of Pennsylvania's greatest manhunt in years, still might be holed up somewhere near this north-eastern industrial city. They acknowledged, however, a growing possibility that the men had slipped away.

The fugitives are Joseph Nolen, 26, and his brother, Ballard, 22, both of Harlan county, Ky., and Elmer Schuer, 21, of Chicago. All were serving long terms for bank robbery when they fled the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., early Wednesday.

Since then they have stolen at least four cars; knifed one man; looted a West Reading, Pa., sporting-goods store of six shotguns and a quantity of ammunition; held a family of seven captive for 19 hours while they ate and rested, and obtained $240 in the holdup of a roadside diner at Hamburg, Pa.

Jet-Propelled Tanks For British Army

LONDON (CP) — Jet-propelled tanks are being developed for the British Army, it was revealed in a report to the Parliamentary select committee on estimates.

The work on jet-tanks was begun about four years ago, the report says, but there is a 50-50 chance that new-type diesel engines may be developed before jet-driven tanks are practical.

The chief engineer at the fighting vehicles design establishment at Chobham, Surrey, said progress has been made in standardization of all types of wheeled and tracked vehicles.

Disgusted Player Steals $1,200 In Game

TORONTO (CP) — A disgruntled fan-tan player last night stole $1,200 during a game with members of the Sun-Sun Club, police said today.

Jim Choy, a member of the Chinese organization, said a dozen men were playing the game and there was a "big pile of money" on the table. Choy said a player, a Japanese, suddenly grabbed the bills and fled.

Approve Grant

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government has approved a capital grant of $160,666 to the Plummer Memorial hospital of Sault Ste. Marie toward supplying 89 patient beds, 32 nursery cubicles, two detention ward beds, 20 chronically ill patients beds and accomodation for four of the nursing staff.

Sentenced To Death

PUSAN, Korea (AP) — A South Korean National Assemblyman and a 62-year-old gun wielder yesterday were sentenced to death in connection with the attempted assassination of President Syngman Rhee last June. The sentences were imposed on Assemblyman Kim Shi Hyun, and Ryu Shi Tae.

Finds Father Too Late

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Sgt. Kenneth E. Micken searched for his father for 10 years and found him a day late—dead in a traffic accident. The son read about it the next morning in a newspaper and found the dead man was the father who left his family more than 25 years ago.

FIRST MASS

The first mass on Canadian soil was celebrated in 1535 on Ile Aux Codres in the St. Lawrence 60 miles below Quebec.

S. Africa Facing 'Dust Bowl'

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (Reuters) — The vast, rich veld grasslands of South Africa, left open to erosion by a combination of white men's greed and natives' ignorance, are ripe to become a "dust bowl" like the United States mid-west of the 30s.

The start of the erosion goes back to wars raged against African tribes at the turn of the century. British soldiers and Boers (white South Africans of mainly Dutch extraction) drove the tribes to the mountains and left the great plains to be divided among the white settlers.

On the heights, the natives with their primitive husbandry have devoured everything trying to get enough to eat.

STRIPPED OF TREES

In their tireless search for firewood, bands of girls and women have stripped and uprooted practically every tree in hundreds of miles of country covered with woods and forests not more than a hundred years ago.

In the catchments they have ripped up the spongey natural vegetation which collects water, and plowed up the "eyes" of most of South Africa's streams and rivers.

Goats and cattle cropped the grasses on even the sheerest slopes. And in stripping the hillsides, the natives also destroyed the watersheds that supplied the white man's fields.

In the lands below, windmills and pumps have multiplied during the years and always the drills must go deeper to find the sinking level of the country's underground water.

The rivers carry off an increasing tonnage of irreplaceable top soil and the biggest irrigation plans silt up in a few years.

OVER-GRAZING AFTERMATH

On the great fertile plains of the Transvaal and Free State, the soil has been exhausted by continuous crop production and by over-grazing. Birds and animals which maintained the balance of nature have been exterminated.

Vermin, pests and weeds increase, and South Africa's bill for fertilizer and insecticides grow yearly. Crop yields wane.

Soil experts now warn that the limit of this destructive process is in sight. T. C. Robertson, general manager of the state-subsidized conservation organization says that South Africa, to save itself from famine, "has five years at the most because its soil no longer holds its moisture. . .and if you get even a small drought your crops will die."

The South African government has a three-phase plan for dealing with the situation. But there are big snags to it.

For one thing, agricultural officers supposed to spread the latest knowledge are desk-bound by mountains of administrative work caused by South Africa's complicated system of agricultural controls and subsidies.

There is also the task of getting the conservative, fiercely-independent, Boer farmer to co-operate. The Boers react violently to even a hint of compulsion—and in the end it is their votes which control the government.

Expect Five Important States To Go Narrowly Republican

By DOUGLASS B. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP)—Five politically potent Middle Atlantic states—New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland and Delaware—are expected by editors and political writers at this stage of the U.S. election campaign to go narrowly Republican in November as they did in 1948.

An Associated Press survey, based on estimates of editors and correspondents, indicates there is a composite belief that if the election were run off now, the Republican presidential nominee, Dwight D. Eisenhower, would roll up bigger margins of victory in most of these states than Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York did four years ago.

MARGIN SLENDER

Even so, the margins still are so slender that two of the states—Maryland and Delaware—must be considered doubtful, although they are regarded as tilting toward the Republicans at this point.

Campaign developments between now and Nov. 4 could easily toss any of these states to the Democratic nominee, Governor Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois.

The 105 Electoral College ballots of the five states are a prize political package. They represent nearly one-fifth of the U.S. total of 531 and almost two-fifths of the 266 needed to win the election.

(The electoral system is a hangover from the late 18th century. Under present practice, each state has a number of electoral votes equal to the number of members it has in Congress. After it has been determined which states each presidential candidate has carried in the election—even by the smallest popular-vote margin—the electoral votes for each of these states is totalled.)

In the last four presidential elections, all have voted alike—Democratic in 1936, 1940 and 1944; Republican in 1948.

G.O.P. FAVORED AGAIN

Political soundings in the early stages of the 1952 campaign point toward the Republicans' capturing all five states once more.

These soundings, and those to follow for other states, are being taken through the co-operation of Associated Press member newspapers and radio stations, other newspapers and local correspondents were asked to estimate how dents. Editors and correspondents own particular areas are likely to go.

While a majority of the newspapers that have taken sides favor Eisenhower, numerous editors reported trends opposite to those their papers advocate editorially. Efforts were made to obtain estimates untinted by wishful thinking.

Eisenhower's personal popularity was described generally as a more forceful factor in the campaign than time-for-a-change sentiment and such specific issues as high taxes and corruption in government.

Stevenson's greatest strength, as is usual for Democratic candidates, was assigned to industrial and urban areas.

FACE UP TO IT—Okay, we won't blame you if you don't believe it. But this is actually the way a tomato looked when Edward Goodreau, of Annapolis, Md., picked it in his backyard garden. He brought the freak to the office of the Annapolis Evening Capital, where this unretouched photo was taken.

Unification Of Europe Has Strong Vatican Support

VATICAN CITY (AP)—The Pope Saturday placed the spiritual strength and prayers of the Roman Catholic church behind the move for unification of Europe.

In a major speech to a 2,000-member European pilgrimage, the Pontiff declared:

". . . If today political personalities are conscious of their responsibility, if statesmen work for the unification of Europe, for its peace and for the peace of the world, the (Roman Catholic) church in truth cannot remain indifferent to their efforts, but sustains them all with the strength of its sacrifices, and of its prayers."

Early in his speech Pope Pius turned to the efforts of Western European statesmen now meeting in Strasbourg.

TOO MUCH POLITICS

While giving his wholehearted support to the movement, the Pontiff cautioned that political ties alone would not be sufficient to sustain unification.

"When we follow the efforts of these statesmen," the Pope said, "we cannot suppress a feeling of anguish.

"Pressed by the need for European unification, they pursue political aims which presuppose a new method to consider relations between peoples."

What must prevail, the Pontiff said, is, in brief: "The atmosphere of truth, of justice and of the love of Christ."

America's Philosophy Causes Lively Debate

By CRAIG ARMSTRONG

HAMILTON (CP) — A report of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service which caused lively debate at Saturday's session of the 15th biennial General Council of the United Church of Canada will come up for discussion again this week.

The report, entitled "Evangelism For Today," calls pride, paganism and profligacy "the products of North America's power and its materialistic philosophy."

It was introduced by Rev. J. R. Mutchmor of Toronto, secretary of the board, after he had delivered an address demanding the appointment of a Royal Commission on crime for Ontario.

After the heated debate on the report, time ran out without the council voting on it. Debate was put over to this week.

WOULD CHANGE WORDING

The section of the report which caused the controversy reads: "This General Council, aware that the Christian Church, confronted by such adversaries as pride, paganism and profligacy—the products of North America's power and its materialistic philosophy—and the dangers to the good life and the work of evangelism. . ."

Rev. Norman Rawson of Hamilton asked the words "North America's" power be substituted by "our power."

He said that two years ago he had found on a trip to Europe that America was looked on as the hope of the world. After a trip through Europe and the Middle East this year the situation had changed, despite the fact that the United States had spent millions to bolster those countries against Communism.

The United States today is one of the most unpopular, one of the most looked to and one of the most feared powers in the Middle East, "and the Communists are playing on that power and fear."

SUGGESTS CHANGE

Mr. Rawson said he had sugested substituting the phrase "our power" for "North America's power" because it would only add fuel and ammunition to Moscow propaganda.

Dr. Mutchmor said: "I'm not afraid of Moscow. We must look at these matters in the light of what the New Testament teaches, and then act upon it. If there is evil in our midst we must recognize it."

After several speakers had supported Mr. Rawson's sugestion Dr. Mutchmor said that although he was against deleting the "North American" reference he would substitute "our power" if the Council wished.

SUPORTS MUCHMOR

Then, just before the debate was adjourned, Rev. Gordon A. Sisco, secretary of the General Council and one of the most influential leaders in the church, said:

"I tell you, you are making a mistake. Communism didn't arise in the East, it arose in the West. America worships free enterprise like a fetish, and when it comes to helping other nations it too often means supporting some rotten regime. We belong to a system that is materialistic and for that reason we cannot assume moral leadership of the world."

In his address before presenting the Board of Evangelism and Social Service's report, Dr. Mutchmor said: "It is time the big shots on Ontario's crime areas of prostitution, the liquor traffic, gambling, including race-track gambling were brought to justice."

"The United Church is determined to oppose gambling of every form whether proposed by Toronto's mayor, Ontario's chief brewer or any other so-called sporting big shot."

The United Church had been pointing out to the Ontario government that there are "alarming evidence of gangdom and underworld activities in some of the larger urban and border city centres of this province."

GET 'BIG SHOTS'

"It is not enough to go after the tough mugs who shoot it out in bank hold-ups and unnecessarily endanger the lives of our gallant police force. . .

"What is required is to seek out and bring to justice the big shots who have commercialized crime."

Launch $30,000 Inquiry Into Aid For Education

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Trustees Association has launched a $30,000 project to inquire into the problem of federal aid for education.

Details were announced to the association Saturday at its annual meeting by the secretary, Professor M.P. Toombs of the University of Saskatchewan. He said research started Sept. 1. The aim was to find out how much federal aid was needed, where it was needed and how it could be distributed.

R. R. Knight, C.C.F. Member of Parliament for Saskatoon, said unless there is federal aid Canada faces a shortage of 25,000 teachers and 1,000 schools by 1955.

Dr. C. C. Goldring, director of education in Toronto, told the convention yesterday it is getting increasingly difficult to teach children the fundamental concept of citizenship.

He blamed people who want something for nothing and families in which both parents go out to work.

"COOL CONTROL"

SNAPPING THE FOOTBALL

3 Arms follow through, then are brought back, up and out in front of chest to block opponent. Snap wrists when releasing ball. Spin and control comes from hand motion across ball when snap is made; pull up and across with right hand, down and out with left hand.

Yes, it's control that counts, in football as in every sport—control which brings the extraordinary quality that sets one performer above the other. In the ability to approach things coolly, to control every move and moment, lies the answer to better results.

This is one of a series designed to increase the pleasure of Canadians who participate in sports.

Revenue Flying Up 250%

GENEVA, Switzerland (CP)—Sir William P. Hildred, director-general of the International Air Transport Association, predicted today international airlines will do 250 per cent more revenue flying this year than they did five years ago.

In his report to the annual general meeting of the world airline organization, Sir William said 45,000,000 passengers will be carried this year alone, each flying an average of 625 miles. The 2,500 aircraft of I.A.T.A.'s member companies will have flown 1,062,500,000 miles by that time.

CARGO OPERATIONS

Cargo operations for 1952 will pass the 625,000,000 ton-mile mark. A ton-mile is a technical measure, equivalent to one ton of cargo flown for one mile.

Sir William said that as a "strict guess" airline revenues for 1952 will total "something less than $2,000,000,000.

Success of scheduled airline tourist fares on the North Atlantic route had been demonstrated by a 50-per-cent increase in traffic during May, June and July of this year, the first three months of operation. Approximately 150,000 persons crossed the North Atlantic then, compared with 100,000 during the corresponding period last year.

Dr. Walter Berchtold, president of Swissair, took office today as president of I.A.T.A., succeeding Sir Miles Thomas, chairman of British Overseas Airways Corporation.

Urge Greater Research In Forestry Resources

OTTAWA (CP) — Commonwealth governments were urged Saturday to implement a sustained yield policy in administration of their forest resources and to intensify research and widen markets for the products of the woods.

The recommendations were made by the sixth British Commonwealth Forestry Conference in a series of resolutions in the final session of its month-long meeting in Canada.

The more than 50 delegates from 19 Commonwealth countries supported a recommendation that all Commonwealth governments "do everything possible to ensure orderly marketing." The resolution said marketing of timber products is becoming increasingly competitive and without orderly marketing there could be no sustained yield management.

Another resolution, aimed particularly at Canada, called for greater efforts to reduce forest fire losses. It said more money should be provided to support public education in fire prevention; methods of fire hazard prediction should be improved, and "larger numbers of better-trained personnel" should be employed.

Need 200 Churches Conference Told

HAMILTON (CP)—Rev. M. C. Macdonald, associate secretary of the Board of Home Missions, told the general council of the United Church Saturday that there is a "staggering" need for 200 more churches.

"How can you call Canada Christian while there are so many people unchurched," he asked the 400 commissioners to the 15th biennial council.

Manslaughter Verdict For Gordon Addyman

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Gordon Addyman sat unmoved Saturday when a Supreme Court jury found him guilty of manslaughter in the April 15 shooting death of his 33-year-old wife, Mildred. He will be sentenced next Friday.

The 37-year-old accused, calm through most of the four-day murder trial, maintained the same attitude when a 12-man petit jury announced its verdict: "Not guilty of murder, but guilty of manslaughter."

Addyman was charged with murder in the shooting of his wife in their Windsor home. The couple had been sitting alone in a small den when a revolver, admitted by the accused to have been in his hands, discharged and killed Mrs. Addyman.

The defence maintained that firing of the gun was accidental.

Russia To Continue Using Base At Port Arthur

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union announced today that it is handing back control of Manchuria's Changchun railway to Communist China this year but that Russia will continue to use the Manchurian naval base of Port Arthur—190 miles west of Korea—until Japan signs a peace treaty with the Communists. The new agreement, announced by the Soviet news agency Tass, came at the conclusion of top-level Soviet-Chinese talks which have been going on since Aug. 17.

1. The new agreement on Port Arthur, which was occupied by Soviet forces at the end of the Second World War. Under the 30-year Russian-Chinese treaty of friendship signed Feb. 14, 1950, the Soviets agreed to get out of Port Arthur by the end of 1952. In a note published today Red China's premier and foreign minister Chou En-lai asked the Soviets to stay because in the absence of the Japanese peace treaty with the Communist powers, "conditions have arisen dangerous for peace and favorable for a reiteration of Japanese aggression."

2. A communique said "important political and economic questions concerning the relations" between the two countries were discussed. Details were not given. Under the 1950 pact, Russia granted China $300,000,000 in credits toward the purchase of materials and equipment from the Soviet Union. Western observers had suggested that China probably was asking for additional aid because of her expenses in the Korean war.

3. Return of the Changchun railway by the end of 1952, as provided in the 1950 agreement. A separate communique said the railway would be returned to full Chinese administration by the end of this year.

DAIREN NOT MENTIONED

4. The absence of any reference to the port and rail centre of Dairen, 25 miles east of Port Arthur. The 1950 treaty provided that the future of this city would be considered after the signing of a Japanese peace treaty. The city has been under Chinese administration.

The Changchun railway is the shortest rail route from central Siberia to the Russian port of Vladivostok, on the Sea of Japan. A branch line extends from Mukden down to Antung, on the border between Manchuria and North Korea.

In Tokyo, Japanese Foreign Office spokesmen said they were "not surprised in the least" by the announcement. They interpreted it as meaning the Russians can stay in Port Arthur indefinitely since "there is no immediate prospect" for a Japanese-Communist peace treaty. Russia refused to sign the Japanese peace treaty sponsored by the United States and the Peiping regime was not invited to sign it.

European Fears Of Council Crisis Allayed

STRASBOURG, France (Reuters)—Fears of a crisis in the Council of Europe have been allayed by the co-operative attitude of Britain, Italy's Alcide de Gasperi told the 15-country consultative assembly today.

De Gasperi, Italian premier and foreign minister, welcomed the speech Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden of Britain made to the assembly last night. He said it "confirms the British desire to collaborate in the work to which we have devoted ourselves."

The Italian premier was addressing the assembly by invitation as toward closer political unity in part of a two-day debate on steps toward closer political unity in Europe.

THREAT OF CLEAVAGE

In speaking of a feared crisis, he was referring to the threat of cleavage between the inner group of six countries — France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg — and the remaining eight countries of the European council.

The six, already united in the Schuman coal-steel pool and the European defence treaty, have been actively meeting to lay the groundwork of a political federation with supra-national powers—a United States of Europe.

Of the other countries, Britain in particular has said she cannot join a super-state. But in his speech yesterday Eden said Britain fully approves the action taken by the six within the frame-work of the wider organization.

(Other council of Europe countries represented in the full assembly now sitting are Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Iceland, the Republic of Ireland, Greece and Turkey. The 15th member, the Saar, is represented by France in the "Six.")

Sells Her Baby Pay Bar Bills

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Police yesterday accused a young mother of selling her baby and using part of the money to pay bar bills.

The mother and two other women were jailed in connection with the transaction.

Officers filed this report of the affair:

Mrs. Elizabeth G. Brittain, 35, gave Mrs. Kathryn A. Lincoln $450 for the three-month-old girl, Linda. Mrs. Lincoln gave the 20-year-old mother, Mrs. Edna Earl Schon, $400 and kept $50 for herself as go-between.

Mrs. Schon had $281 when arrested. "I spent the rest of it paying some bar bills," she explained.

Child 9, Attacked Police Holding Man

HAMILTON (CP) — A man was scheduled to appear in court in St. Catharines today, following a widespread search by Provincial Police in the Grimsby-Smithville area last night for a man in soldier's uniform, alleged to have criminally assaulted a nine-year-old girl.

According to information given police, a group of children returning from a rural school passed a parked small model car with a soldier behind the wheel. A few minutes later, the two small girls turned down a sideroad leading to their home and had gone only a short distance when the car pulled up beside them. The soldier, they said, jumped out and grabbed them both, throwing them into the car.

One was said to have fallen out and been left by the roadside while the car sped away with the other. Police said the one girl was taken down the road a short distance, criminally attacked, and then driven back to where she had been picked up. As soon as she was out of the car it sped away.

Crash Into Ditch Five Tourists Hurt

NAPANEE (CP)—Five tourists from Lebanon, N.H., were injured yesterday when their automobile crashed into a ditch three miles west of here. None was severely hurt.

Napanee is 25 miles west of Kingston.

Makes 6-Hour Plea For Reinstatement

OTTAWA (CP) — James E. McGuire, expelled national secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees (C.C.L.), closed a six-hour plea for reinstatement before the union's convention today with an attack on "dictatorial" methods of President A. R. Mosher.

Fired out of the C. B. R. E. last March as the culmination of a long feud with the 72-year-old president, McGuire called for his reinstatement both in the union and in his old job as No. 2 man in Canada's biggest transport-labor group.

He began speaking yesterday afternoon — reviewing C. B. R. E. administration over more than 25 years — and he did not finish until early this afternoon.

John Close, secretary of the C. B. R. E. executive board that fired McGuire, was to open the board's defence of its action later today. The executive's case was expected to take about four hours to complete, and it appeared the 375 delegates would not get to a vote until some time tomorrow.

House Burns Takes Lives Of 2 Children

Parents Visiting Neighbor, Arrive Too Late

KINGSTON (CP)—Two young children died last night in their flaming farm home at Kyes Corner, 25 miles east of here. Tommy Chapman, 11, and his brother, Jimmy, 8, were alone in the house at the time.

Their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Chapman, had gone to a neighbor's home for alterations to a dress Mrs. Chapman bought yesterday in Gananoque. Word reached them there that the little boys were dead.

The charred bodies were recovered after flames levelled the dwelling. Dr. C. Gray, coroner, said the boys died in their bed, probably of asphyxiation.

ONLY CHILDREN

The Chapmans formerly lived in Sarnia. The boys were their only children.

Rod MacPherson, relative and next-door neighbor, found the bodies in the rubble of the four-room home. He said nothing could have been done to save them.

Two fire departments answered the alarm. Lack of water hindered firefighting operations.

Queen To Launch New Yacht In April

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen will launch her new ocean-going yacht at Clydebank April 16 next year, five days before her birthday, Buckingham Palace announced yesterday.

The 5,000-ton vessel, still unnamed, is being constructed at John Brown's yards, builders of the crack Atlantic liners, Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth. It will replace the 50-year-old yacht Victoria and Albert, inherited by the Queen from her father.

Woman Hurt Near Port Hope

COBOURG (ENS).—Mrs. Patricia Thorne, 38, of Millbrook, is in Port Hope Hospital in serious condition after receiving head and chest injuries Monday in an accident northwest of Port Hope on Highway 2.

Mrs. Thorne spent the night in an oxygen tent, but was in somewhat better condition this morning.

Mrs. Thorne, police said, was driving southeast into Port Hope behind a truck driven by Harold Carr, of Port Hope.

Carr told police he turned left into a driveway when the accident happened. Mrs. Thorne's car crashed into the right rear corner of the truck box, smashing the windshield on the driver's side of the car, and tearing the steel around the windshield.

Mrs. Thorne was rushed to hospital where doctors said she had severe head injuries, chest injuries and a number of bad cuts. O.P.P. Constable Lyle Erskine investigated the crash.

Legs In Chains, Earl Ward Makes Plea For Justice

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—Prison riot leader Earl Ward pleaded for "justice" yesterday when he and his one-time partner in revolt were brought to court to face kidnap charges.

Ward whose speeches on the same subject made headlines during a four-day mutiny at Southern Michigan prison last April, held the floor for five minutes before Judge M. Grove Hatch.

He and Jack (Crazy Jack) Hyatt, 29, of Leamington, Ont., appeared for examination on charges of kidnapping prison guards during the revolt. Ward and Hyatt were considered the leaders of the uprising which brought death to one prisoner and resulted in $1,000,000 damages to the prison.

PROSECUTION 'UNJUST'

His legs in chains but his hands free, Ward read a plea against what he termed "unjust prosecution."

"Treat me fairly, for I have met with much injustice," he urged the judge.

Ward pleaded that the accused rioters be shown "the compassion we showed the guards (hostages) . . . those men's lives that we saved so that they may this very day persecute us. . ."

"My very sanity is being rapaciously torn from its human harbor," the convict declared. "Where can I look for trust? Where can I find a just God?"

Almost overlooked, after the oratory, was the fact that Judge Hatch bound both Ward and Hyatt over to circuit court for arraignment Sept. 23.

Hyatt, shackled hand and foot, behaved quietly and restricted his argument to one plea: "The warden has already punished me, so what are you doing to me?"

AN UNOFFICIAL VISIT was paid the 50th H.A.A. Regiment, R.C.A., and the 28th Technical Squadron today by Eastern Ontario's new commanding officer, Brig. Michael Dunn. Coal Strike Shaping Up In US Shortly

WASHINGTON (AP.—John L. Lewis today appeared to be shaping up an early strike of about 300,000 eastern soft-coal miners in a divide-and-conquer strategy against coal producers.

But the United Mine Workers chief said a walkout isn't likely to produce a national emergency among coal users.

Breaking his silence on a month of private negotiations, Lewis said yesterday he has reached a "most disturbing" impasse with northern soft-coal operators, with only four more days to go before their present contract expires Saturday.

Similarly, Lewis said, "no conclusions" have been reached in frequent talks with southern soft-coal producers, whose contract expires Sept. 30.

300,000 INVOLVED

Lewis plainly implied both groups of mines will be shut down as their contracts run out. Traditionally, the miners don't work without a contract. Together, the two groups turn out about 70 per cent of the United States' coal—or 7,000,000 tons a week. About 200,000 miners work in the northern group, 100,000 in the southern.

Contrasting with this grim picture the mine chief stressed that western and midwestern soft-coal mines which are not members of the (northern) Bituminous Coal Operators' Association "will be permitted to work."

Also, Lewis reported, he expects to reach an agreement this week with the Pennsylvania anthracite (hard-coal) industry, whose contract also expires Sept. 30. His plan is for both these groups, which he said employ about 140,000, to continue producing. They would accept whatever terms are negotiated later with the bigger northern and southern soft-coal associations.

NO EMERGENCY

Lewis said the present coal stockpile plus production in the western and hard-coal mines would "pre-

Hit-And-Run Ship Sought After Sinking

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese Coast Guard said today it has a hit-and-run ship sinking and has begun a search for a ship which probably has a damaged bow.

The Coast Guard said the 907-ton steamship Miyakawa Maru was rammed and sank in 10 minutes Monday night 40 miles south of Tokyo.

Crew members said the other ship made no attempt to rescue 32 sailors in the sea but disappeared. The sailors were picked up by fishermen.

Canadian Cruiser Trapped In Games

LONDON (CP)—In Allied air-sea manoeuvres off Norway, warships of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's Operation Mainbrace today trapped and "destroyed" the Canadian light cruiser Quebec. The Quebec, which simulated an elusive raider of the Orange "enemy" forces, was cornered by British and American ships which are spearheading a rescue drive to support Norwegian land forces theoretically holding off an eastern invader in northern Norway.

U. S. Marines, working to split-second timing in Scotland's Firth of Forth, are rehearsing an unopposed landing they are to make later in north Jutland to support friendly Blue forces hard-pressed by the "enemy." Orange sabotage groups have landed near Copenhagen, but Admiral Sir Patrick Brind, in charge of the games, says local authorities have the situation under control.

The Blue fleet has been attacked by Orange submarines but no "losses" have been reported. The U. S. battleship Wisconsin was "hit" by torpedoes but ruled by the umpires able to continue operations.

Blue forces claim to have sunk an Orange submarine.

The first mock air attack on a N. A. T. O. capital by British, Norwegian and Danish jet fighters saw Copenhagen's defences "riddled." The 60-minute, make-believe attack was ruled by the umpires to have reduced by 50 per cent the fighting capacity of Copenhagen's coastal defences.

In Germany, Operation Hold Fast, biggest manoeuvre in the British zone since the war, got under way today with the "invaders from the east" holding air superiority.

Nearly 150,000 Canadian, British, Belgian and Dutch troops are testing western defences of the Ruhr.

Grain Embargo Expected Today

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Free Press says today in a newspage story that an embargo on grain shipments to the Lakehead likely will go into effect today due to the threatened strike Thursday of 1,500 Lakehead terminal grain-handlers.

Roy Milner, federal transport controller, would neither confirm nor deny the report, but he said that movement of grain from the Prairies to the Lakehead already had "practically ceased."

He said the movement had been curtailed partly because of the unsettled situation at the Lakehead arising out of the wage dispute between operators of the 15 terminals and grain handlers.

Iran Threatens Sever Relations

TEHRAN, Iran (Reuters)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh today won a parliamentary vote of confidence for his policy of refusing to yield to British and American proposals for settling the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute.

The Majlis voted its support after hearing a long statement in which the Premier threatened to "go so far as to sever relations with Britain to vindicate Iran's rights."

Mossadegh once more turned thumbs down on the U.S.-British proposal for referring compensation claims of the nationalized Anglo-Iranian Oil Company to the International Court, and reopening negotiations with the company on the marketing of Iran's oil.

He said he was prepared to submit the compensation claims to the court only if a long list of conditions were accepted. They outlined the terms under which disputes between the company and the government could be settled, and demanded a payment of $137,000,000 from the British-owned company.

(The latest U.S.-British plan offered Iran $10,000,000 if she agreed to the proposed basis of settlement.)

Scarboro Officer Injured In Fight Trio Makes Escape

TORONTO (CP)—Police today chased an automobile carrying three armed men they thought might be members of the Boyd gang. The chase started in Scarboro township, just east of Toronto, after officers in a Scarboro patrol car spotted a black 1951-model car with the rear licence plate turned up. The police fired six shots. The men in the car returned their fire with five shots into the police cruiser which crashed into a ditch. One Scarboro officer, Andy Ouellette, was injured in the crash.

Police lost track of their quarry but the search was stepped up in all directions. Two hours later, police were ordered back to normal patrol.

SEEN IN TORONTO

Later police broadcast a report that three men had been seen getting out of a car similar to the wanted one at the intersection of Keele Street and Sheppard Avenue, in northwest Toronto.

CONVERGE ON AREA

Toronot police cruisers converged on the Scarboro area and patrolled the city's eastern outskirts after the shooting incident. Provincial Police in the Toronto area also took up the hunt.

One police theory was that the men in the car could be members of the Boyd gang on their way to rob a bank. Last week police issued special warnings to banks that the gang might stage a holdup to replenish its funds.

For a time the chase was centred on the Markham road between Malvern and Markham, northeast of Toronto. However, when police stopped a car they were chasing on that road, they found it contained four surprised hydro workers.

Police have expressed belief for the last three days that the Boyd gang—Edwin Alonzo Boyd, Leonard Jackson, Steve Suchan and William Jackson—soon will run out of money. The four sawed their way out of the Don Jail death row cell block eight days ago and it was believed at the time their escape was financed by $25,000 in loot obtained by two gunmen in a Toronto bank robbery the previous week.

Two Injured Railmen Moved To Hospital

NORTH BAY (CP) — Two of the five crewmen injured in the head-on smash of two Canadian Pacific Railway passenger trains near Mattawa Sunday morning have been moved to North Bay hospitals from hospital in Mattawa, 40 miles east of here.

A third injured crewman, engineer V. J. Sullivan, North Bay, may be moved to a North Bay hospital today.

Most seriously injured of the crew were fireman Victor A. Morgan, 26, North Bay, and engineer Sam Donaldson, 64, North Bay. Both suffered severe head injuries. Morgan is known to have a fracture of the skull and severe concussion, and Donaldson is believed to have a skull fracture.

Morgan has been transferred to civic hospital in North Bay. He was still in a coma this morning.

Fireman Regis (Pep) Kelly, 38, North Bay, has also been moved to North Bay. He is in St. Joseph's General Hospital, recovering from lacerations to the head and face.

Too Old Fashioned

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — President Truman today described opponents of national health insurance — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is among them — as "pull-backs" who want to "go back to the horse and buggy days."

No Trains Or Street Cars Fiji People Live Longer

MONTREAL (CP)—People live longer in Suva, Fiji, where there are no trains or streetcars.

K. Witherington, managing director of a manufacturing agency in Suva, said on a visit here that Suva's people live to "a ripe old age," and there is hardly any illness, no mental troubles and no labor strife.

"I believe this is because they don't have to worry about running to catch streetcars or trains—which don't exist down there," he says. "There's no need to think about long stands, fares exerting pressure on your budget and getting crushed in the rush.

"Of course, there are other important factors, such as a wonderful and pleasant climate and none of the frustrating features that make for bad nerves.

"We don't have theatres and modern living standards, but there is a calmness, peace and freedom not found elsewhere."

Fiji, a Crown colony, has more than 300,000 people, including 5,000 whites, 150,000 Indians and 135,000 Fijians. They live together without friction, he says.

There are many opportunities for young men in Suva. The canning industry is just one of the many enterprises waiting to be developed he said.

Typhoon Lashes Wake Island, Sea Sweeps In

HONOLULU (AP)—A typhoon with winds up to 140 miles an hour lashed tiny Wake Island yesterday, demolished living quarters and communications and sent the sea crashing over the entire island.

Mountainous seas and torrential rains battered the island which is only 15 feet above sea level, all afternoon, subsiding only late at night.

Planes left Honolulu this morning with food, water and medical supplies for the 600 men, women and children marooned on the coral speck 2,300 miles west of here.

The only injuries reported were comparatively minor.

Gordon T. Maxwell, a Pan American Airways executive, reported to his San Francisco office from Wake that all the company's facilities were destroyed.

He said water covered the island during the storm, Maxwell said, everyone took refuge in Second World War underground Japanese gun emplacements and ammunition vaults.

Three Killed In Collision

LANGTON (CP) — Three tobacco workers lost their lives and three other persons are in hospital with severe injuries after a car-oil truck collision last night two miles east of Langton.

Killed instantly were Rene Roy, 22, of Toronto, and Adrian Couture, Quebec City, whom police said had seven children. The third, Paul Comtois, Joliet, Quebec, died at 9:20 this morning.

Claude Comtois and Irene Nemeth, R. R. 3, Langton, also were passengers in the death car and suffered severe injuries. Comtois is in critical condition. Both are in Tillsonburg district Memorial hospital.

Driver of the oil truck, Jim Edmison, Langton, is in Victoria hospital. He suffered back injuries.

Squad To Defuse 500-Pound Bomb

SHILO, Man. (CP). — A bomb disposal squad from Rivers, Man., set out Monday to take care of a 500-pound bomb found three miles north of a bomb target area at Camp Shilo, Man.

The bomb was photographed by a naturalist who sent the picture to a Winnipeg newspaper, who in turn tipped the R.C.A.F.

Armament specialists at R.C.A.F. headquarters said it is an armor-piercing bomb of American make, probably dropped by a plane from a tactical fighter flight out of Rivers on a practice run.

No reason was given why the bomb failed to explode.

Canada Won't Cancel Delegates' Passports

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has no intention of following Australia's lead in cancelling passports of would-be delegates to Communist peace congresses behind the Iron Curtain, it was indicated authoritatively today.

The latest is the Pacific Peace Congress in Peiping which a number of Canadians are going to attend.

Canadians going behind the Curtain now have to inform the passport office. They run to considerable numbers in a year and include not only Communists but business men, adventurers, people with relatives in those countries and others.

Little or no effort is made to stop them from going. As long as they are Canadian citizens, nothing can be done to stop them coming back either, officials said.

Superforts Pound Red Capital

Allied Pilots Set Record In Korea For Downing Planes

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—The United States Fifth Air Force said Allied pilots today set a Korean war record for Communist planes destroyed in one month when they shot down three Mig-15s over North Korea and got belated confirmation of a fourth.

That raised the September total to 45 Migs, with almost one-half the month left. Last April 44 Red planes were destroyed.

36 DAMAGED

In addition to the three Migs destroyed, one was damaged today. The Fifth Air Force also confirmed the kill of a Mig Sept. 4. Thirty-six Red planes have been damaged and three probably destroyed this month. Allied losses in today's action, if any, will be announced at the week-end.

The air battle over North Korea came after Allied bombers plastered Red targets across the Korean peninsula last night with tons of high explosives.

BOMB PYONGYANG

B-29 Superforts returned to Pyongyang and pounded that North Korean capital with more than 100 tons of bombs. Their fly-by-night partners, twin-engined B-26s, ranged over the Red highway network and reported 126 trucks destroyed. It was the biggest bag since May and the fourth straight night pilots reported destruction of more than 100 trucks.

Ground fighting tapered off along the 155-mile-long battle front with only a few minor Red probes reported.

The B-29s hit a supply area in Pyongyang without opposition. The bombers, based in Okinawa and Japan, flew over heavy clouds and aimed their bombs with electronic devices.

Aerial reconnaissance had indicated heavy truck traffic in the target area and a large build-up of war supplies for the front.

Other B-26s hit a supply area at Pukchong on the east coast, then dropped leaflets telling the inhabitants "you were warned military installations in this town might be attacked. . ."

Sabre pilots reported nine Mig-15 jets destroyed in a flurry of 11 air battles near the Manchurian border Monday.

Red casualties for the week ended Sunday were announced as 3,743, the highest figure since January. South Korean troops fighting around Capitol Hill and Finger Ridge in the central sector accounted for more than one-half of the toll, the United States Eighth Army said.

AN AERIAL LADDER comes into play as Hamilton firemen battle a fruit market and warehouse blaze that early Monday threatened an entire business block and forced the evacuation of Fischer's Hotel (right), adjoining the explosion-rocked building. Within minutes after the alarm, the structure was turned into a flaming inferno, bringing death to one man and injuries to three others. The roof and walls collapsed before firefighters could bring the blaze under control.

Explosion Kills 1, Injures 3

HAMILTON (CP)—An explosion early yesterday in the Stevenson Fruit Company warehouse killed one man and injured three others. It turned the two-storey building into a mass of flaming wreckage. Jerome Moser, 32, was killed. He was trapped in the basement. At first it was thought another man had also been trapped but he escaped. The injured are William Smye, 70, Robert Watt, 46, and Gerald Sykes. All were burned about the face, arms and legs. Nearly 20 other employees escaped injury. Firemen found Moser's body at 1:15 p.m., nearly six hours after the blast, in five feet of water.

BIG SHOCK

Stu Thackery, who had been sitting at a desk in the company's office, said:

"I don't know what happened. All I know I was talking to Gerry Sykes who was standing on the other side of the window in the warehouse. The next thing I knew I was on my knees out on the street. There was glass all around me."

It is thought escaping illuminating gas caused the explosion.

Says Duplessis Ignores Church Protest

HAMILTON (CP)—Rev. Ernest E. Long of Outremont, Que., today charged Premier Duplessis of Quebec ignored protests by the United Church of Canada over interference with religious freedom.

Mr. Long spoke in presenting a report on civil and religious liberty to the 15th biennial conference of the United Church. The work of the committee was largely done by the Montreal presbytery.

Mr. Long referred to "ugly incidents in the province of Quebec where life was in danger and property destroyed." He said incidents at Shawinigan Falls and Longueil caused "deep concern among Protestants regarding the status of religious freedom and have heightened the tension between Protestants and Roman Catholics."

"We will not permit our deepest and dearest beliefs to be trampled on."

NO RESPONSE

He said that after incidents at Shawinigan Falls and Longueil two years ago the Montreal presbytery approached Premier Duplessis on the matter with no response. Not one letter was acknowledged, he said.

He asked the general council to support the work of the committee, which will go on another two years, so that "Mr. Duplessis will have to be polite if not responsive."

He said the presbytery also wrote Archbishop Emile Leger of Montreal about the incidents but had not received any reply.

Mr. Long later told reporters that at Longueil in 1951 about 200 "goons" surrounded a house where a French pentecostal meeting was in progress, threw stones through the windows and kept the persons inside from 10 p.m. when the meeting was over until 2 a.m. During this time, Quebec Provincial Police sat nearby and watched. The police did nothing, he said.

Army Engineers Hear Evidence On Water Levels

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The neers at a public hearing today dug United States Army Corps of Engi- into the effects of floods caused by Lake Ontario high water levels.

The hearing was aimed at determining the extent of damage from such flooding and at consideration of possible remedies.

Property owners along the shoreline areas stretching about 50 miles each side of Rochester have complained that damage to homes and property ranged as high as $20,000,000 from the spring of 1951 to the spring of 1952.

$7,000,000 DAMAGE

A report by the Corps of Engineers placed this damage at about $7,000,000. The figure includes damage due to erosion.

Col. Philip R. Garges, president at the hearing, emphasized that the immediate problem under discussion was the direct and indirect damage to property by flooding. He said yesterday that damage caused directly and indirectly by flooding was $1,126,000.

Presumably, the limiting of hearing topics to effects of flooding, rather than to lake-level regulation problems, ruled out consideration of the effect of the Gut Dam in the St. Lawrence River.

At hearings held in July by the International Joint Commission, spokesmen for Lake Ontario shoreline landowners placed most of the blame for the high water problem on the dam built under a U.S.-Canadian treaty in 1902.

Canada has since offered to remove the dam if the United States gives its approval to the controversial St. Lawrence power-development plan.

Vengeance Fear Keeps Tipsters From Talking

TORONTO (CP)—Fear of gangland vengeance may be keeping the Toronto underworld from tipping police on the hideout of the Boyd gang.

Senior police officials said yesterday the absolute lack of information of any kind from tipsters and petty criminals who are usually willing to talk to police was the most baffling aspect of the search for Edwin Alonzo Boyd, Steve Suchan, William Jackson and Leonard Jackson.

NERVOUS STOOLIES

Officers say there are signs of nervousness and fear among petty criminals caught in the raids on houses suspected of housing the four notorious criminals who broke out of Toronto's Don jail eight days ago.

"With the possibility of death hanging over their heads, even the $26,000 reward out for the four Don fugitives isn't enough to tempt a tipster," said one officer.

ROYAL COMMISSION

Meanwhile preparations went ahead for the formal investigation opening tomorrow into the break. Judge Ian Macdonell is a one-man Royal Commission appointed by the Ontario government to conduct the public inquiry.

Prices Slip Again On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO (CP)—Prices slipped again today in moderate early afternoon stock market trading.

Volume for the first three hours totalled 1,417,000 shares.

Weakness in all groups marked the industrial list as papers, utilities, steels, constructions, foods and miscellaneous issues slipped. Refining oils and banks showed signs of a recovery.

Active trading in a few gold issues that marked some recent sessions was absent today and the heaviest trader was Kelore, moving about 32,000 shares for a penny loss. All groups traded lower but Campbell, a junior, strengthened. Most price changes were small.

Higher-priced base metal issues led the section's decline with fractional losses as Falconbridge, Consolidated Smelters and Hudson Bay slipped. Among other losing stocks were Mindamar, Golden Manitou and Coldstream but Reeves, Minda Scotia and United Asbestos resisted the trend with penny gains.

Western oils recorded a large majority of losses as Bailey Selburn, Canadian Williston and Gridoil slipped.

The exchange's 1 p.m. indices showed industrials down .24 at 320.47, golds down .23 at 88.76, base metals down 2.08 at 188.37 and western oils down 1.34 at 128.29.

Lewis is reported asking a boost from $16.35 to about $18 in the standard basic daily pay for miners, an increase in the employer's contribution to the miners' pension fund and perhaps a reduction from an eight-hour day to seven.

Railways Seek Freight Hike

OTTAWA (CP)—The railways will ask for another—but small—increase in freight rates next Monday, it is learned.

They will ask the Board of Transport commissioners for permission to boost by one per cent their latest application for a general rate increase of 16 per cent.

Notice filed by the railways indicated they will seek the additional one per cent — to yield roughly $5,000,000 a year gross—to compensate for higher costs since the last application was filed July 15.

The 16 per cent would gross the railways about $80,000,000 a year. It is being sought on the basis of increased wages and other costs, though not taking into account any higher wage bill stemming from the current dispute with 125,000 non-operating employees.

The eventual settlement in that dispute, now under inquiry by a federal conciliation board, is expected to bring on an application for a covering freight-rate increase.

Opposition Fails Council Grants License To Taxi

COBOURG (ENS) — Town council turned down the request of a group of taxi cab owners to hold up a new taxi licence until the effect on business of the bus service, which starts soon, can be gauged.

An opinion given by the town solicitor and read at last night's meeting was that the council had no power to refuse a licence, only to regulate operation. One councillor quoted an opinon from the Municipal World to the effect that a council could refuse to grant a taxi licence. Mayor Jack Burnet declared that the applicant was a war veteran.

"He fought for the rights of mankind in the last war and that includes the right to make a living," said the mayor. On motion council granted the application.

Councillor Alex McKinnon promised that next year the starling problem would be tackled again. The fog treatment did not have permanent effects, it was pointed out, and Councillor McKinnon suggested that a prolonged and concerted blasting with shotguns be tried next summer.

"If the hunters could only aim as accurately as the starlings can, the problem might be solved," mused the mayor.

Company's secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Lillian Robinson, 47, is currently being held in $30,000 bail, having been charged with swindling Mineola's Central National Bank out of close to half-a-million dollars over a four-year period.

Young Couple Found Shot In Lavish, Hotel Penthouse

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—As friends made plans for an elaborate wedding for them, a young couple— apparently honeymooning —was found shot to death yesterday in a lavish penthouse of the swank Flamingo hotel.

Officers said murder and suicide were indicated, although no notes were found. Investigators were without a clue to the motive.

The man was identified as Adrian Lionel Grodnick, 19, son of Manuel Grodnick, wealthy New York clothing manufacturer; the girl as Betty M. Baron, 25, daughter of William Baron, Los Angeles Apartment-house manager.

Friends in Los Angeles said the couple had planned a formal wedding in Beverly Hills, Calif., next Tuesday.

MOTHER NEAR COLLAPSE

Near collapse upon learning of the tragedy, the girl's mother, Mrs. Baron, said in Los Angeles that relatives and friends and members of the Baron family from the east who planned to attend the wedding are already en route to Los Angeles.

"Now we will have a funeral instead of a beautiful wedding," Mrs. Baron wept.

The bodies were discovered when hotel employees broke into the suite after failing to get response to ringing and knocks all day.

Police said the girl had been shot twice through the head and Grodnick once behind the right ear. Near his right hand was a pistol.

NO SIGNS OF STRUGGLE

The bodies, attired in nightclothes, were sprawled on a bed under the covers. There was no indication of a struggle and police said no liquor was found in the room. The door was chainlocked on the inside.

Detectives said the girl wore a wedding ring. The couple had registered Sept. 10 as newlyweds.

Capt. Ralph Lamb said no marriage certificate has been found. "They were not married here," he told a reporter, "but they may have been married some place on the way here."

Recalls Large Stock Of Rare $4 Bills

LINDSAY (ENS).—The recent stir in the press over the appearance of old Canadian four dollar bills in various parts of Ontario has brought back memories to a former Peterborough and Lindsay man, now living in Cannington. He remembers his experience with the strange bills when they first came out.

W. Dixon Jewett, of Cannington, recalled recently when the bills were first issued, in 1899, the controversy which started when it was discovered that the bills had printed on them the picture of the American locks at Sault Ste. Marie, instead of the Canadian locks which had just been completed. Hearing of the puzzlement of the officials, and the probability that the bills would be taken out of circulation, Mr. Jewett with Bert Wallis, former ticket agent and telegrapher at the Peterborough C.P.R. station, bought up a quantity of the bills. Each purchased $400 worth.

Three years later in 1902, Mr. Jewett decided to go into business in Cannington, in Ontario County and purchased the Bennett House there.

In the extra cash he needed to close the deal, he sold his supply of the $4 bills to Mr. Wallis, and heard no more about them. He does know that Mr. Wallis died some years ago, but has wondered ever since about the disposition of his stock of the strange new rare bills. Mr. Jewett has since been in business, owning one of the most important business blocks in Lindsay, until recently, and since that time selling cars in Cannington. He still wonders how much his stock of $4 bills and those of his former friend, Bert Wallis, would be worth now.

76th Annual Ex Opens At Lindsay

LINDSAY (ENS)—The Lindsay Central Exhibition will be officially opened Wednesday for the 76th consecutive time.

Officials of the exhibition, fourth largest annual fair in the province, are expecting a record crowd this year. They have the largest number of entries in the produce, livestock, household and school exhibits—about 5,000—they have ever received.

Manager-secretary Burton L. McLane, has announced several new attractions this year in the midway, in front of the grandstand, around the track and on the bandshell.

The official opening of the exhibition will take place Wednesday afternoon with the Lieutenant-governor of Ontario, Hon. Louis O. Breithaupt, doing the honors. A civic reception and luncheon for the guest of honor will precede the ceremonies scheduled for 2 p.m.

Several opening day highlights have been announced. A $1,000 harness race for three-year-old pacers and trotters sponsored by Fred Orpen, Toronto horseman, will attract most attention at the grandstand. A mule and sulky race featuring four Lindsay businessmen as drivers will share the spotlight.

At Wednesday evening's performance there will be a display of fireworks for the first time in many years. At the bandshell the 48th Highlanders brass band of Toronto will be featured every night until Saturday.

Headliners in this year's grandstand show will be the Ben Yost Vikings, a quintette of singers from New York. They will be supported by a cast of singing, dancing and comedy acts with Billy Meek. Toronto comedian, as master of ceremonies.

At the Wednesday evening show the feature film, Royal Journey, will be shown.

In the agricultural field, more entries are expected from Central Ontario than ever before. A larger prize list than in previous years is being offered and several feature awards are awaiting winners.

For the women there will be the usual display of handicrafts and school children will have their exhibition in a separate building.

For the last three days, there will be a two-race a day program with a free-for-all for a purse of $500 winding up the harness racing Saturday.

Committee Asks Raise In Budget

LINDSAY (ENS)—The Lindsay Board of Parks Management decided last night to send a committee to town clerk W. M. Ally to investigatet the possibility of having the board's budget for 1952 raised. It has become apparent, according to board chairman Carl Brown, that the funds left in its treasury will not be sufficient to last the year.

It was shown by the chairman that the balance left in the parks budget for the last four months of the year was $$1,900 of the original $7,500 grant. Out of this must come approximately $1,000 for the wages and other expenses of Park Superintendent W. Minor, and the balance would be consumed quickly in projects now before the board. An agreement will be sought with council and the board of recreation to assess the recreation committee for work for them by the parks board. This would include the maintenance of playing areas in the parks and other services rendered, for which the board receives no payment.

Chairman Brown raised the point he had discovered at the recent convention of recreation and parks associations of Canada at Windsor, that several Ontario centres charged not only playing field maintenance to the recreation authorities but tree trimming and similar projects to the board of works in the municipality. Hank Debois asked Chairman Brown how the two assessments for recreation and parks compared—and discovered that parks were given $7,500 a year while recreation received $10,000, with an additional rate of 25 percent on salaries from the province.

Mrs. H. D. Logan summed up the feeling of the board in stating that the parks board program is expanding, although council was not providing any more funds to keep pace with its growth. She argued the fact that the parks board had been formed proved its necessity. She asked that a committee go to council with a request for additional funds to complete this year's worbk. Carl Brown and R. Price were named to the committee to investigate what the committee called "a more equal distribution of funds between the recreation committee and the parks board."

General Changes Tactics Slaps At Stevenson's Jokes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dwight D. Eisenhower, cheered by standing-room-only crowds in Illinois and Indiana, today carries his midwestern campaign into Minnesota.

The Republican presidential nominee made 13 speeches before more than 225,000 persons yesterday, often blasting at what he said was Governor Adlai Stevenson's light treatment of serious subjects.

Eisenhowen said he could see nothing funny about Korea, corruption, taxes, Communism and high taxes—an obvious slap at the Democratic candidate's practice of spicing his speeches with jokes and quips.

It was a new tack for the general, and his aides said they were "entirely satisfied" with audience reaction and the turnouts, some of which set local records.

GOES TO NEW YORK

Eisenhower deserts his whistle-stop campaign train temporarily late today to fly to New York where he will address the American Federation of Labor convention tomorrow.

Stevenson was in Springfield, Ill., working on campaign strategy — A strategy, some feel, which may be re-drafted in view of the Eisenhower-Taft meeting.

The governor says Eisenhower's "great crusade has become the great surrender" and that Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio has taken over the general's campaign.

Who Likes Trotting Races?

The Peterborough Exhibition has received a good deal of criticism, and the attendance figures, when the padding of Children's Day is stripped off, show a drop from last year. The unfavourable comments on the fair have been rather vague, but they boil down chiefly to a complaint at a lack of that quality of sparkle and excitement, that sense that everything is under control and is being well handled, which is summed up in the word "showmanship." How is showmanship to be brought to the Peterborough Exhibition?

* * *

If we may offer a concrete suggestion, we think that a beginning could be made with the Grandstand Show. The entertainment provided was of fairly good quality, but the public which had paid to see it was not permitted to do so until several heats had been run off in the trotting races. This meant that the actual show did not begin until after nine o'clock, and was not finished until after eleven. That is too late for children, and later than many adults like to be sitting in the Exhibition Grounds.

* * *

Perhaps the trotting races are popular. If they are, the public were well able to contain their joy on the night that we saw them, for although the applause was good-natured, it was not enthusiastic, as various horses, with the same drivers, ran off a few heats between eight and nine o'clock. We should like to know what our readers think on this subject; do you want to see trotting races at the Exhibition, and if so, do you want to see them as part of the Grandstand Show?

* * *

If the public is not eager to see these races, the money which they cost could be spent in other ways, which would give pleasure. There are motor-cycle drivers in Peterborough who might be interested in a race for a modest purse. Some money spent on fireworks would not come amiss. And a shorter, better organized Grandstand Show, ending not later than 10:30 p.m. would be an undoubted attraction at the fair.

* * *

What do our readers think? What would they like to see at the Peterborough Exhibition? What are their views on trotting races? We invite letters on this subject, asking only that they be written briefly and in reasonable terms, and that the true name of each writer be enclosed, even if a pen-name is signed to the letter.

Summer's Last Fling?

Preparations for the various winter activities are already well under way. Committees and executives of clubs and societies are meeting and have drawn up schedules. The telephone wires are humming with plans. The children have already started school. Yet the weather alone refused to co-operate, and up to Sunday we are sweltering in midsummer heat.

Whatever else we may say of it our weather is certainly not monotonous. Our winter and summer are clearly defined, but in between seasons we enjoy (is that the correct word?) a most unexpected series of changes in temperature. On one day we may imagine that summer has really gone for good; there is a frost on the ground and the furnace is blazing away merrily. A day or two later we realize our mistake, when the sun beats down pitilessly from a sky like brass. Our changeable weather is largely due to the mountain ranges of the North American continent running roughly North and South, offering no barriers to the masses of hot and cold air which rush up and down like traffic on George Street. It is interesting to speculate on the changes that would result if the Rockies ran East and West across Canada. We would certainly suffer less from extremes of cold, and if the Alleghanies formed a barrier across the Southern States we might expect greater protection against extremes of heat. It is more debatable how this would affect national characteristics, though it might be expected to produce a more easy-going temperament, in which case the dynamic energy engendered, as many think, by a bracing climate would be missing, and the great economic advances made under pressure of necessity would never have been made.

In case our readers may be induced to think that the recent hot spell is altogether abnormal we would remind them that only last year the temperatures were almost as high at this same date. Moreover there was a later warm spell in October which made citizens doff their jackets. At this season nothing is more normal than the abnormal.

Henry Wallace Changes His Mind

Many hard things were said about Henry Wallace when he was a presidential candidate on behalf of the Progressive Party in 1948. He was called a Red, of course, but it was plain to anybody who thought quietly for two minutes that he was no Communist. He was simply a liberal, and he thought as President Roosevelt had thought that it was possible for the U.S.A. to find a working agreement with the U.S.S.R. He thought that those two great nations could lead the world, and that peace between them would be a substantial guarantee of peace everywhere. He was shocked by the intransigeant attitude which President Truman's government took toward Russia, and he believed that it was driving his own country and Russia apart in such a way that war between them would be a certainty. Few people agreed with Mr. Wallace and he suffered an ignominious defeat in the 1948 elections. He retired to his farm, and watched events from there. He has changed his mind, and has given his reasons for doing so in a public statement.

Russian spying on atomic research has shocked him, though we do not understand why it should do so. Surely, when one great nation has a vastly powerful weapon it is understandable that another great nation should try to find out about it? The Russian methods have not been pretty, but when has espionage ever looked well? He is fearful of complete Russian domination in the Middle East, and has changed his mind about Korea. But has not the fear of Russian domination in the East been a factor in all thinking about world politics for nearly a century? "What I wanted," he has said, "was peace, but not peace at the price of Communist domination; I thought the Soviet had more sense than to do what they have been doing during the past few years."

We do not pretend to know more, or as much, about international politics as Mr. Wallace, but these comments appear to us to be naive. Peace is always purchased at the price of somebody's domination; in all of history there has had to be a guarantor of peace—a powerful nation which dictated, either benevolently or tyrannously, what other nations might do. The U.S.A. and Russia could only guarantee the peace of the world by agreeing to follow a unified international policy, and Russia would insist that such a policy be tyrannous. Mr. Wallace knows this now; what we cannot understand is how he missed it in 1948.

In liberalism lies the hope of the world, but it must be a liberalism thoroughly shot through with practical understanding of politics and history. It is useless for liberal statesmen to face illiberal tyrants with nothing in their hands but an olive branch and nothing in their heads but fuzzy, service-club idealism. Liberals must not be more innocent, but more acute, more farseeing and more suspicious than those they oppose. An idealist is a hopeless figure in international politics unless his ideals are balanced by a high degree of intelligent disillusionment.

Because of the opinions which we have stated above we are less impressed than many of our contemporaries by Mr. Wallace's change of attitude. That a man who will be sixty-four next month is beginning to wake up to the realities of power politics does not appear to us to be especially interesting. A liberal who expects to advance any of the causes which liberals hold dear has to wake up to the facts of life earlier than that.

Honouring The Brave

Sixteen months ago, on May 19, 1951, four men gave their lives fighting the disastrous fire in the Zacks building. Their names were George Reynolds, Orville Rome, Grover Deck and Earl Spencley. Last Saturday a memorial plaque in commemoration of their self-sacrifice was unveiled at the City Hall. This plaque will serve to remind us of these brave men and of their comrades who by their heroic efforts succeeded in stemming a fire that might have engulfed half of the business area of the city.

In honouring the dead let us also remember the living who risk their lives constantly for our safety. Our firemen deserve the very best in equipment; we cannot and dare not make false economies.

NOTES AND COMMENT

An astronomer has expressed doubt that there is any intelligent life on Mars—probably parroting something he overheard a Martian scientist say about our own planet.

Tommy Manville says that having nine wives has cost him a million dollars. Somebody should whisper to Tommy that the only true wealth is experience—in which he should be a multi-millionaire.

Letter From Paris

By NORA BELOFF

THOSE AMONG hundreds of thousands of foreign visitors, who feel they have been "fleeced" during summer holidays spent in France, will agree with the clamouring French housewife that prices here are preposterous. As usual everyone blames the Government. Higher prices of lamb chops, mackerel, potatoes, ham and eggs, all reported during the past fortnight, have reduced the Government's popularity and damaged its Parliamentary majority beyond repair. While French prices were slowly following the downward trend of world prices, the sturdy little Prime Minister, Antoine Pinay, became the nation's blue-eyed boy. But support for him faded as prices rose. "Whose fault" says the shopper, looking at the price tags and growling at the government. "Yours", retorts the Prime Minister, and he has just neatly proved his point by a joke at the public's expense. He had his services buy Camembert cheeses from Normandy, cut them in half and put them in the groceries with one half tagged cheaper than the other. Customers automatically assumed that the dearer half must be best and the cheaper half was left on the counter.

✧ ✧ ✧

PINAY'S MEN played a similar joke with textiles. They cut a single length of material and sold one half cheap and the other half dear. They then had the supreme pleasure of hearing lady customers comparing the two halves, and offering their own knowing explanations of why the expensive half was better. Rising prices and blocked wages are giving the Communist Party a good chance to make trouble. Their leaders are already preparing an autumn campaign for a fifteen per cent. wage rise, and it is a safe guess that strikes and disturbances all over France will soon be front-page news.

✧ ✧ ✧

MY OWN bonne-a-tout-faire (charwoman, daily help) who holds the sternest views on the Godless wickedness of the Reds, has not waited for the Party line. A message was waiting on my table when I got back from the holidays asking for a rise, not of fifteen (the Communist figure) but of twenty per cent.—from one hundred francs (approximately two shilling, or thirty U.S. cents) to one one hundred and twenty francs an hour. As a single egg now costs twenty-three francs (approximately sixpence or seven U.S. cents), a kilo of butter 778 francs (more than seven shillings a pound, or about one U.S. dollar), and as one cabbage is fifty francs (approximately one shilling, or fourteen U.S. cents) and a kilo of chopped horse-meat 453 (approximately nine shilling or 1.25 U.S. dollars) it did not seem an exhorbitant request.

TOO MUCH DRINK

THE Sorbonne (Paris University) amphitheatre threw open its doors from September 8 to 12 to three hundred world reformers, attending an International Congress against alcoholism. The French capital is an appropriate seat for the Congress, for there is probably no country in the world which suffers morally and physically as much as France from excess drinking. And the casualties here in deaths and disease from alcohol are continually increasing. This fact may astonish visitors to France who rarely see the spectacle of drunken disorderliness on the streets. There is nothing like the vodka drinker casually left to sleep off his excesses in the Moscow gutters. Nor do you find the revelry and rowdiness customary outside some London pubs. But if the French are less conspicuously intoxicated this is more through practice and habit than restraint. The average Frenchman inbibes no less than the equivalent of twenty-seven litres of pure alcohol every year. The effects of this on national health are appalling: twenty-two Frenchmen in every thousand suffer from sickness originating from alcoholic excesses; compared with ten in the United States and only three in Britain.

AS the French now have a well established system of social security which makes the state responsible for everybody's welfare, alcoholism has also become a crippling burden on the national finances. The French Ministry of Finance has just revealed that drunkenness costs France every year: 71,000 million francs (200 million U.S. dollars) in social security, 400 million francs in relief, 10,000 million for hospital fees and 6,000 million for the costs of police and court proceedings and imprisonment following crimes committed under the influence of drink.

Some idea of what these figures represent comes in another item of news this week: in reply to pressing demands for new school buildings to house the growing French child population the government has announced that the best it can offer is 205,000 million francs, to be spread over five years. The educationalists were asking for twice that amount, to complete the necessary building programme. If the State did not have to pay out 118,000 millions a year for its alcoholics it would have more for new schools.

DRUMMOND MYSTERY

"WE shall return." With these words the police chief, Commissaire Sebeille, and his team of inspectors moved out of the little village of Lurs, in south-eastern France, where they have spent the past month unsuccessfully trying to unravel the Drummond mystery. Ever since Sir Jack Drummond, the British scientist, and his wife and little girl were found shot dead near Lurs, while they were on a camping holiday, the entire French population has passionately preoccupied itself with the crime. The discovery and punishment of the criminal has become almost a point of national honour. Responsibility for the fact that the assassin is still at large is being vigorously disputed. The fifty-odd news reporters who poured into Lurs began by blaming the police chiefs for surrounding their investigation with a curtain of mystery. Then, when the police relaxed and allowed reporters to interview and photograph them, editorialists and legal notabilities unfairly assailed them for trying to play star parts and steal the limelight from Maurice Chevalier and Edith Piaf (France's favourite music-hall stars). The police retorted by accusing the Press of obstructing the investigation and alleged particularly that the Communist newspapers were encouraging non-cooperation among the local people.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE Communists snapped back denouncing the protracted interrogation of the villagers who lived around the scene of the crime, many of whom turned out to be affiliated to the Communist party. They accused the police of "a deliberate plot to besmirch the glorious reputations of people who had fought in the resistance movement against the Germans." There is no doubt that the police were confronted with a thick screen of local reticence. They have left the area still convinced that the criminal is a local man and that the villagers are not saying all they could. The inhabitants of this part of France are notoriously silent and suspicious and the police are everywhere received as natural enemies. Many of the local people probably have hidden away weapons obtained in the resistance movement, similar to the American rifle with which the Drummond family were murdered. This in itself would be against the law which bans the private possession of military weapons — and would provide an extra reason for fighting shy of the police. But the case is not yet closed: the police still hope that some additional evidence, some false move by the criminal, or a belated confession may help them retrieve their reputation.

TO THE VICTOR—THE BACKWASH

Letters To The Editor

POOR OPINION OF EXHIBITION

Sir: Let us face the facts and admit that the Peterborough Exhibition is a pretty poor show for a city this size. I have not heard one person praising this year's fair, while many have criticized it strongly in my hearing.

The carnival was a rough affair, the midway had few rides or sideshows, and the grandstand show left much to be desired. Surely whoever is responsible for booking these shows and midways can check over in advance and find how many acts are on the program, how many rides, what variety is offered, etc.

A trip to Lindsay later this week will show the difference between the attractions at these two fairs. I am inclined to agree with the distinguished visitor from England who, a few days ago, said something to the effect that we would have a wonderful fair 1,200 years hence.

Sincerely,
DISGRUNTLED CITIZEN

JAILERS' WAGES

Sir: After reading your editorial, Unpopular Profession, I feel inclined to pass a few remarks, which possibly will not be popular in some circles, but living in a country like ours where we have all the freedoms of democracy, let the chips fall where they may. I agree with your statement, that jailing is an ungrateful job. We as guards know this. First we accept the job, we know what our salaries are before we start, but what we do not know is how the cost of living is going to rise, and as it rises, our struggle for existence gets harder. We have no argument, that as the cost of living goes up so many points something will be added to our pay. Oh, no, we just have to do without something else. I do not know what price the people put on their security, they trust us to keep secure anyone who is put in our custody; a trust that is fully kept by the jail guards that I know, but have they tried to find out how we live, or the salaries we draw. No, the Public Servant is completely forgotten until such a serious thing like the Don Jail break, happens, which is too serious to be excused. Mr. Editor, do not "suggest" that higher wages are needed, look into it very closely and you will find that they are.

Yours sincerely,
HARRY S. KEITH.

STATEMENT ON COUNTY ROADS

Sir: During the past few weeks a number of letters have appeared in the columns of your paper with regard to conditions of roads in Peterborough County, particularly the Buckhorn Road. In conversation I have had with a number of people it has been brought to my attention that there are some residents in Peterborough County who would appreciate more information as to the allocation, administration and financing of County, Suburban-Area and Government development roads within the County. Therefore, I am presenting this information to the general public, trusting that it will be accepted with the same sincerity as I have, in presenting it.

In Peterborough County we have seventy-two miles of Suburban-Area roads. These roads are main arteries leading from Villages or built-up areas to the City of Peterborough. They are administered by a three-man Commission, appointed one by the City, one by the County, and the third being appointed by the other two appointees. The financing is 25% by the City, 25% by the County, and the Provincial Government, Department of Highways pays 50% subsidy. In 1952 the grant from the City and County is $20,000 each, with the 50% subsidy, which raised $80,000 for the maintenance, construction and overhead of Suburban-Area Roads and bridges. This is an increase of $8,000 over 1951. Approximately one-third of Suburban-Area Roads in the County have hard surface. The total amount that may be levied for Suburban-Area Roads is ½ mill on total assessment, unless by special by-law passed by the majority of the Council. The maximum amount could be two mills on total assessment. Peterborough County has now the second greatest mileage of Suburban-Area Roads in the Province.

We have in Peterborough County 133 miles of County Roads. These roads are similar to Suburban-Area Roads, mainly travelled roads within the County, not necessarily leading to the City of Peterborough. A five-man Committee, appointed by the County Council, with the Warden, is responsible for the administration of these roads. The length of service for these members is five, four, three, two and one years. The total amount raised by taxation for County roads is approximately $80,000, the mill rate being 8 mills — one mill increase over 1951. The mill rate for bridges is 4/10 of a mill, raising $5,500. The subsidy paid by the Department of Highways on County roads is 50% and on bridges 80%. The total amount for the maintenance, construction, etc. on County roads, Suburban-Area roads and bridges in 1952 is $230,000. I would like to point out at this time that the Townshisp of Harvey, Galway, Cavendish, Burleigh, Anstruther and Chandos are not in the County road system, but are included for County bridges.

Approximately 80 miles of roads have been constructed, or are in the process of construction under the Government Development system in the County. The construction of these roads is financed by the Department of Highways, and on completion, are turned back to the Township, County or Suburban-Area for maintenance, as the case may be. These roads are mainly in the northern portion of the County, and the financial assistance by the Department of Highways is greatly appreciated by the County.

The Buckhorn road, the burning question of the day, was constructed as a Government Development road. The following is a brief history of the circumstances regarding the construction of this road. In 1948 operations were started and it was anticipated by the Suburban-Area Commission that the right-of-way would be 66 feet, but it was pointed out by the Department of Highways the 66 foot right-of-way was required. The road was completed in 1949 at a cost of $201,000 to the Department. A short distance at the north end was unfinished, and this was completed by the Suburban-Area Commission at at a cost of $17,000. The right-of-way and fencing was financed by the Suburban-Area, amounting to $25,000. The total cost for this road was $243,000. In 1951 the road was oiled at a cost of $11,000. In 1952 two applications of calcium chloride cost $7,000, and I believe a third application will be made in the near future.

I have travelled this road on several occasions in the past few weeks, and agree with the travelling public that it is in very bad condition. The question is, "How can it be improved and financed?" Probably some constructive criticism, and a few suggestions would be appreciated by the Suburban-Area Commission. The estimate (12½ miles) by the County Engineer to apply a mulch road would be $70,000. This would be the total amount the Suburban-Area Commission would have in one year at their disposal. We must keep in mind that they have sixty miles more roads in the County which require maintenance and snow ploughing, etc. The suggestion has been offered to issue debentures, that we must keep in mind also, that with inflation, interest rates being high, that the County has recently issued debentures for Norwood High School $390,000, Lakefield High School $330,000, the Civic Hospital $150,000, and the Chemong Causeway $35,000, making a total of $905,000. It is also anticipated that Gannon's Narrows Causeway will be started in the near future. There are other emergencies which may arise necessitating the issue of more debentures. There are limitations as to the borrowing power of a County, and it could be possible to jeopardize our credit.

There is a possibility that this road would be absorbed as a Provincial Highway in the not too distant future. Every attempt has been made during the past years to make this possible. We are informed that this would not be possible at this time, as the Department of Highways have made commitments on certain roads that are not yet constructed. Another alternative yet remains, and that is to increase the mill rate for County Roads, with a larger grant to Suburban-Area Commission. This would result in higher taxes, and the general feeling with property owners in Peterborough County is that property taxes are already too high.

The Buckhorn road was constructed by a construction company, and tenders were called for that purpose. It is not necessary to say that a road must be constructed and built before it is paved. I feel quite certain with the volume of traffic on this road, that it will never be satisfactory until it is paved. I know that every member of Peterborough County Council and Suburban-Area Commission would be happy if all County and Suburban-Area road were hard surface, but the problem is how to finance the work.

I feel very confident that in the near future this road will be improved, or I sincerely hope, paved. I wish to assure the ratepayers of Smith Township that their elected representatives are doing all in their power to bring this to happen.

I am not writing this letter in a reply to any letters that have appeared in the press, nor am I writing it as an apology. The motive in writing is to present to the public some information and problems pertaining to road construction within the County, and to correct a remark that this paper quoted that was made by myself at a meeting a short time ago—"Any remarks made by a tourist should be taken with a grain of salt." A remark of this kind is deserving of criticism, when we realize what what the tourist industry means not only to Ontario, but to Canada. The statement made by myself to Mr. Kean. County Engineer: "I have every sympathy for those who live in the area, for the people of Buckhorn, and the residents of Peterborough who drive this road to their cottages, but when a tourist makes a comparison of a paved road leading from a city in the United States to Peterborough, and a gravel road to Buckhorn, I do not think it to be a just comparison."

In closing, I sincerely hope that some means will be found in the near future, and sufficient finances will be available, to improve this road. I would ask the travelling public to be just a little tolerant with those who are trying to improve our roads.

R. R. STEWART,
Warden, County of Peterborough.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Blessed are the meek; for they shall inherit the earth. . . .

Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy.

Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God. (Matt. 5:5, 7, 8.)

✧ ✧ ✧

This I say therefore, and testify in the Lord, that ye henceforth walk not as other Gentiles walk, in the vanity of their mind, having the understanding darkened, being alienated from the life of God through the ignorance that is in them, because of the blindness of their heart. . . .

But ye have not so learned Christ; if so be that ye have heard him, and have been taught by him, as the truth is in Jesus: that ye put off concerning the former conversation the old man, which is corrupt according to the deceitful lusts; and be renewed in the spirit of your mind; and that ye put on the new man, which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness. . . .

Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamour, and evil speaking, but put away from you, with all malice: and be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you. (Eph. 4:17, 18, 20-24, 31, 32.)

Border Trade

(Winnipeg Free Press)

An apprehensive Regina newspaper reports that rattlesnakes are moving into Saskatchewan in considerable force. A gentleman who makes a habit of collecting them reports that he has bagged 50 in the course of on hour near the South Saskatchewan River.

The situation thus arising may well give cause for concern. On one side of the provincial border, Mr. Manning's stalwarts are busily engaged in chasing rats back into Saskatchewan; on the other embattled farmers, doubtless with the full support of Mr. Douglas, are deporting Alberta snakes with commendable energy. Such activities may well impose a considerable strain on interprovincial relations, especially if a Saskatchewan resident is nipped by an anti-social Alberta wriggler, with consequent demands for compensation.

Objective reports from Regina provide no grounds for suspicion that Saskatchewan's peculiar institutions have anything to do with the outward migration of rodents or the inflow reptiles. There is no evidence whatsoever that the welfare state holds any fascination for a prairie rattlesnake; his quarrel on the contrary is with the irrigation engineers who have turned large tracts of once well-baked Alberta into areas unfit for residence for any self-respecting, rought-loving rattler.

It is possible that Mr. Gardiner may find in this situation an unexpected justification for proceeding with certain much-debated irrigation works in south-western Saskatchewan. Farmers, reluctant to share their holdings with uninvited Alberta guests, may now incline to the view that a ditch is a necessary defence work and politicians will be accused of fence-sitting when they fail to clarify their attitudes towards reptiles.

Fortunately none of these problems arise in care-free Manitoba where it rains all the time.

Says TV Trying To Teach Good Living

WASHINGTON (AP) — Radio television industry spokesmen told a congressional committee today that they are trying to teach clean living and good morals, rather than "hootchy kootchy" and liquor drinking.

Leaders in the field were called before a House of Representatives sub-committee investigating the content of present programs. The inquiry was ordered by the House after some Congress members had complained that too much objectionable matter is being broadcast and telecast, with emphasis on the art of pouring liquor and on "hootchy kootchy."

The sub-committee called hearings for today and tomorrow to get the comments of the National Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters, the American Broadcasting Company, the Mutual Broadcasting System and the Dumont Television Network. The industry views were summed up in a statement by Hollis M. Seavey, director of Washington operations for MBS.

Seavey said the industry seeks diligently to keep objectionable matter off the air and to "oroduce programs that are psychologically and morally correct and acceptable." The things considered in making up programs, he said, include "good taste, proper social concepts, education and entertainment," with the emphasis on "everyday virtues of clean living, good morals, fair play."

CURTIS LEADS SCORING

TORONTO (CP)—Ulysses (Crazy Legs) Curtis, the elusive Toronto Argonaut speedster from Albion, Mich., is speeding towards a Big Four point-scoring championship and on his showing to date he'll probably set an all-time league record into the bargain.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show the former Florida A and M back with 30 points, the exact total he made with Argos in 10 games last season. The league record of 108 points in the 12-game schedule was set in 1950 by Edgar Jones, then with Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Curtis, dubbed by coach Frank Clair as the "greatest player in Canadian football," holds a 10-point lead over team-mate Al Bruno and 15 points over pint-sized Doug Pyzer of Argonauts and Hal Waggoner of Tiger-Cats. Bob Heck, another Argo who rejoined the team this season after a year with the United States Marines, is fifth with 14 points.

Archie McAffer, home-brew back with Sarnia Imperials of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, holds the Eastern Canada point leadership with 26.

The 24-year-old player, held pointless in Saturday's game at Brantford, has an 11-point lead over Lloyd Davey, also of the Imps, who has kicked 11 converts, a placement and a single.

Students Find Things Changed At New College

By STEWART NEBBS

ST. JOHNS, Que. (CP) — From now on, things will be different for Jean Carriere of Montreal.

Carriere was one of 80 students who registered yesterday at the College Militaire Royal de St. Jean, Canada's third and newest services college.

Before the week is over, however, Carriere, son of Brig. J. P. Carriere, commander of Montreal's Eighth Infantry Brigade (reserve), will be but one of the 125 students who settle down to serious business Monday.

That's the day when the college, set up primarily to prepare French speaking youths for commissions in the three services, officially starts its courses.

IN MOTHER TONGUE

The students, from across Canada and ranging in age from 16 to 20, will take the courses in their mother tongue but it is estimated some 80 per cent are French-speaking.

Army candidates at the centre, 25 miles southeast of Montreal, make up about 55 per cent of the student body. Commandant is Col. M. L. Lahaie of Montreal who recently returned from Germany where he commanded the 79th Field Regiment of the Canadian 27th brigade.

Obligatory sports form an important part of the curriculum and a full-time sports staff of three instructors will see to it that they participate.

Then, too, there are certain periods of free time, but the students are not permitted to leave the college until Christmas — when they get two weeks leave. The course winds up early in May.

Mr. Hilliard McGarvey of Belleville is visiting relatives here.

The forty hours devotion opened at Sacred Heart Church on Sunday with high mass at 9:30 a.m. celebrated by the Rev. J. A. O'Neill.

JOHNNY LONGDEN, famous Canadian rider, holds reins on two thoroughbred English race horses owned by sportsman and publisher Max Bell, left. They arrived by plane from England to New York. The horses are Royal Serenade (left) and Indian Hemp. The latter will be trained for the $50,000 International Race at Laurel, Md., October 18. Royal Serenade will go to the Longden ranch at Riverside, Cal., for training.

Invented Baseball Years Ago Newest Russ Claim

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet youth magazine Smena told young Soviet readers that "beizbol" is not North American in origin but just a distortion of the Russian village sport of lapta which was played in the Russian countryside hundreds of years before America was on the map.

(The Russians also claim to have discovered or invented, among other things, the radio, the electric light, penicillin, the airplane, the helicopter, the telephone, the parachute, jet planes, the first oil well and sound movies.)

SAYS GAME 'BEASTLY'

"Beizbol," the magazine said, is a "beastly battle, a bloody fight with mayhem and murder."

"Beizbol" players are slaves who are bought and sold like sheep. Then when they are worn out and usually cripples as a result of injuries suffered on the playing fields, they are thrown out on the street to die of starvation, Smena said.

The article, entitled "Beizbol—Big Ketch," was written by A. Juleshov and M. Kremnev.

One picture showed a player knocked out on the field with the caption: "Episode in game between 'Sen Luis' and 'Rodjers.' Del Rios, having received blow struck on the back of his head, being carried unconscious from the field."

Smena said "business men from sports," who make fabulous profits from the game, train young boys in the special techniques of rough play so they will be able to inflict injuries on their opponents.

"Such for instance is the New York club, the Rodjers, which has a special training camp for this purpose."

PITY BEIBS RUT

The article said the famous player, Tai Kopb, declared in Life Magazine earlier this year that his body was covered from head to foot with scars he suffered in play but that meanwhile he had left scars on every other player in the league.

Smena related how the famous player, Beibs Rut, was sold to another team against his wishes for $150,000 and said if this happens to stars, imagine what ordinary players have to put up with.

Petes Get Championship Of Central League When Monarchs Default

The Petes backed into the championship of the Central Ontario Baseball League last night, without having to depend further on the good left arm of pitcher Bill Dadson. The southpaw won two of the four games played in the best-of-seven C.O.B.L. finals, Kingston taking two here and dropping two to the Stewart squad at home. The new league champions, and winners of the Art Johnston trophy, will hold a players' meeting within a few days to discuss entering O.B.A. senior playdowns. How did they win the C.O.B.L. crown? A good question, since it was settled in Belleville. League president Jack Davine of Belleville first called an executive meeting for there Tuesday evening to settle the dispute between the Kingston and Petes' clubs as to when the remaining games of the set would be played. Then Devine decided to hasten action and phoned the clubs to be represented at a meeting last night. Cliff Cadd, Cy Whatley, Jack McNamara and Lloyd Grose attended from Peterborough. Kingston failed to send anyone.

DODGER THIRD SACKER Bill Cox leaps high for catcher Roy Campanella's lofty throw as Enos Slaughter, Cardinal right-fielder, slides into third safely in ninth inning of the Saturday game at Ebbetts Field. The umpire is Babe Pinneli. Slaughter advanced from second when one of Ben Wade's pitches got away from Campanella.

SET THE DATES

The meeting decided then the remaining games, if it went to seven, would be played either on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, or on Wednesday, Friday and next Monday—whichever set suited the clubs concerned best. Kingston was contacted by telephone then and told the setup.

Manager Stan Scrutton of the Kingston Monarchs said the K's could not prolong the series to such a date as he was losing some of his players this week to pro hockey. He countered by suggesting a sudden-death game on Wednesday in Belleville to settle the title, but the Petes nor the loop executive wouldn't consider this. Scrutton then said he would have to default the rest of the series, and the championship was awarded to Peterborough.

K'S DIDN'T PAY

Another knotty problem was presented at the meeting when the Petes pointed out that Kingston to date has not replied to the bill sent them by Peterborough for defaulting an advertised game here several weeks ago. The league has ruled that Kingston must pay for the out-of-pocket expenses incurred at that time.

This was the first season in three years that the Petes have competed in the C.O.B.L., since they dropped out three years ago and played the next two seasons in the Viaduct League, returning this summer to the Central loop.

Wilhelm Earned-Run Leader

NEW YORK (AP)—Hoyt Wilhelm, New York Giants' freshman relief hurler, is the new National League earned-run leader.

Earned-run averages show Wilhelm, who has given up 40 earned runs in 148 innings for a 2.43 mark can become the first relief pitcher to capture earned-run honors. He has not started a single game in 64 appearances this season.

In the American League, Allie Reynolds of New York Yankees has taken over the No. 1 spot with a 2.15 average. The 34-year-old righthander, with an 18-8 record, has permitted only 54 earned tallies in 226 frames. Records include yesterday's games.

Right behind Wilhelm comes Chicago's Warren Hacker, with a 2.48 slate. The Cubs' righthander, who has hurled four shutouts, has given up 45 earned runs in 163 innings.

Karl Drews of Philadelphia Phillies is third at 2.59.

Behind Reynolds in the American League comes Cleveland's durable Mike Garcia. Already a 20-game winner this year, Garcia's 2.38 slate is the result of 72 earned runs in 272 frames.

Third place is occupied by Bobby Shantz, Philadelphia A's southpaw, at 2.58.

National Hockey League Opens Season October 9

MONTREAL (CP)—The National Hockey League season opens Thursday Oct. 9—two days earlier than last year—and earliest in the league's 36-year history.

The opening games are between Chicago Black Hawks and Montreal Canadiens in Montreal, and New York Rangers and Detroit Red Wings, Stanley Cup champions, in Detroit.

The schedule, issued by N.H.L. officials last night, has 70 games for each team and ends Sunday, March 22.

LEAFS OPEN OCT. 11

Toronto Maple Leafs play their first game Oct. 11 against the Black Hawks, and Boston plays host to Montreal Canadiens Oct. 12. New York Rangers, last team to have a home game, go against the Bruins Oct. 22.

Montreal and Toronto play most of their home games Saturday. The Leafs play 24 and Canadiens 22. Chicago, Boston and Detroit play the majority of their home games Sundays, Black Hawks 17, Bruins 17 and Red Wings 15.

TOUGH SCHEDULE

In successive night games, Toronto leads the league with 25. Montreal has 23, New York 22, Boston 20, Detroit and Chicago 19 each.

New York Rangers have the toughest run of consecutive tilts, with four in five nights on six separate occasions. Toronto plays four games in five nights four times, while Montreal and Detroit see such action three times and Chicago and Boston twice.

PRAIRIE RACING ENDS

WINNIPEG (CP)—The 80-day prairie racing season ended at Polo Park yesterday with the largest daily double and straight money of the meet. Meadows Nook paid $90.30 to win in the first race. Gifted Wand, another outsider, came home in the second at 11 to 1 to pay $25. The combination paid a daily double of $847.95.

CHOOSE ROOKIE OF YEAR

NEW YORK (AP)—Ray Jablonski, slugging infielder-outfielder of Rochester Red Wings, has been voted the International League's rookie of the year by members of the circuit's Baseball Writers Association. Jablonski placed first on 14 of 33 ballots cast to nose out Don Hoak, Montreal third baseman.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

All last week we kept wondering what was the big hurry in getting the C.O.B.L. finals over. They were playing nightly, yet Kingston is going nowhere when it's over, and the Petes have lots of time yet for the few O.B.A. rounds remaining. It comes out that Kingston wanted it run off hard and fast on account of (a) they have more pitchers than the Petes, and (b) they lose Levanadoski and Ferguson later this week to pro hockey. The Petes refused to play here last night, maintaining the agreement was to run four night in a row and then make mutual arrangements. Loop executive has called a meeting in Belleville tonight to deal with the dispute.

* * * * * *

From Montreal comes the first N.H.L. bulletin of the season, along with the pro schedule. It opens Oct. 9—just a bit over three weeks away—and grinds along until late March, with playoffs following. Each club again plays 70 games. The two Canuck teams, Leafs and Canadiens, play most of their home games on Saturdays. Chicago, Boston and the championship Detroit Wings have quite a few home tilts on Sundays. The Rangers have to work in home games when the arena is available. Don't look now, but we think Boston Bruins (with Red Sullivan from here back again) will be a lot stronger this coming puck campaign.

* * * * * *

Quinte Juniors Strong

Chicago Hawks again plan to help the Belleville junior "B" squad in our grouping. They sponsor the Quinte club to some extent, as well as the Galt junior "A" team. Red Doran will be back in charge of Belleville, who have George Jacklyn and Henry Therrien from last year's imports, and also Hec Lalonde and Bob Wilson, if this pair missout at Galt. In addition, the group champs expect four other imports after the camp at Galt Breaks up. So, they'll be stiff opposition once more for the Oddfellows, Lindsay and Kingston. It's time this group re-organized for the season.

* * * * * *

Despite rumors to the contrary last week, the local Eagles did make application for entry in senior "B" hockey again. However, a Sunday meeting in Oshawa appeared to be against two clubs from Peterborough in the group. Kingston didn't want any more lengthy hauls than necessary, and Orillia and Stouffville want to duck long trips, too. They're in with Oshawa in Group 2, while the Petes, K's and Belleville are in Group 1, the sections playing an interlocking schedule. Unfortunately, Eagles' officers are still under O.H.A. suspension and can't sit in at meetings yet. One strong combined club would be better here, but no one should be squeezed out, either. After all, our grouping usually isn't formed at this early date, and play won't start before Nov. 1.

* * * * * *

So, It's Toronto Yorks

With Toronto Yorks erasing Mimico Mounties in three straight, the Eastern Canada senior lacrosse finals will open here tomorrow (Wednesday) night at 8.45, Manager Bob Curtin informs us. Second of the best-of-seven series will be Friday in Mimico—where Yorks will play future "home" games—back here Monday, there the following Wednesday and in Peterborough on Friday again. Bob expects the Timbermen to be at full strength with Ross Powless, Don Ashbee and Rusty Slater recovered from injuries, and young Roger Smith the added starter. This is the last senior lacrosse series of the year in Peterborough. Mann Cup finals will be staged in Maple Leaf Gardens.

* * * * * *

Since writing the opening para of today's pillar, we had word from Joe Stewart that the C.O.B.L. executive meeting was moved up to last night and Kingston wasn't represented. Contacted by phone, the K's manager refused to accept league dates for the rest of the final series, insisting on a sudden-deather in Belleville. This wasn't considered and he then defaulted the title to the Petes. Also Kingston hasn't yet paid expenses ordered by the loop to the Petes for defaulting an earlier joust to this club. Seems like Mike Rodden's city of Kingston is pretty handy at the defaults, too! Anyway, the Petes are League champs, winners of the Art Johnston Trophy, and will meet shortly to decide on whether or not to continue in O.B.A. playdowns.

TRUCKS WINS POLL

NEW YORK (AP)—Virgil Trucks, Detroit's double no-hit pitcher, easily won the August poll of sports writers and sportscasters in the Hickok "professional athlete of the year" contest. Trucks made it a runaway over Bobby Shantz of Philadelphia A's in the August competition.

Graziano And Davey Ready To Square Off

CHICAGO (AP) — Roughneck Rocky Graziano and undefeated Chuck Davey, the mercury-footed Michigan State graduate, are cast in boxing's beauty-and-the-beast episode tomorrow night.

The scheduled 10-round scrap between the two different-type fighters will be televised and broadcast starting at 10 p. m. EDT.

Odds favoring the sledge-fisted, mauling Graziano, who rose from New York's slums to gain and lose the middleweight crown in three brutal battles with Tony Zale, have shrunk from 12 to 5 a week ago to 9 to 5.

Some ring critics think Rocky can knock out Davey if he can hit him. Rocky agrees.

Named To Executive

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. A. E. Smith of Collingwood has been appointed to the Ontario Hockey Association executive for the coming season, it was announced yesterday by S. E. McTavish of Oshawa, president of the association.

RIDERS STOPPED — Toronto Argonauts had to come from behind three times to edge Ottawa Rough Riders, 24-19. It was the third straight win for the Big Four league-leaders. Riders' Pete Karpuk made one of the sensational plays of the game when he intercepted an Argos pass and ran for a touchdown. He is shown (right) on another play being stopped by Argos lineman Art Scullion with Ulysses Curtis coming up.

Marines Square Final Set With Raybestos

Outboard Marines blanked Raybestos 4-0 last evening at Quaker Park to square their best-of-five Industrial Fastball League finals at two wins each. The fifth and deciding game will be staged there on Wednesday night at 6.15 o'clock.

Halliday pitched six-hit ball and had fine support all through to keep the Rays off the score-sheet, Halliday fanning eight. Marines touched Nichols for 12 hits, bunching three each in the first, sixth and seventh innings, and the latter's support wasn't perfect. The winners shoved three runs across in the big first inning, aided by a pair of walks, and they counted one unearned marker in the fifth of the neat number. Halliday led his side at bat with three safeties, Crary getting a pair for Raybestos. Teams:

Marines: Gordonier, 1b; Plumpton, 2b; Downer, 3b; Halliday, p; Corrigan, sf; Mongraw, c; Blakely, lf; Morgan, rf; Broadhurst, ss.

Raybestos: Crampton, cf; Caccavella, ss; Batley, rf; Crary, 3b; Greenlaw, 2b; Giles, c; Northcott, 1b; Fennell, lf; Nichols, p.

The rink of Percy Skitch, B. Everson, and O. Cuthbert, all of Lindsay, won the Empress Shield here on Saturday; and this some rink won the Empress Shield last year.

Mrs. J. Coursey, Mrs. R. Penrose, Mrs. F. Hall, and Mrs. J. Arnold are playing in Belleville today in the ladies' doubles tournament.

Asked the meaning of the word budget, one little boy replied soberly: "It's a family quarrel."

FAMOUS FALLS

The Victoria Falls on the Zambesi River in Africa are in four parts, pouring down a canyon with a height of 354 feet.

ON THE JOB—John (Gunner) Lynch, trainer and equipment man for the local senior lacrossers, is busy on the job this week keeping the equipment in shape and rubbing down the players as they prepare for the Eastern Canada finals. Gunner is also a hockey trainer in winter.

See No Sign Of Old Age In Walcott

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — If old age is creeping up on Jersey Joe Walcott, you can't tell it by the workouts of the ancient ring warrior.

The 38-year-old heavyweight champion moves through his boxing drills with a bounce in every ounce of his 197-pound frame as he prepares for his Sept. 23 title bout with Rocky Marciano in Philadelphia.

He looks faster and in far better condition now than he did in preparing for his June 5 title defence against Ezzard Charles.

"He should," Manager Felix Bocchicchio said yesterday "He's always in good shape and he's never really broken training since he started working for Charles. "And he's more confident now. Charles is the toughest heavyweight around. Marciano is a crude guy who can hit but he's no Charles."

Joe looked so good in a Sunday workout that a reporter wondered out loud how long Joe intended to keep fighting.

"So long as the good Lord blesses me with health and strength, I may go on until I'm 50," said Walcott.

Locals Victors In Cricket Over Oshawa

In a friendly cricket match at Oshawa, the P-W Club won by 81 to 46. The visitors batted first and a good opening by E. Cotton 31 and F. Booth 12 took the score to 35 for one. Cotton was out at 42 for the day's high score of 31. Then wickets fell fast and it was 63 for seven, but G. Boardman scored 13 to make it 81.

Oshawa fared badly against the bowling of F. Booth with five for 16, F. Dyer three for 16, and W. Cridland one for two. This match concluded the 'locals' season. These same teams met last year with Oshawa winning.

PERCIVAL QUITS T.T.F.C

TORONTO (CP)—The Toronto Track and Field Club last night announced the resignation of its coach and founder, Lloyd Percival. He had held the position since 1947. Percival said Sports College, of which he is director and head coach, "now needs every minute I can give it." In its six years, club members have won more than 11000 championships and set 400 records.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

This one didn't appear in the points record, but I happen to think that the real Olympic champions are the Finnish nation, all 4,000,000 of this peace-loving and sports-worshipping little country's population.

In 1940 the Finns had, with great pride, accepted the honor of being host to the Olympic scheduled for that time and planned accordingly. But then came the Russian invasion and World War II, resulting in cancellation of the contests and tremendous financial losses. After hostilities had ceased, Finland was unable to accommodate the 1948 games, which took place in England.

The work and outlay has been tremendous. For instance the Olympic Stadium built at enormous cost, had accommodation for 70,000 spectators. Nearby was built another stadium with a heated outdoor swimming pool for practice purposes. A new pool, begun in 1939, was blasted out of bedrock in a pine forest, and from sheer wilderness became the scene of aquatic contests with facilities to seat 10,000 onlookers. These are only a few examples of the modern playing fields and arenas sports-minded Finland built for the various matches. They spared nothing to achieve perfection for what proved to be the most sensational of all Games.

With the thousands of visitors, Finland faced a real housing problem. But Helsinki solved this p.ob.er. The Olympic Village for men consisted of fourteen un..s patterned after modern apartment houses. The main section contained 1,181 rooms and two others had 212 and 277 compartments. This was for the athletes. And every private home was hospitably thrown open to non-competing visitors.

Food presented another problem, but arrangements were made to increase imports from neighboring countries. Dutch producers and businessmen have offered fifty tons of fresh fruit for contestants, and Finnish vessels transported the fruit from the Netherlands. And the food in general, everybody agrees, was wonderful.

There were hundreds of guides and interpreters to accommodate visitors. The press relations were perfect. There wasn't a flaw in the arrangements for the greatest of all Olympics, staged by the smallest nation which has in years handled this mighty chore. Finland deserves a wreath of wild olives, or a gold medal, or whatever it is Olympic champions receive.

West Yorks Clip Mimico 21-11 Sweep Series

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto West Yorks whipped Mimico Mountaineers 21-11 last night to sweep their best-of-five Ontario Lacrosse Association semi-final series in three straight games. West Yorks now meet Peterborough Timbermen in a best-of-seven final opening at Peterborough tomorrow night.

Ken Croft was the big scoring gun for West Yorks, rapping home seven goals. Frank Facto bagged three. For Mimico Ken Dickson was the big scorer with four goals and Wilf Chard had three.

Bill Rowan, O.L.A. secretary, said West Yorks will play all their home games in the Peterborough series at Mimico.

Games will be played at Peterborough Sept. 17, 22 and 26; at Mimico Sept. 19, 24 and 29. If a seventh game is necessary it will be played Oct. 1 on a field still to be decided.

Lumley, Ezinicki Share Limelight

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Goalie Harry Lumley and right wing Bill Ezinicki claimed most of the attention of railbirds yesterday as Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League started pre-season training.

Lumley played so effectively in goal that he drew special praise from Managing Director Conny Smythe. He had an edge on the rest of the squad in training because of a few days' practice at the Chicago Black Hawk camp at Pembroke last week before he was traded to the Leafs.

With Ezinicki it wasn't how he played but the fact he was in a Leaf uniform that attracted attention. He had been ordered to report to Pittsburgh Hornets, Toronto's American Hockey League farm club, at Niagara Falls, Ont. He showed up on schedule Sunday and was instructed to join the Leafs.

He patrolled right wing on a line with veteran Joe Klukay and Ken Laufman, a junior up from Guelph Biltmores of the Ontario Hockey Association.

Brooks Pound Out 11-5 Win But Performance By Pitcher Very Shaky

By JOE REICHLER, Associated Press Sports Writer

The Yankees lead Cleveland by 2½ games while Brooklyn leads the Giants by three. The Yankees must play eight of their remaining 11 games on the road while the Dodgers have eight of their 11 at home. Yet the experts figure the Yankees a cinch to win the American League Pennant and declare the National League race a toss-up between the Brooks and Giants. "The Yankees have the confidence of champions," a veteran baseball man said. "They win the big ones. They don't scare easily. They have the solid men in Allie Reynolds, Vic Raschi, Ed Lopat, Yogi Berra and Phil Rizzuto.

"The Indians may be a better all-round club. But they have proven that they are unable to win the big ones. They tighten up under pressure. And they have no leader—no take charge guy.

"If the American League race were all even today, the Yankees would still win it."

CAN'T FORGET JINX

And the Dodgers?

"If it were any team but the Dodgers," the learned baseball man replied, "I'd say I don't know how they could lose with a three-game edge.

"But the trouble with the Dodgers is they cannot forget last year. Especially when this race is following last year's script almost to the letter. Every time the Giants win and they lose, the Dodgers are reminded of last year's debacle. They know it can happen because it already has happened.

SHAKY DODGERS

"The Dodgers are in trouble even with their big lead. Their pitching staff is in a bad way. If the Giants had the services of Larry Jansen to go along with Sal Maglie and Jim Hearn, they'd be sure to pull off another miracle. As it is, it's going to be another squeaker right down to the finish."

Neither manager—Leo Durocher of the Giants nor Charlie Dressen of the Dodgers—is doing any talking these days. Not even after yesterday's victories that left them still three games apart with 11 left to go.

Brooklyn received another shoddy pitching performance—this time from Carl Erskine—but their big bats atoned for the pitcher's lapse as the Brooks pounded out an 11-5 triumph over Cincinnati Reds. Jackie Robinson and Duke Snider hammered two homers apiece and Gil Hodges hit one in one of the biggest Brooklyn barrages of the season. Erskine couldn't go beyond the seventh inning, but he was credited with his 13th victory with the help of relief ace Joe Black.

Rookie Jim Greengrass hit a three-run homer for the Reds' seventh inning.

MAGLIE IS BACK

Sal Maglie looked like the Maglie of old as he pitched the Giants to a six-hit, 12-1 victory over St. Louis Cardinals. He was never in trouble as he hurled his first complete game in nearly three weeks to register his 17th success. A nine-run sixth inning—the biggest single inning of the season for the Giants—made it easy for the 35-year-old righthander.

There were two other games played yesterday, both in the American League. Rocky Kisnich, for the second straight day, smashed a winning bases-loaded single, scoring two runs in the eighth, to give Chicago White Sox a 4-2 victory over Boston Red Sox.

Rookie shortstop Harvey Kuenn tripled and scored the winning run on Fred Hatfield's single in the last of the ninth to give Detroit Tigers a 5-4 victory over Washington Senators.

Remember When—

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

"Sunny Jim" Bottomley, first baseman of St. Louis Cardinals, had a perfect day at the plate against Brooklyn Dodgers 28 years ago today. Bottomley had six hits in six times at bat, and batted in 12 runs as the Cards won 17-3.

McFater Scores TKO On Thomas

TORONTO (CP)—Alan McFater, back at the boxing wars after a four-month layoff, scored a technical knockout over Lem Thomas of Chicago last night in the sixth round of a bout slated to go 10 rounds.

McFater, idle since he fractured an ankle last spring, had Thomas bleeding from the mouth at the end of the fifth round. After 20 seconds of the sixth, referee Jackie Silver stopped the fight.

Attendance was 2,000.

McFater weighed 140 pounds, Thomas 139.

In the semi-final eight-rounder Gordon Wallace, 165-pounder from Brantford, got a decision over Clarence McKenzie, 168 pounds, of Syracuse, N.Y.

In a four-round preliminary Johnny O'Sullivan, 127, of Toronto, beat Don Grinton, 130, of Brantford.

No-Recall Rule Relaxation Studied By AHL

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—The American Hockey League Board of Governors scheduled a meeting today to consider a proposal by the National Hockey League for relaxation of the no-recall rule.

The governors met with Clarence Campbell, N.H.L. president, all day yesterday and into the early hours today.

Campbell outlined a draft rule under which N.H.L. teams would be allowed to keep 22 players, including the 16 regulars, on a protected list, while all others could be drafted by lower-ranking clubs for $10,000.

Campbell told a reporter after the session the National League would institute the rule immediately if it were accepted by the American League.

The present A.H.L. rule prohibits N.H.L. clubs from recalling before the end of the season players sent to the A.H.L. on loan.

Campbell said the present N.H.L. rule allows each club a reserve list of four goalies and 40 other players. He said this arrangement permits many players of National League calibre to be held down in the minors.

Gord Snape Pilots Parish All-Stars

Gord Snape is managing the all-star Parish Softball League squad which plays Seabrooke's this evening at 7:30 in the Ashburnham Bowl. It is an exhibition game with proceeds going to aid St. Peter's sports. The Parish Loop challenged Red Sullivan and his city champions, the latter accepting as they wanted to keep in shape for their coming O.A.S.A. senior "B" playdown series with Oshawa.

On the all-star team will be Guilfoyle, Shaughnessy and Sullivan of Immaculate Conception club; Loucks, Crowley and Woodhouse of St. John's, Hayes, Fitzgerald and Doherty of Sacred Heart; Board, O'Toole and Father Ray Garvey of St. Peter's; and E. Leahy and F. Leahy of the Douro team.

Arcaro Turns In Another Great Ride

NEW YORK (AP)—Eddie Arcaro turned in another one of his superlative stakes performances yesterday when he guided Hitex to a half-length victory over Tea-Maker in the six-furlong Fall Highweight Handicap at Belmont Park.

A crowd of 19,466 turned out for the opening of Belmont's fall meeting. The inaugural was a sombre one. Sunday a fire in a track barn destroyed 25 thoroughbreds valued at $120,000. Some had been scheduled to race yesterday.

In riding Mrs. B. F. Whitaker's three-year-old gelding to victory, Arcaro chalked up his 34th stakes win of the year and boosted the amount of his purse winnings close to the $2,000,000 mark.

GONSALVES WINS DECISION

BOSTON (AP)—Johnny Gonsalves, lanky Oakland, Calif., lightweight, removed his defensive wraps at a late stage and then attacked in two-fisted fashion to gain a split decision over New England titlist Georgie Araujo of Providence, R.I., in their return 10-round bout last night at the Boston Garden. Gonsalves weighed 134 and Araujo 133½. They battled to a draw here a month ago.

Britain Makes Unsinkable Clothes Now

LONDON (Reuters)—Unsinkable—and highly secret—clothing is about to become Britain's newest dollar earner.

British manufacturers of a type of clothing processed to keep its wearers afloat yesterday announced a £100,000 deal with a U. S. firm to produce unsinkable vests, bathing suits, belts, underwear and other garments in the United States.

Made of a buoyant substance sandwiched between water-repellent material, the product's unsinkability has been tested in:

A pair of men's trunks capable

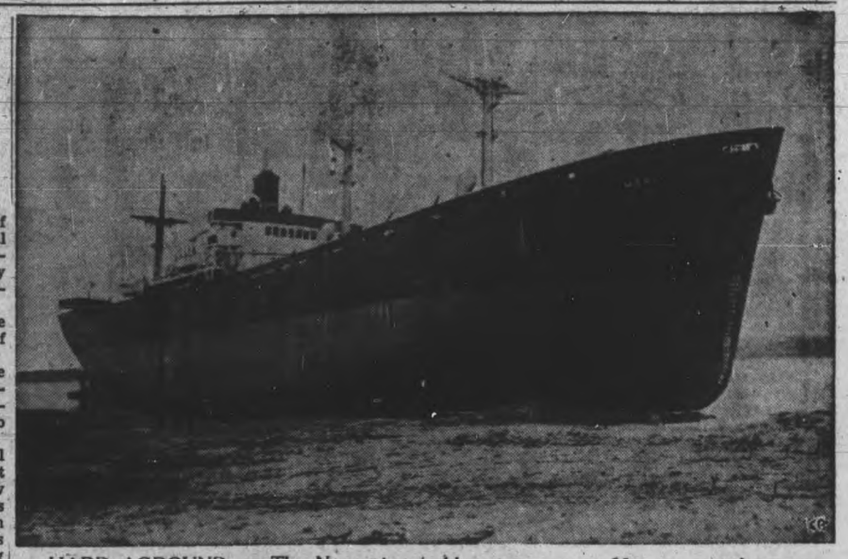
Film Council Outlined To Rotary Club

An outline of the activities of the Peterborough Film Council were given at the luncheon meeting of the Rotary club Monday by William Graff, secretary-treasurer of the council.

Mr. Graff explained that there are 180 member organizations of the film council in the district.

Outstanding activities of the year will be the council's workshop which will be held in November and the Film Festival to be held next spring.

"The main job of the council is not only supplying films, but also providing training in how to use film," Mr. Graff said. "This training includes instruction in how to properly introduce films and to lead discussions following the showings."



80 FILMS ON HAND

The council has 80 films in its own library and has access to 4,000 films in the Film Institute Library in Ottawa.

Another important activity of the council is the training of projector operators. Classes are held every Saturday afternoon at the Public Library. At present 120 operators have graduated from this course.

Following his short address, Mr. Graff showed the film, Highlands of Ontario, a travelogue of the Highlands of Haliburton.

He was introduced by T. Taylor and thanked by Gordon Monkman.

HARD AGROUND — The Norwegian freighter Marit, 9,800 tons, ran aground on the St. Lawrence River island of Orleans near Quebec City in a storm. None of the 11 passengers or 35 crew members was injured. Three days later the vessel was still aground although 700 tons of oil were piped out of it to lighten strain to the hull.

Church Group Strikes Out Peace Congress Reference

By CRAIG ARMSTRONG

HAMILTON (CP)—A reference to the leftist Canadian Peace Congress was struck out of a report of the Committee on International Affairs yesterday at the General Council of the United Church of Canada.

The deletion came after one delegate said inclusion of the reference might lead some pople to think the left-wing group is doing "Christian work."

A young chemistry professor at McMaster University moved an amendment to the committee's report, brought in by its secretary, Rev. J. R. Mutchmor, which wiped out mention of the Congress.

The controversial section of the report which caused heated debate among the 400 commissioners now reads:

"Our communion believes that now is the time for a larger program of peace-building by the churches. It should be done in a more public way and reveal the Christian bodies have taken the initiative. A vigorous campaign for peace will surely have the support of the United Church people who believe that of all men, Christians should most patiently and most persistently seek peace and pursue it."

ORIGINAL DIFFERED

The original reading of the report, as introduced by Dr. Mutchmor read: "A vigorous campaign for peace will have the support of many United Church people, who believe that this area of Christian work and witness has been left too exclusively to the Canadian Peace Congress and related groups."

Only half of the committee's report was adopted and one of the sections still to come before the Commissioner's deals with recognition of the Communist Chinese regime.

Professor L. H. Cragg of McMaster University, Hamilton, said the Council had been talking about peace in an ambiguous manner.

"We should phrase it in a positive way. There is room for misunderstanding. People could probably read into this that the Congress was really working in the area of Christian peace and progress."

Several changes in the wording of his amendment were suggested and he accepted them all. It passed with only three dissenting votes.

Another Hamilton commissioner, Rev. Aubrey Jones, brought up the matter. He asked if by passing this section, as originally worded, the Congress was suggesting that the Congress which he termed a "Communist-front organization" was doing Christian work.

During the hour-long debate which was shut off after its allotted time had run out, J. R. Murgatroyd, Hamilton lawyer, asked Dr. Mutchmor what he meant by peace.

FLAILS MUTCHMOR

When Dr. Mutchmor gave St. Augustine's definition that order is basic to both peace and justice and that order is the right relationship among men, Mr. Murgatroyd shouted: "I don't care what St. Augustine said about peace. I want to know what we mean by peace."

Then the Hamilton lawyer moved that several sections, not acted on by Council, be received for information only. This was voted down.

Rev. J. M. Colling of Strathroy, Ont., said many people are asking United Church ministers about the official relationship between the church and the Peace Congress.

"All I have heard are wise pronouncements by Dr. Sisco (Rev. Gordon A. Sisco, secretary of the church) that a certain James Endicott (chairman of the Canadian Peace Congress and a former United Church missionary in China) is no longer a minister of our church."

NO COMMENT

He said "it would be a great thing" if the Council officially declared it does not officially recognize the Peace Council and does not endorse it.

Dr. Mutchmor said that it was another question and not the concern of his committee.

Delegates also heard a report from the Board of Colleges and Secondary Schools that unless the United Church gets more full time workers the church cannot begin to measure up to its responsibilities.

Reporting for the Overseas Missions Board, Chairman Rev E. M. Aitken told of the opening of a new mission field in Northern Rhodesia and the strengthening and extension of existing ones.

This year, he said, 20 new missionaries are being sent overseas and students from other countries are brought to Canada for study who will return to their countries as leaders.

Renew Freight Rate Battle

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—After a warm-weather lull, freight rates again are popping up all over.

The perennial battling of the last six years over this issue will be renewed this month and it looks as though enough fronts have been opened up to keep things going well into winter.

At the head of the list is a railway try for new increases amounting to more than $80,000,000 a year, and there is a miscellany of side issues before both the Board of Transport Commissioners and the Supreme Court of Canada.

OPEN SEPT. 22

The action is due to start Sept. 22, when the board has set down these two phases for hearings:

1. An "immediate" general increase of seven per cent sought by the railways. This is part of a 16-per-cent application adding up to the $80,000,000 plus.

2. A railway call for an increase of about $3,200,000 a year on grain moving in the west to domestic markets. This traffic has not had any increases since 1921.

The provincial governments that have lined up against rate increases in the past—all except Quebec and Ontario—will be fighting the general hoist.

Western provinces and prairie grain interests have been getting together to fight the grain proposal.

It is not yet known which of the two cases will be tackled first by the board.

C.P.R. VALUATION

Later—Nov. 10—the board is to take on another aspect of the railways' latest application. That is a request that it fix a valuation on the Canadian Pacific Railway and set rates to give the C.P.R. a 6½-per-cent return on the investment.

By the C.P.R.'s own valuation of about $1,000,000,000, that would call for a further increase, and it, too, will be opposed by the provinces.

After that, the board is due to open hearings Dec. 8 on the remaining nine per cent of the 16-per-cent increase application.

By that time, too, it is probable that the $150,000,000-a-year wage dispute between the railways and their non-operating unions will hav been settled. Any sizable wage increase will be followed almost inevitably by another rate-increase request.

At all events, the board has tentatively set Dec. 8 for hearing any further application the railways may put in.

Meanwhile, the railways have been scraping around for other sources of new revenue apart from general increases and have come up with these proposals:

1. A general upward revision of a large block of eastern rates known as 'schedule A" rates, concentrated mostly in Ontario and Quebec but also stretching into the Maritimes. Opposition to this has developed in the Maritimes

2. Another basic revision—mostly increases—of rates on export and import traffic in the area between the eastern seaboard and the Ontario-Manitoba border.

Freight-rate scrapping is due to switch to the Supreme Court at its fall term. The court is to hear a challenge to federally-subsidized rate reductions ordered by the Transport Board on rail traffic moving between the east and the west.

The order has been contested by Canada Steamship Lines, whose inland fleet competes with the railways for this business but which does not get the subsidy.

In the background of all these moves is a huge general revision of Canada's whole freight-rate structure, pushing ahead quietly in offices of the Transport Commissioners. Parliament ordered it about 10 months ago, to equalize the impact of rates on all sections of the country. It will take years to complete.

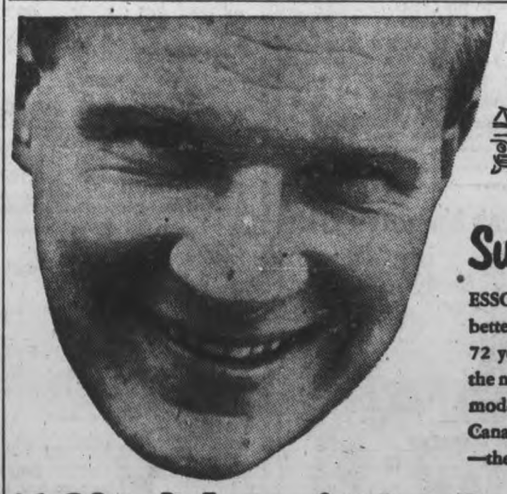
1 The Forehand Grip: Control of every shot is vital, and comes only from the properly-held bat. Grip the bat simply and naturally. The handle should be held by the whole hand. Blade is held between thumb and forefinger; thumb on one side, forefinger on other.

2 Make sure bat fits snugly in hand while the three fingers clasp handle with relaxed, controlled grip. Held in this manner the bat becomes an extension of the arm and hand.



3 The Backhand Grip: For a backhand shot the bat is turned slightly in the hand when changing from the forehand position. The thumb steadies the backhand shot; the first finger steadies the forehand shot.

Yes, it's control that counts, in table tennis as in every sport—control which brings the extraordinary quality that sets one performer above the other. In the ability to approach things coolly, to control every move and moment, lies the answer to better results.

This is one of a series designed to increase the pleasure of Canadians who participate in sports.

Council Raises J. E. Davis Salary

An increase of $650 in the salary of J. E. Davis, assessment commissioner, was recommended to the council Monday by the finance committee.

When Mr. Davis came to the assessment department from Trenton, he was engaged at $3,000. His salary was later advanced to $3,700, plus cost of living bonus, and is now to be $4,350, plus the cost of living item, effective from August 1.

Information to the committee indicated that the demand for assessment officials throughout the country exceeds the supply. It was said that a Fort William assessor, with less experience than Mr. Davis, has received appointment in another city at $5,200. Ald. T. D. Miller said that other information indicated that the commissioner's salary here "is not in line with other municipalities."

Recommendation for the increase was moved by Ald. J. A. Dewart and seconded by Ald. S. J. Black.

Mr. Davis was congraulated at the last sittings of the Court of Revision for his assessment work, Ald. Dewart said.

Mayor Waddell commented that increases to assessment department heads in the last six months were from $600 to $1,200 a year.

Street Lighting Costs Boosted City Asks Details

An adjusted schedule of Peterborough's street lighting charges indicates that city council will owe the Utilities Commission an increase of $15,700 at the end of October, as announced in a letter received by the finance committee Monday night.

"The amount for the year will be around $20,500, and there is nothing in the budget for it," Ald. T. D. Miller, chairman remarked. "Since I have been in the council we have been faced with these adjustments of charges. I don't know what we can do about it. The deficit last year was something like $5,000 or $5,500."

The increases are determined in the accounting of the Hydro-Electric Commission, and are collectible by the Utilities Commission. The information from the Hydro briefly notified the council that the "adjustment" was based on the cost of street light in Peterborough for previous years. The increases are retroactive from January 1, 1952.

ASK DETAILS

A motion by Ald. S. J. Black and Ald. H. T. Rehill instructed City Clerk Outram to write the Utilities Commission for more explicit information.

The finance committee discovered Monday night the street lamp charges for this year are as follows: 100 watt lamps $16.50 a year as against $13 last year; 300 watt lamps up from $20 to $27.50; 1,000 watt flood lamps increased from $50 to $59; but the ornamental street lights, 300 watts have been reduced from $45 last year to $30. These are the lamps on the midtown standards.

"I don't know of any other business that uses a commodity for nine months of the year and then gets the bill for it," Ald. Rehill said.

"It has been known to run the whole year," Ald. J. E. Gillespie said.

It was recalled that the Utilities Commission prepared four years ago a program of changes and improvements in the lighting of the city's streets. In the extent of it, the work could not be carried out in a year or two.

"I think the members of this committee would like some explanation of this bill, and why the notice is done in this way," Ald. Miller said with reference to the Black-Rehill motion. "There must be some reason for it."

City Asks Bylaw Be Prepared To Regulate Garage Hours

City Solicitor W. F. Huycke was asked by the finance committee of the council last night to prepare a bylaw authorizing the control of business hours for gasoline service stations as requested by 84.3 per cent of the operators. This is one of the stock problems that has strutted and fretted its time on the municipal stage, returning with much the same aspect as of old.

For instance, Ald. Sid Black posed the academic question: "What are you going to about a man down at Downer's Corners, for example. He's in the city, but there's another dealer across the road in the township.

The city bylaw will force one man to close, diverting extra business to the township neighbor's pumps. That has been a recurring obstacle stemming from the principle of free enterprise and the citizens' right to work.

Ald. Black expressed objection to any policy that would let one man flout the bylaw with occasional penalty but with larger income from selling beyond hours of control.

"If you're going to have a bylaw, make it stick with everybody," said Ald. Black.

"We haven't much option about it," said Mayor Waddell.

MUST PASS IT

"If the bylaw conforms with the Act, the council is obliged to pass it," City Solicitor Huycke said. "I think we might ask the dealers' association to submit the type of bylaw they want. There have been decisions by courts. Some of these bylaws have stood up, but others didn't."

The weak cases, Mr. Huycke remarked, were those in which bylaws wandered away from the statute.

A motion by Ald. Burrows and Longhurst directed Mr. Huycke to draft the proposed bylaw.

The business day would be from 7 a.m. to 12 p.m. during the four summer months, and from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. from Oct. to May, inclusive. That is the main item in the petition. There are also several clauses relating to weekends, as reported recently in the Examiner. The bylaw provides for the issuance of permits for groups of dealers to extend periods of sale, one-third of them for one week at a time, on a rotary arrangement.

Woman's Hand Caught In Wringer, Crushed

As she was washing today, Mrs. Robert Higgins, 76, 465 King St., caught her right hand in the wringer of the machine.

Before she could turn it off, her hand was drawn through the rollers, up to the wrist, mangling the hand badly.

The release would not work on the machine, and although she managed to stop the machine, Mrs. Higgins was unable to release her hand.

Her cries for help were heard by Mrs. J. N. Wood, who lives next door, and Mrs. Wood had to hurriedly loosen the screws on the top of the wringer, to release the rollers and free Mrs. Higgins' hand.

A doctor was called, and he advised that the injured woman be taken to hospital as quickly as possible. Police were called, and Constable Harold Andrew rushed her to hospital in a police cruiser. She was treated by Dr. S. Y. Walsh.

Train Kills 2 Cows In Herd

NORWOOD (ENS).—Two milk cows were killed and a bull was injured late Monday afternoon when a C.P.R. train ran into a herd of cattle, three miles east of Norwood.

The cattle, owned by Ernest Colby of Asphodel township, had broken through Mr. Colby's fence which borders the C.P.R. right-of-way. Several of them were on the tracks when the westbound passenger train came along.

Two were killed instantly by the locomotive and a bull was injured but was able to walk away. Both cows had just freshened; one of them was a three-year-old.

The locomotive was not damaged and the train (Montreal to Toronto) was on schedule at 5.55 (D.S.T.) in Peterborough.

Lindsay Jeweller Faces 1894 Bylaw

Lindsay is having its troubles enforcing an early-closing bylaw.

Last Friday Lindsay police entered Johnson's Jewellers at 8:35 p.m. and found jewellery being auctioned. The proprietor was not doing the autcioneering but was one of about 40 people in the store at the time.

On Monday Johnson appeared in court, charged with breaking the bylaw. After hearing evidence Magistrate E. A. Gee reserved judgment for a week.

A. M. Fulton, Q.C., Lindsay's solicitor, said the original bylaw was passed by council in 1894. It was based on an 1890 statute that required stores, such as jewellery stores to close at 6 p.m. In 1950 the statute was replaced by another that was almost identical.

Defence Counsel H. E. Richardson said there were four loopholes in the bylaw:

The 1890 statute on which it was based has been repealed.

The auctioneer, not the defendant, was doing business at night.

There was no mention of opening hours in the bylaw.

Auction sales were not specifically banned.

Boy Hit By Car Escapes Serious Injury

A six-year-old boy escaped serious injury Monday afternoon, when struck by a car, as he was crossing George St., at Brock St. on his way home from school.

Harry James, 425 Bethune St., was taken to the Clinic where he was treated by Dr. J. T. Stewart for bruises on his elbow and arm and then allowed to go home.

The driver of the car, Earl W. Lloyd, 401 Bellevue St., took the boy to the Clinic for treatment. He was travelling south on George St., when, he said, the boy walked into the path of the car, from the east curb.

Lloyd told constable Harold Andrew who saw the accident occur, that his view of the boy was obscured by an oncoming northbound car.

Expenditures: wages and salaries $13,273.38; ticket agency and tickets $475.97; postage and stationery $47.86; advertising $1,233.84; power, light, heat and water $3,273.37; arena equipment $1,443.60; repairs and improvements $1,153.99; booth $11,650.50.

Sundry expenses $760.03; municipal taxes $194.41; provincial taxes $265.11; telephone $156.95; insurance $2,093.60; supplies $282.69; prizes $66; unemployment insurance $38.88. Total $36,410. Excess of revenue over expenditure for the season $3,910.29.

The booth account of expenditures: merchandise $9,381.63; inventory April 1951 $244.65; wages $2,270.39; expenses $22.06; amounting to $11,918.73, less the inventory of the booth at April 1952 $268.23; leaving the balance of $11,650 in the expenditure column.

Mayor Waddell said the operating surplus last year was slightly less than the $4,000 due to the city for the retirement of the five year debentures.

The management last year increased to the hockey clubs the "split" of the gates by 5 per cent, and to make up the sum payable to the city the board had to dip into its reserves for somewhat less than $100.

In his report, Mr. Humpage remarks: "I have audited the above accounts, (assets and liabilities). An adjustment has been made in the liability to the city of $5,000 more, this being the amount of the provincial subsidy which was due to the city direct, and should not have been deducted in a prior year for the liability. I have received all the explanations desired and I am of the opinion that the above is a correct statement of the affairs, and are in accordance with the books."

Mayor Waddell explained to the committee that both the council and the Arena committee counted as a credit the $5,000 granted by the Ontario government. As mentioned by Mr. Humpage, it was properly a contribution to the city.

The statement of assets and liabilities is published for the record.

Current assets: bank balance $11,271.35; accounts receivable (at April 30, 1952) $405; inventory (booth) $268.23; total $11,944.58.

Fixed assets: rink building $40,000; ice equipment $42,750; total assets $94,694.58.

Liabilities: accounts payable $1,404.87; city of Peterborough $15,677.52; current surplus $14,539.69; capital surplus $63,072.48; total $94,694.58.

Mayor Waddell said certain repairs to the Arena were necessary because wear and tear on the building were beginning to show.

Council's appreciation of the Arena committee's stewardship was expressed in a motion by Ald. Beggs and Burrows.

Receipt of Mr. Humpage's report was moved by Alderman Rehill and Black.

Temporary President

Lou Durkin on Monday night was appointed temporary president of Branch 52 of the Canadian Legion. He succeeds George Gimblett, Sr., who was asked to resign. Legion officials were mum today when asked to comment on this sudden move. Rumors that a shake-up was pending at the Legion have been circulating for sometime. Monday night, the first post-holiday meeting of the branch, the axe fell.

UP AND UP AND UP—Peterborough flower fanciers have a habit of growing giant flowers. Early last spring Alf Pink on Water St. had an over-size tulip. Now Mrs. Alfred Sproats, 585 McCannan Ave., has a 10-foot daisy and a 13-foot hollyhock. Growing flowers is a hobby with Mrs. Sproats who specializes in potting decorative creations. But the daisy, which Mrs. Sproats stands beside (above) is the garden dandy at present.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Ducks Plentiful In District Spring Ideal For Breeding

News for duck hunters, according to a district survey, is all good. Hatches in the northwest corner of the Kawartha lakes has been excellent due to ideal weather conditions in spring. The birds are so plentiful in Eldon and Fenelon townships of Victoria county that department biologists have noted many flocks feeding in grain fields adjacent to district lakes. Blacks and mallards are in the majority in that area.

Wood duck, more than any other specie, have made the greatest come-back due to the efforts of conservation-minded hunters who have seen to it that natural breeding marshes have been well supplied with nesting boxes. One duck per day of this specie is the bag limit.

The same encouraging news comes from Cliff Whetung of Curve Lake Indian Reservation; good spring weather producing a good hatch and lots of natural food especially wild rice.

Some American duck hunters are expected to come back to Buckhorn and Pigeon waters for the shoot, especially about September 27. However, it is the general feeling that Americans will not come to the Kawarthas in large numbers for the shoot this year; the United States ban on the import of venison will make most of them feel that it is not enough worth while to come to Canada for ducks alone.

COOLER WEATHER

If weather becomes cooler, on or shortly after the opening date, Sept. 20, this condition will chase the late ducks down from northern breeding lakes—among these will be Whistlers, Bluebills, Ringnecks, Redheads, Canvasbacks and Teal.

In the Rice Lake area, resort operator Art Metcalfe of Bewdley observes that the black duck hatch is just average. The wild rice crop is poor but wild celery provides sufficient feed for the local bird population and will be ample for the late migrating ducks when they arrive. The opening of the season south of Highway 7 on Oct. 4, may, if the weather is considerably cooler at that time, yet provide good shooting, observers say.

2 Marooned On Cliff At Bow Lake

Couple Rescued After Dark From High Ledge

BANCROFT (ENS).—A young couple, marooned for many hours on a high, rocky ledge over the north tip of fog enshrouded Bow Lake were successfully removed by a search party early Sunday morning.

Miss Gwen Shore, 22, of Toronto and R. F. C. Morris, 28, Tuscarora, N. Y., guests at Bow Lake Lodge, had set out to climb the cliff early Saturday evening. After rowing to the north end of the lake and walking through a thickly wooded area they had climbed the sheer rock face of the cliff to a small ledge about 75 feet from the ground.

There darkness and fog had set in and they became lost. Clad only in light summer clothing and with no food, the pair made a fire in the hope of attracting attention.

About midnight, lodge proprietor Laurie Hook, alarmed when his guests failed to return, made an unsuccessful attempt to locate them and summoned Provincial police from Bancroft.

At 3 a.m., after crossing the lake in dense fog, a party consisting of Mr. Hook, Jack Brown, O.P.P. officers Cpl. Archie Grayling, George Lloyd and John Hutchinson, located the couple.

Brown, local planing mill owner and experienced woodsman, made the steep ascent with a rope and the couple were lowered to safety without mishap.

Miss Shore, wan looking, tired and chilled from the experience, had apparently lost none of her love for mountain climbing but assured the party that she would do it in daylight hours from now on.

Bow Lake is six miles west of Bancroft.

Petition For Lights Sent To Committee

A petition for stop-and-go lights at Water and Simcoe Streets was referred on Monday night to the special traffic committee by the finance committee. It was signed by 156 names, mostly of merchants in adjacent blocks.

"It's a bad corner," one of the members remarked.

"All corners are bad these days," said Ald. Gillespie. "I wonder if the financial situation is being checked with the budget."

The item of cost, however, does not come to the surface until the council is nearer ordering and purchasing. The traffic committee reference is a little round about.

Reroute Highway 28 Bow Lake To Bancroft

BANCROFT — (ENS). — The Malvern Construction Co., Toronto, has been awarded the contract to complete seven miles of new road on Highway 28 from Bow Lake to Bancroft, it was announced this week.

The Toronto firm recently completed a large road building project east and south of Maynooth on Highway 62.

Scheduled to begin immediately, the new job will eliminate many sharp curves and hills now existing and is part of a large improvement program under the direction of the Ontario Department of Highways.

Paving operations on Highway 62 between Bancroft and Maynooth are now complete. The new highway is much wider, well surfaced, with nearly all curves eliminated.

It is expected that the road building operations carried out in the past two years, together with the new project, will be a great asset to the tourist business in the district.

Greek-Canadians Wed Here

The wedding ceremony of the Greek Orthodox Church was performed here Sunday afternoon to unite in marriage Miss Nikki Mousmousles, daughter of Mrs. G. Mousmousles of Doleana, Greece, and the late Mr. Mousmousles, to Gus Pappas of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Pappas, also of Greece.

The bride came to Peterborough four years ago to join her brother John. She is niece of Mr. William Coros and Mr. Nicholas Douros, also of this city.

St. John's Anglican Church was setting for the ceremony which was performed by the Rev. Mr. Adrew of Toronto Greek Orthodox Church. The rector, Ven. Archdeacon W. P. Robertson was present and said prayers. Organist Mr. F. G. Mann played the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her brother, the bride wore a beautiful gown of white satin with heavy scroll embroidery all over the bodice front and forming side panels in the full skirt. Her fingertip veil of tulle was caught to a crown of satin leaves trimmed with pearls. In her bouquet were three white orchids surrounded with lilies of the valley.

Miss Helen Coroles of Toronto was maid of honor and Miss Mando Pappas of Belleville was bridesmaid. They were wearing ballerina dresses of ivory organdy over matching taffeta. The maid of honor's frock was distinguished by flower applique in cocoa shade on the bodice. They wore hats of the organdy and carried bouquets of yellow 'mums.

Mr. Spiro Zakos attended the groom. The usher was George Coros, cousin of the bride.

About 200 guests at the wedding were mostly of Greek nationality and they came from Pittsburgh, Pa., Akron, Ohio, Tonawanda and Buffalo, N. Y., Tilsonburg, Toronto, Ottawa, Kingston and Belleville.

The reception was at the Club Aragon. The bride's aunt, Mrs. William Coros, received in a grey metallic cocktail suit and was wearing black accessories and a corsage of red roses. The groom's cousin, Mrs. Sam Pappas of Belleville, also received. She was attired in a black gown with underlay trim in pink, black accessories and also wore red roses.

For honeymooning at Niagara Falls the bride chose a fall gold wool suit and navy accessories and her going-away corsage was of American beauty roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Pappas will live in Belleville.

Lewis-Arnold Toronto Rites

Baskets of pink gladioli and white asters, palms and ferns made a lovely setting in Trinity United Church, Bloor St., Toronto, for the wedding Saturday evening of Bernice Arnold, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Arnold of Toronto, to John Ronald Lewis, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harold Lewis of Peterborough.

The Rev. Dr. Crossley Hunter officiated.

Wedding music was played by Miss Carol Lorimer. Before the bride entered the church, Mrs. Roy Brown sang "I Love Thee," and before the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer." During the signing of the register she sang "Where'ere You Walk."

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Bert Arnold, was charming in a gown of French imported white lace over white satin, made with square neckline, short sleeves and graceful peplum over a very full skirt with a slight train. The peplum and neckline were embroidered in tiny seed pearls. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was caught to a Juliet cap with orange blossoms. It was also embroidered with seed pearls. She wore lace gloves and carried a shower bouquet of butterfly roses, pink gladioli, baby's breath and stephanotis. Her necklace of amythests and pearls was worn by her mother at her wedding.

Matron of honor Mrs. William O'Neil, and bridesmaid Mrs. Ralph Arnold were frocked alike in mauve sheer over taffeta with shawl collars and had pleated taffeta hats and mittens to match. They carried cascades of yellow roses.

Three-year-old Anne O'Neil, daughter of the matron of honor, was flower girl and wore a pretty frock of canary yellow taffeta, with a wreath of flowers in her hair and caried a nosegay of yellow roses.

Mr. Thomas A. Milburn of Toronto, cousin of the groom, was groomsman. Ushers were Lorne Arnold of Toronto, brother of the bride; Wendell Lewis of Oshawa and John Edmison of Peterborough, cousins of the groom.

The reception was held at the Diet Kitchen tearooms on Bloor St. The bride's mother received in a gown of teal blue ticolon crepe with navy accessories and a corsage of red roses and carnations. The groom's mother wore a gown of old rose ticotina crepe with French lace, black accessories, and a corsage of pink carnations and rubrum lilies.

The bridal couple left later to spend a honeymoon at Lake Simcoe. The bride's going-away suit was of royal blue wool gabardine; her accessories were white and she had a corsage of red roses.

They will live at 22 Collahie St., Toronto, where the groom is a student at Victoria College.

Mrs. S. Whitfield expressed the members' appreciation of the talk.

Speaker was Mrs. J. Henderson of the Public Library who emphasized the importance of reading good books in children's lives. "This way they acquire education all through life" she said. "A child learns from infancy by lullabys, through nursery rhymes, children's stories and so on up."

"Good stories need humor, honesty, real people and strangeness" said Mrs. Henderson. "Magic is important in children's development and the evil fairies usually get their just reward." She said comics are popular because they are cheap, have visual appeal, action, and an endless quality, but they develop a low, literary taste.

Mrs. Hendrson also presented a very well received puppet show with the aid of other library staff members.

She was introduced by Mrs. J. Callahan and thanked by Miss E. Dix of the teaching staff.

The attendance prizes were won by the two kindergarten classes.

Mrs. F. J. Kelsey and her committee served refreshments.

If frying pan is big enough add 2 cups canned tomatoes, 2 cups canned or soaked, cooked red kidney bean, 4 celery stalks chopped, 1 teaspoon each salt, chili powder, some cayenne and black pepper. Simmer or bake 1½ hours or more if desired. Two tablespoons butter, ¼ cup catsup, 2 tablespoons chopped mushrooms, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 4 hard cooked eggs cut into quarters, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 4 slices toast and some butter and anchovy paste. This amount makes 4 generous servings. This is a good dish for Sunday "Bruch".

Raspberry Whip Cake

1 Egg white beaten, ½ cup fresh crushed raspberries, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 2-3 cup sugar, shake of salt, 1 small cake, cut in halves. Shortly before serving combine all ingredients except the cake and beat, preferably with electric beater, until stiff enough to stand in peaks. Spread quickly over 1 layer of cake, put on top layer and spread thickly over top and sides of cake. Cut into wedge-shaped pieces to serve. Double this recipe if you have to serve 12 people, and use full recipe for layer cake, spreading nearly half the mixture on bottom layer, and covering it with top layer and proceeding as above. Pickles

SWEET PICKLES (using cauliflower and cucumbers only).

Two quarts 2½-inch gherkins, 2 quarts cauliflower flowerets from two rather large cauliflowers, 1-2 cup salt, 2 quarts water, 2 quarts best quality cider vinegar, 2 lbs. sugar, 1 oz. bixed cinnamon sticks, allspice berries and whole cloves, 1 oz. each mustard and celery seeds. Prepare the vegetables by washing well; separate the cauliflower into flowerets. Dissolve the salt in the water and put the vegetables in this brine to stand overnight. In morning drain. Rinse off with clear water.

Cook the cucumbers and cauliflowers in boiling water to cover for three minutes, then rinse well with cold water. Tie the spices in a bag and boil them with the sugar and vinegar for 10 minutes.

Remove spice bag, pour vinegar syrup over the vegetables and let stand until cold. Pour off the liquid, let it come to boiling point and again pour over the vegetables, after packing them in sterile jars, to overlowing. Seal.

DILL PICKLES

Put tablespoons mustard seed and some dill in bottom of ½ gal. jar; wipe cucumbers and fill jars with layers of dill and cucumbers; then cover with hot brine made of 1 cup salt (common cooking salt—not iodized) to 14 cups boiling water. Seal and do not disturb for 2 months when they will be ready to use.

Makes 4 2-quart jars brine.

QUESTION: I read your column each day, and at present am making a collection of your lovely recipes.

However, in today's edition I have read your pickling recipes, and would appreciate it if you could send me various pickling recipes. Could you send me a recipe on how to pickle onions (sweet mixed)?

I have settled here permanently. I have come from Boston. I have no knowledge of pickling.

I would like to ask you when I seal the jars with pickled food, do I have to boil the jars in a canner for a few minutes like I do in preserving fruits and other vegetables?

ANSWER:

SWEET PICKLED ONIONS

Peel small white onions, cover with brine, allowing one and one-half cups salt to 2 quarts boiling water, and let stand two days; drain and cover with more brine, and let stand two days and again drain.

Yes, all jars must be boiled 20 minutes before being used to can pickles; this includes tops, rubbers, and rings. Watch every week for pickling recipes.

SUGAR CONSUMPTION

Canada's refined sugar consumption in 1951 was 1,33,837 pounds, of which about half was used by industry.

BUTTER PRODUCTION

Canada's 1951 output of 305,964,000 pounds of butter was the lowest in 20 years and 65,000,000 pounds below 1941's record production.

DOROTHY DIX

Soldier Refuses To Write, Should His Girl Continue?

DEAR MISS DIX: A little over a year ago I said goodbye to a soldier friend who was going overseas. We corresponded, gradually at first, then later writing quite frequently. He asked me not to write anyone else. A few months ago his letters ceased, but I kept on writing for awhile then became discouraged and stopped. I made one last try which he answered with the excuse that he had gone on a big drinking spree and was too ashamed to write me. Our correspondence was resumed, but it has now been a month since I heard from him. Should I continue writing him even though I get no response?

E. V.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The problem of correspondence with overseas servicemen looms large in the lives of many girls. In general, I suggest that unless an indication is given that the boy wishes to discontinue writing altogether, it is better for the girl to take a chance and continue newsy, friendly letters, though on a less frequent basis.

There are so many reasons why the boys might taper off a correspondence, and since letters from home are so very important to them, it is much better to risk sending mail that might not be answered than it is to let the boys down.

DON'T GET INVOLVED

It would, of course, be very unwise of you, or any other girl similarly situated, to become emotionally involved with a boy who writes so spasmodically. Regard him only as a friend, and don't expect too much of him while he's away, or build rosy dreams about a future when he returns. Boys in service need every bit of home backing they can get, but it should not be given at the risk of a girl's heartache. As a new life opens for the young men, they very often change in their feelings toward the lassies on the home front. Hence, unless a girl is engaged to, or deeply in love with, her sweetheart in service, she should not rashly promise to restrict her mail to him only. Far wiser to have a few correspondents and to wait for homecomings before settling down to a 'going steady" routine.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: For two years I went steady with a very fine boy. We broke up because we both wanted to go with other people. I know now that I like him best, and want to go back with him. Mother objects because he drinks occasionally, and he has a violent temper. He has tried to hit me when he was mad, and my mother knows it, but I'm not happy without him. Should I try to forget him (I don't think I could)? Or should I go with him secretly? I am 15.

R. A. A.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Regardless of how mature you think you look and act, you are being a very, very foolish child. This boy certainly is no fit companion for you or any other nice girl. Follow your mother's advice to the letter. Anything else will lead you into very serious trouble.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 15, living with my parents who are very good to me. I am very nervous and don't know why.

F. M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You should be under the care of a good doctor. Tell your mother frankly how you feel, and have her arrange an appointment with your family physician.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I was going steady with a boy for two months now he says he loves another girl. I don't want to let him go so easily.

S. M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: There is nothing else you can do. Accept defeat gracefully, and find another boy. There are lots of them around.

Heart Disease Worst Illness Of Our Time

DUBLIN (CP)—During a recent session of the British and Irish Medical Associations, Dr. Richard Schilling of Manchester, England, said heart disease is "the disease of our times." He urged continued research into "that most fatal of conditions" on a national, Commonwealth or world scale.

Death from heart disease from 1940 to 1949 had doubled in the age group 15-44, he said.

Dr. Donald Teare, British Home Office pathologist, discussing some 18,000 post-mortem examinations he had performed since the Second World War, told the group suicide was at the top of the list of unnatural deaths.

OTHERS ON LIST

Suicide was followed in order, he said, by road, industrial and domestic accidents. Coal gas poisoning was responsible for more than one third of the suicides.

Dr. Teare had dealt with 14 cases of men shooting themselves but none among women. Suicide by barbiturare drugs had been responsible for 220 deaths among women and 144 among men.

It was stated at the meeting that Portugal, Finland and Ireland have the highest figures for tuberculosis as percentages of total deaths at young adult ages.

The session also emphasized that in the United Kingdom cancer is on the increase and the rates for women are higher than for men.

THE WINNER—Before taking off for Bermuda, "Miss Moncton," 18-year-old Anna Malenfant, received a gardenia corsage from Stewardess Claire Jonasson. The all-expense paid trip to Bermuda was the prize for the winner of the "Miss Moncton" contest sponsored by the Moncton Men's Press Club.

THE MOVIE COLUMN:

Animals Talk Director Going Crazy

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The casting director for a forthcoming picture is going quietly batty these days. Reason: all the main players are animals, and they all talk.

The picture, "First of April," will start soon at 20th-Century Fox. Director Al Rogess a perfectly sane individual, told about the wacky movie.

BEASTLY VIEWPOINT

"It's very simple. We're doing the picture from the viewpoint of animals. In the beginning, we'll see a beautiful shot of Kentucky and hear a Damon Runyon-type character describing the scene. In a few moments, we discover who's talking. It's a dog."

There is also "Firstie," the thoroughbred horse that plays the leading role. Then there's his sweetheart a horse with a light brown mane and a tail, called Jeannie. Other speaking parts include a cat, a goat, a duck and several other horses.

One Argentine race horse speaks Spanish. He is berated by a colleague: "Here you've taken $100,000 out of this country and you can't even speak the language!"

DOG SPEAKS FRENCH

A French poodle will also be featured. Of course, the dog speaks only French, so there will be English titles on the screen.

The lip movements of the animals are especially difficult, said the director. "They can't be too exaggerated or the illusion will not be created."

There are only about four small parts for humans.

"And when they speak, it'll sound like a double-talk gibberish," said Rogell. "It makes sense that if we can't understand how animals talk, they couldn't understand us."

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Planning For A Shower Some Most Popular Ideas

A reader is asking for entertainment for a shower. This brings back memories of many hilarious evenings — and "when good fellows get together" at such a joyful event plans should be made for lots of fun. Just in case others of you have similar affairs coming up, I want to share one or two ideas on the subject—those ideas which have proven most popular.

Assembling a Bride's Book is certainly appropriate, and provides delightful diversion for the whole group. If you do this, no other games are needed, for it occupies at least an hour—more if you want it to—and then it's time for presenting the shower gifts.

The book itself is a loose-leaved hard-covered scrap book, such as you find in the variety store. Besides the book, assemble several pairs of scissors, a few pots of glue, paste or mucilage, and a high pile of old magazines with pictures in.

Make the front cover of the book pretty, ahead of time, by padding with a sheet of cotton batting, then covering with satin or interwoven ribbon brought over and sealed with Scotch tape on the inner side. Ribbons of one inch in width, blue and white or pink and white, look lovely when they form a checkerboard cover. Over this may go a sheet of cellophane to keep it all nice and clean if you wish.

Making the "innards" is the fun. The loose leaf pages are distributed among the guests, who work in pairs cutting pictures from the magazines. A little typed or printed label at the top of each page proclaims such a heading as: "Marjorie as a Baby", then the next, "Tom as a Baby", then in succession "School Days", "The Terrible Teens" (a page here for each of the engaged pair), "Their First Date", "Guests at the Wedding", "Their Family" (or "Cheaper by the Dozen"), "Twenty-five Years Later" (or "Happily Ever After"). If you have a large group introduce a few more stages in the life of the happy couple.

Aim for the ridiculous rather than the sublime. Let fancy run riot and you'll be amazed at the appropriate (and amusingly inappropriate) pictures which will find their way into the Bride's Book. The bride-to-be will prize it highly and show it off for years to come.

The Hat Contest is also good entertainment. Needed in advance are: a pile of newspapers, pins, Scotch tape, scissors, such decorative items as coloured crepe or fancy wrapping paper, paper plates or cups, odds and ends of ribbon (cloth or paper), dressmaker oddments or cuttings and trimmings, greenery from the garden and what-have-you.

Prizes (even small ones like all day suckers) for prettiest, most original and funniest hats made by each milliner-pro-tem add to the spirit of competition in this game. Set a twenty or thirty minute limit for completion of hats.

Both the Bride's Book and the Hat Contest mess up the place but it's worth it. Even where the group is not well acquainted you can count on lots of laughs with either of these as your shower fun.

When the time comes for the bride-to-be to start opening parcels you might like to read the following poem, which is the one poetic creation of my sister Doris which has braved the years. It should, of course, be read by a single girl—if you still have one of these in your midst:

HOW DID SHE DO IT?

One of our members has landed a man!
How she succeeded she should tell if she can,
For to live in a state of connubial bliss
We would all much prefer to working like this.

Did you roll your eyes? Did you wear pretty clothes?
Did you curl your hair? Did you powder your nose?
Did you act sweet and coy? Or strong and motherly?
And if that didn't work, what did you do otherly?

Did you use Blisterine? Did you duck B.O?
Was it Pepsum Salts that did it? They're good, you know.
What else did you do to make him amorous?
Did you wash your clothes in Winso to keep you glamorous?

On the sea of matrimony we would like to sail our boat,—
If you have any good pointers, be sure of them to make a note.

Perhaps a few fond tokens will help fill up your grip
And we've tucked in our good wishes for a happy lifelong trip.

Forced Far Afield To Get Site For Airport

It might be that C. B. Neal of Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Company may suspect the City Council of passing the buck and generally dodging the issue when he receives by mail a one-inch contour map of the Peterborough area.

Mr. Neal has been interested in an airport for Peterborough, and to the extent of considerable financial support from the company. However, Department of Transport surveys have indicated that potential sites are fewer than ever. In fact, there isn't any near the city, considering a radius of a few miles. One that might have provided ample room for landing strips was out over water-trough hill on Highway 28 to Port Hope.

Houses and other buildings sprang up in its vicinity without reference to airport projects. That has become a familiar story of late. Mr. Neal's letter to the finance committee last night suggested a farther scanning, even up to a radius of 20 miles.

Mayor Waddell said it might possibly be "that some suitable location has been missed in the various surveys and study of the topography." However, the Department of Transport has left the door open for further scrutiny especially if the council can find a promising location.

To inform Mr. Neal of the council's difficulty, Ald. J. E. Gillespie moved that a contour map, scaled one mile to the inch, be forwarded to Mr. Neal. And, respectfully, it was suggested that if he or any other citizen has a site that looks suitable, the council will be glad to hear about it.

The only area mentioned last night was in the Reaboro section of Victoria County, 18 miles or more from the city. It was recalled as having cropped up in discussions from time to time through the years about Peterborough's prospects of getting an airport.

MULES ON THE RUN stir up Missouri dust as they're driven from the Owen-Good ranch to waiting boxcars for shipment to Spain. It's the last exercise they'll get until they reach Madrid.

Court Dismisses Driving Charges 'Could Be Shock'

Charges of driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol and careless driving against Norman Giles, 297 Mason Ave., were dismissed in police court today.

Giles pleaded not guilty to both charges, which were laid after he collided with a car owned by Robert Creighton, 742 George St., parked on Sunset Blvd., the night of July 18.

Both O.P.P. Constable Jim Healey and Cpl. Fred Rawlings said Giles showed the usual symptoms of intoxication. They said they smelled alcohol on his breath, that he was unsteady on his feet and that his speech was not coherent. Cpl. Rawlings said Giles appeared to be "sloppy drunk."

Giles explained that he was driving east on Sunset Blvd. when an oncoming car with its headlights on high beam blinded him as it made a right hand turn to go north on a short dead end street.

FOUND 80 FEET AWAY

He said he had the alternative of hitting this car head on or turning to the right and in doing so, he struck the rear of the parked car. It was found some 80 feet away, in a field.

The car was parked in front of the home of Louis Vitarelli, and both Vitarelli and Creighton said they saw a car going north on the side street when they hurried to the front of the house after hearing the crash.

"One pint of beer is just like a cup of coffee to me," said Giles in insisting that was all he had had to drink before the accident. He said he had received injuries to his arm, chest, and one hand in the accident and that he did not remember anything after the crash, until he was in the back of a police cruiser.

Dr. William Gordon, who examined Giles a week later said his right forearm was swollen and there were discolorations on his upper abdomen, left shoulder and chest. There were also discolorations from abrasions below both knees, he said.

MIGHT BE DAZED

Dr. Gordon said it was possible that a person suffering from such injuries and shock might be dazed after an accident and act as Giles did, and not remember it afterwards.

W. J. Arthur Fair, who defended Giles, said that his client's explanation should be accepted. Magistrate W. R. Philp dismissed both charges.

In the charge of driving while impaired, the magistrate said: "The evidence could be confused with shock and the accused should be given the benefit of the doubt that certainly exists."

He said that in regard to the careless driving charge there was no reason why he should not accept Giles' explanation of how it happened and was dismissing it also.

WARY-EYED MULE is inspected by trader Ferd Owen (right) and Tim Marcellan, Spanish buyer's agent, before being shipped.

Mules Raised In Missouri Shipped To Southern Europe

By MARY C. FLYNN

BELTON, Mo. (NEA)—A mule train nearly a mile long, bound for Spain, bears out a loyal trader's conviction that the "mule is here to stay" despite modern machinery.

True to its reputation for stubbornness, the "vanishing" mule apparently refuses to be driven to extinction. Although rapidly disappearing from the American landscape, popularity on the foreign market persists.

Just as stubborn when it comes to championing the mule is Ferd Owen, known as the "Mule King of the World." He's determined to keep that faith — even if it means being a "good sport," as he puts it, by losing $100,000 in one season waiting out sale of the animals.

Currently, 415 three and four-year-old mules from the 2063-acre Owen-Good ranch near Belton are on the high seas en route to Madrid.

* * *

When the Spanish ship unloads the mules in Spain, it will return to America for 400 additional mules. More than 800 mules were delivered to the Spanish buyer in previous consignments in recent months.

EAT 100 TONS OF HAY

While at sea, the mules will consume about 100 tons of hay, which is being put aboard with them. According to Owen, the shipping expense is about $250 per mule—more than the cost of one of the animals.

Nearly 100 mules from the ranch are on the way to Israel.

All the mules will be used for farm work in the foreign countries. They are preferred because they can do work in terrain where machinery can't and for people to whom machinery either is unavailable or a financial impossibility.

Owen recently sent a large number of small mules to Greece. The purchased requested "pint-sized" but fully grown mules because they require less feed. Farmers who will receive the animals barely can raise enough food for themselves.

Office work connected with the vast enterprise of Owen and his young partners, Wendell and Leon Keen, whom he raised from childhood, is managed by Owen's wife, Bertie, and daughter, Mrs. Lela Owen Good. The women and their office assistants have turned their interests principally to a new livestock sales venture inaugurated at the ranch last year.

As for Owen, his first love still is mules.

I guess I'll always be just a mule trader at heart," he said as he adjusted his western hat and ground the tip of his stockman's cane in the dirt.

Then he added: "The women folks are good mule dealers, too, but I suppose their interest in the mule has dimished with the mule's popularity—yep, the women are mighty business-like on that score."

'Indian' Girl May Be From US Camp

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Kim, the self-designated Indian girl who was found Friday in woods near Fort Worth, may be a youngster who disappeared two months ago from a girls' camp in Connecticut.

Connecticut state police and the father of Connie Smith, who left the camp last July 16, were checking into the possibility late last night.

Connie is only 10, but is well-developed for her age and in other physical respects bears a resemblance to the girl who was found here. Kim gave her age as 18.

Peter Smith, father of Connie, called the Fort Worth Star-Telegram late last night from his ranch at Newcastle, Wyo., seeking information about the case Told about Kim's appearance, he said the resemblance was striking and he planned to check into the matter today.

Kim, who said she was a member of an Iroquois Indian tribe living on a St. Regis River island between the United States and Canada, was at home last night on the ranch of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Bowen, near Antelope, Tex.

Smith said that Connie had had an injury, and that she may be suffering from amnesia.

The St. Regis Indian agent yesterday said he had never seen or heard of the girl, who gave her proper name as Yalamulankastidanamustsa.

Labor Scourge Truman Warns

NEW YORK (AP) — President Truman told the American Federation of Labor today that plans are afoot to "make the Taft-Hartley law even more oppressive and unfair" to labor if the Republicans win in November. Labor considers the law restrictive.

In a message to the A. F. L.'s convention, the President said that "special interests are already grinding their axes for a fresh attack on labor in the event of a Republican victory."

He said he had "seen indications" that such "plans are afoot in Wall Street."

The message was read at a session at which W. Averell Harriman, Mutual Security Administrator, was introduced as "the next secretary of state" by A. F. L. President William Green.

Harriman, who at the Democratic convention in Chicago threw his delegate strength to Adlai Stevenson to help give him the nomination, has often been mentioned as a prospect for such an appointment if the democrats win.

ENDORSE STEVENSON

The A. F. L. plans to endorse a presidential candidate. This morning, a lengthy resolution to give the endorsement to Stevenson was introduced into a committee on resolutions.

"There is little doubt in my mind that a definite plot was hatched at the close of the war," Truman said, "to smash, or at least cripple our trade-union movement in a period of post-war reaction.

"This conspiracy was developed by a little group of politicians, working with the representatives of our most reactionary employers."

In the resolution proposing endorsement of Stevenson, the Republican to "crush and destroy the labor movement in America" and "to destroy the rights of the American worker."

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

By G. E. GROOMBRIDGE

Once again it is our hope to get this news in a weekly column. This is best accomplished in the receipt of a weekly word from all concerned. There will be a trophy award to the best Cub or Scout news reporter, and judges will be secured from the newspaper staff. Full details later.

LOCAL ASSOCIATION

The regular meeting of the association was held during the week and two annual events were dated. Scout Apple Day will be held on Saturday, October 18, with detail as to location of districts etc. being left in the hands of the Commissioner through the Scouters' Club.

Annual banquet will be held Saturday, October 25th, final notifications to be sent out by the secretary. There will be no paper collections in the near future owing to the low value of the paper market. This makes Apple day more vital as it is the only means now ofraising funds to carry on the work of the movement.

BRIDGENORTH SCOUT UNIT

The Cubs and Scouts started off on their fall activities last weekend with corn roasts and sports mellowed down with Marsh-mellows. A good turn-out of both units took part in the sports of rugby, soccer, swimming and tug-o-war under the leadership of Ernie Clarke, Jack Cocks and the Rev. D. P. Morris.

The Scouts will be meeting every Tuesday evening from now on and it is expected that the cubs will be meeting on Wednesdays although this matter has not been completely settled.

Two new officers have stated they will take active parts in the movement this fall, Claude Hewitt to be Assistant Cub Master and Jack Jopling Assistant Scoutmaster.

ST. JOHN'S WOLF CUB PACK

The first get-together for the season was a corn roast at the Scout grounds on Friday night. The first game called for a search of the area to find Winston Burford who carried a red ballon. Winston also had a crow caller to attract attention. Unfortunately, Ross Reid, in capturing him, fell on a rock and cut his knee. After first aid was rendered, Skipper Groombridge took him to Civic hospital and several stitches were required to close the cut. Ross, with true cub spirit returned to the corn roast .

After toasting marshmallows, devourinng corn and drinking pop the pack enjoyed a story which was told by Mr. Trueman.

Parents assisted the Group Committee in providing transportation.

Regular meetings for the Pack will be held at 7.00 p.m. Friday evenings.

THE REV. W. E. KIBBLEWHITE ROVER SCOUT CREW

In June Dave Hatton assisted Mr. Ed Potter in taking Knox Pack on a hike to the Peterborough Campsite, and on a weiner roast the following week. In the same month, Ken White, and Dave Hatton performed a similar service to the 4th Peterborough Cub Pack.

Trinity Pack asked Dave Hatton and Ron Hatton to lead their first Council Fire during their weekend Camp Both lads were pleased to be able to do so.

Len Foskett, Dave Hatton, and Ken White offered their services to the 17th Peterborough Group to help in any way at their annual Scout, Guide, Cub, and Brownie Picnic which was held at the cottage of Scouter and Captain Woods on Pigeon Lake. The Cocuncil Fire was lead again this year by Dave Hatton.

Two of the Rovers, Len Foskett and Dave Hatton, served as assistants to Akela Harry Wooden (also a Rover) during the 5th Peterborough Cub Camp during the 1st of July holiday week-end.

The Crew was asked, and accepted the request of the Peterborough and District Scouters Club to take charge of the Scouters Club picnic at Sandy Lake on the grounds of Dr. G. R. Langley's cottage, Although the picnic was not as well attended as it should have been, those who did attend all seemed to have a good time.

I might say that the crew was pleased to have been asked to offer their services in all of the above events. They gave us another opportunity to put our motto "Service" into reality. I might also say that the crew is very pleased that Scouting in Peterborough is beginning to recognise the value of Rovering.

In addition to the above, Ron Hatton, who also holds the rank of A.S.M. of the 17th Peterborough Group, has been holding a Bronze Arrowhead Course for P.L.s and the Assistant P.L.s in that troop.

The 13th Ontario Rover Scout Moot was held this year at the Windsor District Scout Camp which is about 40 miles this side of Windsor at a small town called Wheatley. The Moot was held on Saturday, Sunday and Monday, August 30, 31 and September 1.

The Rev. W. E. Kibblewhite Rover Scout Crew was very well represented at this year's Moot. Those who attended were: Skipper Art Rose (the Squire with the "K"), Assistant Rover Leader Doug Harris, Assistant Rover Mate Dave Hatton, Rovers Len Wall, Len Foskett, Ken White, Harry Wooden, and Kel Johnson, Squires Ron Hatton, Dan Barclay and Roly Brier, and our two drivers, John Collitt and A. D. C. Earl Westman.

At this Moot, the crew gained one more Invested Rover. On Saturday evening, August 30, Kelvin Johnson was elevated from a Squire, and invested as a Rover Scout, in the presence of the other invested Rovers of the crew. Congratulations, Kelvin, from the entire crew.

A. D. C. Earl Westman, John Collitt and Doug Harris supplied their cars and their services.

At the crew's first official meeting, it was decided that the crew would send two Rovers to the World Rover Scout Moot in Switzerland in 1953. This undertaking is going to cost the crew a considerable amount of money, but we feel that it is not beyond our reach with lots of hard work by the crew from now on until next Summer.

Peterborough has always been represented at any of the World Rover Scout Moots in the past, and we feel that we have an obligation to crew tradition to see that this tradition is not broken.

The crew will decide who will go by a popular vote next January. One of the requirements of the World Moot is that everyone who attends must be an invested Rover. By leaving the voting to January, all the members who are now in the crew should be invested, thereby giving each one an equal chance of being chosen to go.

Building Spurt

SASKATOON (CP)—Saskatoon's first important apartment block in the last 24 years is under construction. The owner of the $200,000 project plans to build two similar blocks later.

Clerk, Engineer Named To Attend Dinner

City Clerk Outram, City Engineer Chalmers and Assessment Commissioner J. E. Davis were authorized by the finance committee of the council Monday to attend the dinner at the Empress Wednesday night which has been arranged by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

Hubert Sills of city planning committee was also named with the department heads. Tickets for the steak dinner are $2.50. One of the subjects to be discussed by Raymond Card, Toronto, architect with the Corporation, will be the Queen Elizabeth subdivision.

It was suggested that Mayor Waddell, Aldermen Rehill and Longhurst should attend from the council, but with the other members they have an invitation to the party which Warden R. R. Stewart is giving at his home in Otonabee.

Contractors and builders, bankers and heads of lending institutions are among those who have received invitations to the Housing Corporation affair, plans of which have been carried out by John Wocker.

Order 22 Church Branches To Be Closed In Italy

ROME (AP) — The Church of Christ yesterday was ordered by the government to shut its 22 branches in Italy until it got official permission to operate. Government officials said such permission might take years to obtain.

The order drew quick fire from a Church of Christ spokesman who said the church would fight the ban in the courts as unconstitutional.

The State Department in Washington said it has asked the U.S. Embassy here for a full report on the action of Italian police in barring the Church of Christ from holding regular Sunday services.

AGGRESSIVE EVANGELISM

Informed sources say they believe the difficulties of the church, which has gained about 1,000 converts in Italy since the war, spring from its aggressive evangelism in winning over Roman Catholics.

On Sunday, police prevented services at the Church of Christ at Rome and two Sundays ago they closed the church at Alessandria in Northern Italy.

"Pending a decision of the Ministry of Interior all the cult's Churches will have to remain closed," Dr. Roberto Poppi, chief of cabinet for the Rome police prefecture, said last night.

Poppi said that Cline R. Paden of Brownfield, Tex., head of the Church of Christ in Italy, earlier today applied for authority to operate the churches.

Naturally some time will elapse before the Ministry of Interior can decide whether the cult can hold meetings in Italy," he said.

MIGHT TAKE YEARS

Carl Mitchell of Los Angeles, a Church of Christ representative, said Poppi told a church delegation that granting of permission "is a very involved process — it might take years."

The Church of Christ previously had said that it applied last week for authorization to hold services.

Dr. Poppi said that application was only for Church of Christ ministers to be recognized as "ministers of a cult," not for services.

All religions other than Roman Catholic are officially classifed as cults in Italy. Less than one per cent of the Italian population is Protestant.

Church of Christ officials declared they would immediately make all legal applications the Italian authorities request and at the same time will start court action.

Gore's Landing News

The heat wave brought out the tourist trade again over the week-end with plenty of fishermen and other people seeking a cool spot.

Bill Meggs was in Toronto for several days' holiday this past week, returning on Saturday.

Miss Ruby Harris drove to Wilkes Barre, Penna., on Friday with her sister Shirley, for a visit.

The Rev. Leonard and Mrs. Smith have closed their summer home and returned to Thomaston, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Westheuser, and family, Toronto, spent the weekend at their cottage.

Mrs. T. D. McGaw, Cobourg, is spending part of this month at her cottage "Kittiwake."

Will Sign Treaty When Get Good Terms

TOKYO (Reuters)—Japan is ready to conclude a peace treaty with Russia any time as long as the terms are the same as or better than the San Francisco treaty, a Foreign Office spokesman said today.

Spokesman Masayoshi Kakitsubo was commenting on the Chinese-Moscow radio early today, under which Russian troops are to remain in China until Japan signs a treaty with the two Communist countries.

The spokesman said "we have never refused to sign a treaty with Russia because Russia has never asked us to sign one."

Two Prisoners Shoot Deputy US Marshal

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Two prisoners fatally shot a deputy U.S. marshal in downtown Tucson yesterday and escaped, but they were recaptured 30 minutes later.

Edmund L. Schweppe, the Marshal, had taken the pair to a dentist's office for treatment.

Schweppe was shot in the back with his own revolver, apparently after he removed handcuffs joining the men.

The prisoners, Arthur Eugene Fuller, 27, and Thomas W. Abbott, 20, had been held in Pima county jail on charges of transporting a stolen automobile across state lines.

Fined On Liquor Counts

Two women pleaded guilty to liquor charges in police court today.

Mabel Ainsworth, 418 Wellington St., admitted drinking while on the interdicted list, and agreed she had been convicted of the same offence last March. She was sentenced to two months in the county jail.

Dorothy White, 60 Victoria Ave., pleaded guilty to being drunk and was fined $10 and $2.50 costs, or ten days in jail.

Tobin Says Hartley Law Slow Death For Labor

NEW YORK (AP)—Labor Secretary Maurice H. Tobin told the American Federation of Labor today that the Taft-Hartley law means slow death for the labor movement.

The law, he said in an address to the A. F. L.'s 71st annual convention, has slowed organized labor's membership gains tremendously and has become "a matter of life or death for the American labor movement."

The controversial Taft-Hartley law provides for anti-strike injunctions, a ban on the closed shop and other controls considered repressive by organized labor.

Tobin's speech was one of three major addresses scheduled during the day.

EISENHOWER ATTACKED

W. Averell Harriman, the Mutual Security Administrator, attacked Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower sharply for "the bold implication that he and the other leaders of his (Republican) party have been so far-sighted that they never had any illusions about Soviet aggression."

Harriman added:

"In November, 1945, General Eisenhower testified before a committee of the Congress. He was asked what he thought about Russia as a potential aggressor and he answered: 'Russia has not the slightest thing to gain by a struggle with the United States. There is not one thing, I believe, that guides the policy of Russia more today than to keep friendship with the U. S.'"

The federal Security Administrator, Oscar R. Ewing, also called for repeal of the Taft-Hartley law, and he cited what he viewed as gains under Democratic administrations.

He also suggested a boost in the 75-cent-hourly minimum wage set by federal law.

LABOR UNITY URGED

As the 800 delegates representing 8,000,000 A. F. L. members moved into their second day's session, they met against a background of pleas for labor unity from A. F. L. President William Green and John L. Lewis.

Green yesterday urged that the C. I. O. and Lewis' United Mine Workers, independent union, return to the fold of the A. F. L.

"Let it be one labor movement in America," he urged.

Lewis soon answered from Washington. He urged that all union labor leaders meet soon to draw up a formula for immediate unity.

Two Resolutions Fail To Pass T. J. Carley Says

Most important problems dealt with at the recent Canadian Bar Association convention in Vancouver were contempt of court and divorce laws, said T. J. Carley, Q.C., who has returned from a holiday in the West.

The ill-fated resolution urging the liberalization of divorce laws would have been the most important single matter had it ever been approved. However, said Mr. Carley, it was not approved.

As the divorce law resolution failed, the two outstanding points discussed—from the public's point of view—were contempt of court and the appointment of judges.

While the appointment of judges was an important matter, Mr. Carley said he felt the association achieved little with its resolution. Purpose was to keep politics out of the appointment of the judiciary.

Justice Minister Garson, who was present at the convention, said he had heard many times what excellent judges and justices were being appointed to the various courts. The association's resolution was tinged with hypocrisy he suggested good humoredly, when they asked that a new method of choosing judges be used.

As a result, the resolution boiled down to a strong urging that political affiliations be kept out of judges' appointments.

CONTEMPT OF COURT

Contempt of court proceedings — two of which against newspapers have become well known —were another quite important point on the agenda.

Argument at the convention, said Mr. Carley, centred on the point that there was an appeal from a contempt of court penalty. It was recognized that a judge needed the power given him to treat with disrespect of the court, but it was felt that there should be an appeal, as from all criminal and civil proceedings.

Speakers of interest at the convention included Sir John Morris of the British Court of Appeals and Sir Godfrey Vick, a well-known U. K. barrister.

During the convention, there was a presentation of degrees to Maj.-Gen. Clark, head of the Canadian Bar Association, the president of the U. S. Bar Association, and to both Sir John and Sir Godfrey. Sir John Morris made the speech of acceptance on behalf of the group.

When the convention concluded, said Mr. Carley, he and his wife travelled south to Seattle, then returned to Canada and eventually to Peterborough.

A Little Saving

WASHINGTON (AP)—The average United States family saved $200 in 1950 rather than spending $400 more than it earned, as reported recently, a congressional economic committee said yesterday. The group released a memorandum saying that recent publicity about the average family going into debt or using up savings resulted from "a misunderstanding of data."

Canadian Brigade Said Highly Trained

LONDON (CP)—The Times, in its leading editorial today, says of Canada's 27th Infantry Brigade in Germany: "The Canadians, who arrived virtually untrained barely a year ago, are known to have attained a high standard of individual training."

The reference occurred in an editorial on current Allied training exercises, principally exercise "Hold Fast" in which, the Times said, the Canadians "will have an opportunity of showing their mettle in really large-scale movements under active-service conditions."

Exercise "Hold Fast," land and air counterpart of the naval exercise "Mainbrace," started last night.

Mr. Bird, who served with the Canadian Army in France and in Germany, and who has been in poor health since, died suddenly Saturday evening in his car a few rods from his home in this village, death being caused by a severe hemorrhage.

He was born in Manvers township a son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Bird of Fleetwood. Besides his widow, and his parents, he leaves two sisters, Mrs. Lewis Cook (Jean), of Bridgeport, Ont., and Mrs. Stafford Hennessey (Muriel) of Omemee; and one brother Maurice at home.

Burial was in Emily cemetery.

Par-Breaking Canadian Dollar Gives Exporters Big Headache

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The par-busting Canadian dollar, while it may fill the average Canuck with a sense of national pride, is giving one group of Canadians a financial headache.

They are the manufacturing exporters, the men whose firms need a solid share of export sales as well as the domestic market to keep them in a state of financial good health.

They have found that an above-par Canadian dollar—at a premium of four or five per cent—puts them at a serious disadvantage in the export market. It means that the price of their goods rises by four or five per cent abroad. This, in turn, makes it more difficult to sell Canadian goods abroad.

The problem was pointed up last week when the board of directors of the Canadian Exporters Association met in Montreal to map the agenda for their annual convention late in October.

Alex Gray of Toronto, association president, said later that it is one of the issues to be discussed.

TOP ISSUE

It will come up on a recommendation asking the convention to examine ways and means "of overcoming the present competitive disadvantage facing Canadian exporters today in trying to sell abroad with our dollar at a premium of four or five cents over the American dollar."

There are a couple of things the country's traders could do to meet the problem.

They could, for example, ask the government to control the dollar, bring it back to parity and hold it there. But the exporters don't want government control. They were at the forefront of those urging the government to decontrol the dollar after the war. To ask control now, they say, would reverse their traditional stand against government interference with private trade.

They also could cut their selling prices abroad, but that would cut into their profits and into their ability to provide employment for Canadians at home.

NOT TOO SERIOUS

Privately, some exporters say the situation isn't as bad as it appears on the surface. They point out that there is hardly a Canadian manufacturing exporter of any consequence who does not import components or other materials from the United States.

With the dollar at a premium, those components cost the manufacturer four or five per cent less. That reduces his disadvantage on export sales and trims his loss, in some cases, to as little as two per cent.

It isn't expected that the exporters will adopt any specific recommendations at their convention. Most of them expect that the situation will right itself, and the Canadian dollar recede closer to parity, when American demand for Canadian investment slackens and tourist traffic wanes.

Believe Republicans Have Edge In Mountain States

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP)—The mountain and western states, almost as solidly Democratic as the South in presidential elections over the last 20 years, now are regarded by editors and correspondents as leaning Republican, but still a 1952 toss-up.

An Associated Press survey, based upon individual country estates by editors and political writers in each state, indicates their combined opinion is that only one of the 11 states could be considered reasonably safe for the Democrats if the election were held now. The Democrats captured 10 of the 11 in 1948.

ON DOUBTFUL LIST

If present trends hold good through Nov. 4—and many of the states still must be kept on the doubtful list—the newspaper men say the 79 electoral votes of the mountain and western states should line up this way behind the presidential nominees:

For Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower: California 32, Oregon 6, Washington 9, Idaho 4, Utah 4, New Mexico 4, Montana 4, Nevada 3, Wyoming 3; Total 69.

For Democrat Adlai Stevenson: Arizona 4.

Undecided Colorado 6.

(Under the U.S. system, each state has a number of electoral votes equal to the number of representatives and Senators it has in Congress. If one presidential candidate carries the state by even the smallest popular-vote margin, he gets all that state's electoral votes.)

A.P. surveys of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland and Delaware, released yesterday, indicate that editors and political writers hold a composite belief that if the people were voting today the 105 electoral ballots of those five states would go to Eisenhower by a narrow margin.

The eastern votes, plus 69 from the west, would give the Republican nominee 174 of the 266 needed to clinch a victory.

But in the west, as in the east, even a slight shifting of the political winds could blow almost any state in an entirely different direction by the time Nov. 4 rolls around.

The views of editors and correspondents in the mountain and western region add up to an opinion that most of the states are so close at this point as to be very much in doubt. A majority of the participating newspapers which have taken a stand are backing Eisenhower for the presidency.

PERSONAL POPULARITY

The west has a consistent record of voting Democratic in every presidential election from 1932 on. Oregon was the only one of the 11 states to go Republican four years ago.

All the mountain and western states except Montana now have Republican governors. The currents thus reflected, editors and political appraisers say, may lead this year to a swing of many of their home states into the Republican camp.

Editors report that the principal reason is a widespread feeling among the people that it's time for a change. They speak also of "too much Trumanism;" dissatisfaction with inflation, high taxes, foreign policy, war in Korea; "corruption and Communism in government." To a much lesser degree than in the middle Atlantic states is there mention of Eisenhower's personal popularity as a campaign factor.

Trans-Canada Highway Lagging Behind Target

OTTAWA (CP)—The Trans-Canada Highway is emerging as a distinctive $300,000,000 national artery but unless work is speeded it won't be completed by the 1956 target date, Resources Minister Winters said yesterday.

The minister said 389 miles of new highway have been completed to agreed specifications. And though he expected next year's progress to be greater, the present rate of construction would not permit completion before Dec. 9, 1956, when the legislative authority for federal participation ends.

The minister was speaking to the opening meeting of the second federal-provincial highway engineers' conference. The conference, designed to achieve a basis for uniformity in all phases of planning, design and construction, will plan the work to be done next year.

NOT PRESSED

The minister told the conference that because of defence and other pressures on the construction industry, provinces signing the highway agreement — all but Quebec —have not been pressed to maintain a schedule.

At this time last year total contractual commitments in all signing provinces was $55,000,000. This now has increased to more than $79,000,000. In 1951 there were 952 miles of road under construction; now there are more than 1,300. Last year there were 398 miles of paving under way; this has been extended to more than 500.

Civil War In Indo-China Reached Stalemate

Red Strength 300,000 Men

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SAIGON, Indo-China (CP)—At this moment, neither side is winning the crucial civil war in Indo-China.

French and their anti-Communist Viet Namese allies claim they are getting the upper hand. Their situation seems a little better than a year ago.

But neutral observers say the civil war has reached a temporary stalemate.

They maintain the French will never clear Indo-China of the Communist-led Vietminh unless political factors change abruptly. Equally, Vietminh chances of driving the French from Indo-China before they want to go are nil.

WAR EVERYWHERE

This isn't a war in which you can put your finger on the enemy. War is everywhere.

There isn't a "safe" place in Indo-China, except for large cities like Saigon, Hanoi, Haiphong and Hue along the bulging eastern coast and a few areas where Vietminh activity is sporadic.

French and Viet Namese say they can go anywhere safely. So they can—if they travel by day, in convoy, along roads guarded by blockhouses less than a mile apart. Two hundred yards off the roads death lurks constantly.

And by night most of Indo-China, including all of the independent state of Viet Nam which skirts the South China Sea from Red China to Indo-China's southern tip, is in the hands of the Vietminh.

Traffic stops. Roads must be swept each morning for Vietminh mines. In villages a stone's-throw from the blockhouses the Vietminh hold Communist meetings, collect taxes, recruit men for their army and women porters for their military supply trains.

VIETMINH STRENGTH

The Red-organized Vietminh army is estimated to exceed 300,000 men.

Against them are 600,000 French and Viet Namese troops. The government of France pours half its annual military budget into the war. For six years it has made life turmoil for the 30,000,000 population of Viet Nam and of Cambodia and Laos, the other two associated states of Indo-China.

The country was Japanese during the Second World War. When the Japanese were beaten in 1945, Communist leader Ho-Chi-Minh seized power with the help of a nationalist clique.

For a year the returning French administration dealt with "Uncle Ho," negotiating a form of independence for the agricultural country, promising to withdraw completely in due course. But Ho denounced the French, announced formation of a Communist "People's Republic of Indo-China," and rallied the country's nationalists in an outright war for independence.

MAINLY NATIONALISTS

French officials concede that even now, when it is clear Ho's aim is to set up a Communist state in addition to ejecting the French, two-thirds of his soldiers are not Communists but nationalists who think force is the best way to gain independence.

If Ho succeeds, world communism will have a new bastion against India, Pakistan, Burma and Thailand to the west, Japan and the United States to the east.

But as long as France maintains her influence in Indo-China, southeast Asia can retain some semblance of stability.

That is why France and the United States are pouring billions of dollars into Indo-China to bolster the anti-Communist Viet Namese.

FIGHTING IN MOUNTAINS

Neither side so far has managed to "pacify" the country.

In the Tonkin Mountains and marshes along the China border, French and Viet Namese mobile groups of brigade strength are trying to cordon off 120,000 Vietminh troops grouped in six regular divisions. ➡

In the central coast area and Cochin-China district of the extreme south, the Vietminh have perhaps 170,000 men. Along the coast they wage heavy attacks, seize French and Viet Namese posts and inflict heavy casualties. In Cochin-China their operations are along guerrilla lines.

In Laos and Cambodia, where the French hold is strongest and the population more prosperous and less congested, 15,000 Vietminh can conduct only sporadic raids.

But throughout Viet Nam, the Vietminh have the political advantage.

WORK IN OPEN

Their network through Indo-China can work almost openly without fear of disclosure to the local military authorities. The peasants, who have suffered from both sides, will not compromise themselves until order is established.

Most of the popular leaders, and most of the country's small educated group, are with the Vietminh. Many have deserted but nevertheless the Vietminh take no part in the anti-Communist campaign because, they say, there is no real independence in Indo-China and the present associated states are just French puppets.

So the military stalemate continues. The Vietminh, a strong minority, hold at bay the cream of the French army which is fortified by thousands of tons monthly of United States ground and air weapons and ammunition.

The principal victim is the small native farmer in his rice paddy.

THREATEN HOMELAND — Homeland of this attractive Indo-Chinese girl is troubled by civil war, as Communist-led Vietminh guerillas try to gain control of the country. She wears the fetching costume peculiar to the women of Indo-China. It consits of a silk coat, fitted with tight bodice, slit at the waist, and ankle-length. Beneath are worn silk bell-bottom trousers.

CIVIL WAR RAGES—There isn't a "safe" place in war-torn Indo-China, except for large cities like Saigon, Hanoi, Haiphong and Hue along the bulging eastern coast and a few areas where Communist-led Vietminh activity is sporadic. The political fate of Southeast Asia may be decided in the rice paddies of Indo-China where a Chinese-trained Red army is trying to eject the French and push the Iron Curtain 900 miles toward Singapore.

TONKIN DELTA—French tank troops wait for infantry to flush out a pocket of Communist-led Vietminh infantry in the Tonkin Delta in Indo-China. Neutral observers say the civil war has reached a stalemate. The Red-organized Vietminh army is estimated to exceed 300,000 men. Against them are 600,000 French and anti-Communist Viet Namese.

Man Falls Into N.Y. River Thought He Was In Heaven

NEW YORK (AP)—A man fell into the East River yesterday, and two hours later bobbed back up on the surface with this comment: "I thought I was in Heaven down there."

Several persons saw the man topple off a Manhattan parapet into the river. For two hours police combed the water with grappling hooks, searching for the body.

Then suddenly, the victim, later identified as Randy J. Petterson, 20, a Negro, rose to the surface, thrashing his arms wildly, and yeiling "Help! Help!"

Lifted aboard the launch, he said: "It was pitch black down there. I thought I was dead. I thought I was in Heaven."

Police finally figured it out: Petterson, by a frank accident, had plunged into the water through a hole in the river wall into an inky-dark compartment of riverside pilings. He clung to a piling, until the lowering tide revealed light through the hole, and then crawled back through it to the river.

Labor Income Hits 5-Billion Mark

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian labor income reached $5,150,000,000 in the first half of this year and most of the increase was due to higher average earnings.

A record labor income of $889,000,000 in June—the highest monthly total in Canadian labor history—sent the six-month total to its new high, the Bureau of Statistics reported yesterday.

The $5,150,000,000 half-yearly figure compared with $4,584,000,000 in the January-June period of 1951, a rise of 12 per cent.

U.S. Asks Tito To Allow Plane Base

BELGRADE (AP)—U.S. Vice-Admiral J. H. Cassady has asked Premier Tito for permission to base U. S. air force planes in Yugoslavia, a responsible source said yesterday. The informant said the request was made informally during a meeting aboard the U.S. aircraft carrier Coral Sea last week.

Cassady, commander-in-chief of the U. S. Mediterranean sixth fleet, also asked Tito for greater co-operation in the joint defence of southeastern Europe.

The informant said these two main suggestions were made:

1. That American fliers be permitted to operate over Yugoslav soil and use its bases to become acquainted with the terrain in the event of war.

2. That the Yugoslav navy join the Atlantic fleet in joint manoeuvres in the Adriatic.

During the briefing, Cassady showed Tito a blueprint of the U. S. navy's ability to strike swiftly by air against strategic targets in Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria, should the Soviet satellites attack Yugoslavia.

A State Department spokesman said in Washington the United States government has made no formal request to Yugoslavia for permission to base U. S. planes there. The spokesman added that he did not know what informal request Admiral Cassady might have made.

Australia Soon To Have 125,000 Men Ready Serve Overseas

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Australia soon shall have armed forces of some 125,000 men for overseas service, ready to go anywhere to any part of the world in event of war.

This is the manpower objective of Australia's three-year defence program, now in its third year.

When the program is completed, Australia shall have in the three services the numerical equivalent to 10 infantry divisions, volunteered to serve overseas.

The defence program provides the following target forces for service abroad: Navy—27,000, Army—63,000, Air Force—43,000.

Latest surveys of the three forces indicate that about 90,000 men for overseas service already are available.

MONEY SHORTAGE

Shortage of money will result in some contraction in the final states of the defence program and shortages of equipment may impose even greater restrictions, but the government is moving steadily toward completion of one of the most effective peacetime naval forces Australia has had.

Its nucleus will be a carrier force of seven ships, comprising two light fleet aircraft carriers with protective force of a cruiser and four destroyers.

The army program is by far the largest and most costly ever envisaged in Australia. The permanent army is based on a field force of two independent brigade groups, each of three infantry battalions, one of which will be available for immediate service as a mobile striking force. These two units comprise 11,500 officers and men.

CITIZEN FORCES

The citizen forces, which, with national service trainees, will number 130,000, will provide two infantry divisions, two independent armored brigade groups and other specialized corps.

The government is building up vision for rapid expansion for war service.

The air force will be divided into a home defence force of eight squadrons and a task force of nine squadrons available at short notice for overseas service.

The federal government estimates the total cost of this program will be at least $125,216,000.

Asks Egyptians 6-Months Trial

CAIRO (Reuters) — Premier asked Egyptians for six months to carry out his program of social and economic reforms.

At the end of that time the people will be able to judge his strong-man government for themselves. He has promised elections for next February.

"What we have done is only the first phase of our movement," he said at a public meeting.

"The other steps need your co-operation and patience. Give us a chance to work for six months."

Two major projects he has embarked upon are a redistribution of land among the peasants and formulation of a definite line in foreign policy.

Give $19,951 Grants For Research Work

OTTAWA (CP)—The Mines Department announced yesterday it has awarded grants worth $19,951 to a number of research workers to help them make various geological studies in Canadian universities in 1952-53. The awards, designed to stimulate and support geological research in the universities, went to 16 persons, including L. G. Berry and J. E. Hawley of Queen's university.

BOYD GANG CAPTURED

BACK IN JAIL after eight days of freedom, the four members of the Boyd gang are seen in the jail cells of the North York township police station after their bloodless capture Tuesday evening in the township. The men escaped from the Don Jail a week ago Monday. Looking not too happy to be behind bars again are (left to right) Edwin Alonzo Boyd, alleged leader of the gang; Leonard Jackson, William Jackson and Steve Suchan.—(CP Photo) (See other picture and stories on Page 2.)

POLICE SURPRISE THEM IN BARN
4 SURRENDER WITHOUT SHOT

TORONTO (CP)—Edwin Alonzo Boyd, Canada's Public Enemy No. 1, surrendered meekly with his henchmen to two suburban detectives last night. It ended the greatest criminal manhunt in the Dominion's history. The four men who startled the country with their break from Toronto's Don Jail eight days ago and set off a "shoot to kill" police search gave in without a battle, shaking with fear, one of them muttering "Don't shoot." Had the gangsters elected to shoot it out with the officers, the two unsuspecting men surely would have been cut down in the initial blast as they approached the barn. But this time the bandits were caught off balance.

They did not hear the policemen approach on foot. A bulldozer, used in construction work, was blocking the laneway leading to the barn, and so the officers left their car and went on foot.

Boyd, Steve Suchan and William and Leonard Jackson were hustled in handcuffs from their hideout on an abandoned farm near Toronto and thrust for the night into cells in North York police station pending their return to the very cells in Don Jail from which they made their break.

The full story of their nine days as fugitives may never be completely known. After their capture they talked freely to police officials and Maj. John Foote, Ontario's minister of reform institutions, who instituted a complete probe of the Don Jail following the escape.

Stories Given To Police Conflict Greatly

But police and Maj. Foote said their stories conflicted in many places, and some of it was hard to believe. They said that 5 a.m. was the hour they left the jail Sept. 8, and that they spent the day working their way up the wooded Don Valley on foot. They waited for darkness before attempting to cross any of the highways between them and the abandoned farm which became their hideout.

They said Leonard Jackson, who managed two jail breaks despite a missing foot amputated in a railway accident some years ago, became separated from the others the first night. He showed up at the barn rendezvous the next day.

It was believed he left the others to pick up a spare artificial foot. The one he escaped with the first time was taken from him after his second arrest last March. Last night the second one was taken away.

One of the big mysteries still unsolved was how they made their break 10 days ago. They claimed last night that they memorized details of their cell key by watching guards use it, then made a replica out of an old shoe horn and a tin cup.

Believe Guard Implicated In Jail Break

Little credence was placed in this. The official belief is they were handed a key or pattern by a guard not now on the jail staff. The guards on duty at the time of the break have been suspended pending a royal commission investigation, scheduled to open this afternoon.

Despite the fact that their capture came at the end of a day of intensified police activity following a highway gun battle in the morning, police officials credited routine, plodding investigation with putting the gang back behind bars.

At 6 p.m. Detective-Sergeant Maurice Richardson of the North York police and his partner, Detective Bert Trotter, started their tour of duty in the suburb north of Toronto. For hours police cruisers had roared along the highways in the area surrounding the city, seeking the men who exchanged shots with Constable Andre Ouellette of the Scarboro force, put five bullets in his car and forced it into a ditch.

Oullette, not wounded by the bullets but hurt in the crash, said he was sure the men in the car were from the Boyd gang. He had chased the car when he noticed its licence plates had been bent to obscure the figures. Scarboro police said they were convinced the gang, whose members have been charged with numerous bank robberies, were out to hold up another.

Use Helicopter As Manhunt Pressed

The manhunt, which had gone for nine days without a definite lead, reached its peak as the day wore on. A helicopter hovered over the search area east and north of the city, carrying as a passenger a policeman with a machine-gun.

But the job given Trotter and Richardson seemed to promise little excitement. It was part of a continuing check of empty buildings and an abandoned farm in the Oriole district about 15 miles northeast of downtown Toronto seemed the same as many others they had visited in the last few days.

But this time the routine work paid off. The officers approached the empty barn over open fields for 500 yards, armed only with their regulation revolvers. Trotter told the story this way: "At the main doors to the barn I stopped before we pulled them open. Through a crack in the wood I glimpsed a man standing. I knew then the gang was inside. I took my gun out and levelled it through the crack in the doors at the standing man. Then I pulled the doors open and we stepped inside. 'The first one that moves gets it,' I shouted."

Gang Members Not So Tough Now

They didn't move. There was nothing tough about the men as they looked up and saw guns levelled at them. Richardson said: "Willie and Lennie, the Jacksons, were shivering with fright and one of them mumbled: 'Don't shoot, don't shoot'."

There were only three of the gang in the barn at the time. The two detectives handcuffed them and marched them out at gunpoint. Suchan, outside when the officers arrived, was flushed out of a hiding place in the loft a few minutes later by Constable Ernie Sothern, who said: "I kept the gun on him and told him if he made a move I'd blow his bloody head off. He didn't make a move." That was the end of the Boyd gang's break for freedom.

Besides the bank robbery and jail break charges, two of them—Suchan and Leonard Jackson, who is not related to William—are charged with the murder of Detective-Sergeant Edmund Tong of the Toronto force.

Rewards totalling $26,000 were offered for their capture after the second Don break-out. All but Suchan had broken out of the same jail last November.

Policemen Can't Claim Capture Award

But it is believed the reward will go unclaimed. Policemen are not allowed to accept them and police officials said last night the capture was due to routine work, and did not result from a tip to police.

Immediate Trial Slated For 2 Bandits

TORONTO (CP)—Less than 24 hours after their capture, Steve Suchan and Leonard Jackson were scheduled to go on trial today for the murder last March of Detective Sergeant Edmund Tong.

The two were due to appear in court at 2 p.m. E.D.T. They also also are charged with the attempted murder of Detective Roy Perry.

Boyd and William Jackson may possibly be tried next Monday on bank robbery charges.

CLAIMS REWARD

Meanwhile Gordon Beauchamp, 37-year-old owner of a small grocery store near the gang hideout, today laid first claim to the $26,000 reward money posted for information leading to the capture of the missing four.

He said today that he called North York police at 6 p.m., yesterday to inform them of his suspicions that the quartet had sought shelter on the nearby farm.

He said that 10 minutes later Detective Bert Trotter, one of the officers who made the arrest and an acquaintance of Beauchamp's, came to the store to find out where the farm was located.

The grocery store owner said two men working on the pipeline which runs through the farm entered his shop shortly before 6 p.m.

SUSPICIOUS OF MEN

"I was kidding with them and asked whether they had caught Boyd," said Mr. Beauchamp. "It was then they got suspicious about the two men they had seen hanging about the farm where they were working."

"I don't know whether they called police or not," he said. "But I decided it was worth a call."

Last night Edwin Boyd told newspaper reporters that he would "saw my way out again if I'm in there (Don jail) another month."

Constable Ray Genoe said Leonard Jackson asked to be shot after his capture rather than return to face trial for murder.

"I kept telling him shooting was too good for him, but he kept saying 'why won't you shoot me?'" said Constable Gnoe.

Woman Driver From Cobourg Dies In Crash

GORMLEY — Mrs. Clara Bates 66, of Cobourg, was fatally injured Tuesday when her automobile collided with another on the Don Mills Road carrying six Newmarket women to a bowling tournament in Stouffville.

The six women were treated at York County Hospital in Newmarket for cuts and bruises to the face, arms and legs. They were: Mrs. Jack Booth, Mrs. Ronald Watt, Mrs. C. F. Willis, Mrs. James Sloss, Mrs. J. B. McNabb, and Mrs. Norman Hopper.

Provincial Police said that Mrs. Booth was driving south and lost control of the wheel one-quarter mile north of the intersection of the Stouffville sideroad, two miles east of Gormley. It was raining at the time.

THROWN OUT

Mrs. Bates, alone in her car, was thrown out the right hand door of her northbound auto by the impact as the other auto crashed into the driver's side.

Two of the injured women in the other auto were treated at a nearby farmhouse by a Richmond Hill doctor.

Constable Charles Case and Clare St. John of the Vandorf detachment of the O.P.P., were called from the Markham Township search for the Don Jail escapees to investigate the accident.

A tow truck sent out to remove the damaged autos also went out of control on the rain-swept highway, four miles south of Aurora, and overturned. The driver, Hugh Middleton of Aurora, was not injured.

Mrs. Bates operated a tobacco shop and poolroom in Cobourg for some time after the death of her husband, S. J. Bates, who died 11 years ago.

She is survived by two sons and two daughters, Mrs. Frank Norwood, Toronto, Mrs. Ralph Moore and Clifford of Cobourg, and Timothy, who lives near Barrie.

Plan To Freeze Coal Shipments From US Mines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government plans to issue an order tomorrow freezing shipments from many soft coal mines in the United States to provide an emergency stockpile in event of a prolonged coal strike.

Vernon D. Northrop, under secretary of the interior, said today the order would be issued by the Defence Solid Fuels Administration of his department.

The order will bar coal shipments after midnight Sept. 18, from all bituminous coal mines which have received notices from John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers that would permit termination of the existing wage agreement on Sept. 20. Those are largely mines in the north, contracts with most southern mines expire Sept. 30.

OWNERS IN DITHER

Lewis' strike plans — calling for some members of his United Mine Workers' Union to quit work Monday, some others 10 days later, while still others remain at their jobs without a contract — has the mine owners in a dither.

Selling coal is a competitive business and owners don't like to see their mines idle while rival diggings are working and likely to take over customers.

Thwart Slick Plan

CHICAGO (AP)—Police reported today they had thwarted a plot by a maid and five friends to sell her employers $30,000 home at half price while the family was vacationing in Minnesota.

Officers said, however, that $7,500 worth of valuables were hauled away.

The maid, Lillian Hopkins, 22, and her friends are held without charges.

Took Off 20 Pounds To Flee Boyd Writes In News Story

TORONTO (CP) — Edwin Alonzo Boyd said today he took off 20 pounds to escape through a hole cut through the bars of the death row cell block at the Don jail Sept. 8.

"It took us nearly a month to cut through those bars," he said in a first-person story in a Toronto paper.

"Where did we get the saws? They were brought in, that's all I'll tell you.

"How did we get out of the cells? With a key made from a spoon and tin cup handle. That key opened all the doors.

"We had only one period a day that we could use the saws to cut through the bars. That was from 5:20 to 7 a.m., when there was no danger of a guard entering our cell corridor to punch the clock."

WORKED EVERY MORNING

Every morning the sawing went on. The gang was helped by the absence on holidays of a senior deputy who made it a rule to test all the bars on the windows and rattle the bars on the cells on any inspection he made.

"We used shoe blackening and pieces of cardboard to fill in the places where we sawed through. But if any of the guards had hit the bars they would have fallen apart. Every day we hid the cell key and the hacksaw blades in a crack in the floor at the end of the corridor.

"We didn't know how well guarded the jail was from the outside but we felt that if we made our bid in the dark we would have a better chance. We picked Monday for the break and at about 1 a.m. we pulled out the cut bars and, one by one, crawled through the small opening to the narrow ledge."

Police and jail authorities say they are not convinced the desperadoes made their escape through the 9-by-13-inch opening in the bars. Another theory is that they were let out a side door of the jail by an accomplice.

"We had taken off 20 pounds each to crawl through this opening," Boyd said. "I didn't have much trouble making it, but for the others it was a tight squeeze.

SAW POLICE, GUARDS

"From the ledge we jumped onto a retaining wall and then crawled on our hands and knees along the 18-foot high wall between the two rear yards. When we got at the end of this wall, we could see police cars and outside guards at the east and west-ends of the jail.

"We lay flat on our stomachs on the top of the wall until both police and guards passed out of sight. We scrambled down that wall in record time.

"Lenny Jackson didn't have his artificial foot but that didn't make any difference to him. He was more agile than the rest of us. He climbed along the wall like a monkey. He sure was no handicap."

As the four made their way up railway tracks in the Don valley in eastern Toronto, they thought a railway policeman had spotted them. They took cover in a hurry.

HID MILE FROM JAIL

They hid in bushes all day. They spent the first night in the valley a mile from the jail.

The second night they reached their hideout, the empty house and barn in North York in which they were later captured.

"How we got there and why we picked that particular barn, I'm not telling. It was a good hideout but it sure was dirty."

Police said today they believe criminal associates met the four outside the jail and drove them directly to the hideout, furnishing them with money, extra clothing and even a wooden foot for Leonard Jackson.

"It was lucky for us that the nights were warm for we couldn't light a fire and we had to sleep in the barn. We tried sleeping in the vacant house but most of the windows were smashed and it wasn't as clean as the barn. Nor maybe as safe.

"We had money to buy food but we were afraid to trust our luck too far and attempt to buy some at a store.

"So we did the next best thing. We raided the neighboring farms at night and stole potatoes, tomatoes and corn. We built a bonfire deep in the bush and tried to cook these vegetables. They were half-cooked or burned, but they kept us from starving.

"Because of the large manhunt we decided to stay in the bush during the day and to sleep in the barn at night. But our stomachs got the better of us. We wanted bread, tobacco and milk.

SHOPPED IN CITY

"Willie Jackson volunteered to be our supply man. He argued that he was the least known of the four of us and could disguise himself better. He cut his hair and shaved off the front part and tried a tobacco store on Yonge street first.

"Then he got bolder and went shopping for groceries. He went to a Yonge street store and bought bread and cans of beans. He was even able to pick up some news about the manhunt, the number of guards that had been suspended and how they were going to hold a royal commission inquiry into our escape.

"But he didn't tell me anything about my wife pleading in the press and over the radio to give myself up. If he had I would have surrendered at once. There would be no other course to take."

Cowering Jackson Shouts 'Don't Shoot'—Detectives

By DET. BERT TROTTER,
As told to Reporters.

TORONTO (CP).—We didn't know they would be in there. It was just a routine check. We were very lucky. Sgt. Maurice Richardson and I were on a routine patrol. We noticed this deserted farmhouse set well back from the concession road and decided to check it. We left our car on the road itself and walked in towards the farm. It's about 500 yards of open country and they could have seen us coming if they'd been watching. We had no extra guns with us, just our regular .32-calibre revolvers.

We walked to the barn at the back of the farmhouse. The grass muffled our footsteps. We had to duck under a barbed wire fence. We were in plain view of the barn at all times.

At the main doors to the barn I stopped before pulling them open. Through a crack in the wood, I glimpsed a man standing. I knew then the gang was inside.

I took my gun out and levelled it through the crack in the doors at the standing man. Then I pulled the doors open and we stepped inside.

"The first one that moves gets it," I shouted.

"My name is West," said the man standing up. It turned out to be Boyd.

The two Jacksons were crouched in the straw beside him. All three were armed with Browning automatics. They kept jumping around and we warned them to keep still.

I realize now that Steve Suchan, armed with a .38 German automatic pistol, was 12 feet above us all the time. We never saw him.

We took our three prisoners outside and walked them back across the fields. We met a second police car coming towards us and we told PC. Ernie Sothern to check the barn for guns. It was then that he flushed Suchan.

All I can say is we were very, very lucky.

THEY CAUGHT THE BOYD GANG—North York detectives Maurice Richardson (left) and Bert Trotter smile with victory after capture of the Boyd gang, Canada's most wanted criminals. Sailor Sells VC Needed Money

BELFAST (Reuters)—A sailor who won the Victoria Cross sold his medal for £70 because he needed the money.

James Magennis, 32, former leading seaman, took his crimson-ribboned medal to a pawnshop so that he could buy new clothes for his three children.

When Magennis won his V.C. in 1945 for helping sink the Japanese cruiser Takao in the Straits of Johore, the people of Belfast welcomed him home with a gift of £2,500 which lasted three years. He has a job as an electrician at £6 a week.

"I'm ashamed of having to sell the V.C.," said Magennis. "That medal meant a lot to me. But it had to go. What is the use of a medal when you need money for your family to live?"

The dealer who bought the medal has decided to turn it over to Belfast's municipal museum.

Magennis won the award as a "frogman." He stayed below water for 45 minutes to fix limpet mines on the hull of the Japanese cruiser.

Frankford Man Killed In Trenton Crash

TRENTON.—A Frankford man was killed and his niece and her friend were seriously injured on Tuesday night when their car skidded on the wet pavement in an attempt to miss a cyclist and hit an oncoming auto.

Charles Woodcock died, Geraldine McGeachie, 23, and Doris Baker, 20, were rushed to the Trenton Memorial Hospital after the car went into a spin and hit another driven by Wessley Elliott, 50, of Stockdale.

Wake Island Being Evacuated

HONOLULU (CP) — Honolulu-based planes today stepped up the emergency air evacuation of tiny Wake Island, stripped of all but four of its buildings Tuesday by a giant typhoon.

All but about 60 of the little atoll's 750-odd inhabitants were to be brought here as fast as planes could land, load and leave. Eighty of the United States naval air base's population were flown out yesterday by a C-97 stratocruiser.

The remainder were huddled in the shelter of four steel-and-concrete buildings still standing on the island, a stepping stone for the Korean airlift some 2,300 miles west of Honolulu. Winds in gusts of up to 160 miles an hour flattened everything else in sight.

Radio reports continued to trickle in with details of the damage. Preliminary estimates placed the damage at $10,000,000.

Thirty-foot-high waves yesterday culled the debris, virtually submerging the 15 feet of land which wakes shoves above sea level.

Firemen Playing Cards Get Record-Size Trout

TORONTO (CP)—Ten firemen from nearby Cooksville interrupted a card game during the week-end to pull in one of the biggest rainbow trout ever taken from Georgian Bay.

The firemen were trolling off Meaford, 100 miles northwest of here, when the fish, weighing 12 pounds and 28 inches long, was caught on a Williams Wobbler. The men were playing cards when a bell on the boom to which their lines were fastened rang, indicating a strike.

Lands and Forests Department officials here said it compared favorably with the largest rainbow trout recorded taken by angling in Ontario waters, which weighed 18 pounds, four ounces.

Grain Union Rejects New Offer

Company Making Last-Ditch Move To Avert Strike

FORT WILLIAM —(CP)— Union and company negotiators are to meet today in 11th-hour attempts to avert a strike in the Lakehead's vital grain shipping industry.

More than 1,500 grain handlers, who constitute a key part of the industry, last night rejected a wage offer of $1.32 an hour and voted to strike tomorrow morning.

Only a last-minute compromise appears likely to stop the impending strike. Company spokesmen said they will go no higher in their wage offers and union leaders insisted the offer was not high enough.

The grain workers, who asked for $1.62 an hour, now are receiving a basic rate of $1.02, not including a 10-cent-an-hour boost voluntarily granted by the companies, but which is not written into the contract.

CONCEDE OTHER DEMANDS

The companies have acceded to other union demands. They have agreed to a 40-hour week, as opposed to the existing 48-hour week.

In answer to union requests for a closed shop, the companies accepted a compulsory check-off system of union dues for employees now in the union and new employees joining the staff. However, they would not agree to compulsory union dues for employees not in the union.

Part of management's offer included a six-cent-an-hour increase retroactive to Jan. 1 and another two-cent-an-hour boost at the beginning of next year.

Negotiators also disagreed over the length of time which a new contract should run. The union wants a new contract at the start of 1953, but the companies want it extended beyond that time.

Frank Hall, Canadian head of the International Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, bargaining agent for the grain workers said "we're through negotiating."

Mr. Hall said a union committee will meet today and decide what its rock-bottom figures will be, but there will be no bargaining.

He said the committee has been given power to accept or eject any further proposal without referring the matter to a vote by the grain handlers.

Caretaker 76 Dies Before Help Comes

TORONTO (CP)—Ralph (Pop) Frisby, 76-year-old caretaker, was fatally injured today when struck by an automobile in suburban Swansea. Police said he lay on the pavement for 50 minutes while efforts were made to obtain an ambulance.

No ambulance operator responded before a doctor, who arrived to give treatment, pronounced Frisby dead.

One ambulance company accepted the call five minutes after the accident but a few minutes later reported it would be half an hour before the ambulance started for the scene, Swansea police said. Three other ambulance services did not answer their telephone. A fifth accepted the call but its ambulance arrived two minutes after the man died.

CAPTURE SCENE—A scattering of the curious throngs around barn where notorious Boyd gang were captured without a struggle eight days after their break from Toronto's Don Jail. Barn is part of old, abandoned farm in North York, about 15 miles from downtown Toronto.

Truck Strike Averted At Last Minute

BERLIN (AP)—A truck strike which would have snapped off one-third of West Berlin's supplies was averted almost at the last hour last night.

The West Berlin government said agreement had been reached with 600 trucking firms who had called a strike for midnight because Soviet harassing tactics were causing them to lose money.

The truckers said the West Berlin government agreed:

1. To pay subsidies to the truckers for time wasted by the arbitrary slow-down methods imposed by Communist customs guards at border stations.

2. To guarantee compensation when trucks are confiscated by the Russians.

3. To make up losses incurred from increased fuel costs.

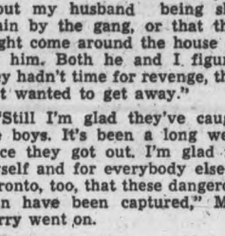
4. To give relief from transport taxes.

News Wonderful Mrs. Perry Says

TORONTO.—"Wonderful news, simply wonderful," was the reaction of Mrs. Roy Perry, wife of the police officer who identified Suchan as the killer of Det. Eddie Tong, when she was informed of the capture of the Boyd gang.

"To me, this is the best news I could possibly get," continued Mrs. Perry. "I wasn't worrying about my husband being shot again by the gang, or that they might come around the house after him. Both he and I figured they hadn't time for revenge, they just wanted to get away."

"Still I'm glad they've caught the boys. It's been a long week since they got out. I'm glad for myself and for everybody else in Toronto, too, that these dangerous men have been captured," Mrs. Perry went on.



"Only one thing, my husband was off today. I know he'd like to have been on duty when this news broke," she concluded.

Record Wheat Crop

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian farmers may reap a 675,000,000-bushel wheat crop this year, biggest in history, the Bureau of Statistics estimated yesterday. The new forecast, second of the current season, boosted the Canadian crop by 19,000,000 bushels over the previous August estimate.

Town Beadle Brewing Secret Drink

BARNSTAPLE, England (Reuters)—The town beadle of this Devonshire port locked himself up in the Guild Hall last night, got a 500-year-old recipe out of its box and began brewing a tub of spiced ale.

Concocting the lusty potion is about the only job left to this civic functionary these days and he does it once a year just before the opening of England's oldest town fair.

Today, the 4½ gallons will be passed around to guests and a lucky few of the citizenry, the giant replica of a glove will be stuck up in the square and with it a week of revelry will get under way.

FROM MIDDLE AGES

It dates from the days when 1,000-year-old Barnstaple was a prosperous wool port and manufacturing centre in the Middle Ages. The harbor now is so badly silted it cannot be used, but Barnstaple still is a leading manufacturer of gloves.

Fred Ackland, 57, is the present beadle, an office which was largely superseded by the advent of police forces. As such, he is the only living man with knowledge of the secret recipe and is under oath not to pass it on to anyone except his successor.

The basis of the drink is obviously ordinary ale, but it is spiced, flavored and mulled out of all recognition. For days, Ackland has been traipsing around the town buying materials he needs—and several he doesn't need—at various stores so shopkeepers won't get wise to his secret. The essentials are listed on a faded parchment.

Boyd Gang

Last night's capture was in sharp contrast to the arrests of Leonard Jackson and Suchan in Montreal last March shortly after the Tong shooting. Then, the two wanted men shot it out in separate battles with Montreal police. Both were wounded by police bullets before giving up.

William Jackson had been captured earlier in Montreal as well, when he brandished a gun in a cafe. Boyd, reputed ringleader of the gang, was last to be caught. He was arrested without a struggle in a Toronto house while he slept.

Boyd was not connected with the Tong shooting, which came during police investigation of a number of bank robberies in the Toronto area following the November jail break. Suchan was not with the gang until after their escape.

A Toronto police official said last night that he believes newspaper headlines telling of police orders to shoot to kill if necessary may have scared the thugs into surrendering so meekly. As they were led into North York police station all four appeared relieved.

However, Maj. Foote said later that Leonard Jackson told him:

"I wish it was all over. I wish I had got it up there in the barn."

BOYD WISECRACKS

Boyd wisecracked to a press photographer:

"You'd better keep that car of yours full of gas, boy, because when I bust out of Kingston next year I'm going to need it."

Scarboro Officer Misses Death By Four Inches

TORONTO.—Constable Andrew Ouellette of the Scarboro police came within four inches of death yesterday when he came upon a parked auto and four gunmen on the Lansing sideroad.

One man was standing beside the auto talking to the man behind the wheel. Two other men were sitting beside him.

As the man spotted the police cruiser slowing up he jumped into the auto and it sped off. Ouellette gave chase. It was then he noticed the rear licence plate was upside down.

While Ouellette held on to the steering wheel with his right hand he lowered the police cruiser window and fired two warning shots from the revolver in his left hand. He is right-handed.

He then tried to draw his police cruiser up alongside the other auto as it turned north on the Brook's sideroad.

FORCED OVER

The police cruiser was forced over. Constable Ouellette, travelling at 85 to 90 m.p.h. brought the cruiser to within 10 feet of the fleeing black auto.

Then it happened. The man alone in the back seat of the auto, rolled down the left window, poked a snub-nosed gun out and fired five shots point-blank at the cruiser.

Inspector Adamson interviewed Ouellette later and learned that one bullet passed within four inches of his head.

The bullets splattered the windshield of the police cruiser. Constable Ouellette was blinded by flying glass and lost control of the steering wheel.

The police cruiser plunged off the road, into a ditch and struck a tree. The officer suffered serious internal injuries when the steering wheel was pushed into his abdomen by the impact.

Equalize Wages For Women

TORONTO (CP)—A union-management agreement equalizing wage scales for women employees, apprentices and regular employees at the Steel Company of Canada Limited mill in Hamilton was announced today by C.H. Millard, national director of the United Steel Workers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.).

Under the agreement, the lowest-paid job, to be known as job class 1 will pay $1.43½ an hour. An additional four cents an hour will be paid for each class above class 1. Separate scales for women, apprentices and male employees are eliminated.

A scale based on hours of experience will be used to measure the value of apprentice work. Men and women will receive the same rate for any operation.

Stock Market Firm On Early Gains

TORONTO (CP)—All sections of the stock market held firmly to early gains today in early afternoon stock market trading.

Western oils made the largest advance, gaining about 1½ points on the exchange's index.

Few issues traded heavily although Bellekeno moved 111,000 shares for no change in price. Volume for the first three hours totalled 1,106,000 shares.

Senior golds and junior producers held firm but prospects lost strength although Chimo, Gunnar and Newlund traded actively for penny gains. Most price changes were small but Prospectors Airways, a holding company, gained 11 cents in a show of strength.

Higher-priced base metal issues gained after opening mixed and gains balanced losses in other issues. Barvue added 20 cents.

Western oils continued the opening pattern of early gains in leading issues and gains generally greater than losses. Anglo Canadian and Bailey Selburn were strong.

The exchange's 1 p.m. indices showed industrials up .81 at 321.38 golds up .25 at 88.90, base metals up .24 at 189.24 and western oils up 1.53 at 129.60.

Inquiry Begins Into Escape From Don Jail

TORONTO (CP)—A royal commission inquiry into the Boyd gang's escape from the Don jail Sept. 8 starts today, less than 24 hours after the four fugitives were recaptured.

But officials said none of the gang members will likely be called to testify before the hearings presided over by Judge Ian Macdonell.

Clare Hope, attorney-general's counsel assisting commission counsel J.W. Pickup, told reporters:

"If any of the four felt they had something to gain by talking and wanted to talk, we might let them appear today.

WON'T TALK

"They are the kind who don't talk and they would likely protect anyone who had helped them. Of course, the two men charged with murder would be out anyway.

"As it is, we don't expect they will be called. And, if they were, it would not be until much later in the inquiry anyhow."

First witness to be called today is expected to be Col. Hedley Basher, deputy minister of reform institutions. A former governor of the 88-year-old Don jail, he has been acting governor since the suspension of T.W. Brand as governor following the escape.

Six night-shift guards, suspended at the same time along with deputy governor Alexander Noble, will probably testify next.

Also to be questioned before the royal commission are two Toronto police constables who were stationed at the foot of the jail wall the night Boyd and his gang escaped.

PROBE BANK ACCOUNTS

All bank accounts of the jail guards and officials will also be investigated by the commission.

"Whatever comes out of the hearing, it seems pretty obvious that somewhere there is a link with the underworld that leads directly to a person or persons inside the jail itself," said a commission official. "We are going to leave no stone unturned to discover it."

Commission counsel estimate it may take two weeks to hear all the evidence. Then Judge Macdonell will prepare his report.

Baby Shaken Up As Two Cars Collide

A four-month-old baby was shaken up slightly and Mrs. Orville Moore, of Detroit, received a bruised cheek and had her glasses broken when two cars collided at the intersection of Park Hill and Monaghan Rds., Tuesday morning.

An estimated $900 damage resulted to the two cars. Five hundred to the left side of the late model American car, driven by Orville Moore of Detroit, and $400 to the front end of the other car, driven by Roy A. Kimball, R.R. 3, Peterborough.

Kimball was driving a taxi east on Park Hill Rd., and the car driven by Moore was making a left hand turn to go west on Park Hill Rd., when the accident occurred.

Mrs. Glen Daniels, R.R. 3 Peterborough, and her two sons, David aged four months and Robert, three and a half, were passengers in the taxi.

The baby was taken to Dr. Donald Clark but was not injured, except for a shaking up.

Constable Harold Andrew investigated.

Prosperity Blinds Canada To Weaknesses

WINNIPEG (CP) — Present Canadian prosperity may blind people to inherent weaknesses in the country's trade pattern, Dr. W. A. Mackintosh, principal of Queen's University, said Monday.

In an address to the Canadian Club of Winnipeg, he compared present prosperity to the years before 1914. Then, as now, the world was eager for Canadian exports, new resources were brought into use and other nations were willing to invest in Canada.

But he warned there is a danger that self-confidence may degenerate into complacency. Present prosperity was not entirely due to Canadian assets and virtues.

FORCED DEVELOPMENT

Capital and development was being forced on Canada because it was one of the few countries to which the U.S. could turn with confidence. There was a danger Canada was being oversold abroad and might not live up to expectations.

No inconvenience is caused now by Canada sending 65 per cent of her exports to the U.S., Dr. Mackintosh said. But there also was a danger Canada and the U.S. might find themselves cut off from the larger world and "uncomfortably dependent" on one another.

If the sterling area was to continue as a restricted region "subject to recurring exchange crises and successive curtailments of imports," Canadian economics and politics might be affected.

There was strong opinion in Canada that the mere multiplication of controls and imports in the sterling area would not lead to any ultimate solution."

Canada could exercise its greatest influence by persuading the British and other Commonwealth countries that they must be prepared to live within their means.

New Technique

LONDON (Reuters)—A new technique which will make possible much greater use of artificial insemination in the dairy and beef cattle industries was announced yesterday. South Korean Army Making Progress

The news dispatch telling of the recapture of "Captiol Hill" by South Korean troops marked a significant milestone. It meant that a new, tough, well-trained South Korean army is in the fight and it signified the payoff on the long, intensive training program under U.S. officers. It sparked the hope that eventually the South Koreans will be able to undertake their own defense, relieving UN troops for other duties. There are about 250,000 of these newly-trained, well - equipped ROK troops. Behind them is a manpower pool of some 500,000.

The Capitol Hill victory was in dramatic contrast to the situation two years ago, when ROK troops frequently broke and ran, bringing catasrophe to UN forces whose flanks they were supposed to protect. The photos here show some of the training that enabled ROK troops to enter the battlelines on an equal footing with other UN forces.

3 Youths Plead Guilty To Theft Counts

A request for suspended sentence by crown attorney John R. Bradshaw saved three collegiate youths from a heavier penalty when they pleaded guilty to a theft charge today.

"It is with some hesitation that I do it," Magistrate W. R. Philp told Mr. Bradshaw, after he had asked for suspended sentence for Leon Blodgett, 16, 517 McKellar St., Keneth Saunders, 17, 610 Lundy's Lane and Bernard Quesnel, 18, 80 Lynch St.

All three pleaded guilty to stealing a pair of fog lamps from a car owned by H. McIntosh, which was left parked on the C.G.E. parking lot the night of September 10.

The three admitted raiding the parking lot three nights in succession, constable Douglas Farthing said, taking accessories for an old model car one of them had bought from an auto wrecker.

He said that an employee of the C.G.E. saw three youths around cars in the lot on September 10 and chased them. Blodgett was caught on High St. Saunders and Queshel were picked up later and questioned.

One of the cars, owned by George Hawks of Keene, was damaged to the extent of $18.

ALL RETURNED

Constable Farthing said the boys co-operated after they were caught, by returning all the articles taken. The old car they were decorating has since been sold.

The nabbing of the three youths convicted today has not stopped the pilfering of accessories from the C.G.E. parking lot however, as more thefts were reported Tuesday night.

One of the conditions of the suspended sentence bonds of each of the trio was that they each pay court costs of $2.50 and in addition, $6 each to Mr. Hawks for damage to his car. In asking for suspended sentence of one year, Mr. Bradshaw said the boys' parents had egreed to this and also that they be required to report monthly to Major Harry Everitt of the Salvation Army.

After indicating his reluctance to give the boys suspended sentence, the Magistrate said, "Whether this procedure is of any value or not, depends on yourselves. If you have sense enough to be thoroughly ashamed of yourselves now, and realize the situation, then the method is justified."

Live Within Arctic Circle Holiday In London, Paris

MONTREAL (CP)—Denis Cameron and Charles Clifton are returning to their lonely post 400 miles north of Fairbanks, Alaska, after seeing how the rest of the world is coming along.

They are civilian radio technicians for the United States Navy at Umiat—population 50—and passed through here recently on the return leg of a 13,000-mile trip to Paris and London.

Mr. Cameron said they became lonely after more than a year in the extreme north and decided to make the trip which included driving 6,000 miles in an 11-year-old automobile and travelling 7,000 miles by aircraft. They left July 13.

Mr. Clifton said he believes his life was saved when they decided to make the journey on that particular date.

"I had been staying at the Pioneer Hotel in Fairbanks which burned to the ground a few hours after I left," he said. "Everyone sleeping on my floor was burned to death."

They drove from Fairbanks to Montreal in 10 days, taking turns at the wheel. Their mishaps included two broken springs, a burned-out generator and a crumpled fender.

From here they flew to London and later to Paris and after an extensive visit returned to Montreal to pick up their car and prepare for the return journey to Umiat.

Deny Forcing Propaganda .

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP)—The senior Allied liaison officer today denied that United Nations soldiers were trying to force propaganda leaflets on Communist security troops at this armistice site.

In a note delivered to the Reds, Col. Charles W. McCarthy said a joint investigation Monday "reveals strong evidence against your allegation."

McCarthy said, however, that leaflets dropped from an Allied plane might have fallen in the neutral zone "because of changing winds."

A Red protest earlier this week was the first indication the Communists were concerned because four Red soldiers recently made their way to Allied lines through the neutral zone.

Cobourg Lauds Work Of Information Booth

COBOURG — (ENS). — Council went on record at its regular meeting here in warm approval of the work done by the tourist information office during the summer. Mayor Jack Burnet said that he had personally observed the courtesy and co-operation of H. O. Taylor and his staff and that a tremendous number of tourist inquiries were handled during the tourist season just closed. Council passed a resolution of congratulations.

A letter from the Rev. S. D. France, former resident of Cobourg concerning a driveway to property owned by him at the north end of Division Street, asked council to participate in an expense-sharing plan in view of his belief that some grading would be necessary on adjacent land owned by the town. On motion, the clerk was instructed to write Mr. France advising him that the town was not liable for any of the cost of grading.

His doctor, Prof. Galeazzi-Lisi, examined the 76-year-old Pope at Castel Gandolfo, the papal summer palace, this morning.

This is the Pope's second indisposition in 3½ months. He had a feverish cold lasting several days at the beginning of June, when he suspended all audiences except for his closest advisers.

U.S. Jet Ace Gets 8th Plane

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—The leading United States jet ace in Korea today shot down his eighth Russian-made MiG-15 as Allied fighter-bombers hammered Communist targets from the battle front to near the Manchurian border.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force said Maj. Frederick C. Blesse scored his eighth kill in a fight between four Sabre jets and nine MIGs near Sakchu in northwest Korea. The victory raisd the Allied bag of MiGs in September to 47 — three more than the previous monthly high of 44 in April.

Fifth Air Force headquarters confirmed the pending claim of one MiG destroyed in an Aug. 5 air battle. This raised the confirmed total for the Korean War to 419 MiGs destroyed, 70 probably destroyed and 607 damaged. Total Red planes of all types reported were 567 destroyed, 90 probably destroyed and 692 damaged.

Ground fighting along the 155-mile battle front continued light. U. S. Eighth Army headquarters reported only small Communist probes and scattered patrol clashes.

Retired Farmer Loses Savings To Pickpocket

MILDMAY —Mike Niesen, a 77-year-old retired farmer, lost all his savings—$360— to a couple of female pickpockets Tuesday.

The two approached him at the Mildmay Fall Fair grounds and asked him for a match. He struck a light for one of the women but it went out. Then Mike lit another match and held his coat open to shield it.

As the women hurried off Mike felt in his hip pocket for his wallet. It was there—but it was empty.

Police Chief Erwin Lobsinger said the two women drove off with two men, who had been waiting in a car.

Pastors Conclude Kitchener Conference

KITCHENER (CP)—The closing session of the pastors' conference of the Fellowship of Independent Baptist Churches and the Union of Regular Baptist Churches was held here today.

Rev. Leander Roblin, pastor of the host church, said the conference had helped unite the two Baptist groups. Rev. John Armstrong of Montreal spoke yesterday on establishing new Baptist churches and Rev. Jack Watt of Windsor spoke on the joint church edifice topic.

A FACT!

In all probability the greatest single force in adult education is Your Newspaper. When you completed your formal education some years ago, the event was celebrated as your Commencement. It was then that you really commenced to learn. From that day to this you have learned constantly from Your Newspaper. Deep within you, even though you may not have thought much about it, you realize this and appreciate it. That perhaps is why you'd rather miss a meal than your newspaper. For well you know that any and every issue may bring you a tip, an idea, a suggestion, a thought—either inspiration or information that you can put right to work and keep it working for you the rest of your life.

Germany Outbuilds Canada

Since the war Canadians have been concerned with housing shortages. Municipal, provincial and federal agencies have subsidized housing developments and poured millions of dollars into loans, grants and building projects to swell the work undertaken by private business and individuals in building homes for the people of Canada. Tens of thousands of new houses now surround the cities and towns. Between the end of the war and the end of last year, 62 new dwellings have been built for each ten thousand of the population, a figure surpassed by only three other countries. During the same period Sweden built 60 new dwellings for each ten thousand of the population, the Netherlands 58, Norway 52, Denmark 49, Switzerland 47, Britain 38, Belgium 34, France 33, and Italy 17. Canada's attempts to house her people have been, comparatively, very successful.

* * *

The three countries which beat Canada's post-war housing record up to the end of last year were the United States, which built 92 new dwellings for each ten thousand of its population, Australia which built 89, and, surprisingly Germany with 84. Our surprise is not that Germany should need the houses, but that it far surpassed other war-torn countries in its ratio of newly-built dwellings to population.

* * *

In the territory of the German Federal Republic nearly 2,300,000 dwellings (houses and flats)—a quarter of all existing dwellings—had been destroyed or made uninhabitable by the destruction of war. In addition to these, the West Germans had to cope with nine million refugees demanding a further two or three million dwellings. Building activitiy until 1949 was slow, but in the next three years was very considerably speeded. Between the end of the war and the end of 1951 more than a million and a half dwellings were either rebuilt or newly constructed.

* * *

Gone are the days of so short a time ago as 1945 when Germany was on its knees and the Germans were the most wretched of people. Why? Allied toleration and aid have done much towards Germany's rebuilding, but this could not have been effective without the Germans themselves. You can't keep a good man down, goes the North American slogan. Applying the word 'good' to the Germans in the same competitive non-moral sense, you cannot keep a German down. He is too skilled, intelligent and industrious to live on his knees. As the Germans have risen from prostration, so have their houses risen from the ruins. It is primarily the German character and ability and not Allied aid which have caused more new houses, in number and also in ratio to the population, to be built in Germany since the war than almost anywhere else in the world. Germany has 84 new dwellings for each ten thousand of the population, Canada next with 62.

More About The U.S. Dollar

In an editorial in our Saturday issue referring to U.S. currency we said that the last time U.S. money dropped far below ours was after the Civil War; at that time a U.S. dollar was worth 60 cents in Canadian funds. We were wrong, and some figures that have been sent to us subsequently give an accurate account of the fluctuation of the U.S. dollar in comparison with our own. In 1933 it dropped 5 per cent. in value in relation to our dollar and again in 1934 it dropped 3½ per cent.

It was in the winter of 1932 that the U.S. dollar was worth $1.25 Canadian and it was between 25 and 10 per cent. above our dollar until the summer of 1933. From 1940 until 1946 a 10 per cent. premium was paid by Canadians on U.S. funds.

Canadians are not being foolish about the present favourable condition of our currency in comparison with that of our neighbour. But it looks as though our advantage would last for some time, and it would be a foolish form of national modesty if we failed to take note of it, and to make the necessary discount when dealing with our summer visitors. Once again we suggest that we would be wise to adopt the plan of the U.S. itself, and of all European countries, and insist that business within our borders be conducted in our own currency. In this way we can avoid giving offence to our good, and very businesslike, neighbours.

Leonardo da Vinci, Universal Genius

We live in an age of specialists. We have our great scientists, engineers, artists, poets, politicians and historians each working in their own increasingly narrowing spheres. Owing to the enormous accumulation of detailed technical knowledge in various branches of human endeavour it is quite impossible for one man to attempt to excel in more than one or two fields. The last "universal genius," Goethe, flopped badly in his ill-fated excursions into the realm of natural science: his theories on colour were never taken seriously.

It was not always so. If the modern ideal is the expert or technician, the Renaissance ideal was the "complete man." The highest expression of that ideal was undoubtedly Leonardo da Vinci. There is scarcely a province of knowledge that he did not touch. His keen and restless mind led him to make designs foreshadowing by hundreds of years many modern inventions such as the air conditioner, the aeroplane, the revolving stage, the machine gun and many others. There is an exhibition in Toronto of models executed to his designs. Some of them actually work, while others were impracticable at that time, owing to the absence of the internal combustion engine, and can be regarded as prophetic glimpses into the future. Taken as the work of one man these designs are a remarkable achievement, and though they may seem crude in comparison with what we have achieved today they display an amazing power of invention when considered in their historical setting. There were no research foundations, no laboratories, no factories and no self-propelled engines in those days. The investigator had only a garbled mass of Aristotle, Pliny the Elder, Lucretius and other ancient authors mixed up in a mumbo-jumbo of alchemy. He ran the serious risk of being suspected of witchcraft in an age when the injunction "Thou shalt not suffer a witch to live" was acted upon literally.

Yet Leonardo's chief fame rests on his painting, which remains as an imperishable memorial to his genius. Great art cannot be superseded in the same way as scientific discovery, and though his designs of machines are of great significance it is by his art that he still reigns peerless.

Paved Roads In Victoria And Haliburton

The condition of the Buckhorn Road has been the cause of a great deal of criticism, some of which has been aired in the correspondence column of this newspaper. The reply made by the Warden, Mr. R. R. Stewart, in our issue of Tuesday, seems to us to answer the critics fully and in a manner which should quiet the fears of those who are not very well informed about the manner in which road building in the county is financed.

Some of the severe criticism which has been directed against Peterborough county officials has been prompted, we suspect, by visits to the neighbouring counties of Victoria and Haliburton where a large measure of fine paved road can be found. Doubtless it is a coincidence that this area is represented in the provincial government by the Prime Minister; the cost of these fine roads is borne by the Province, without a levy on the county. Peterborough is not a wealthy county, and considering everything, we think its roads are satisfactory.

Peterborough a Road Centre

For better or worse we are committed to progress and development. Upholders of the old times may deplore the passing of many of the sterner virtues of the first settlers (though contemporary evidence is by no means unanimous that these were widespread), but by and large life has become much more comfortable as the result of the great strides of modern technique.

Amongst modern developments in this country the building of roads is of prime importance. The Department of Highways is planning wisely, and we note that the importance of Peterborough is being kept firmly in mind. We are already situated on what will eventually become the Trans-Canada Highway. There is also the projected road to run diagonally from Peterborough to Newcastle. Now work has already been started on the extension of 2A eastward from Oshawa to Newcastle. It is hoped that it will be possible to complete this stretch before the winter freeze-up.

When work on the entire section from Peterborough to Oshawa has been completed this city will have a first-class road service to Toronto, faster and safer than ever before. It is not that the total distance will be noticeably less, though the slight diagonal bias of the Peterborough - Newcastle stretch and the presumed absence of curves will cut down the total mileage to a small extent. The chief gains will be in safety and the avoidance of built-up areas, notably in the outskirts of Oshawa, which is growing rapidly towards the east.

The result of these new roads will be to enhance considerably the importance of Peterborough as one of the leading cities of Eastern Ontario. Fortunately we are still far enough away from Toron[illegible] not to suffer the fate of Oshawa, which [illegible]s rapidly becoming a sort of appendage to the Ontario metropolis.

BIBLIOMANIA:

Are You A Wolf Or A Dove?

ONCE AGAIN YOUR reviewers are happy to take up their task of informing you about some of the books which you will find in your bookshops and at the lending libraries. May we briefly comment upon the words "happy" and "some" which appear in the foregoing sentence? We say that we are are happy to resume this work because we would not do it unless we liked it. We have little sympathy with those reviewers who write of their work as though it were a penance, and who complain of the number of dull or positively bad books which come their way. Some books which are reviewed are dull or bad, of course, but unless a considerable majority were good and productive of pleasure we should abandon the weekly task. We like reviewing because we like reading, and we hope that these reviews give you some information which is helpful in making up your reading-lists. But we can only review some books, because the publishers only send us a few of the books they bring out, and we could not cope with more. This is a daily newspaper, and not a literary weekly, and the space which we can devote to books is limited. But we shall review those books which we receive, and from time to time we may call your attention to an old book which we think you would like. And now, let us get on with the job.

KING SOLOMON'S RING, by Dr. Konrad Lorenz (British Book Service)

THIS IS A brilliantly written and fascinating book about animals. Such a recommendation may seem all the more effective when the reviewer confesses that he is about as indifferent to animals as a human being can become. But the reason for his indifference is that animals are generally foisted upon his attention by people who like to pretend that animals are really a superior order of beings, possessed of human intelligence but free from human vice. Dr. Lorenz, a very great naturalist, has no patience with such nonsense; he has given his life to the study of animals, and he knows them to be possessed of an extremely interesting form of intelligence of their own, of a type which humanity may once have possessed, but which humanity has almost entirely relinquished in order to develop its own special sort of intelligence. The sub-title of the book is "New Light on Animal Ways"; Dr. Lorenz tells us why some animals behave as they do, and what appears to be going on in the "body-intelligence" which they all have to a greater or less degree.

What Dr. Lorenz has to say may come as a shock to people who like to think of animals in human terms, but more intelligent animal-lovers will welcome it. It is commonplace to say that birds and animals talk to each other; Dr. Lorenz explains how they do it, and what sort of thing they say. He makes it plain that birds and animals convey to one another feelings and states of being—pleasure, apprehension and the like—but not opinions or anything recognizable as personal knowledge. Animals are communistic in their thinking, in that they share their thoughts completely. His comments upon animal morals are also calculated to make sentimentalists jump.

✧ ✧ ✧

CONVENTIONAL judgements upon animals receive little support from this great Austrian naturalist. He tells us that the eagle is among the stupidest of birds, and he has a poor opinion of the courage of the lion. He demolishes the sentimental notion that the female nightingale sings a song of disappointed love by pointing out that only the male bird sings and that it is a song of defiance to other males. He says that the majority of caged birds are perfectly happy in their cages, and that the most intelligent of all birds is the parrot. His statement that monkeys and parrots are the most intelligent of all non-human creatures may ruffle the feelings of some animal lovers, for these have never been the favourites of the sentimentalists.

It would be wrong to give the impression that Dr. Lorenz is a de-bunker of animals. He loves them dearly—but with the keen intelligence of a great scientist who has spent his life with animals and who is intent on finding out the truth about them. Nobody who keeps a pet of any sort should fail to read this book, for it is filled with astonishing insight into the real nature of animal life and the animal mind.

A word of appreciation must be said for the excellent translation of this book by Marjorie Kerr Wilson. Dr. Lorenz writes brilliantly and with great humour, and the translator has conveyed these qualities so well that we have no sense of reading a translation. The book is charmingly produced, and contains many pleasant little skeches by Dr. Lorenz himself. This is a very special book, and you should not miss it.

GOODBYE TO BERLIN, by Christopher Isherwood (Clarke, Irwin)

THIS IS A reprint of a book which first appeared in 1939 and caused a good deal of stir then. It is well worth re-reading now, for it has retained its quality as a picture of Berlin under the Nazis, and it calls up as richly as before the atmosphere of moral squalor which appears to have been characteristic of the German capital at that time.

The means by which Mr. Isherwood achieves his end are worth examination, for since 1939 we have had many books which purported to give us the authentic feel of Nazidom. But they have dealt in ponderous descriptions and large-scale horrors, and they are not so convincing as this book which is photographic in technique—the author describes himself as a camera, recording what he sees without comment—and which gives us no great horrors, but a variety of small ones—horrors of vulgarity, of poverty, of shoddiness of spirit. This is one of the differences between a first-rate writer and a second or third-rate one; the man who knows his job and possesses talent can show us by a few strokes what the lesser writer struggles and pants to convey, without managing it.

Reading "Goodbye To Berlin" now is a special pleasure, for it was impossible in 1939 to read it without relating it to events which were near and menacing, and the character of the book could not be perceived clearly. But now we are able to read it calmly, and to enjoy its excellence as a work of art.

✧ ✧ ✧

LET US CONCLUDE this first autumn issue of Bibliomania with a quotation from the first book reviewed today, "King Solomon's Ring" by Dr. Konrad Lorenz: "The day will come when two warring factions will be faced with the possibility of each wiping the other out completely. The day may come when the whole of mankind is divided into two such opposing camps. Shall we then behave like doves or wolves? The fate of mankind will be settled by the answer to that question". In order to appreciate the flavour of this passage it is necessary to know that, as observed by Dr. Lorenz, doves are among the most savage, unchivalrous and treacherous of birds, whereas wolves are not bad fellows, and show some generosity to a beaten foe. Perhaps U.N. should be represented in the newspaper cartoons by a wolf, rather than by a dove.

COLD OR WARM THIS WINTER, JOHN?

Morning Park Walkers

(DENVER POST)

THE CULT of early morning park walkers may have suffered some shrinkage of membership in recent years. It never was a large group because most people are too sensible to cut short their sleep merely for the sake of getting dew on their shoes or listening to robins greet the sun.

The devoted park walkers do not worry about reasons. The fewer the better, as far as they are concerned. They are people who like their own companionship or they would not be there. They are there to see the squirrels loping across the grass and the goldfish making circles in the lily pond as they reach for bugs.

If they wanted to see people, instead, they would do their park walking of evenings when picnic parties have usurped the lawn and young lovers have seated themselves under every tree and beside every shrub.

The cult has a number of subdivisions, each of them easily recognizable. For example, there are the physical culturists. They walk briskly, as if under doctor's orders to "do" a good three miles before going to the office.

The dog nursemaids usually arrive by automobile. As soon as they have parked and opened the door, little Fleabag is off like a shot with his nose to the ground and the master follows as best he can, hoping eventually to catch up and fasten the leash.

Then there are the flower bed inspectors. They dawdle along the footpaths where the gardeners have been working. If they find a new shade of lupine in bloom their day has been a success.

The true park walker is none of these, however. He's walking in the park because he likes walking in the park. He likes the long shadows of the elms on the damp turf, the fragrance of the evergreens and the light-hearted feeling that an almost new, practically unused day brings. Someday we intend to get up early and take a look at him before he becomes extinct.

Better Than Austerity

(Weltwoche, Switzerland)

Whilst we Swiss are masters in the art of grumbling without suffering, another nation, close friends of ours, is practising the art of suffering without grumbling. Though fully appreciating the much-admired English moderation and contentedness, we cannot ignore that fact that without the limitless patience and discipline of the Britons the rule of austerity would long ago have been broken. Other nations—Italians, Belgians, French, Germans—soon after the end of the war revolted against rationing and controls. When other means proved ineffective, they resorted in defence to the powerful weapon of the Black Market and thus forced their respective governments to search for other solutions. And, lo and behold, it worked. It worked even better than the rule of austerity.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

All things are full of labour; man cannot utter it: the eye is not satisfied with seeing, nor the ear filled with hearing. (Eccl. 1:8.)

✧ ✧ ✧

He that loveth pleasure shall be a poor man: he that loveth wine and oil shall not be rich . . . There is treasure to be desired and oil in the dwelling of the wise; but a foolish man spendeth it up. (Prov 21: 17, 20.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Be not among winebibbers: among riotous eaters of flesh: for the drunkard and the glutton shall come to poverty: and drowsiness shall clothe a man with rags. (Prov. 23: 20, 21.)

✧ ✧ ✧

This know also, that in the last days perilous times shall come. For men men shall be lovers of their own selves, covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy . . . Traitors, heady, high-minded, lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God; having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof: from such turn away. (11 Tim. 3: 1, 2, 4, 5.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he soweth of the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting. (Gal. 6: 7,8.)

Don't Go

(The Vancouver News-Herald)

"Don't go" is an injunction delivered to friends who are on the point of leaving. It is a symbol of hospitality. Therefore it cannot be omitted.

Even though it is already after your regular dinner hour and the meat is drying up in the oven or getting cold on the pantry table and you had hoped to get through in time to make the early show at the movies.

Even though the dishes are not washed and you will be at work on them anywhere from a half hour to an hour after your friends leave and before you go to bed.

Even though you are planning to leave for a trip and must pack a suitcase rather than take a chance by waiting until the morning.

Even though you anticipate a hard day at the office and are greatly in need of a good night's rest, of at least eight hours, so that you can start off fresh and with your mind clear.

Even though your friends depart, you have a long and important letter to write which must be sent off by air mail the first thing in the morning.

Even though it is before dinner rather than after dinner, in the afternoon, and you are expecting other friends to drop in any minute, and the friends who are going to drop in are not very friendly with the friends who are present and they would not give each other especial happiness by meeting.

In short, "Don't go" must be said even though, in spite of the fact that you are devoted to your friends and can't see too much of them, the circumstances are such that in this case you would be grateful to them if they did.

50-50 Guess If South Will Split In U.S. Election

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP)—Southern editors rate it a 50-50 guess at this point whether the south will be solid or split in the 1952 U.S. presidential battle.

The consensus of those taking part in an Associated Press survey is that the bulk of the south once more will be safe for the Democrats. But newspaper men say that if the election were held now Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower might be able to storm the Democratic fortress in the south and border states and snatch three or possibly five states from Governor Adlai E. Stevenson. Texas, Louisiana and Florida are the big question marks, Virginia and Kentucky lesser ones.

In state after state, even in some of those considered certain to go Democratic as usual, editors and correspondents say Eisenhower will receive the biggest vote ever accorded a Republican presidential candidate.

NINE TO STEVENSN

The composite opinion of southern newspaper men is that Democratic nominee Adlai Stevenson is certain to sweep the presidential election in Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Oklahoma and West Virginia. Those nine states have 88 electoral votes.

Kentucky is considered close but fairly sure to go Democratic. Virginia editors think their state is leaning toward Stevenson by such a scant margin as to be doubtful. Kentucky has 10 electoral votes, Virginia 12.

Editors are uncertain as to whether Texas, Louisiana and Florida, with 44 electoral votes among them, will remain Democratic.

When results of surveys in five middle Atlantic and 11 western states are combined with those in the south, newspaper men turn up with these opinions, on the basis of present trends:

1. Stevenson has the edge in 11 southern and border states which are fairly safe or at least leaning his way. He is expected to get Arizona from the western group. It adds up to a dozen states with 114 electoral votes to toss on the line Nov. 4.

2. Five middle Atlantic and nine mountain and western states are leaning toward Eisenhower or likely to back him. These 14 states gave a total of 174 electoral votes.

FOUR DOUBTFUL

3. Three southern states, plus Colorado, are political uncertainties. Their 50 electoral votes could go either to Stevenson or Eisenhower.

Needed to win the election—266 electoral votes.

Under the U.S. system, each state has a number of electoral votes equal to the number of its Representatives and Senators in Congress. If one presidential candidate carries the state by even the smallest popular-vote margin, he gets all that state's electoral votes.

South Africa Will Open Famed Park To The Public

PRETORIA, South Africa (CP)—Attractions rivalling those of the famed Kruger National Park await the tourist in the arid, sand-duned Kalahari desert of South Africa.

The National Parks Board of Trustees has decided to open to the public—probably next year—the Kalahari National Park. The park, constituted in 1931, has so far remained inaccessible to the public. About 8,000 square miles in area, it lies half in northwest Cape Province and half in Bechuanaland Protectorate, bordered on the west by South-West Africa.

The park contains thousands of gemsbok, a fine species of buck, in their natural home, as well as large numbers of springbok, wildebeest and red hartebeest. Wild ostrich, the Kalahari lion, leopard, hyena, cheetah, jackal, wild dog and other animals are also found. There are also birds in numerous varieties.

Many of these animals are found in the Kruger National Park, but there are no springbok there. The Kalahari lion, a tawny, golden-maned animal, is slightly smaller than the Kruger park lion.

In addition, there are the Bushmen, remnants of the aboriginal race of South Africa. Yellow-skinned and small, they are nomads, without social or religious institutions.

The bushmen are a dwindling race—there are only 22,000. But in Kalahari they will be employed as guides and tourists will be able to see several small settlements of bushmen living in their natural environment.

To overcome transport problems, the Board of Trustees plans to use camels and light cars. Seventy-four camels are being trained to serve as mounts for tourists.

Old-Time Threshing Gangs Disappearing From Prairies

REGINA (CP)—The romance of the prairie harvest has vanished.

Modern equipment in the fields and in the farm home has brought mechanical efficiency to fall operations. It has also ended the color and excitement that highlighted the season in the "good old days."

Fast disappearing is the old-time threshing gang, the 15 or 16 stook teams, the monster threshing machines, the gargantuan steam engines or powerful tractors that drove them, and the score of men it took to operate them.

Gone, too, is the excitement that gripped the farm family from the time the cry "the threshers are coming" rang over the farm yard until the machine disappeared in the distance on its way to the next farm on the threshers' schedule.

ADVENT OF COMBINE

The modern combine manned by one or two men has replaced one score of men and the machines of the past. The truck has retired the old horse team for hauling grain.

And the farm wife of today finds it easy to cope with only an extra hand or two for meals, especially with the aid of the new gas stove and the refrigerator.

Father and sons worked long hours in the past, "pitching bundles" on to the big stook racks, or perhaps working as "separator man," watching carefully the complex operation of the threshing machine. Maybe one of them fired the steam boiler of the engine, or acted as field or spike pitcher, helping to load and unload the racks of grain sheaves.

Junior members of the family usually skipped school. They spent the long autumn days perched on the spring seat atop the big green grain tank, driving down the dusty country road to deliver grain to the elevator.

REAL ASSET

To the distaff side of the family fell an important task. It was too bad for the farmer whose wife could not turn out meals to satisfy hungry harvesters. Next year he would likely have difficulty hiring a crew.

From early morning till long after dark the big black coal range in the kitchen roared at full blast.

Great roasts of beef, stacks of pies, loaves of homemade bread and dozens of ears of corn flowed from the kitchen. There were jars of spicy pickles and preserves from the basement shelves, dishes of butter and jugs of thick cream from the ice house.

Lunch time in the field was looked forward to by all hands. It was a welcome sight when the farmer's wife, seated in the old democrat, came with her load of thick sandwiches and pails of hot coffee.

TALL TALES

Tales of mines and lumber camps in the east were told by workers who had come west aboard the crowded harvest excursion trains. There were stories, too, about hobo "jungles," and "riding the rods," told by the itinerant workers who worked for a few days, yielded to the wanderlust, collected their pay and moved on again.

Binder twine sales now are only one-tenth of what they were 25 years ago.

The first combines appeared in Saskatchewan in 1928, replacing the binder slowly at first. Now, Saskatchewan not only has the most combines of any Canadian province but the 1951 census revealed that Saskatchewan farmers' machinery and equipment are valued at $525,600,000. Ontario is second with $445,300,000.

Iran M.P. Suggests Sell Oil To Soviet

TEHRAN—(CP) —A prominent member of Premier Mossadegh's National Front Party suggested in parliament that Iran should sell its oil to the Soviet Union.

Ahmed Razavi said Iran would not sell oil for the western arms program against Iran's friends.

"We shall sell oil to our Soviet friends and their allies," he said. "Iran shall not become a base against the Soviets, with whom we have a 1,200-mile border. We shall never be tools of any imperialist policy.

"If Churchill thinks there will be a revolution or he can impose a coup d'etat on us because of our hunger and bareness, he is sadly mistaken."

Cancels Honor

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen today cancelled an honor bestowed on a former Polish Army lieutenant by her late father. Powel Sliwa was made a Member of the Order of the British Empire in 1946 for "distinguished services in the Allies cause." The award was annulled because he was deported last January for selling information to the Polish Communist government.

Uncomfortable City

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Women lifted their skirts and men turned up their trousers today to step over piles of refuse which have accumulated here during a six-day strike of transport workers. The workers demand that the government cut red tape which has delayed wage increases.

SNOW ALREADY? NO SOAP — Motorists travelling along Canal Road in Valley View, near Cleveland, Ohio, are tempted to roll up the windows and turn on the heater, for foamy, white drifts line the banks of the canal. It's not snow, and although it feels like soapsuds, it isn't soap. So far, officials haven't been able to trace the source of the mysterious drifts.

Great Books Of Western World Collected

By W. G. ROGERS

NEW YORK (AP) — The 54 "Great Books of the Western World" are your chance to settle down for about 10 years of solid reading.

What is the western world and what have its outstanding inhabitants had to say for it? How have its scientists, novelists, poets, and philosophers shaped it, and how have they been shaped by it?

Perhaps all the answers aren't here, but it's hard to believe any important ones could have been skipped in this set of books, assembled in the course of nine years at the cost of $2,000,000, with the backing of the University of Chicago and the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Volume I contains an essay, "The Great Conversation," by editor Robert M. Hutchins, who was chancellor of the university when this vast project was started.

Liberal education, with us in theory, ought to be much more with us in fact, he declares; a liberal education is something you can't have "had." It goes on and on, particularly in these 32,000 pages, these 25,000,000 words.

Volumes II and III contain the unique "syntopicon" devised by editor Mortimer J. Adler. He has filed the intellectual heritage of the west under 102 basic headings. These are subdivided into a total of 2,987 topics, with 163,000 references and 1,798 "key terms".

As a dictionary is for words and an encyclopedia for facts, the "syntopicon" is for ideas. You can sit down and read right through its 102 separate factual essays, amounting to 600,000 words written by Adler.

You can read through the 54 books just as they are arranged, chronologically; or you can start with an idea and run it down to dramatist, statesman, historian, mathematician, economist, astronomer, wherever it leads you; or you can follow the suggested 10-year reading lists.

On the theory that everyone already owns a Bible, it is not included. On the theory that we are too near our own times to be able to judge contemporaries definitively, Freud is the only man whose writing reaches into our century. So this begins with Homer, Aeschylus, Sophocles, Euripides, and other Greeks.

Aquinas in two volumes is the largest single collection of writings; next in order are Aristotle, Gibbon and Shakespeare, all his plays and sonnets. There are no excerpts, most titles are used complete, and 21 authors are represented by their entire authenticated works.

"COOL CONTROL"

TABLE TENNIS: THE SERVE

1 Ball should be hit to bounce on your side of the table first and then on opponent's side. Ball must be hit from behind the table, not from a position over the table surface. Serving hand must be open and flat as fingers hold the ball for serve.

2 Keep control of your serve by bouncing ball near the end of the table on your side. Bouncing ball too near the net will result in too many netted balls and lost points. Keep serve low.

3 Rules prohibit finger spins and rubbing ball against face of racket when serving. Use a forward stroke on a vertical plane for best control. Practise change of pace and positioning by getting your service under complete control.

Yes, it's control that counts in table tennis as in every sport — control which brings the extraordinary quality that sets one performer above the other. In the ability to approach things coolly, to control every move and moment, lies the answer to better results.

This is one of a series designed to increase the pleasure of Canadians who participate in sports.

DE LORME KAYOS LA SURE

TOLEDO (CP)—Wendell de Lorme, 147, of Toledo, won by a technical knockout over Chuck la Sure, 150, Windsor, at 2:45 of the second round in a preliminary bout here last night.

LED THE CHAMPS—In his first season as playing manager of the Petes in the C.O.B.L.—he took over half way through the schedule—Joe Stewart was successful in leading the local club to the league championship. Regularly a first baseman, Joe filled in considerably at third this past summer and had a good year.

SUPERTEST
SURGING POWER

Roberts May Become Mound Threat

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Robin Roberts, young pitching sensation of Philadelphia Phillies, is putting in an early bid to join baseball's all-time mound greats.

The 25-year-old hurler, who has chalked up 20 or more victories in three consecutive seasons, handcuffed Cincinnati Reds 4-2 on five hits last night to become the first National League pitcher to win 25 games since Paul Derringer and Bucky Walters won 25 and 27, respectively, for the same Reds in 1939. He has lost seven.

As usual, Roberts was at his best when the chips were down. After spotting the Redlegs two runs in the first inning, he throttled them on three hits the rest of the way, struck out seven and allowed nary a walk.

In fact, it is Roberts' control that makes him a standout. In the 303 innings he's worked this year he has been touched for only 41 bases on balls, four of them intentional. During a run of 48 innings, starting July 20, he pitched five complete games—all victories—and two relief chores without issuing a single free ticket.

MAY DECIDE PENNANT

With the fourth-place Phillis 12 games off the pace, Roberts will not appear in the World Series, but he may be the man to decide who will win the National League pennant.

The Phillies have nine games remaining—six with New York Giants and three against Brooklyn Dodgers, and the strong-armed hurler is expected to start at least three more times before the season ends.

The Giants are only four games behind the Dodgers, and each team has 10 games left to play.

Rumor Kiner To Change Team

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph said yesterday reports are circulating that Ralph Kiner of the Pirates may play for an eastern team next season.

There are also reports, said baseball writer Charles J. Doyle in a dispatch from Brooklyn, that General Manager Branch Rickey of the Bucs is gunning for a chance to cut Kiner's pay if Ralph signs an eighth contract.

"Rickey is said to have grieved a bit when Kiner did his salary business with (Pirate President) John Galbreath," Doyle reported.

In Pittsburgh Rickey said: "I have not given anything of the kind any thinking."

Aside from the good chance he has of winning the National League home run championship for the seventh season in a row, Kiner is posting the lowest batting mark since his freshman season with the Bucs when he batted .244. He now is at .247.

Puck Season Opens In Lindsay Arena

LINDSAY (ENS)—Lindsay arena will hum with activity beginning Thursday as the unofficial hockey season here opens with the appearance for the third year of the two hockey teams owned by Eddie Shore. The Syracuse entry in the A.H.L. and the Springfield, Mass. team from the Eastern Amateur League will make their appearance for a month training and schooling session Thursday morning.

About 125 pucksters are expected to arrive in Lindsay during the next few days to attend the camp, which is operated both as a training centre and a school for younger players. Shore will, during the month here, bring in several A.H.L. and N.H.L. teams for exhibition games and will also conduct a hockey school for the young fry of the town and district. It was announced that this season's Lindsay junior "B" team will be sponsored in part at least by Shore. He expected to furnish some of the financial backing for the team, which will be coached by town recreation director Bill (Red) Mitchell and will also supply the uniforms for the lads.

SERIES-SERIOUS—Thomas Fleming is a New York baseball fan who is determined to keep posted on what happens to the three New York teams in the final days of the pennant races. Via two radios and television set, Fleming sees and hears simultaneously games involving the Giants, Dodgers and Yankees, in and out of New York City. A huge scoreboard records results as they come in.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Concerning the recent senior "B" puck group meeting, the Kingston columnist remarks: "The teams finishing first and second in the designated interlocking groups meet in a best-of-seven series, the survivors then meeting in a similar final playoff set. Under this arrangement, a team might finish fifth in the combined grouping and then go on to capture the all-over title. Orillia, Stouffville and Kingston clubs have made a mutual agreement regarding the pooling of expenses. A suggestion made that each club must post a guarantee of $200 that it would not withdraw during the season was turned down by Oshawa, Orillia and Stouffville." As it stands now—and is likely to stand—the Petes will be the only local club in this setup.

Cobourg's Galloping Ghosts (packed to the hilt) got quite a jolt when our Orfuns scored the first touchdown on 'em last Saturday in Cobourg and came close to beating them. Orfuns didn't do it, but may well wallop the Wraiths here Friday p.m. A lakeshore writer remarked after the first tilt: "The path appears a little clouded today for the Ghosts. Once given the green light on a powerhouse sweep through their grid group, the Gallopers today are not a sure bet. The reason is a big, formidable outfit from Peterborough. For awhile Saturday it looked like the only orphans would be in the Ghost scoring column." Yeah, don't see Orfuns short. They take the Ghosts on here Friday and might well win it.

That McPhail Guy's Cocky

Don McPhail and his Toronto Yorks feel that they're right at their peak now after eliminating Mimico Mounties three straight, and they predict victory o'er the local Timbermen in Eastern Canada finals. The Petes took a bye in order to rest up for this big series, so it remains to be seen whether constant playing or a layoff puts a team in better shape for an important series. Last year, Petes took the bye and went on to win the eastern finals and the Mann Cup. They hope history repeats. First test is here tonight at 8:45, weather permitting, with the second of the best-of-seven series in Mimico on Friday. Then back here Monday. Yorks have chosen Mimico for a "home" site in this serious series. Local fans won't see too many more games, so the tilts here in this series should jam the place.

* * * * * *

Now that they've won the C.O.B.L. senior ball title, the Petes' players are meeting to decide whether or not to go on into O.B.A. playdowns. We wouldn't advise 'em to do so. Why? Well, the O.B.A. has designated Peterborough, Belleville and the Western Counties' teams as senior "B", while ruling only the Niagara district and the Intercounty Loop as senior "A". Perhaps the O.B.A. is right, since these packed clubs are of pro calibre and too strong for the more amateurish clubs up this way. But what glory is there in going after a "B" crown after playing in an "A" circuit all summer?

* * * * * *

With Ulterior Motives ?

Manager Stan Scrutton was pretty peeved at the C.O.B.L. for not seeing things his way re playoff dates, and says the Monarchs are through with the loop. He wondered, not too vaguely, if the Petes' plans called for the use of Lefty Dadson in all remaining final games. Naturally, the locals wanted to make full use of their best hurler in the important series. And naturally Kingston didn't want to see too much of the classy southpaw, who beat 'em twice in Megaffip Stadium. Also the Scruttoneers were hoping to hurry the series along ere Joe Levandoski rejoined Boston Bruins later this week. The league decision apparently was based quite properly on a "what's the big rush anyway?" attitude.

Rain last p.m. washed out the exhibition Bowl tilt betwixt Seabrooke's softball champs and the Parish League all-stars, but it will be staged there at 7.30 Friday eve. Meantime, Seabrooke's squad are off tonight to open O.A.S.A. senior "B" playdowns in Oshawa, the return joust being here Saturday night. Red Sullivan is available for tonight's tussle but is due to leave for the Boston puck training camp ere the end of the week. He has a long hockey season ahead of him with the Bruins. Left in senior "B" softball competition are Brantford, Hamilton, Kitchener, St. Catharines, Sarnia and Chatham, though they are already in process of knocking each other out. Byes have been granted to the Peterborough-Oshawa winner and Sudbury into provincial semi-finals, opening Sept. 27.

MATHERS QUITS HOCKEY

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Frank Mathers, veteran defenceman for Pittsburgh Hornets, American Hockey League champions, informed the club yesterday he is quitting the game. Mathers, a native of Winnipeg, gave no reason but it was reported he is returning to college to study dentistry. He is 28.

Brampton Trims Vancouver 27-9; Heavy Favorites

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—To put it mildly, Brampton Excelsiors are heavy favorites to take the Canadian junior lacrosse championship in three straight games.

Excelsiors axed Vancouver Kerries 27-9 last night in the first game of a best-of-five series for the Minto Cup, with all but two Brampton players hitting the scoring sheet at least once.

The second game, and Kerries are probably cringing at the thought, is set for tomorrow night while the third contest will be played Saturday night.

The huskier, faster and wiser easterners plowed to a 12-2 first-quarter lead and by half time, they were ahead 16-3. At the three-quarter mark the score was 23-6 and Excelsiors grabbed four of the seven final-quarter goals.

During the latter part of the first quarter and until a Vancouver goal at 9:35 of the second, Brampton fired in 12 goals without a return.

GOALIE REPLACED

Ron Delmonico started in goal for Vancouver but, stunned by an avalanche of goals, was replaced at the start of the second by Gordy Stoddard. Delmonico stopped but one of 13 shots which came his way.

Brampton defenceman Ken Woods was the only casualty of the game with the exception of the scorekeeper and his writers' cramp.

A flying ball caught Woods on the side of the head during the second quarter. He lay stunned and had to be helped off the floor. However, after his head was bathed in ice water, Woods returned to the game.

Victorious goalie was Jimmy Dodds, who stopped three shots in the first, four in the second and three in the final quarter.

Top scorer was forward Jack Bionda with six goals. Forward John Hilson got four and George Laidlaw and Jack Sibbald three apiece.

Rover Fred Aspin starred for Kerries with four goals, drawing the cheers of a partisan crowd of approximately 900. Frank Pavan got two for Kerries and Jim Houghton, Dave Lincke and Bob Parry one apiece.

Would Revise Olympic Rules

LONDON (AP)—The Football Association is pressing for a revision of rules governing Olympic soccer.

The group, in its latest bulletin, asks that the definition of amateur be clarified and that the program of the Olympic soccer tournament be revised.

"It is quite obvious," the bulletin said, "that there is at present a vast difference between the British conception of amateur status and certain other countries."

The association also suggests that the tournament schedule be changed to permit a series of eliminations before the Olympic Games.

Pointing out that many countries had to travel thousands of miles to play one game at Helsinki this summer, the association recommends the eliminations be staged on a zone basis to produce eight teams for the championship tournament.

MEEKER TO PLAY AGAIN

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Howie Meeker, Toronto Maple Leafs hockey forward and Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Waterloo South, was talked out of retirement yesterday by Managing Director Conn Smythe.

Smythe said he and Meeker had a chat and "I think we have it all straightened out now." Smythe didn't explain why Meeker had been considering retiring but it was believed due to his concern whether he could handle both his hockey job and his parliamentary duties.

Meeker plans to attend sessions of Parliament at every opportunity as he did last season.

SMYTHE MAD AT PACT

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Conn Smythe, managing director of Toronto Maple Leafs, said last night President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League had exceeded his authority in agreeing to certain terms with the American Hockey League.

Smythe was commenting on the results of a two-day meeting of the A.H.L. in Buffalo, N.Y. The minor league reaffirmed its attention of forbidding N.H.L. teams to recall players on option to A.H.L. clubs during the season. However, it granted a concession to the N.H.L. that the rule would not apply in cases where the parent club became weakened with injuries or illness.

"There can be no agreement between the N.H.L. and the A.H.L., as given out in a statement from Buffalo, because Campbell was instructed by the league what to do and he didn't do it," Smythe said.

Smythe, bitter foe of the A.H.L.'s new rule, said Campbell was to make certain offers to the Buffalo meeting in return for an agreement whereby an N.H.L. club could recall up to four players during the season.

The A.H.L. accepted the offers, but wouldn't allow the "four recall" proposal.

The N.H.L., in return for the A.H.L. waiving the no-recall rule, offered to supply the A.H.L. with referees and services of the referee-in-chief without charge, except for expenses, provide use of the N.H.L.'s central registry for players and thus take charge of bookkeeping, a neutral drafting of players by both N.H.L. and A.H.L. teams for a price of $10,000, and a reduction of the reserve list from 44 to 28 players.

Smythe said previously that if the no-recall rule wasn't revoked he would be forced to send his best surplus players elsewhere but Pittsburgh, where they would be at his immediate call.

Smythe said the minor league's action on the rule "looks to me as if the A.H.L. is committing suicide."

Series Square As Leafs Belt Royals

MONTREAL (CP) — The surprising Toronto Maple Leafs beat the Montreal Royals 3-0 last night in the sixth game of the best-of-seven International Baseball League Governors' Cup semi-final series. The series now is all square at three wins apiece.

John Hetki, husky right-hander, gave the Royals only five hits as he registered his shutout. He was ahead of the hitters all the way and didn't walk a man while striking out 10.

Mal Mallette, veteran Montreal left-hander, had one bad inning, the sixth, in which the visitors bunched four hits for all their runs.

Bob Dei Greco started this frame with a triple and came in on Pete Pavlick's long fly to centre. A single by Ed Stevens followed by Mike Goliat's double to centre accounted for the second run. Goliat went to third on the throw to the plate, which was too late to get Stevens, and scored when Mallette uncorked a wild pitch.

Mallette retired for a pinch-hitter in the bottom of the sixth Art Fabro, who succeeded him, hurled two scoreless frames before being taken out for another pinch-swinger and Tom Lasorda finished up.

Timmis, Wright Play For Queen's

KINGSTON (CP)—Brian Timmis Jr., and Freddy Wright, whose fathers both were outstanding football players 20 years ago, will play for Queen's University Golden Gaels in the senior Intercollegiate league this season.

Timmis, second-year science student, is a halfback and an exceptionally good kicker.

Freddy Wright is able to fill any position.

Other players who checked in yesterday included Don Bahner, who has played at quarterback and halfback with Queens, and Jim Cruickshank, a halfback from St. Catharines.

Durocher Gambles, Loses Giants 4 Games Behind

By JOE REICHLER, Associated Press Sports Writer

"I just gambled and lost, that's all." The quotes are those of manager Leo Durocher, who yesterday astounded the experts, fans, opposition and his own players by pinning the New York Giants' pennant hopes on the left arm of a pitching neophyte who had never hurled an inning of big league ball. The youngster is 25-year-old Jack Harshman, a former first base flop, who turned to minor league pitching last spring and was brought up to the Giants day before yesterday after a 7-7 record with Minneapolis of the American Association.

Harshman walked to the mound under his own power but collapsed quickly and Chicago Cubs, behind Warren Hacker, breezed to a 9-0 victory. The defeat was a bitter one since it was followed by Brooklyn's 4-2 triumph over Pittsburgh that boosted the Dodgers' National League lead over the Giants to four games with only 10 to go.

NO ALIBIS

Leo could have pointed out that the way Hacker pitched, it didn't matter whom he sent to the mound. But the gritty skipper simply said:

"I had to go with Harshman. Who else did I have? The others are all overworked."

The Giant players, who raised their eyebrows questioningly when they learned of Durocher's plans, didn't help their cause much, eking out a meagre three widely-scattered hits off the Cub knuckle-baller.

Heartened by the Giants' loss, the Brooks stepped out in the evening and knocked off the Pirates with the help of home runs by Gil Hodges and Duke Snider. Gil hammered his 32nd off loser Murry Dickson after Andy Pafko had doubled in the second inning and Snider hit his 20th in the fourth.

It took a sterling relief job by rookie Jim Hughes and another by Joe Black to preserve the Brooks' lead. Hughes, recently brought up from Montreal, relieved starter Billy Loes with the bases loaded and nobody out in the fourth and retired the Pirates without permitting a run.

BLACK SAVES GAME

The Bucs finally scored on the 28-year-old righthander in the ninth and had the tying runs on the base when Black sauntered in for his 52nd appearance and fanned Frank Thomas for the third out.

Cleveland remained stationary in its pursuit of the American League-leading New York Yankees despite a 10-inning, 4-3 victory over Washington Senators. The Yankees maintained their 2½-game margin—with 10 to go—when rookie southpaw Bill Miller twirled a three-hit, 7-0 shutout over Detroit Tigers. Joe Collins and Hank Bauer homered to hand Art Houtteman his 19th loss. It was the Yankees' fifth straight win.

Any combination of eight Yankee victories or Indian defeats will give the New Yorkers their fourth successive flag.

Mike Garcia kept the Indians in the running, spinning a 10-hitter, his 21st victory against 10 defeats.

St. Louis Cardinals advanced to within 3½ games of the second-place Giants, sweeping a twi-night twin-bill from Boston Braves, 8-6 and 5-1.

ROBERTS WINS 25TH

Robin Roberts became the first National League pitcher since 1939 to reach 25 victories when he pitched Philadelphia Phillies to a 4-2 victory over Cincinnati Reds. Bucky Walters won 27 and Paul Derringer 25 for the '39 Reds.

Chicago White Sox protected their third-place position in the American League, dividing a double-header with the Philadelphia A's. Dave Philley's homer and Harry Byrd's seven-hit pitching won the opener for the A's 2-1. An 11-hit attack, highlighted by Eddie Robinson's 21st homer and a pair of doubles by Rocco Krsnich, helped the Sox take the nightcap, 7-1.

Rookie Jim Dyck blasted a pair of homers for St. Louis Browns but they could not overcome an early seven-run lead piled up by Boston Red Sox who won, 11-7, to take fifth place from the Senators.

Klukay Sold To Boston By Toronto Leafs

BOSTON (AP)—Boston Bruins yesterday announced the purchase of Joe Klukay, veteran National Hockey League forward, from Toronto Maple Leafs for an undisclosed amount of cash and the rights to an unnamed amateur player.

Klukay, a lefthanded shot, can play all three forward positions and will be used by the Bruins as a penalty-killer. He turned professional for the Toronto club in 1943.

In St. Catharines where the Leafs are training, Managing Director Conn Smythe said "we have to concentrate on a rebuilding program involving youth." Klukay had earned a chance at staying in the big league.

Klukay, native of Sault Ste. Marie, will be 31 in November. His best point-scoring season in the National Hockey League was in the 1947-48 season when he counted 15 goals and 15 assists.

CARDELL, DUNN DRAW

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Vic Cardell, 146½, Hartford, and George Dunn, 136¼, Edmonton, fought a 12-round draw last night in their second meeting for the New England welterweight title. Fighting for the title left vacant by the advancement of Ralph Zanelli to the middleweight division, Cardell and Dunn fought a savage return fight before some 5,300 fans who paid about $10,000. Cardell won the previous meeting by one point.

Thinks Practice Teaching Harmful To Students

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. Henry Bowers, principal of Stratford Normal School, yesterday questioned the effect on pupils whose classes are conducted by teachers-in-training.

He told a panel discussion at the Canadian Education Association that some of the things fledgling teachers are called upon to do in the classroom could be practised first on persons who would not be affected by the results.

"Does a medical student learn surgery by operating on someone?" he asked. "Or a budding lawyer learn his profession by taking on an important court case?"

Dr. Bowers said one answer would be to disect practice teaching into its minute skills and techniques and have them practised individually by the student teachers before they enter a class.

A poll of delegates revealed a common use of practice teaching in all provinces but a wide diversity in the amount used. The panel reached no formal conclusion on the subject, but it was indicated most educationists favor some form of practice teaching.

Mind Reader Says Job Has Drawbacks

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Joseph Dunninger, famed mind reader and magician here to help mastermind the filming of "Houdini," says his profession has is drawbacks.

"For instance," he said, "a few years ago I was to be interviewed by a magazine writer. When she arrived, she didn't ask any questions. She wanted me to guess what she was asking."

Dunninger's reputation naturally precludes any card games. When he was appearing at a Las Vegas casino, the management requested that he stay away from the black jack table.

"And my friends won't play cards with me," he added.

He is bothered by innumerable practical jokers and gagsters. And then there are just plain pests.

STRICTLY BUSINESS

Dunninger said he is often bothered at parties by having the host ask him to perform. He tells them that he has a contract form handy and he'll sign to put on his act — at the usual rates.

The magic business, Dunninger said, is in bad shape. Every other person is an amateur magician, he said, but there are few good professionals. Gone are the old big-time shows, only Blackstone remains," he remarked, "and he still puts on a good act.

"The trouble is that there are only two big vaudeville houses left — one in Canada and one in New York, the Palace. I think there is a big future for magic in television. But today's youngsters have only a few tricks. Those are expended in one week in TV."

Does he know the answer to the flying saucers?

"I only believe in things I can see," he replied. "I have never seen a flying saucer."

Two Plead Guilty

Two men pleaded guilty to drunk charges in police court Tuesday. William Walsh, 485 Sherbrooke St., and Harold Healey, 158 Dufferin St., were each fined $10 and $2.50 costs or ten days in jail.

Murder Charge Reduced

TORONTO (CP)—Hugh F. Gillis yesterday was found guilty of manslaughter in the strangulation death of Mrs. Violet Murray. He will be sentenced later. Gillis had been charged with murder of the 45-year-old widow whose body was found in his room April 13.

Fly Dog 700 Miles To Seek Missing Child

EDMONTON (CP)—The air force announced yesterday a mercy plane will fly nearly 700 miles to deliver an R.C.M.P. dog for use in the search for a two-year-old boy missing in the bush 300 miles northwest of Edmonton.

A plane will fly from Edmonton to Calgary where it will pick up the R.C.M.P. dog "King" and deliver the dog to Warrensville in the Peace River country.

Ronald Wayne Wilson has been lost in the bush since Monday.

Unofficial Graduates Seen Becoming Big Problem

TORONTO — The problem of what to do with students who graduate unofficially from school before they finish the prescribed courses of study, held the attention of a three-hour session of the Canadian Education Association yesterday in the King Edward Hotel.

"When a student steps out of school to make his fortune, the school or the education system has not discharged its obligation toward him," declared Jean Delorme, director-general of technical education studies in Quebec.

"If 50 per cent of our boys and girls leave school upon completing the Seventh Grade, then society must find other avenues of training which will help these students adjust to modern working conditions," said Mr. Delorme.

While admitting it was "hard to visualize a vocational course which would train for assembly line or unskilled labor jobs," Mr. Delorme said he felt vocational courses did provide the answer to the 14-year-old bent on leaving school.

"Vocational training should not be considered by educational authorities as an appendix to the school system," he said. "It must not be considered as a scrap-pile for failures and poor students, nor must it be considered a cure-all for drop-outs.

MUST FORESEE NEEDS

"All our schools must foresee the needs of the students who will discontinue their schooling before the completed course and start preparing them for employment during their first years at school," concluded Mr. Delorme.

"I don't think all the ills of Canadian education would be solved by keeping every adolescent in school until he is 16 or 18 or some other mandatory age," argued T. W. Oates, director of secondary education for Hamilton.

"It seems to me a lot of students in our schools today are just warming the seats and crowding the schools. There are too many lazy overgrown louts taking up room in our schools today. They serve no good purpose, either to the school, their parents, or themselves.

STRESS RESPONSIBILITY

"Lazy students and careless parents should be made more conscious of their responsibility to make the best use of educational facilities," Mr. Oates continued. "Otherwise, they are wasting the taxpayer's money."

A. M. Moon, assistant director of the vocational branch of the Ontario Department of Education, envisioned a program of two-year courses as one means of bridging the gap between the time when a pupil's interest flagged in routine studies and the school-leaving age of 16 years.

"It is quite feasible," said Mr. Moon, "to establish two-year courses which will interest a 14-year-old, fed up with ordinary academic studies. These courses combine a rather biased academic study-plan with shop-work. The academic training is keyed to the problems confronted in the shop. Besides its practical value, such a course gives the student a feeling of security, a feeling that he has something to sell on the labor market."

A program of co-operative employment and study was also suggested by Mr. Moon as a way to meet the drop-out problem. "We tried such a plan about 15 years ago," he said. "It didn't work then because when the student did come to school to take his courses he was treated as if he were a criminal for having deserted the school at all. We are a bit wiser in the ways of young people now," concluded Mr. Moon. "Perhaps we could try the part-time work, part-time school idea over again."

U.K. Aircraft Industry Expects Rush Of Orders

By E.S. JOHNSON

LONDON (CP)—Britain's booming aircraft industry setting a torrid pace in the jet-propelled field, is preparing for a rush of dollar-earning orders from overseas for its latest supersonic airliners.

The most urgent demand has come from the United States, although inquiries have also been received from South America, West Germany, Japan and other countries.

All are interested in a larger and longer-range version of the De Havilland Comet jet-liner at present in operation on the Empire routes of British Overseas Airways Corporation. But there is a problem of early deliveries.

The De Havilland Aircraft Company has announced that its production plans provide for the building of only six more advanced-trype Comets, known as the Mark III, by 1956, followed by up to 50 in 1957 and another 70 in 1958.

However, it is reported that negotiations have been opened with representatives of prospective United States customers, including Pan American Airways, about purchase of several Mark II Comets for preliminary introduction—possibly by 1954—on the North Atlantic route. Such a deal, it is argued, would provide valuable experience in jet airline operation before the Mark III Comet becomes available.

MILITARY CONFLICT

What the industry will be able to do to meet the wider demand will largely depend on what revisions are made in Britain's rearmament program. Details are being worked out by the military chiefs of staff and are expected to be announced by Prime Minister Churchill shortly after Parliament reconvenes in October.

With the problems of labor, shortages of materials and machine tools gradually being overcome, spokesmen for the manufacturers have expressed confidence that new export orders can be met from present resources, provided they are backed by firm contracts.

What is needed, they say, is assurance of military and civilian contracts at a sufficient level to give the industry the stability of a clear production run.

An indication that steps would be taken toward that end was given by the Prime Minister in the economic debate before the Commons rose for its summer recess.

Any reshaping of the arms program, Churchill said, would leave room for the industry to take commercial advantage of the military as well as civil aircraft it develops.

This hint of future government policy was later underscored by Defence Minister Earl Alexander in a speech to the Society of British Aircraft Constructors.

ADVANCE DATES

The new program, he said, would centre on the quickest possible build-up of new aircraft and weapons of the latest type which constitute the most formidable deterrent to aggression. The industry would be asked to expert its utmost efforts in advancing the dates when the latest types can be brought into service.

"We are anxious that civil exports should be increased and we hope that there will in future be more military aircraft to spare to meet the demands of our overseas customers," Lord Alexander said.

Hit Labor Rule

TORONTO (CP)—William T. Aitken, Conservative Member of the British Parliament, said yesterday socialism for Great Britain has been "an unmitigated disaster." Addressing a Progressive Conservative meeting here, he said the six years of labor rule from 1945 to 1951 had led Britain toward economic collapse.

BANKS RELAX

City banks, ordered to keep rear doors shut during working hours since the escape of the Boyd gang, will probably relax their precautions today. City police have kept a tighter check on banks than usual during the gang's 10-day freedom.

NO TENANCY DELAY

Tenancy of the federal government property on Charlotte St. is merely from day to day. That was the council's agreement with Ray Brown when he rented it for a parking lot. Removal of the temporary building used as office is a minor job, if it it does not interest the contractor.

ANNUAL COUNTY DINNER

The annual Peterborough County outing and dinner is being held today in Otonabee township. Warden Dick Stewart and Mrs. Stewart will be host and hostess to members of the county council and other guests at a reception this afternoon. And the annual dinner will be tonight at Stewart Hall.

LOSES FINGER

A son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Morrison, of Eagle Lake lost part of his finger while playing with an older brother in their yard. The two boys were playing with a shovel when the youngster stuck his hand too close to the shovel and the first joint was cut off. He was treated by Dr. L. Carroll at the Haliburton Red Cross Outpost Hospital.

AT EDUCATIONAL MEET

At least 10 Peterborough trustees and educational officials are attending the Canadian Educational Association meeting (Sept. 16-17) in Toronto. Some went Tuesday only and others are in Toronto today. They include Board of Education Trustees Mrs. Paige Rowell, G. Wilson Craw, Dr. Ralph Honey, K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schools K. O. Land Assembly To Be Explained

Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation has invited local builders, suppliers, bank managers and representatives of loan firms to a dinner tonight to explain details of the Land Assembly Scheme.

Originally, the corporation planned to discuss the building of the Queen Elizabeth subdivision with the 15 builders who will handle all the work there. More were invited because more subdivisions will be opened in successive years.

Speakers will be Raymond Card and F. H. Burnaby, regional architect and region loans manager for the housing corporation.

Students Start To Squeak And Squawk As Student Council Campaign Begins

There'll be plenty of squeaks and squawks at P.C.V.S. during the next couple of weeks, but all the squeaking and squawking by the students will be for the "political" parties, the Squeaks and the Squawks. Yes, the usual campaign for the students' council is officially under way.

This week the students from Grade 10 to Grade 13 chose eight boys and girls who will be battling in the two-week campaign for president, vice-president, treasurer and secretary of the students' council. The defeated candidates will hold less official positions in school functions such as heads of the social functions and At Home committees.

On Tuesday the parties' propaganda began as the Squeaks and Squaws started placing posters advertising candidates throughout the corridors. This is only a beginning; there'll be skits and broadcasts over the P.A. system to announce to students their party platforms.

Highlights of the campaign will be the election speeches. There candidates promise everything from a one-hour two-day week for working students to the more serious planks such as a school fund for student projects.

These speeches will begin Friday at the school's senior assembly when president candidates, Betty Anne Wilkinson for the Squeaks and Lorraine Derry for the Squawks, present their party platforms.

At assemblies next week the other candidates, for the Squeaks, George Allison for vice-president, Wynona Greenwood for treasurer, Bob Ross for secretary, and for the Squawks, Chane Carter for vice-president, Ruth Grandy for treasurer and Skip Pulver for secretary, will present further speeches and party planks.

The school boasts of its record on election day. Although the students treat the campaign as entertainment, they become serious on election day and choose the boys and girls they think will make the best council, the highest positions attainable for a student at collegiate. The students turn out in full force for a 100 per cent vote; very rarely a ballot is thrown out.

So if you're passing the collegiate during the next two weeks and hear loud squeaking and squawking, just blame it on the politicians.

Students Search For Effects Of Geography On Kawarthas

Thirty university students are making a comprehensive geographical study of the Kawartha Lakes district. They are all third or fourth year Honor Geography students from McMaster University and the University of Toronto who are taking a four-day field course as part of their studies.

Exploring and checking information on a geographical area such as the Kawarthas gives the students a first-hand practical knowledge of a subject that might otherwise be too theoretical.

The students are divided into groups of five and by late Friday hope to have collected sufficient information on the district to permit them to write a report on their findings. Each one writes his own; the intention is not to write a master report.

SIX STUDIES

Their research breaks down into six activities: A study of Peterborough and its influence on the rural area; recreational facilities; use of land; study of the topography of the district as shown by aerial photos; map reading, and verification by personal investigation; and township planning.

Tuesday was the first day of the four days of field training for the students. They are staying at Young's Point and travelling about by car.

"Every year we have a different field camp," said John O'Neill, who with another third year Toronto student, Sheila McCullough, was the first to come to the Examiner building. "Last year it was the Pembroke region; this year it is the Kawarthas; and next year there'll be a different location.

IDEAL SIZE

"Peterborough is about the ideal size of city we want to study. It's not too large to examine in the few days we have for the field course. The drainage of the lakes gives lots of scope for study, too."

In general, the students will try to find out what part geography has had in determining the development of Peterborough and district. But as both Mr. O'Neill and Miss McCullough conceded: This runs into other fields than just geography.

The subject embraces almost all of the social sciences, with strong emphasis on economics and sociology.

"Geographers can't agree among themselves on just what are the limits to geographical studies," said Miss McCullough. "There's no end of arguments on that."

City Man Jailed Four Months For Bookmaking

Edward Alberico, 4 Aberdeen Ave., was sentenced to four months in reformatory today, after he pleaded guilty to a bookmaking charge.

A plea by his counsel James Dunn, for a fine rather than imprisonment, because the offence was similar to income tax dodging failed to impress Magistrate W. R. Philp.

After Alberico's record was produced, showing three gambling convictions, two as a found-in and another for running a common betting house, Magistrate Philp commented: "It is not an isolated offence but a general type of offence."

John Wesley Miller, the same officer of the provincial police anti-gambling squad whose evidence convicted Alberico last year, produced the results of a raid on Alberico's home on August 22.

PAPERS SEIZED

Several copies of the Daily Racing Form were seized and two sheets, containing names and initials. The names, on two of the sheets corresponded with names of horses running at major Canadian and U.S. tracks, listed in the alphabetical index of the racing forms entered as exhibits, officer Miller said.

The one sheet showed 154 horses running at six major tracks he said, and listed 21 names, with bets ranging from 50 cents to $20, totalling $421 in wagers. The other sheet, for the following day listed 193 horses running at six Canadian and U. S. tracks. The bets totalled $639.50, and ranged from 50 cents to $80. There were 22 names listed.

Arguing that the only reason there was an offence was because the bets were taken "outside the fence" instead of "inside the fence," where betting can be legalized, Mr. Dunn said the government was not getting its percentage and therefore it was similar to income tax violation.

Officer Miller said from experience, he knew the average bookmaker's commission was from 20 to 25 per cent on bets and in sentencing Alberico, Magistrate Philp said, "From the amount of money handled in the two days, and the income from it, if it were continued regularly, it would produce a substantial income."

Seven Adoptions During Summer

Seven adoptions were completed through the Peterborough Children's Aid Society during the summer months.

Miss Rachael Young, superintendent, said that eight children were admitted to care during the same period, in her report at the society's board meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Staff members of the society made 1,092 visits and held 379 office interviews. There were 361 cases under supervision including 162 family situations, 156 children in care and 43 unmarried parent cases.

Thirty-one families were referred to the society by doctor, neighbor, clergy, nurse, police, bailiff, other societies and some made personal application for service.

Five unmarried parents requested assistance of which four asked for help in planning for their child.

Dental examinations were given to 47 children, which involved approximately 60 visits.

Arrangements were made for 15 children to attend camp. This project was financed by the Kiwanis Club, Local Council of Women, Welfare League, Business and Professional Women's Club and a private citizen.

There were 65 cases heard in Family Court and five requests for reports under the Matrimonial Causes Act.

BAILIEBORO'S WOMEN'S INSTITUTE visited Peterborough Tuesday and toured the city and city industries. This group was one of three which visited the city Monday and Tuesday, Coleridge W.I. and Bogartown W.I. also paying visits. The 32 Bailieboro women were divided into three groups and taken through the Examiner. Of particular interest to the women was the Examiner's new teletype-setter. Maurice Dunkley, one of the operators, shows Mrs. Dawson Rutherford, Mrs. W. D. Jones and Mrs. Jeff Jewison (left to right, top) national and international news as it comes over the wire. Every Corner Of "Y" Used As Season Starts

Every nook and corner in the Y.M.C.A. will be used and filled to capacity during the fall, winter and spring programs, according to the schedule drawn up by the staff, Charles Forsyth, William MacFarlane and Fraser Wade. Large classes and increased activities have caused further cramping in the already cramped quarters.

The boys' classes, under boys' secretary Mr. MacFarlane and Mr. Wade, started this week, and all reported large attendances. The largest group is the pioneer section, boys eight and nine years old, which has more than 100, requiring two classes.

The next class, the juveniles for 10 and 11-year-olds, is also a large class, numbering about 80. All other boys' groups, juniors (12-13 years), intermediates (14-15 years), rural boys, and senior classes (high school students) have increased registrations.

FRIENDSHIP CLUBS

A system of friendship clubs has been started this year from the youngest to the oldest groups. These clubs hinge around the neighborhood gangs, the boys remaining together in activities around the "Y."

Charles Forsyth said that emphasis will be on recreation and social activities for the whole membership this year. Through these discussion groups, speeches and get-togethers, the "Y" hopes to broaden the interests and skills of the individual.

The adults' program won't begin until later this month, but already the indications are larger classes and increased activities. Two new classes, judo and fencing have been added to the weekly program which is filled practically every minute of the day.

8 Killed By Train

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Eight persons—six of them from one family—were killed last night when a diesel-powered freight train whammed an old-model auto at a railroad crossing. All eight—a woman, five children, and two men—were passengers in the car. No one on the train was injured. Thoms Fort, 32, his wife and four children were among the dead.

Friendship Begun By Youths Brings Australian Visitor

C. F. Adermann, deputy-speaker of the House of Representatives, Canberrra, Australia, was a weekend guest of Dr. D. W. Clark and Mrs. Clark at their home 508 Monaghan Road. Mr. Adermann has been attending the Commonwealth Parliamentary Conference at Ottawa as one of the official representatives of Australia and New Zealand. On this visit to Canada from those British outpost islands in the South Pacific, he personalized a friendship made by letter during the Second World War.

His home is at Kingaroy, northwest of Brisbane, in the state of Queensland.

Interesting coincidence recurs along the bright thread of sentiment which has bound together these two families since their sons met at Aylmer, Ontario, as young volunteers in the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan, which was established across Canada early in the war.

MET GRANT CLARK

Colin Litzow, only son of Mr. Adermann's cousin, came all the way from Ipswich, near Brisbane, in Queensland, one of two young Australians learning to fly and acquire combat skill in the air. He and Grant Clark, of Peterborough, became close friends.

Some of their periods of leave were spent in Peterborough at the Clark home, and thus the families of the two young airmen were drawn together in the friendship of their sons.

One day of a light mist when the blue of the sky and water seemed merged, and it may not have been so clearly apparent as usual where the one ended and the other began, a wing tip of Colin's plane dipped beneath the surface. Not until three months later did Lake Erie give up his body.

It was just prior to graduation and the dispersal of that class. Among the Australian boys at the camp, Colin was rated as ace of their group.

BURIED AT AYLMER

Not until three months later was his body recovered from Lake Erie. And so, the Queensland boy was buried at Aylmer on Decoration Day. Dr. and Mrs. Clark and Grant attended the service, and placed on the Ontario grave a wreath of flowers in tribute to Colin Litzow, and also vicariously for his bereaved family. An Ayl-

Provinces Meet Near Lindsay

TORONTO (CP)—The work of provincial governments in industrial development will be discussed next week at the fourth annual conference of the provincial governments' trade and industry council.

Composed of senior officials in provincial business development departments, the council seeks to co-ordinate federal and provincial governments in trade and industry activities. About 60 delegates are expected to attend this year's meeting near Lindsay at Gil-Mar Lodge on Sturgeon Lake.

Discussions will open Sept. 21 and carry through Sept. 24. Speakers will include Mitchell Sharpe, associate deputy minister of trade and commerce; Dr. Hugh H. Saunderson, co-ordinator materials branch, defence department; J.F. Ingram, supervisor, industrial development branch, Toronto, and Dr. O.J. Firestone, economic adviser, department of trade and commerce, Ottawa.

Catching Diseases Total 507 Cases

There were 507 cases of communicable diseases reported to the Department of Health during June, July and August.

Mumps topped the list with 203. There were 11 cases of chicken pox, 89 cases of German measles, 10 cases of red measles and one case of scarlet fever.

Three active cases of tuberculosis were discovered during the summer and all were admitted to sanitorium.

PENCIL PUNCTURES CHEST

Six-year-old George Moncrief, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Moncrief, RR 2, Warsaw, is recovering in Civic Hospital from a puncture wound in his chest received Tuesday when he fell forward over a desk, on to the sharp point of a pencil.

Women's Names To Appear On County Jury Lists For First Time January 1

15 Municipalities To Be Notified Soon
Three Selectors To Meet In October
Undecided If Courthouse Facilities Adequate

Women will appear on Peterborough county jury lists for the first time beginning Jan. 1. Within the next three days all 15 municipalities in the county proper, as well as the city of Peterborough, will be notified that women are eligible for the jury panel. According to statute the three selectors of each municipality must meet Oct. 10 to draw up their panel. It is then forwarded to Crown Attorney John Bradshaw, Q.C., in his capacity as clerk of the peace; and later panels for county court and supreme court are approved by county officials.

City selectors are Mayor Hugh Waddell, City Clerk E. A. Outram, and the assessors.

ALREADY PREPARED

"Our panel has already been drawn up — we're way head of them," was the genial comment today of City Clerk Outram.

There has been considerable skepticism in county circles up till now that women would be included. They pointed out that the assessment rolls are incomplete so far as listing the number of eligible jurors is concerned.

This means that the rolls this October will have to be carefully scrutinized and brought up to date. In short, selecting the jury panel will be a bigger job than in previous years.

Bruce Johnston, clerk of North Monaghan township, said that while assessors have not been listing eligible women jurors in their municipalities, he personally didn't anticipate much trouble in selecting a mixed panel.

"It shouldn't be much of a chore," he said. "It all depends on whether or not you're familiar with the people in the community. With the exception of a few, they are old established families."

Anticipating the move, North Monaghan has already a number of eligible women listed.

Norman Wilson, reeve of Burleigh-Anstruther, agreed that the selection would be a bigger job. Most of the potential women voters are known to him or the other municipal selectors, however, so it won't be too difficult.

Another problem is the facilities at the court house. No final decision has yet been made on whether the restroom accommodation for women jurors is adequate. This decision will be made by the Inspector of Legal Offices.

Sales, Ad Begins Eighth Year

Opening meeting of the eighth year of the Peterborough Sales and Ad Club took the form of a stag dinner. Speaker was humorist Jimmy Swan, whose topic was "My Experiences — or I Should Have Stood In Bed."

Winner of the pot of gold prize was Ald. P. J. Anglesey; the prize was 100 silver dollars.

October meeting will be held October 21, which will be the club's manufacturers' night. Host will be the Peterborough Lumber Co., and the speaker will be Harrison Wood, narrator of "This Changing World," a well known U.S. radio show.

Other nights during the year for the Sales and Ad Club will be: November 18, Retail Night; December 16, Christmas meeting and ladies' night; January 20, Advertising Night; February 17, Ad and Sales Forum; March 17, Irish Night; April 21, Peterborough Inter-Club Night; May 19, closing stag.

Horse Comes First

Just as a young boy becomes attached to his pet, some breadmen and milkmen become quite fond of their horses which pull heavy loads daily through city streets. Affection and sympathy for his horse was shown Tuesday by a north-end milkman during the heavy rain shortly after noon. A customer asked the milkman to come in out of the rain for a while, but the milkman refused politely, saying that he wanted to place a cover over his horse. Without a raincoat the milkman trudged back to the wagon, in the pouring rain, covered the horse and then continued delivering milk, although soaked to the skin.

Utilities Surveys Buried Cable Costs For City

A report on the extent and cost of underground wiring for the whole city is being prepared at the present by Ross L. Dobbin, general manager of the city utilities.

Commission members agree that the public should be informed of the probable cost of going underground. Dr. Gordon R. Langley suggested that the report might be made known before the municipal election in order that a vote might be taken on it.

Chairman Gordon Matthews said the commission was not required to get public consent if the scheme had the approval of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

The commissioners felt that a sort of Gallup poll should be taken to find out the public's sentiment. "After all," said Dr. Langley, "it's going to add two or three mills to the tax rate; they should at least be given the chance of expressing their opinion."

Mr. Dobbin said he wouldn't promise the report for that time, but would try to have it ready.

"If the people once see the total cost," said Dr. Langley, "they'll turn it down flat."

Children's Aid Wins Top Grade

The Peterborough Children's Aid Society has been awarded A grading for the second consecutive year by the Child Welfare Division of the Department of Public Welfare of Ontario.

In 1951 the Peterborough society was one of three societies to receive top grading in the province. This year some other societies have been added to the select few.

The society was commended on the growing understanding of the individual board members of basic community needs. Special credit was given for the board's project of defining in writing the functions of the society and policy in all departments.

"Your program for the supervision of children in the care of the society reveals sincere concern for the best welfare of children," the report reads.

"There is good understanding of the significance of behavior, and workers are able to establish close and helpful relationships with children who particularly need understanding. The importance of preparing the child for placement is recognized, as well as the need to encourage his participation, when possible, in plans for his future."

Councillor Has New Idea For Tram Rate Protest

MONTREAL (CP) — Various methods have been suggested to beat a projected increase in tram fares here but Councillor Charles LaFontaine came up with a lulu at a public protest meeting Monday night.

He suggested the best way for the Montreal straphanger to register his protest will be to hand the conductor a $2 bill every time he boards a tram or bus. Under present regulations, conductors are not obliged to change a bill larger than a two.

This, he said, is what will happen:

"As every conductor takes on an average of at least 1,000 passengers a day, he will have to have 3,000 quarters, 2,000 nickels and 5,000 pennies in change.

"This will mean about 11,000 pieces of change for the conductor to carry around. He will have to be accompanied by a couple of cartage trucks and four constables. All this doesn't include the 1,000 bills he will have to carry in his pockets."

The increase goes into effect Saturday and brings the price to three tickets for 30 cents from the present rate of three for a quarter.

Mrs. Boyd Takes Walk After Capture News

TORONTO.—Mrs. Edwin Boyd heard the news of her husband's capture over the radio shortly after 7 p.m. She immediately threw on her coat, left the Ennerdale Rd. house where she has been living.

"There's been too much fuss now," she told friends as she left. "I just want to be alone for a while to think this over. I'm just going to walk around and I don't know when I'll be back."

"We don't expect her back tonight," said her landlord. "I think maybe she'll get a hotel room and stay quiet until this fuss blows over a bit."

Trapped In Car Driver Smokes

William C. Gordon, Toronto, escaped injury early Tuesday morning when the car in which he was driving east on Highway No. 2 went out of control on the Mohawk curve just west of Deseronto.

The overturned car, a late model sedan, was discovered by members of the Belleville detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police while on routine highway patrol. The car ripped out four guard rail posts and turned over three or four times, striking a telephone pole. The pole fell on the car, pinning the driver underneath the wreckage.

When found, Mr. Gordon was smoking a cigarette and listening to the car radio. A wrecking crew was summoned from Belleville to extricate him from the car which was demolished. Mr. Gordon was brought to Belleville General Hospital, where he is suffering from multiple bruises and shock.

Gordon has been charged with having liquor in a place other than his residence.

Malan Claiming 3 Protectorates

CAPETOWN (Reuters)—Prime Minister Daniel F. Malan declared yesterday he will make an election issue of his country's claims to possession of the three British protectorates which lie within South Africa's boundaries.

Every Union premier since 1910 had unsuccessfully negotiated with Britain for these three colonies, but none had ever had the declared backing of Parliament, he said.

Malan was referring to British-administered Basutoland, Swaziland and Bechuanaland, which constitute separate "islands" within the Union.

Britain has traditionally held that the population of the protectorates —overwhelmingly native — should have a say in any transfer.

Too Strong Emphasis Laid On Sex-Pope

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—The Pope yesterday condemned the strong emphasis laid on sex by some psychoanalysts, declaring it would be better to pay more attention to the psychology of the conscious rather than the unconscious mind.

He said that to get rid of inhibitions and complexes "man is not free to awaken in himself" all sexual appetites "which stir or are stirred in his being, and move their impure waves in his unconscious and subconscious."

The Pope's message filled 1½ pages in Osservatore Romano, the Vatican's official newspaper, and was based on an address he gave last Sunday to an international group of specialists in nervous and mental diseases.

The Salomone family has been active in Democratic political affairs in Ottawa for years.

Start Work on Causeway

MULGRAVE, N.S. (CP)—Nova Scotians by the hundreds, yesterday watched the official start of work on the Strait of Canso causeway. Eight tons of dynamite heaved 40,000 tons of fill from the face of Porcupine Mountain to mark the opening and Premier Angus L. Macdonald helped truck the first load to the strait. Transport Minister Chevrier said he expects the $22,750,000 causeway to be ready by 1955.

Maharaja Of Kashmir Has Decided To Abdicate

POONA, India (Reuters)—The 56-year-old Maharaja of Kashmir has signified his intention to abdicate in favor of his son, usually reliable sources disclosed yesterday.

The decision of Maharaja Hari Singh follows a visit to this resort city east of Bombay last weekend by an Indian government official who conveyed to him the advice of Prime Minister Nehru.

Kashmir, a storied mountain state of 5,000,000 persons west of Tibet, has been heading toward the abolition of its hereditary dynasty since the end of British rule in 1947.

The vastly wealthy Maharaja left Kashmir in 1949 and left Crown Prince Karan Singh as head of state.

Last June the Kashmir constituent assembly decided to end the rule of Maharajas. Authoritative reports from Srinagar have indicated that the ruling party favors the Maharaja's son as the first elected head of the state.

The Maharaja, a Hindu who held feudal sway over a mostly Moslem population for a quarter of a century, announced the accession of Kashmir to India in October, 1947. This was bitterly disputed by Pakistan. Fighting continued, until 1949 when the United Nations arranged a cease-fire. Since then an uneasy truce has prevailed.

Kashmir has been administered since 1947 by a cabinet headed by Prime Minister Sheik Mohammed Abdullah, a Moslem. He is said to have cut the Maharaja's allowance in 1948 from $84,000 a month to less than $9,000 because Kashmir was not attracting tourist revenue.

The Maharaja used to have an income of almost $6,000,000 a year.

Army Captain Faces Further Charge

PEMBROKE (CP)—Capt. D.W. Balock, R.C.E., of nearby Petawawa, already facing charges of theft, conspiracy and breach of public trust in connection with large-scale thefts at Petawawa military camp, was committed for trial yesterday on a further charge.

He will face the charge—another involving breach of public trust—Oct. 30 when the Petawawa trials will continue.

The latest charge involves construction of quonset huts at the big military camp by the Stran Steel Company. The Crown alleges Capt. Baldock detailed Crown employees to work for the steel company, that he was paid for their services by the company and that he did not turn the money over to the Crown.

At yesterday's hearing, Harold Thompson, foreman for the company, testified that army civilian employees were used on the job and that cheques for $51, $109 and $569 were turned over to Capt. Baldock for the work done.

The offence is alleged to have been committed in March and April, 1951. Baldock was released on the same bail he posted for other charges.

Six others involved in the theft charges appeared in court Monday. Their cases were postponed to Oct. 30.

Angel Statue Forbidden For Child's Grave

CHICHESTER, England (Reuters)—Church of England dignitaries last night rebuked a top lay official for saying "you don't become an angel when you die."

Kenneth Mead MacMorran, chancellor of the diocese of Chichester, made his statement when he refused permission Monday to erect a marble angel statue on a child's grave.

He told parents of Kathleen Reese, who died aged nine, "the one thing you don't become when you die is an angel."

Church headquarters in London were quick to react. MacMorran, they said, had "exceeded his brief and gone launching off into theology."

But they admitted he was probably right in banning the angel from the Hurst Green churchyard on the ground that it would be "rather primitive and misleading."

Hunt For Coronation Tickets Already On

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON (CP)—The great hunt for tickets to the Coronation of the Queen is gaining momentum and causing headaches in the inner circles of Britain's booking agencies.

Thousands of applications are on file requesting standing or seating room somewhere along the route the Queen will ride to Westminster Abbey to be crowned next June.

Although it is estimated room is available for around 200,000 seats and about 800,000 standing, much of this will be on Crown lands and not open to agencies except by allocation.

Space has been reduced since the Coronation of the Queen's father in 1937, mainly because next year's route is three-quarters of a mile shorter and trees will be in leaf along the east carriage way in Hyde Park. The screen of foliage will force thousands who watched the last Coronation from Park Lane to find other accommodation.

LESS ROOM

At every turn, agencies are finding less space than previously. For instance, two large sites open to private enterprise in 1937, have been taken over by the government—a stand for 6,000 outside the Abbey and Apsley House at Hyde Park corner, that last time seated 5,000.

Whitehall, which will provide one of the best views for the procession, is mostly government offices, and frontage along Pall Mall, St. James's and Piccadilly is largely controlled by private clubs. Eliminating Crown lands, this leaves Oxford street, Regent street and the Haymarket. Apart from a few bomb-sites these are owned by big department stores.

FANTASTIC PRICES

Even stores are keeping more space than previously for their own staff and overseas buyers. From what is left the agencies hope to squeeze in around 100,000 seats and applications received already total three times that number.

The rush has developed although prices have risen from the minimum of 30s in 1937 to £3. 10s. A top-class seat that cost 15 to 20 guineas in 1937 is expected to cost 30 to 35 guineas next year. In contrast prices at the 1902 Coronation of Edward II ranged from 1½ to 10 guineas while the 1911 George V prices were 3 to 12 guineas.

Already agencies have been offered fantastic prices ranging up to £250 for three seats.

Unity Mission Objective Barfoot Says

BOSTON (CP)—Rt. Rev. Walter Foster Barfoot, head of the Church of England in Canada, said yesterday his church has under way a "mission of unity" in its own ranks.

He said the idea of this was to smooth relationships between the Anglo-Catholic or "high church" and the evangelical or "low church" elements.

The Archbishop of Edmonton and Primate of All Canada spoke before the House of Bishops of the Episcopal Church of the United States at its general convention.

The archbishop said: "We of the church in Canada are a minority church, but we do not suffer from an inferiority complex. We feel we've done a good job particularly in our Arctic and India missions."

At the convention itself resumption of unity negotiations with the Presbyterian Church was indicated.

The House of Deputies—which with the House of Bishops forms the Episcopal Church's legislature—voted $8,000 to continue the work of a commission studying approaches to unity.

Canso Strait Bottleneck Now On Way To Solution

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

One of industrial Cape Breton's biggest problems — the Canso Strait transportation bottleneck — is on the way to solution.

The remedy is a $22,750,000 road and rail causeway linking the island with mainland Nova Scotia. At start-of-construction ceremonies yesterday Transport Minister Chevrier termed the project "one of the most significant milestones in the economic development of our country."

Cape Bretoners, a solid pressure group behind some kind of a causeway for 50 years, are echoing Mr. Chevrier's words in terms of their own island economy.

WILL HELP ISLAND

"It will go a long way in giving steel and coal a boost in Cape Breton," is the comment most often heard.

Sydney, Nova Scotia's second city, turns out nearly one-third of Canada's basic steel and the island's mines produce more than 5,000,000 tons of coal yearly.

The causeway's completion, scheduled for 1955, will spell the end of the weather-vulnerable rail and car ferries that now ply the 3,000-foot strait between Mulgrave on the mainland and Port Hawkesbury on the island.

Cape Bretoners see in completion of the Canso project the elimination of costly delays in shipments of steel and coal to the rest of Canada.

Jubilation at the prospect of a trans-strait causeway or bridge isn't new to the island's more than 150,000 inhabitants. In March, 1949, the federal and provincial governments announced they would build a railway and automobile bridge with construction to start in a few months. But the project was shelved amid a barrage of criticism from Cape Breton spokesmen.

BRIDGE UNECONOMIC

Mr. Chevrier answered the critics in a speech at Halifax last April in which he also announced the decision to go ahead with the present project. He said a high-level bridge would be more uneconomic and open to sabotage than a rock fill causeway.

The present scheme is being financed jointly with the provincial government's share expected to be more than $5,500,000.

MARMORA (ENS).—The funeral of Raymond B. Nobes who was killed in a car accident on Hfghway 7 last Sunday morning was held on Tuesday afternoon under auspices of Marmora Branch No. 237 Canadian Legion with about 50 ex-service men turning out. The cortege left his late residence for service at Marmora Free Methodist Church at 4 p.m. This was conducted by the Rev. G. H. Bache, pastor of the church, with the Rev. A. B. Moffatt, district superintendent, assisting.

Burial took place in Beaver Creek Free Methodist cemetery. The honorary pallbearers were past and present members of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in which Mr. Nobes served in the Second World War. Lieut. Angus Duffy, Sgt. Major Tom Ash, O.C. At the cemetery, committal sentences were read by the Rev. A. B. Moffatt. Last rites of the Canadian Legion were taken by the chaplain, W. J. Cottrell. Says Principals Becoming Office Boys

TORONTO (CP)—C.K. Rogers, chief inspector of schools for Manitoba, charged yesterday that principals of large schools in many cases are becoming "very much like office boys."

He told the Canadian Education Association conference that many principals, although paid extra for supervision, actually did little and their authority had become lost in the educational chain of supervision.

Mr. Rogers said some principals are doing clerical tasks normally done by a secretary because school boards have failed to employ secretaries.

G. A. Pearson, Ontario superintendent of elementary education, said that in his province principals of large schools ordinarily are free for supervising. He said it was sometimes a question of a principal not being equipped by training for supervision, although this was not regarded as a real problem.

Reporters Join Police In Rush To Gang Hideout

TORONTO.—The moment for which several hundreds of Metropolitan Toronto area policemen and squads of newspaper reporters and photographers had been waiting for over eight days came at precisely 7:03 p.m. Tuesday.

It was an urgently pronounced call over the Toronto police radio which set literally hundreds of men in motion.

"Attention, all cars," said the police radio. "North York police require assistance. . . ."

Then followed a minute description of the location of the old barn where the Boyd-Jackson gang had been cornered.

Squad cars from all parts of Toronto were ordered to the scene in the vicinity of the tiny village of Oriole.

In editorial offices, reporters and photographers ran for their cars. Off-duty men were routed from their homes.

Within minutes, the sideroad leading to the surrounded hideout was choked with police cars.

Then, at 7:15, a call from a nearby farmhouse to Toronto police headquarters brought the news: "All four have been captured and identified as the Boyd gang. This is official. Further assistance is not required."

The exhaustive manhunt was over, and it ended just about the way senior Toronto police officials had figured it would—the hunted men had made their move when funds began to run low. It was just a matter of hours before good police work did the rest.

Tariff Board Hearings Will Have Important Effect

OTTAWA (CP)—With rates of duty on millions of dollars worth of imported goods hanging in the balance, the Tariff Board begins hearings tomorrow on the controversial "class-or-kind" case, an issue involving Revenue Department appraisal policy.

H. B. McKinnon, board chairman for 12 years, says he considers the case "one of the most important" ever to come before his attention. Because of "possible wide repercussions," it will be split into two parts, with further hearings to be held in a month or two before final judgment is given.

The issue at stake is whether the Revenue Department should continue to take special features of imported articles into account when deciding if they are of a "class or kind" made in Canada.

This is of great importance to industry and importers. For instance in the case of such expensive capital goods as engineering machinery, the tariff is 7½ per cent if the item is not made in Canada, but 22½ per cent if it falls within the "kind or class" made in Canada.

In addition, imported items which are considered the same as those made in Canada become subject to Canada's dumping laws and the government can boost the tariff even higher to prevent sales in Canada at prices lower than those prevailing in the home market.

In each case it is up to the "kind or class" ruling. In the case of automobiles and trucks, for example, it has ruled that all imported vehicles of this general type are of the "kind or class" made in Canada and therefore subject to the higher tariff rate.

But in other cases, it has taken specialized features into account. For example, it ruled that a huge imported mechanical shovel was not the same as those produced in Canada because the size of the bucket was different.

MAKE OBJECTION

Dominion Hoist and Shovel Company of Montreal criticized this on the grounds that the term "class or kind" allegedly did not permit a break-down into specialized features. Since mechanical shovels were produced in Canada, the imported item should bear the higher rate no matter whether special features of the two differed.

Because of the wide impact such a policy has on the entire tariff structure, the Revenue Department decided to refer the whole issue to the board for judgment.

Office Of Vice-Moderator Shelved By Church Council

By CRAIG ARMSTRONG

HAMILTON (CP)—A resolution calling for an office of vice-moderator to be created was shelved by the 15th Biennial General Council of the United Church of Canada last night.

The question of a vice-moderator to assist the moderator, introduced Monday by Judge F. A. E. Hamilton of Winnipeg, was tabled on a motion of Rev. Gordon A. Sisco, secretary of the council.

During previous discussion, Judge Hamilton said he foresaw a moderator, always a minister, and a vice-moderator, a layman who would serve without salary. Many commissioners, mostly clergymen, objected to this interpretation, some saying they looked forward to the day when a layman would be elected to the church's highest office.

DECIDE TO WAIT

Dr. Sisco told council last night that the work of the policy committee would probably be extended over six years and it would be unwise to create new offices on motions from the floor while the committee was still studying the whole administrative set-up of the church.

The evening session was devoted to presentation of sections of the policy committee report which dealt with procedural changes in the administration of church business.

The effect of tabling the resolution on a vice-moderator had the effect of eliminating it from the agenda of this council. A commissioner could move that it be dealt with at this session, but officials considered this highly unlikely. The question will go back to the policy committee.

GRAPE JELLY
1. Choose slightly under-ripe grapes, wash, remove from stalks. Place in saucepan.
2. Add water to almost cover grapes. Mash and simmer over moderate heat until soft.
3. Pour into moistened jelly bag, allow to drip. To prevent crystals, let juice stand overnight, then pour juice off sediment.
4. Measure sugar. For every cup of juice, allow ¾ to 1 cup of sugar, depending on pectin content.*
5. Boil juice 5 minutes, then add sugar slowly.
6. Boil briskly, uncovered, and test for jelly stage. For jelly test, allow liquid to run off edge of spoon. When two drops form a "sheet", the jelly stage has been reached.
7. Remove from heat, let stand 1 minute and remove scum.
8. Pour into hot sterilized jars, leaving ¼ inch headspace.
9. When partially set, cover with layer of hot melted paraffin wax. Allow to harden, then add second layer, rotating and tilting jar to form a good seal.
10. Cover with paper or metal lid. Store in a cool, dark, dry place.

*To determine pectin content, measure 1 teaspoon hot fruit juice and 1 teaspoon rubbing alcohol into flat dish. If a jelly-like mass is formed after standing 3 minutes, pectin content is adequate. 1 cup sugar may be added for every cup of juice. If noticeable liquid is present, add ¾ cup sugar for every cup of juice.

WARKWORTH (ENS). — The Women's Association of the Oak Heights United Church met on Thursday at the home of Mrs. Bruce Porter with a good attendance of members and children.

Mrs. L. Tucker, leader of the devotional period, chose for her topic the "Fruit of the Spirit is Love."

Mrs. Potter conducted the business meeting hearing reports from the secretary, the treasurer, buying committee and sunshine convener.

Arrangements and plans were made for the next meeting to be held at the church with the Fenella and Dartford societies as their guests on Oct. 16 and an invitation was to be extended to Mrs. J. M. Ritchie of Warkworth to be the guest speaker.

Mrs. S. Lawrence gave a report from the parsonage committee and it was moved by Mrs. A. P. Sayles and seconded by Mrs. L. Tucker that the W. A. share of the parsonage expenses as reported, be paid.

Mrs. Jim Sayles, program convener, presented the following program of readings by Mrs. W. H. Porter, Mrs. A. P. Sayles and Mrs. Edward Covert. A contest of old songs was conducted by Mrs. John Ferguson and Mrs. Jim Sayles led in a sewing contest.

Some Popular Meat Dishes

SPLIT WEINERS BAKED ON BEANS WITH BARBECUE SAUCE

(I cannot bring myself to recommend baking your own beans in this weather nor when canned baked beans may be bought so reasonably). Fill a casserole with canned baked beans, and on top place 1 pound weiners partially split and bury them a little in the beans and heat through in hot oven until liquid bubbles.

Make barbecue sauce by sauteing ¼ cup chopped onion in 2 tablespoons butter or shortening for 5 minutes, then add 2 tablespoons each brown sugar and prepared mustard, ½ teaspoon paprika, ⅓ cup each vinegar and water. Let this heat through enough to just simmer. Pass when weiners and beans are served on plates.

Since I belong to the school that wants its steak and roast beef rare, I think you will understand why I do not like meat loaves. They are too dry and stodgy. So I treat our hamburg steak this way.

✧ ✧ ✧

POT ROAST (IN DUTCH OVEN)

Select a firm piece of beef, either solid or rolled—almost any inexpensive cut will do. Wipe meat with cold damp cloth and sear in some of the fat trimmed from the roast in hot Dutch oven with trivet removed—over direct heat. When uniformly browned add ½ to ¾ cup boiling water.

✧ ✧ ✧

GRACIE'S DISH

Which I strongly advise you to try for, for flavor, it is tops, and what is more, it served eight people generously at a cost of $1.08.

Buy a 2-pound piece of veal shank—which should be high enough on the shank to be a little better than half meat. Cut the meat from the bone and cut into 1-inch dice. Saute these in 3 tablespoons butter to brown the surfaces. Put these into a simmering kettle and rinse out the frying-pan with sufficient hot water to not quite cover the meat. Add a slice of lemon, 1 clove garlic uncut, a little salt and pepper, cover tightly and simmer over as low heat as possible for 1½ hours.

✧ ✧ ✧

BARBECUE SKEWER COMBINATION

No. 1: I think I told you about our favorite skewer line-up of last year: bacon, calves' liver, onion?

No. 2: This year we have tried two others that have strong devot ees. One of them is cubes of smoked ham (cut from a thick slice of uncooked smoked ham), a cube of apple or sweet potato (raw) and a slice of onion.

The other is:

No. 3: We are having this for Peter's birthday party which is to take the form of a cook-out supper: 1-inch cubes of steak, a mushroom, a slice of side bacon, a slice of onion.

Even my own beloved family darkly suspects me of having gypsy blood, but I would rather eat a hamburg cake fried over an open campfire, out-of-doors, than filet mignon cooked under a broiler, from a mahogany dining table.

Basket picnics have their place too—even if I do seem to praise them half-heartedly,—but it is only because they should contain a super-flavored potato salad — not for sandwiches. I pack three sandwich lunches five days per week, so sandwiches are taboo for a picnic for me.)

In order to simplify the amount of equipment we have to pack when we are camp-fire bound, we are using a frying-pan less and less, and our stainless steuel barbacue skewers more and more.

✧ ✧ ✧

GENERAL BARBECUE INSTRUCTIONS

You will use your own judgment about the number of pieces of meat and vegetables you put on the skewer. Each skewer should contain an adequate serving, for everyone roasts his own. After toasting oneself over a fire for 10 or 15 minutes, while constantly turning a skewer, you want to finish with a skewerful of delicious sizzling meat that melts in your mouth and keeps you coming back to the supply table for repeats.

The ham barbecue in No. 2 should be brushed lightly with thinned French mustard just before eating.

Some of our guests like to sprinkle the beef barbecue with Worcestershire sauce.

If you think of other barbecue combinations I would be ever so grateful if you would send them to me.

✧ ✧ ✧

GROUND BEEF BROILED ON TOAST

Here is a dish that used to be an old favorite in the days when my mother was a girl. I forgot about it until I was looking up some dishes for an invalid and came across Scraped Beef on toast. For well people this is a hearty version of the same thing.

Toast white bread on one side, providing one slice for each person to be served—or two if you have husky appetites to appease. Spread the untoasted side lightly with fat or butter and sprinkle generously with salt and pepper. Season the ground beef or hamburger with salt and pepper and to each pound of it add 3 tablespoons cream or evaporated milk. Spread each slice with raw meat at least one-quarter inch thick on the untoasted side, spreading it to the very edge. Broil under direct heat for about 6 or 7 minutes or until golden brown and barely cooked through. I like the meat to be slightly pink so do it only 5 minutes under very hot broiler burner. Children love this and while I am not one to economize on meat, this does make it stretch.

✧ ✧ ✧

GENUINE IRISH STEW

Ask your butcher for lean yearling lamb or mutton — 1½ lbs. If he does not have it ask him to order it for you when he next orders from the packing house. Cut the meat in one-inch cubes. Dredge with salted and peppered flour, saute with 2 chopped onions in 3 tablespoons fat. Add water to barely cover, cover tightly, and simmer 1½ hours or until tender. Mutton takes 3 hours, lamb half of that time. Add 4 each diced potatoes and carrots, 1 small turnip and cook until vegetables are tender. At last minute add 1 or 2 tablespoons chopped parsley.

✧ ✧ ✧

HAMBURGER RICE LOAF

Two pounds hamburg meat, 2 eggs, ½ cup breadcrumbs, ½ cup any type of cheese, ½ cup rice salt to taste, and seasoning, 1 pinch of hot red pepper, parsley and poultry seasonings, and any other seasoning which may be desired.

Use a little olive oil to moisten the mixture and bake in a loaf tin for 35 minutes, at 400 degs. Fahr. in the oven.

After the 35 minutes is up, continue to bake the loaf for one hour at 30 degs. Fahr.

✧ ✧ ✧

COUNTRY STYLE CHICKEN

One 4 or 5 pound fowl, cut up, 1-3 cup flour, 3 teaspoons salt, 6 each pared medium potatoes, onions, scraped carrots, 2 green peppers, seeded and cut in narrow strips (optional), 1 tablespoon sugar, ¼ teaspoon peper, 1 20-oz. tin tomatoes 1 cup boiling water, 4 tablespoons flour, 6 tablespoons cold water. Prepare chicken, by cleaning, washing, drying and singeing. Then roll it in the flour which has been mixed with ½ teaspoon of salt. Brown in the fat in a Dutch oven, and remove pieces as they brown. Place 2-3 of the raw vegetables in bottom of Dutch oven.

Lay chicken on top and add remaining raw vegetables. Mix together with sugar, pepper, tomatoes, remaining 2½ teaspoons salt and boiling water and pour into Dutch oven. Cover. simmer for 1¾ to 2 hours or bake at 375 deg. Fahr. Remove chicken and vegetables to hot platter and keep hot. Into the remaining gravy stir the flour which has been mixed to a smooth paste with the cold water, until thick. Pour over chicken on plater and serve at once. An appropriate garnish is rings of green pepper.

MOTHER JAILED—Police Matron Edna Briggs, of Long Beach, Calif., Juvenile Department, holds baby Linda Kay Schon, age three months, who, police say, was "sold" by her mother, Mrs. Edna Schon, 20, for $400. Officers booked the mother and two others on investigation of infringement of personal liberty. Police reported the mother said she used part of the money to repay sums borrowed in bars.

Rev. I. G. Pollock Tells Grace WA Of South Africa

New minister of the Grace United Church, the Rev. I. G. Pollock, was the speaker at the opening meeting of the Woman's Association Tuesday evening. The meeting was largely attended and was preceded by a pot luck supper with Mrs. Pollock as the honored guest.

Mr. Pollock spoke about South Africa where he and his family had been for seven years before leaving that country last June. He emphasized that he had not been a missionary to Africa but had been a minister of the Congregational Church in South Africa, a territory where there are no missionaries now. Branches of all the main Christian churches and some of the sects exist in South Africa, he said. He was minister of a "white" church, and also had a "native" church under his care.

He described it as a country of contrasts, outlining the contrast of black and white, of the native and the Dutch and nglish-speaking population and then also the contrast of the white races. The contrast of poverty and wealth is perhaps the greatest there of any place in the world, he said. Johannesburg, founded 63 years ago, is now a city of skyscrapers and of highly sophisticated and modern culture, and the home of many very wealthy families. But, within an hour's drive are people who have "absolutely nothing." The members of his native church had "very little," yet their givings to the church, which they love whole-heartedly, were astounding to him.

Mr. Pollock confided that the greatest compliment of his life yet was from this native congregation on his farewell appearance when they said "We hardly noticed that your face was white." So heavy, and impassable by law, is the "color bar" of South Africa that this statement could only be made possible through exertion of the true Christian spirit in their midst. He said the churches are working hard to have the natives realize themselves as a "people," but it is exceedingly difficult because of the unrelenting white supremacy for 300 years.

There is a ten million population of blacks in South Africa and only two million whites which are divided into one million English speaking people and one million Afrikan speaking, the descendants of the Dutch settlers.

He said the principal of the Christian church there is to teach "stewardship under God of the wealth and beauty of South Africa" in the hope it will lead the natives and the colored people to their rightful place.

Thanks to Mr. Pollock for clarifying the South African picture so well was expressed by Mrs. J. Wasik. He was introduced by Mrs. S. Mitchell who was in charge of the devotional program.

Vice-president Mrs. W. Hargraves presided for the business which was headed by a detailed report from the parsonage committee, read by Mrs. G. Close. The new parsonage is now completely furnished, with the aid of the minister—some items which he has purchased to be paid for by the committee later. Members were specially thanked for the hot meals which they brought in to the family during their first week of residence.

"Open house" is to be held at the Arndon Ave. parsonage on October 2nd and 3rd. The first afternoon and evening are reserved for the members and adherents of Grace and Stewart Hall churches, and the second day is for the members of the uptown churches and the public.

Grace Church members will again present their successful play at the church on Friday evening, October 24th, it was decided. A fall tea is to be held in November and print is to be purchased now for making aprons. A W. A. executive meeting will be held on Monday, September 22nd, at Mrs. Eric McKinstry's home.

Caverly-Althouse

A quiet wedding took place at the United parsonage, Havelock, Saturday afternoon when Shirley Reta, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Althouse of Havelock became the bride of Gerald Thomas Caverly eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Caverly of Marmora. The Rev. C. E. Newman officiated.

The bride wore a gown of pale blue lace over taffeta with navy accessories. Miss Lois Ellis of Cordova Mines was bridesmaid wearing pink net over pink taffeta with navy accessories.

Rae Caverly, brother of the groom, was groomsman.

A small reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Her mother received in a dress of navy printed jersey. The dining room was decortaed with pink and white streamers and bouquets of gladioli and dahlias.

Mr. and Mrs. Caverly left on a honeymoon trip to points east, the bride wearing a blue taffeta dress with navy accessories.

Elect Beth Conley Girls' Aux. Head

After welcoming members back after a holiday season, Miss Hendren stressed that more support be given to the Pledge Money Fund and asked all members to bring their fees to the next meeting.

Leader Mrs. W. C. Boate welcomed three new members to the group, Ann Gardner, Gloria Clemens and Shirley Maudsley. Appreciation for her three years' service as president was extended to Josie Hendren.

The nomination committee of Ann Merritt, Gloria Clemens and Katherine Nesbitt took charge of the election of officers for the coming year.

President will be Beth Conley; 1st vice-president, Sheilla Nicholls; second vice-president, Patricia Gunn; secretary, Ann Merritt; corresponding secretary, Gloria Clemens; treasurer, Evelyn James; assistant treasurer, Carol Calhoun; Docas secretary, Sherry Hope; pianists, Ann Merritt, Lorraine Gunn, Sherry Hope; councillors, Beverley Farrance, Dona Milne, Phyllis Willshaw, Patsy Roberts and Carol Caldwell. Honorary president is Mrs. T. H. Lloyd.

Conveners appointed were: social convener, Gloria Clemens; recreation convener, Josie Hendren; ways and means convener, Mary Sutton; monitor convener, Carolyn Ball; assistant monitor, June Valois; scrap book convener, Katherine Nesbitt.

Arrangements were made to hold a rummage sale in October, with Beth Conley as convener.

Name Tags were pinned on each one upon arrival by Mrs. E. Boyler and Mrs. K. Wesenberg.

President Mrs. J. Dunkerley welcomed the splendid crowd of parents and teachers and students of the promotion group.

The Home & School Creed was read by Religious Education convenor Mrs. E. Boyler.

Principal Mr. J. Telford spoke briefly to the students, urging them to hitch their wagon to a star, seeking to attain the highest ideals in life. He encouraged them to have determination in reaching their goal and said "It is not the brilliant young people but those whose sails are set in the right direction, who become the best and greatest citizens".

Mr. Telford then led in a rousing sing-song, after which the promotion class adjourned to be treated to chocolate cake and ice-cream.

Those in the class include: Eleanor Ball, Nancy Ball, Marion Davies, Rosemary Dorrington, Mary Halliday, Marjorie Harvey, Karen Hooey, Phyllis Hutchinson, Roberta James, Margaret Meiklejohn, Lucinda Phillips, Sheila Pitchford, Jeanne Pogson, Sally Reynolds, Diana Richardson, Patricia Watson, Albert Curtis, Lawrence Davies, Garry Feeley, Roy Fitton, Ben Floyd, Lloyd Hill, Robert Howden, Andrew May, Harry Meredith, James Orr, Robert Park, William Perry, John Phillips, Joseph Reynolds, John Rose, Fred Rusaw, Grant Sloan, Robert Stevens, Robert Wood.

He displayed the official patrol belt and stop sign, and explained in detail how a patrol is formed and how it works. The task of the patrol is to guide youngsters to safety and to encourage the children not to break the safety rules. Members of a safety patrol were given a splendid opportunity to develop leadership, he said and he described them as missionaries of safety, both at school and at home. Constable McKay's aim is that Peterborough become the city without any child accident record.

Frank Sheedy Weds Toronto Girl

Standards of pink and white gladioli with tall lighted candles decorated the Blessed Sacrament Church, Toronto, for the marriage Saturday morning of Mary Theresa daughter of Mrs. McRae and the late Lieut.-Col. C. E. McRae, of Toronto, to Mr. Frank Kingsley Sheedy, of Peterborough, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Sheedy, of Toronto. Right Rev. Monsignor Hugh Callaghan performed the ceremony.

Mr. Paul McRae gave his sister in marriage. The bride's gown was fashioned with white French lace over satin bodice, finished with a Queen Anne collar, and the bouffant skirt was of net. Her long veil was held by a Queen Anne headdress of the lace over satin with seed pearls and she carried a cascade of white gladioli and stephanotis.

Attendants Miss Patricia McRae, maid of honor, Miss Eleanor McRae, sisters of the bride, and Mrs. Eugene Sheedy, of Peterborough, were gowned alike in bouffant dresses made with long-sleeved French lace bodices and pink nylon net and their flowers were mauve gladioli and pink carnations.

Groomsman for his brother was Mr. Eugene Sheedy, of Peterborough, and the ushers were Stewart Murray and John Hepburn.

The reception was held at the Granite Club. Mrs. McRae was beautifully gowned in orchid lace and chiffon, floor length, and wore a picture hat of velvet in matching shade. Receiving with her was Miss Catherine Sheedy, sister of the groom. She wore a grey metallic taffeta gown with a hat in flamingo shade.

The bride and groom are now honeymooning at Pocono Manor in the Pennsylvania Mountains. When going away, Mrs. Sheedy wore a grey tweed suit and hat and had tan accessories.

They will live in Peterborough on return.

Gliddon Awards Presented At ORMTA Banquet

Opening meeting of Peterborough Branch of the Ontario Registered Music Teachers' Association was held Tuesday evening in the form of a banquet in the Empress Kawartha Room. Following the dinner, new president Mr. Donald Kennedy welcomed the guests and plans were discussed for the October meeting and the students' recital in November.

A highlight of the evening was an instructive and entertaining talk by vice-president Mr. Christopher Gledhill on the subject "Some temptations of a music teacher."

A vote of thanks to the performers and speaker was moved by Mrs. John LeRoy Smith. Mrs. R. Y. Kenny played for a sing song which closed the evening.

Seek Assistants For Guides And Brownies

A meeting of the local Association for Guides and Brownies, took place Monday night in the Salvation Army Hall.

New officers elected were: chairman, Mrs. Walter Perry; vice-chairman, Mrs. A. Purdon; secretary, Mrs. E. J. MacDonald; treasurer, Mrs. J. B. James; badge secretary, Mrs. S. O. Shields; publicity secretary, Mrs. E. O'Brien.

The commissioner and local association ask for volunteers as leaders or assistants for Guide companies and Brownie packs. Because of the lack of leaders it is being found necessary to curtail the number of girls to be enrolled, and in other cases there is overcrowding.

Commissioner Mrs. J. R. Epping announced a training course is to be held in Trenton September 27th for Guiders and Commissioners, and in Kingston on October 18th for Guiders only.

An endeavour is to be made to locate a camp or camps for Guides as near Peterborough as possible, which will accept Guides from Peterborough, as the Association has no camp of its own as yet.

A rally is to be held in Nicholls Oval Saturday afternoon, October 4th for Guides and Brownies, at 1:30. In the case of bad weather it will be postponed until the following Saturday unless otherwise notified .The parents and general public are welcome any time during the afternoon.

Next regular local Association meeting will be held in the Salvation Army Hall, Wednesday evening, 8 p.m. December 3rd. Women interested in Guiding are invited to attend this meeting.

MR. AND MRS. RAYMOND MUNDELL of Douro, the bride formerly Miss Jean Bolton.—(Duke Studio Photo)

Mundel-Bolton Wedding

LAKEFIELD (ENS) —Attended by many friends was the wedding of Jean Eleanor Bolton to Mr. Raymond Arnold Mundell which took place in the Lakefield United Church Saturday with the Rev. W. H. Tonge officiating.

Miss Bolton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bolton and the groom the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Mundell. all of Douro.

Setting was of white gladioli and ferns. Traditional music was played by John D. Grylls. Prior to the bride's entrance, Mrs. Donald Hendren sang "My World" and during the signing of the register "O Perfect Love". "The Lord's Prayer" was sung as part of the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was beautifully gowned in white slipper satin, fashioned with a fitted bodice and full skirt falling in a train. The high fitting collar rolled down to slender points and tiny self buttons finished the front of the bodice and the sleeves. Her floor-length veil was caught to a crown of white satin with rhinestones and pearls and she carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses centred with an orchid.

Sister of the bride, Miss Guelda Bolton, was maid of honor, gowned in apple green faille taffeta with a yoke of silk net. Her headdress of matching taffeta was covered with net and caught with pearls and she carried a ring bouquet of large yellow 'mums. Miss Audrey Bolton, cousin of the bride, and Miss Ruth Bolton, a sister, were bridesmaids, frocked in yellow and gold faille taffeta with matching mittens and headdress similar to that of the maid of honor and they carried ring bouquets of gold tinted 'mums.

Flower girl was Janice Rowland, cousin of the bride, in apple green faille taffeta and headdress of matching flowers. She carried a nosegay of yellow 'mums centred with a Talisman rose. Ring bearer, Douglas Mundell, nephew of the groom, carried the rings on a heart-shaped white satin cushion.

Ralph Sweeting, cousin of the groom, was groomsman, and the ushers were Gerald Bolton, and Russell Mundell, brothers of the bride and groom.

The reception was held in the Sunday school hall where the bride's mother received in a gown of Lady Love crepe and French lace, black accessories and hat and a corsage of yellow roses. The groom's mother who also received, wore a gown of powder blue crepe with lace yoke and sleeves, black accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

The couple left on a motor trip for points east as far as Boston, Mass., the bride wearing a green wool gabardine suit with green and rust accessories. Her corsage was an orchid. They will live on the groom's farm in Douro.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Recommend Veal Paprika n Noodle Ring

Have you been plodding along serving the same old hackneyed menus for the past year? This one will wake you up and what's more it will make your guests straighten up and take notice. When they leave after eating this dinner their first comment among themselves will be: "Wasn't that a wonderful dinner?" (Modest little kid, am I not?)

Veal Paprika in Noodle Ring
Red Currant Jelly
Broccoli Corn on the Cob
Head Lettuce and Tomato Salad with Chiffonade Dressing
Refrigerator Chocolate Roll
Coffee

VEAL PAPRIKA

DIRECTIONS: The toasted almonds are important to this, but if you want to economize use poppy seeds instead—¼ lb. at about 19 cents.

Buy 2 lbs. veal to serve 6 or 7. Dredge pieces cut into 4-inch squares in flour to which you have added salt and pepper. Rub your frying pan with a cut clove of garlic then melt bacon drippings or good shortening in it and brown the floured pieces of veal in it, on both sides. Season with more salt and pepper, and add 1 tablespoon paprika, and 1 cup hot water. Cover and gently simmer 1½ hours. Meanwhile, boil 1 package noodles in plenty of salted water until tender. When serving time comes, drain this and arrange in a mound in centre of your largest platter. Arrange the meat around it in a border. Into the gravy left in pan stir 1 cup cream and heat through and pour this over the noodles. Sprinkle noodles with paprika, add ¼ lb. shredded toasted blanched almonds (or poppy seeds as suggested above).

CHIFFONADE DRESSING

The base of this is French Dressing made as you know by shaking together in a covered jar 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 teaspoon each mustard (dry), salt and paprika, ¼ teaspoon pepper, ¼ cup vinegar or lemon juice, ¾ cup salad oil, and if desired a slice of garlic. Shake this well and add the chiffonade part of it: 1 tablespoon shredded ripe or green olives, 1 tablespoon shredded green pepper, 1 hard cooked egg—the white sieved, the yolk mashed, and 1 tablespoon finely chopped chives. Shake well just before pouring over the salad. This is good on plain wedges of head lettuce, too.

REFRIGERATOR CHOCOLATE ROLL

This is very similar to a jelly roll—but chocolate colored and flavored. Six egg whites, ½ teaspoon cream of tartar, ½ cup sugar, 6 egg yolks, ½ cup sugar, 4 tablespoons each cocoa and sifted flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat together until stiff the egg whites and cream of tartar. Beat in gradually the first ½ cup sugar. This should now be glossy and stiff. Beat the yolks until they are thick and pale, then beat into them the second ½ cup sugar. Sift together the cocoa, flour and salt and sift them over the egg yolk mixture and fold into it until all are blended. Add the vanilla. Now fold this into the egg-white mixture. Have ready a pan about 15 by 10 inches and lined with well-buttered paper. Spread the batter ½-inch thick on this. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for about 20 or 25 minutes or until, when pressed lightly with finger, the surface springs back where it is dented. Have ready a towel sprinkled with icing sugar. At once turn cake upside down on this and remove paper from cake at once. Now roll it up, from the side, towel and all. Let cool on cake rack. Shortly before serving, unroll cake on 2 or 3 thicknesses of waxed paper to remove towel. Fill with Whipped Cream Filling (see below). Roll up carefully to include all of the filling. Roll in wax paper and chill—overnight if desired. Serve in thick slices.

Whipped Cream Filling: Soak ½ teaspoon gelatin in 1 tablespoon cream or milk. Dissolve this by stirring over hot water. Beat until stiff 1 cup heavy cream, then beat in ¼ cup sifted icing sugar, the cooled gelatin and 1 teaspoon vanilla or almond flavoring.

ENROLMENT DOWN

DOROTHY DIX

Character Is What Counts Nationality Unimportant

DEAR MISS DIX: Do you think my parents should object to a fine boy because of his nationality? I am 16, a senior in high school, and am dating a boy of 22. My parents object to my dating him because his nationality is not the same as ours. We have known and liked his family for many years. My mother likes the boy, except for this one objection. He always comes after me for our dates, comes in and talks to my parents before we leave. When mother gives a specific time to be in, we always get in at that time. We are not going steady, as I realize I'm too young for that; I'm not in love with him, but find him pleasant company as a friend and would like to keep it that way.

A.S.W.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I know of no nation that has ever produced only bad people, and I know of no nation that has ever produced only good ones. It is not the place of birth, nor the place of one's parents' birth, that counts; it is the individual personality and character that makes a fine, or despicable, person.

ALL NATIONS HAVE CONTRIBUTED

All the nations of the world have contributed to the building of our splendid country, and the individual efforts of the millions of immigrants that have come to our shores cannot be minimized. The country from which your friend, or more probably his parents, comes has been particularly generous in sending us fine men and women. Their names are prominent in the arts, in all professions, and appear with increasing frequency in the student rosters of our most prominent schools.

Your friend seems to be a lad of good manners and common sense. Taking these things into consideration, I cannot believe that your parents would object to him solely on the grounds that his family has its roots in one part of Europe, and yours are in another. For don't forget, even though your family has been in this country a long, long time, its origin is on the other side of the Atlantic.

Since you tell me that you and your mother are able to work problems out together, this one should be discussed more frankly. I'm sure there is a deeper motive in your parents' feelings about the young man.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a divorcee of 27 with a 2-year-old son. Since my divorce, I have met a married man whom I have grown to love. His wife is getting a divorce. Now my ex-husband is trying to get me back. He promises to change the things that led to our divorce. Should I give him another chance?

F.A.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You are certainly involved in a matrimonial merry-go-round. Better give up the married beau and let your ex-husband prove his sincerity by reforming before you re-marry him. You need a good stabilizer, and he seems the logical contender for the job.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My wife, daughter and I are involved in a constant argument because I object to my daughter sitting in a parked car with her young man until 2 a.m. My wife contends that the girl is of age and should be permitted to live her own life.

H.T.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: By "of age," I presume you mean 18. At that age a girl should be able to use her own judgment in many things, but the guidance of her parents is never amiss. As for "living her own life," no one can do that and be happy. While there is no objection to a girl sitting in a parked car talking, that is seldom the end of a story. The setting is conducive to more serious petting than is wise, and the situation itself is bound to lead to unpleasant gossip. Your daughter should, by all means, bring the young man into the house for an early morning chat. Your wife should uphold you in the matter for the sake of her daughter's welfare.

Some Sauces And Their Preparations

COTTAGE CHEESE

When milk is sour and thick pour it into a shallow pan and stand in warm place like the warming oven or oven with door open and temperature not above 100 deg. Fahr. High temperature makes it coarse. When the curds separate from the whey pour all through cheesecloth bag wrung out of cold water. Let drain overnight; and contents of the bag are your cottage cheese. To this add salt and a little cream.

CREAMY SALAD DRESSING

(This dressing won a prize at a large exhibition one year.)

Combine in order given 2 beaten egg yolks, 1 teaspoon each dry mustard, salt, 2 tablespons vinegar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice; 1 cup cold salad oil (add this only 1 teaspon at a time until ¼ cup is added, then 1 tablespoon at a time, beating until completely incorporated before adding next spoonful. (This emulsifies and is a thick mayonnaise.) Next melt 4 tablespoons butter in top of double boiler and add ½ cup flour, shake of cayenne, beaten egg yolk, 1 tablespon vinegar, stirring constantly. When well mixed stir in 1 cup boiling hot water, and let cook 5 minutes. Remove from heat and chill. Meanwhile chill mayonnaise covered. When both are cold, mix them together, adding about 2 to 4 tablespoons berry or fine white sugar. This is an excellent all-purpose dressing and liked by both mayonnaise and salad dressing addicts.

EMEM'S CHIVE AND PARSLEY SAUCE

One-half cup homogenized milk, ½ cup liquid from cooking asparagus, 3 tablespoons cold water, 2 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, shake of white pepper, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon each finely chopped chives and parsley. Heat milk and asparagus liquid and stir until thick. Add all remaining ingredients; the lemon juice must be added slowly.

This sauce may be varied a great deal: add grated lemon rind or curry powder or chopped pimiento or grated skimmed milk cheese, or any variation that you can think up that do not include fat.

ROQUEFORT DRESSING

One - quarter lb. Roquefort cheese, 3 tablespoons tarragon or spirit vinegar, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, ¼ teaspoon salt, dash of tabasco, ½ cup good quality salad oil—preferably very fresh olive oil. (By fresh I mean a freshly opened bottle of Italian olive oil.) Mash the cheese with a fork, then beat in the vinegar and seasonings, then when these are blended, slowly add oil, stirring all of the time. When ready to serve mix well again. Keep cold.

CREAM MAYONNAISE

Combine homemade or ready-made mayonnaise half and half with very heavy whipped cream (measure this proportion before cream is whipped) and flavor with 1 tablespon canned pineapple juice. This is delicious on almost any fruit salad.

The world's biggest tapestry, 62 feet by 40 feet, will hang in the new cathedral at Coventry, England.

6—In Memoriam

GILLESPIE—In memory of Mrs. Peter C. Gillespie, who died Sept. 17, 1944, also Clarence Gillespie, who left us Aug. 22, 1942.
—Ever remembered by Helen, Annie, Marion and Dad.

WINTERBOTTOM—In loving memory of Mr. Walter Winterbottom, who passed away Sept. 17, 1951.
One year has passed, dear father
Since you were called away
How well do we remember
That sad and weary day,
You suffered much, you murmured not
We watched you day by day
We cried and prayed that your dear life
Would not be taken away.
—Son and daughter-in-law Harry and Gladys and grandchildren Mary and Harry.

WINTERBOTTOM—In loving memory of my dear husband Walter, who passed away September 11, 1951.
When all is still and silent,
And sleep forakes my eyes,
My thoughts are in the silent grave
Where my dear husband lies.
—Sadly missed by wife Emma.

WINTERBOTTOM—In loving memory of Walter Winterbottom, a dear father and grandfather, who passed away September 17, 1951.
His smiling way and pleasant face
Are a pleasure to recall,
He had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
Some day we hope to meet him,
Some day, we know not when
To clasp his hand in the better land,
Never to part again.
—Ever remembered by Thelma, Jack, Marlene and Carol.

WINTERBOTTOM—In loving memory of W. Winterbottom who passed away September 17, 1951.
The rolling stream of life rolls on,
But still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile
Of the one who once sat there.
—Ever remembered by daughter Alice, Davey and boys.

Friendship

mer druggist who adopted many of the boys from other parts of the Commonwealth during their training there has assumed care of the graves of those who died in accidents.

Mr. Adermann had shared in the correspondence through the years, and when he was appointed to come to Ottawa for the Commonwealth Parliamentary Conference, one of his first intentions was to visit Dr. Clark and Mrs. Clark and their son Frank.

From Ottawa last Sunday he telephoned that he was on his way to Toronto. Dr. Clark met him at Port Hope, and in their meeting their reciprocal impressions were evidently fulfilled. Mr. Adermann came to Peterborough, remaining at the Clark home in a necessarily brief stay until Monday morning. Time permitted a visit to the City Hall where City Clerk Outram welcomed Mr. Adermann and requested him to sign the guest book.

SECOND VISITOR

By coincidence, Mr. Adermann's name is written on the next line below that of the signature of Harmer Nicholls, M.P., of Staffordshire, England, who was a visitor to Peterborough last Friday. Time will dim the circumstances of those two entries in the city's guest book of the names of representatives of the parliaments of London and Canberra, separately attracted to Peterborough by their personal desires and sentiments and the significance of their presence will be forgotten in the flow of day to day events.

Mr. Nicholls brought greetings from Peterborough, England, in his parliamentary constituency, and no doubt because he was urged and invited by City Auditor Edward Humpage when they met this summer on several occasions in Staffordshire.

Mr. Adermann wished to meet the family who had befriended his cousin's son and opened their hospitable home to him across the world from his native Queensland. From the City Hall he accompanied Dr. Clark on the automobile trip to the Royal York Hotel in Toronto. Mrs. Clark was with them.

ANOTHER COINCIDENCE

"A coincidence at lunch was almost as strange as fiction, something you might read in a book and remember the long arm of the metaphor," Dr. Clark said. "The room was crowded, but at our table one seat remained empty. Presently a lady joined us, and in conversation it soon transpired that she was from Australia, and Queensland, and knew Mr. Adermann by reputation. They mentioned mutual friends and gave quite a 'Down Under' turn to our little party."

Coincidence went further for it turned out that they both had known the late Rev. William Allen, former minister at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church here in Peterborough, immediately preceding the Rev. A. T. Barr. They both said they had heard him preach on occasions during his stay in Australia. He was lost with the Athenia, torpedoed by the Germans as the Second World War began.

The conversation mentioned the member of parliament from Queensland, Australia, whom our luncheon companion said she knew personally.

"I have quite a surprise for you," Mr. Adermann said, "because I know he is now upstairs in this hotel. The lady said she lived in Ipswich, in the state and constituency of Queensland."

So much for coincidence in the doctor and the deputy-speaker of friendship of the Peterborough the House of Representatives in Australia extending over nearly ten years since they first gratefully formed an acquaintance through the two chums in the air training depot near Aylmer.

"Mr. Adermann is a very fine personality," Dr. Clark said today. He is remaining with the Parliamentary Conference delegates on their return trip into the Canadian west.

GOING TO TEXAS

"He is a farmer," Dr. Clark related, "and because he is interested in vegetable oils he is including Texas in his itinerary to inquire into the peanut industry. He said he fully expected to visit Peterborough again before leaving for home. Incidentally, he told us that he was greatly impressed by the abilities of Mr. Harmar Nicholls, and believes that he will make a bright mark in Britain because he is a young man already prominent in industrial and national affairs."

FROM HOLIDAY ISLAND—From Bermuda, which has twice as many visitors annually as it has residents, Lt. Gen. Sir Alexander Hood, governor of the island, left, arrived in Montreal for his own holidays. He was welcomed on board the Lady Nelson by Capt. R. A. Clarke, general manager of Canadian National Steamships.

300,000 Allied Troops In Mock Combat As Manoeuvres Under Way

FRANKFURT, Germany (CP)—More than 300,000 Allied soldiers, sailors and airmen were locked in mock combat today in three huge manoeuvres testing the west's ability to defend itself against eastern invasion.

Warships of eight countries stepped up their Operation Mainbrace in the frigid North Sea. Canadian, British, Belgian and Dutch troops were engaged in their second day of Operation Hold Fast in northern Germany.

Along the middle Rhine the French Army's autumn manoeuvres, with U.S. troops taking part, began with about 95,000 troops, 600 planes and 15 river patrol boats in aggressor and defence forces.

Top Allied military men were scheduled to arrive in Germany this afternoon to watch the French Operation Equinox.

ATTACK ACROSS RIVER

In Operation Hold Fast, the British 7th Armored Division ("Desert Rats") launched a six-pronged attack westward across the River Weser during the night toward the industrial Ruhr.

A protective armored screen sent out by the defending "Blueland" forces fell back after all bridges across the river had been judged demolished. Three armored divisions were ready in battle positions to throw the first heavy opposition against the "Greenland" invaders.

Canada's 27th Infantry Brigade, 6,000 strong, is taking part in the exercise. "Enemy" air forces are commanded by Air Vice-Marshal C.R. Slemmon of the R.C.A.F., formerly air officer commanding at Trenton, Ont.

The plot of Hold Fast calls for Slemmon's forces to gain air superiority and force the "Blueland" defenders to withdraw, fighting delaying actions.

Meanwhile, the sea-going Operation Mainbrace was scheduled to finish after a night long battle.

The Danish Admiralty last night announced the dramatic finale, fought in darkness, would pit British, Danish and Norwegian naval forces against Danish coastal-defence fortresses.

Principal aim of this final stage of the manoeuvres is to test the Danish coastal warning system and the ability of shore batteries to carry on an artillery battle at night.

The "Blue" force consists of small Danish and Norwegian vessels; the "Orange" the British cruiser Apollo and a number of British and Danish frigates.

Earlier today, Danish submarines joined battle with the Apollo and four "Orange" frigates west of the Danish Baltic island of Bornholm, the admiralty said.

QUEBEC IN SWITCH

The Canadian cruiser Quebec, for almost two days the centre of a massive hunt as an enemy "Orange" raider, today was switching colors after losing a decision to two U. S. warships yesterday.

The Quebec and the aircraft carrier Magnificent are the Canadian Navy's contribution to the sea games.

The U. S. battleship Wisconsin and the cruiser Columbus got the 8,000 ton light cruiser in their gunsights. Referees ruled the Canadian vessel was sunk.

But that doesn't mean she is out of the games. Instead she is joining the "Blue" fleet to harass her former comrades.

The script said the Quebec posed a serious threat to "Blue" shipping in the North Sea after dodging watchdog destroyers off Narvik, in northern Norway.

She was gunning for a large convoy of supplies and reinforcements from Scotland, moving toward the defenders in Norway.

"After being shadowed by "Blue" aircraft continuously throughout the day," said a communique issued by British Admiral Sir Patrick Brind, commander of Mainbrace, "The Orange cruiser represented by H. M. C. S. Quebec, . . . was sunk by the U. S. S. Wisconsin and the U. S. S. Columbus in a night action."

Chief Wilf McLellan of Scarboro township said he believes the men who machine-gunned a cruiser carrying Constable And

Trucking Rates Force Railways To Lower Price

WINNIPEG (CP) — Low rates and speedy service by truckers are held responsible by trucking interests here for a reduction in freight rates by Canadian railways.

The railways have announced a 17-per-cent freight reduction to match the competition of transcontinental Automobile carriers. The rates were reduced to $3.63 from $4.37 a hundred pounds between Oshawa and Winnipeg.

Truckers' rates are $3.86, but they say that is about equal to the new railway figure of $3.63 plus unloading charges.

Rail rates on poultry and butter also have been cut.

But truckers claim they are not worried about these reductions. They say they are confident their business will continue due to "generally equal rates and speedier service."

The trucking business started to boom in Manitoba around the late 1930s and has been growing since.

"The 1950 railway strike was one of the best things that ever happened to truckers," said Harvey Bachman of Winnipeg, secretary of the Manitoba Automotive Transport Association. "The railways are still paying for that strike."

When every boxcar was frozen to sidings for nine days during the rail strike, shippers turned to the trucking industry, Mr. Bachman said.

About 80 per cent of less-than-carload lots of several commodities now travel by truck, he said. But the railways are fighting back.

The Canadian Pacific is in the trucking business itself, while the Canadian National is talking trucks.

At present, truckers are controlled by the provinces from which they operate.

The secretary of the Canadian Automotive Transport Association, John Magee, has said: "We will co-operate with federal control, if and when control is instituted."

But he claims: "Most of the employees of the Board of Transport Commissioners are former railway employees. The commissioners are railway-minded."

Mr. Magee said the truckers fear their rates will be so controlled that they won't be able to compete with railway rates.

Ten years ago, only about 20 Manitoba tractor-trailers were on inter-provincial runs. Today, there are about 500. They predict about 1,000 will be on the highways in three years.

Microphone Installed In Ottawa Court

OTTAWA (CP) —A microphone and loudspeaker was used today for the first time in an Ottawa courtroom so the judge and jury could hear a soft-spoken witness.

Mr. Justice Chevrier ordered the equipment installed during testimony of a woman complainant at the trial of Willard Kelso, 19, of near-by Willings Bridge. Kelso is charged with assaulting the woman.

Mr. Justice Chevrier suggested that the sound system should be standard courtroom equipment.

New Brunswick Election Drive Gaining Speed

FREDERICTON (CP) — The New Brunswick election campaign gathered momentum today for the voting climax next Monday.

The issue is the Liberal government's policy of non-recognition of international unionism in the public service. It was predicted by demands for recognition by New Brunswick Electric Power Commission members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (T. L. C.-A. F. L.).

In his presidential report here at the annual convention of the New Brunswick Federation of Labor, James A. Whitebone said yesterday:

"Union recognition is in no sense a political issue."

The Progressive Conservative leader, H. J. Flemming, said at a public meeting in Saint John:

"I regard this particular matter as an attempt to mislead the voters from the real issues of the election. . ."

TERMS ISSUE 'ASTOUNDING'

Mr. Whitebone said it was "astounding indeed that any provincial government should introduce such an issue as a major point in its election campaign. Certainly any government holding such convictions exhibits a colossal gall when they term themselves Liberal."

He urged the labor federation's membership to bolster its executives' pledge of support for the electrical workers union.

In his speech at Saint John, Mr. Flemming denied charges of a "deal" between him and H. C. Tracy, the union's international representative. The Progressive Conservative leader said he had made no commitment to bring all government employees under the provincial Labor Relations Act, making them eligible for union recognition, if his party came into power.

He accused Premier John B. McNair of engaging in a "desperate search for misleading issues."

Plane Strikes Crowd

ST. UASTELL, England (AP)—Two persons were killed and seven injured last night when an R.A.F. helicopter, making a demonstration night landing, sideslipped and crashed into the watching crowd.

FISHERDOG—Bullet, mongrel mascot of workers at Bonneville Dam, near Portland, Ore., engages in his favorite sport of trying to catch huge salmon as they leap over an intake to spawning grounds. At left he watches excitedly as one of the fish glides by out of range but at right he snags one in mid-air. However, like every fisherman, he learns that hooking them is one thing and hauling them in is another—the big fellow got away.

Fenella Women Plan Supper Dish Course

FENELLA (ENS).—The Fenella Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Donald George on Thursday afternoon with 19 members and eight visitors present. Mrs. Jim Waldie presided.

Mrs. Ambrose Fanning offered her home for the course in supper dishes when a complete supper will be prepared by Miss Elaine Found of the Women's Institute Branch and Home Economics Service on Nov. 3 and 4.

Mrs. Waldie then called on our guest speaker, Mrs. Bart Thackeray of Roseneath who is district president. She chose as her topic agriculture and gardening, and mentioned what a difference it made to have flowers blooming around the home where they could be seen and enjoyed.

Mrs. C. Rogers moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Thackeray.

Program conveners were the grandmothers and a reading was given by Mrs. M. Lonsberry. A lucky birthday prize given by Mrs. W. H. Sandercock was won by Mrs. Jim Waldie.

Mrs. Frank George had a plate marked for lunch, with the prize going to Mrs. M. Lonsberry.

Mrs. Carl McNaught moved a vote of thanks to the hostess. Lunch was served and the usual social hour enjoyed.

Union Official Jailed 3 Months

VANCOUVER (CP)—An official of the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.), yesterday was sentenced to three months in jail and fined $3,000 for contempt of a court injunction issued against picket action at Nanaimo during the summer lumber strike. Fourteen other I.W.A. members were fined $300 each.

In sentencing Tony Poje, business agent for I.W.A. local 180 at Duncan, Chief Justice W.B. Farris said the men "wilfully disobeyed" the court injunction.

Counsel for the I.W.A. said the judgment will be appealed.

An injunction was issued July 15 to restrain union members from interfering with loading of lumber on the motor vessel Vedby at Nanaimo.

Centenary W.A. Plans Autumn Corn Roast

ROSENEATH (ENS)—Planning a corn roast, to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Timlin, was the important item of business at the September meeting of Centenary W.A.

The meeting was held in the church. The president, Mrs. Dawson Timlin, presided.

The treasurer, Mrs. Reginald Timlin, reported receipts from bazaar, $118.17, making a balance on hand of $160.37. Mrs. Charles Burrison, Gore's Landing, was the winner of the travelling apron that had been going the rounds of the members. $13.10 was relaized from the apron.

Plans were made to shower Mrs. John Elder with birthday cards on her 86th birthday, September 19.

The president announced the following numbers on the program: a reading by Mrs. Reginald Timlin; a quiz on birds by Mrs. Walton Lean, won by Mrs. Arnold Elder and Mrs. Nil Sherwin; and readings by Mrs. Arnold Elder and Mrs. Neil Sherwin.

Solving Political Factor Brings Peace To Indo-China

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SAIGON, Indo-China (CP)—The key to victory in Indo-China's civil war is political, not military. And neutral observers think the key hasn't yet been fashioned or else it's in the Communists' pocket.

Military leaders of the French, and anti-Communist Viet Namese, say they can hold their ground but admit openly they cannot hope to defeat the Communist-led Vietminh until the political factor is resolved.

In a nutshell, that factor is the independence of Viet Nam, largest and most populous of the three associated states of Indo-China.

The French and the French-sponsored government say Viet Nam is already free.

The Vietminh, headed by Ho-Chi-Minh—"Uncle Ho" of the Indo-Chinese Communist movement—say it isn't. The small educated group who could rally the people agree with Ho, and refuse to co-operate in the anti-Communist campaign.

The nationalist feeling is so strong that two-thirds of Ho's 300,000-man army is made up of non-Communists who are fighting to free their country of the French even though they happen to be helping Ho to form a Red "people's democracy."

Indo-China first met the west in the 16th century when Portuguese traders and missionaries came. French influence boomed in the 19th century when that country helped the emperor of coastal Annam recover his throne. By 1900 France controlled all Indo-China with a colony in far-south Cochin-China and protectorates in Annam; Tonkin, in the far north; and Cambodia and Laos in the west.

Before the occupying Japanese were beaten in the Second World War, France announced a plan to organize Indo-China in a new federal union of independent states. Then the Japanese retired and let Uncle Ho seize power with nationalist help. French negotiations with him on the independence question failed. Civil war broke out, Ho-Chi-Minh leading the rebel side.

Today the French fairly well control Laos, with 1,000,000 population, and Cambodia, with 7,000,000. The Vietminh under Uncle Ho control most of Viet Nam, the third state of Indo-China comprising Tonkin, Annam and Cochin-China along the 1,000-mile coastline that curves into the South China Sea.

VITAL AREA

Because Viet Nam has 22,000,000 population and collects most of Indo-China's taxes, what happens there is vital. Whichever side wins Viet Nam controls also Laos and Cambodia.

It is the general view the Viet Namese would rise against the Vietminh in overwhelming strength if they could be convinced their state was really independent.

But the educated group—"Attentistes" (hopefuls), as the French call them—say Bao-Dai, former emperor of Annam whom the French brought back from Hong Kong exile as chief of state in Viet Nam, heads a government of French puppets.

Bao-Dai insists on being called "His Majesty." He told me in an interview that Viet Nam is completely independent and that republican France has no political interests in the country—only economic and cultural interests. Viet Nam is recognized by 33 countries and has its own army.

But these are facts:

Every key Viet Namese executive has a French adviser working with him.

France has retained first right to provide any technical experts Viet Nam needs.

Viet Nam has no constitution, no national assembly, no political parties as known in the west. The state is ruled by decree.

The prime minister, Nguyen Van Tam, and seven of his cabinet are French citizens.

France retains responsibility for state security and branches of finance such as issuance of currency.

Division of customs revenues and operation of utilities are controlled by representatives of the three states and France, each government having one vote. Laos and Cambodia, with less than one-third of Indo-China's population, are French-dominated and usually support France in the balloting.

It is as if Canada's revenues were divided on a basis decided one-vote-each by the west, the Maritimes, Ontario-Quebec and the United Kingdom.

FRENCH SHARE RULE

French and Viet Namese security police work wide by side. A traveller in Indo-China must get permits from both to change his location, and an exit visa from both to leave. A Viet Namese going abroad must get both French and Viet Namese passports.

There have been announcements of political advance. A 21-member provisional council is envisioned, appointed by the government and with advisory powers only. A national assembly also is projected—elected by village councils which are subject to military approval—but it will not be able to unseat the government.

The Attentistes say these plans are designed to protect French interests or keep in power Bao-Dai's supporters.

Here and in Tonkin to the north I was told repeatedly by Viet Namese:

"What we want is a relationship with France similar to Canada's relationship with Britain. We want an independent Viet Nam, running its own affairs."

PRIME MINISTER'S ROLE

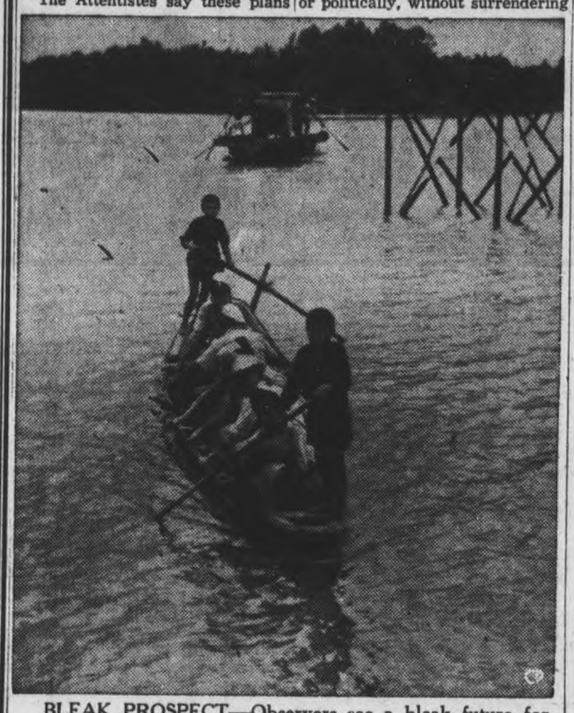
The change of government last June, when Nguyen Van Tam replaced Tran Van Hu as prime minister, apparently dimmed the Attentistes' hopes. Hu during the previous two years had taken a stronger policy against the French and Bao-Dai. He had launched a commission to study the election of a national assembly by universal suffrage in areas liberated from the Vietminh. Bao-Dai did not permit the report to be discussed.

"If Bao-Dai had backed me in June," Hu told me, "we should have won the critical turn and the people would have seen we were on the path to independence. As it is, time has been turned back 10 years."

Neutral observers have alternative theories as to the purpose of the Franco-Bao-Dai policies:

1. The French do not intend to withdraw from Indo-China and will claim they cannot do so, militarily or politically, without surrendering Indo-China by default to the Red Vietminh.

2. The French sincerely intend to withdraw when Viet Nam's army is strong enough to face the Vietminh alone, and political development are being held off so as not to complicate the situation. This, so the theory goes, suits Bao-Dai who wants an absolute monarchy and would not want to be encumbered by democratic institutions when he takes over.



In either case, the outlook is bleak for Indo-China, these observers say.

The first theory offers no foreseeable end to the civil war.

The second offers victory to the Vietminh, for in the chaos that would ensue the Communists would surely triumph.

BRIDGE BLOWN—A group of officers is ferried across the Nekong River in Cochin-China, followed by their jeep on another improvised ferry. Vietminh in the area had done a thorough job of blowing the bridge. The vegetation in Cochin-China is tropical and dense, affording excellent concealment to the Communist-led Vietminh. French troops can clear through it at the rate of only 500 yards every three hours.

BLEAK PROSPECT—Observers see a bleak future for Indo-China. Six years of civil war has smashed its economy and the war continues. The key to victory is political and not military and the key is considered not to be fashioned yet or else in the Communists' pocket. Military leaders of the French, and anti-Communist Viet Namese, say they can hold their ground but cannot hope to defeat the Communist-led Vietminh until the political factor is resolved.

Property Owners Want Remedies

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Lake Ontario shore property owners insisted yesterday that they aren't interested in such things as breakwalls to protect their land from flooding.

Norman Atterby, president of the Lake Ontario Development and Beach Protective Association, told an army engineers hearing that shore owners want remedies, not protection.

Purpose of the hearing is to determine the extent of damage due to flooding and to consider possible remedial works.

Property owners insist the only remedy for high water levels in Lake Ontario is removal of Gut Dam, a Canadian installation in the St. Lawrence River.

Daily Paper Uses Color Photos Now

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver Sun printed a three-color picture on its front page yesterday and said it was the first time in Canada "this new color process has been used in news columns."

The paper said it had acquired new presses to produce the color picture.

Formerly, the Sun said, use of color slowed printing processes by 10,000 copies an hour, but with the new presses it is posible to keep up with the regular press run.

Rules Voir Dire Admissable

WELLAND (CP)—A voir dire was ruled admissible yesterday by Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven who is hearing the trial of James Alfred Kelsey, 28-year-old Welland resident charged with the murder of taxi-driver Sam Delibasich

The voir dire—a trial within a trial—was held with the jury excluded to determine the admissibility of a statement obtained by police.

Kelsey's brother, Lloyd, also is charged with murder in connection with the taxi operator's death The battered body of Delibasich was found in a field three miles north of Welland Dec. 18, 1949.

Dead Goats Placed On Church Altars

MOMBASA, Kenya (Reuters)—Headless dogs have been nailed to government notice boards and dead goats placed on church altars by the Kikuyu tribe's secret and terrorist Mau Mau society, a member of the Kenya legislative council charged here yesterday.

George Usher, Mombasa member of the legislative council made the charge while denouncing a statement issued in London last week by Eliud W. Mathu, member of the Kenya executive council, which denied the existence of the Mau Mau society.

The Mau Mau society, said to exist in the 1,000,000-strong Kikuyu tribe in northern Kenya, is pledged to drive all Europeans out of Kenya.

Three Killed In Separate Rail Crashes

Lindsay Train Hits Orillia Taxi; Accident At Verner

By The Canadian Press

Three people were killed today in two separate accidents when the cars they were driving were hit by trains. Lyle Barlow, 28-year-old taxi driver, was killed at a level crossing in downtown Orillia by the train en route from Midland to Lindsay.

Two others died in Verner, 30 miles west of North Bay, when a Canadian Pacific Railway train struck their car in the centre of town at a crossing which has figured in several fatal accidents.

Barlow's car was dragged 300 yards down the Canadian National Railways track.

"The car apparently drove on to the tracks," engineer George Doherty of Barrie, told police. "It was concealed by a shed and we saw nothing of it until it was on the tracks in front of us.

The dead at Verner: Henry C. Haskins, 53, supervisor of wild life for the North Bay branch of the Lands and Forests Department; Edward Donald Lapworth, 24, of Toronto, a biologist with the department.

Mr. Lapworth arrived in North Bay a few days ago, to assume a new position.

RETURNING FROM MEETING

The two were returning from a meeting of the French River Resorts Association, which was held at French River bungalow camps yesterday.

The accident occurred at 3.50 a.m. Train officials on eastbound No. 10, said that the train was running late and had been due in Verner at 1:30.

The car was carried along the tracks for some 300 yards by the train. Parts of Mr. Lapworth's body were strewn along the track. Mr. Haskin's body remained in the car The car was completely wrecked by the impact.

In charge of the train were Conductor Duncan Cecil McDonald, of (155 Bancroft drive) Minnow Lake; and engineer A. J. Roy, and fireman R. G. Hewitt, both of North Bay.

Hard Coal Mines Accept Lewis Terms

WASHINGTON (AP) — John L. Lewis tucked a hard-coal royalty boost into his trophy belt today and began trying to win over soft-coal owners one by one to his contract terms.

Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers union, was reported dangling an exemption from next Monday's expected northern soft-coal strike in front of some big Illinois operators. Most of the soft-coal industry, however, seemed set against bowing to the union chief's money demands.

Lewis has charted a selective strike, ordering his men to quit mines belonging to the Bituminous Operators' Association — representing most northern mines—next Monday, and halt work in the Southern Coal Producers' Association's mines Oct. 1.

The diggings represented by the two associations produce about 70 per cent of the United States' soft coal. Most of the mines west of the Mississippi River are to keep working. And a number of important mines belonging to neither of the big employer associations are also strike-exempt.

Lewis says these exempted mines have agreed that, in return for being allowed to keep open while the bulk of the industry is shut down, they will accept whatever new soft-coal contract terms are finally negotiated.

HARD COAL YIELDS

The union reached an interim agreement yesterday with the anthracite operators to boost that industry's welfare fund royalty— financing miners' pensions and other benefits—to 50 from 30 cents a ton.

This assures that the hard coal industry will keep on working without a strike but will be called upon to negotiate further contract terms including new wage rates.

Sure U.S. To Get Bases In Spain

WASHINGTON (AP)—Diplomatic officials said today they are reasonably confident the United States eventually will get air and naval base rights in Spain, and not at the price asked by Generalissimo Franco. Franco's terms for agreeing to let U.S. ships and planes use bases in Spanish territory were sent to Washington in late July and have been rejected, these officials said. The rejection was regarded in the State and Defence Departments as a phase in the bargaining with Franco. Some officials said the reaction was not meant to be considered as final.

The Spanish Problem came into the news yesterday when Senator Russell B. Long, Louisiana Democrat, said the U. S. should come to an agreement on the base problem and told reporters he does not think the Spaniards are asking too high a price. He did not say what price they are asking.

Diplomatic officials indicated that at the moment they are not clear themselves on this point because negotiations are actively under way.

WANTS MORE AID

However, indications are that Franco wants the U. S. to undertake a larger aid program than the Truman administration has been willing to promise, plus a virtual alliance between Madrid and Washington. Officials here appear flatly opposed to the alliance idea.

North Atlantic Treaty system. Its

Spain is not a member of the government is strongly resented in powerful political circles in Britain, France and other Allied countries. Hence the U. S. is going it alone in trying to work out arrangements for Spanish participation in the defence of the west.

The U. S. proposed initially that it be granted the right to develop and use naval and air bases, in return for which it offered a $125,000,000 aid program for specific uses.

In his July note to the U. S. negotiating mission, Franco asked for $125,000,000 to spend as his government wished, plus what officials here called very large military aid to modernize his army, and for U.S. security guarantee constituting a virtual alliance.

Soil Program In Ontario Soon

TORONTO (CP) — An intensive program of soil revitalization and water conservation for Ontario farms will get under way in the near future, Agriculture Minister Kennedy announced today.

Mr. Kennedy said that he was confident the federal government will enter into the program by providing financial assistance.

The minister made his announcement following a conference with Agriculture Minister Gardiner in Ottawa yesterday.

The two-pronged program would hinge on the practical application of scientific research which has indicated practical methods of soil rejuvination. Equally important will be legislative assistance for the creation of "farm ponds" which would provide ample water for farm purposes.

Used extensively in the west and constructed with the aid of federal funds, the farm ponds will be bulldozed out of farmland. Over 500,000 gallons of water can be stored at a construction expense of between $150 and $200, the department estimates.

Mr. Kennedy said Ontario's farms had been "cropped" to death and that drastic measures were necessary if Ontario's farm products were going to meet the need.

Police Catch Young Robbers

ELMONT, N.Y. (AP) — Two would-be bank robbers, aged 12 and 13, were caught in the act of trying to force a rear door to the Franklin National Bank branch here last night.

They admitted two other bank robberies during the last week and told police they had planned to "pull a job alone" without their ringleader. The ringleader, 16, was quickly picked up by police.

The three admitted they had jimmied open a rear door of the Franklin Square Bank last week and took $112.49 in petty cash from an unlocked vault. Sunday night they jimmied a window of the Elmonth bank, they said, and stole $40 in petty cash.

All were held for children's court action.

Say U.S. Has Backlog Of Missiles

Navy Cmdr. Says Pilotless Planes Can Span Continent

TOKYO (AP) — The man who directed the first use of guided missles in the Korean War said today the United States navy has "immediately available enough missiles to mount a sustained large scale robot campaign in Korea."

Lt.-Cmdr. Lawrence A. Kurtz said missiles carrying atomic bombs conceivably could hit any target in the world.

Kurtz commanded the 12-man team which catapulted a pilotless plane from the U. S .carrier Boxer Sept. 1 — then watched on television as the plane launched the age of push-button warfare with a strike against a Communist target in North Korea.

CONTINENT-TO-CONTINENT

Kurtz told a press conference that "continent-to-continent guided missiles are possible."

The equipment used was "rather obsolete — we have better things than this," he added.

Kurtz said 1,800 planes had been converted into guided missiles, "drones" including those which had been used hitherto for target practice. He emphasized he did not mean a fleet of 1,800 was available at present.

Kurtz declared: "We could mount a large-scale robot offensive right now if it could be sustained."

"Any plane easily could be made a robot and could carry atomic bombs.

WRECKED BRIDGE

"In one strike, a guided missile —navy Hellcat—scored a direct hit on the small supporting pile of a North Korean bridge, wrecking the entire structure. The targe was more than 150 miles from the carrier which launched the robot.

"The control plane had turned away and was headed back to the ship when the missile struck.

"I can't think of any known defence" against guided missiles, he said.

He noted that guided-missile work was done even during a recent mass strike against Pyongyang, North Korean capital, while navy planes were taking off and landing on the carrier.

The navy, which developed the new secret weapon, withheld many details but revealed it as:

An outmoded airplane, carrying a 2,000-pound bomb and guided from carrier-deck launching to on-target crash entirely by electron-

Iran To Offer UK New Plan

TEHRAN, Iran (Reuters)—A government spokesman today announced that Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's counter proposal for a settlement on the oil dispute will be submitted to Britain in two days.

The move will be in response to proposals submitted recently by President Truman and Prime Minister Churchill. These were rejected by Mossadegh as not going far enough.

The Anglo-U.S. terms called for a $10,000,000 U.S. grant to Iran, the lifting of the embargo Britain now holds over Iranian finances, and British recognition of Iran's nationalization law, passed last year.

But in return Mossadegh's government would have to submit the case to the International Court for a decision on compensation, and would have to negotiate with Britain's Anglo-Iranian Oil Company to restart the flow of oil.

W. Alton Jones, New York oil expert, has declared after a visit here that his corporation will help Iran recruit European and American technicians to run Iran's refineries, it was announced here today.

12 People Marooned On North Pole Ice Cap

LONDON (Reuters) — Eleven Britons and a U.S. Air Force captain aboard a forced-down transport plane are marooned on an unexplored ice cap about 885 miles from the North Pole, the Air Ministry reported last night.

They were forced down unharmed Tuesday when their four-engined Hastings plane developed engine trouble. The 12 men have supplies to last them 10 days.

Suchan And Jackson Plead Innocent To Murder; Postpone Commisson Inquiry

TORONTO (CP)—The case of the Boyd Gang now moves into the courts for a long round of trials on charges of murder, bank robbery and escaping custody. The murder trial of Steve Suchan and Leonard Jackson opens Monday in one court while the series of bank robbery trials involving Edwin Alonzo Boyd starts the same morning. Suchan and Jackson made an appearance yesterday in assize court before Chief Justice J. C. McRuer and pleaded innocent in charges of murder in the slaying of Edmund Tong, Toronto detective. Tong was shot down on a busy street March 6 while walking from a police cruiser to check two men in a car. He died March 23.

Boyd's trial is for the $24,696 armed robbery of a bank in Toronto last March 4. Two men not involved in the Sept. 8 escape of Boyd and three others from Toronto's Don Jail, Joseph Jackson and Allister Gibson, are charged with Boyd in that robbery.

William Russell Jackson, captured with Boyd, Leonard Jackson and Suchan Tuesday night after winning 9½ days' freedom in the jail break, will get his trial turn in one of the series of 22 true bills returned against members of the gang yesterday. There are 11 indictments of bank robbery and one of attempted bank robbery. The others deal with breaking jail.

Today Boyd and three of his accused partners in crime were arraigned in county court on a total of 17 charges, 15 of them against Boyd. All pleaded innocent and were remanded to Monday for trial.

Appearing with Boyd were his brother Norman, Gibson and Joseph Jackson. The latter is a brother of William Russell Jackson. They are not related to Leonard Jackson.

Chief Justice McRuer yesterday appointed Arthur Maloney, Toronto lawyer, as counsel for Leonard Jackson in the murder trial. John L. Robinette is counsel for Suchan. Crown officials said 45 witnesses, some from Montreal, will be called.

WARNS PRESS

The Chief Justice spoke to newspapermen at the court room press table and said he trusted "that this case will be tried in no spirit of hysteria." He added:

2 Million Dollar Mail Fraud Uncovered In US

DETROIT (AP)—A $2,000,000 mail fraud involving the faked sale of at least one luxury-model car to a park-bench bum is charged to two Michigan men.

A South Bend, Ind., automobile-purchase finance company, National Discount Corp., is said to be the victim of the alleged scheme.

The government brought the mail-fraud charges yesterday against Joseph J. Madison, 48, former Pontiac (Mich.) branch manager for the firm, and Fred V. Holzbaugh, 50, one-time Mt. Clemens, Mich., auto dealer.

Holzbaugh was held in $5,000 bond.

The district-attorney's office said Madison was expected to surrender today.

HUNDREDS OF DEALS

Federal men said that during a period from July, 1950, until July, 1952, the purchases of hundreds of non-existent automobiles were financed by Madison and Holzbaugh through National Discount Corp.

Names of buyers were faked for loans from National Discount and car motor and car body numbers, along with transaction records, also were faked, the government said.

Postal Inspector Earl C. Barnhart said that on one occasion Holzbaugh engaged a park bench bum in Detroit in a transaction.

"He gave him half buck for a drink, then had him sign a blank contract," Barnhart said. "Then he took the contract and cashed it with National Discount for $3,000."

(Government men said Holzbaugh is a brother of Earl Holzbaugh, one of the country's largest car (Ford) dealers but that Earl is in no way involved).

Operatic Star Mme. Alda Dies

NEW YORK (AP)—The death in Rome of Mme. Frances Alda, the former operatic star, was reported here today.

A cable from her husband, Ray Vir Den, New York advertising man and president of the Dutch Treat Club, said her death was due to a cerebral haemorrhage.

The soprano was 69. She was a native of Christchurch, N.Z., and studied and sang in Paris and other European cities before she made her first appearance at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York in 1908 as Gilda in Rigoletto.

She was married to Vir Den April 14, 1941.

Among the many roles portrayed by Madame Alda during her career where Mimi in La Boheme and Manon Lescaut in the opera of that name, both by Puccini; Marguerite in Gounod's Faust; Juliet in Romeo and Juliet; Desdemona in Verdi's Otello.

Criticize Behavior Of Canadian Sailors

NARVIK, Norway (Reuters) — The newspaper Lofoten Folkeblad today complained about the behavior of Canadian naval ratings who recently visited Narvik during the North Atlantic Treaty Operation exercise "Operation Mainbrace."

The paper said the sailors not only went on noisy sprees and swiped ashtrays, table lamps and shades from restaurants as souvenirs, but "borrowed" bicycles which they left scattered around the town.

One seaman was seen dropping a "borrowed" bicycle into the harbor after using it, the paper added. It also said that women of all ages were "accosted and insulted" in the streets.

It didn't mention the name of the ship, but the cruiser Quebec was a recent visitor.

HAMBURG, Germany (Reuters) Nine persons were killed and 85 injured — 30 of them seriously — when a passenger train on the Hamburg-Luebeck line was derailed here today.

Mosher Defeats Challenge On Leadership

OTTAWA (CP) — Still a tough battler, 72-year-old Aaron R. Mosher has weathered the first of two big storms threatening his leadership of a major section of Canadian labor.

He has beaten down the challenge of James E. McGuire in his Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, though he still faces the possibility of retirement by that body. That could put him out of the presidency of the 350,000-member Canadian Congress of Labor.

The 25-year Mosher-McGuire feud ended in favor of the white-haired president late last night when the C. B. R. E.'s triennial convention voted 190 to 162 to uphold a March decision of the executive board expelling McGuire, national secretary Treasurer of the Brotherhood for 10 years.

MOSHER SAFE

The vote ended three days of oratory by partisans in the long scrap for leadership of Canada's biggest transport union. It set Mosher — founder of the union and its president for 44 years — firmly in the saddle for the moment.

Still to be dealt with by the convention this week, possibly tomorrow, are proposals from some C. B. R. E. branches for compulsory retirement of officers at the age of 65. There has been some speculation that these may pose a bigger threat to the regime of Mosher — now seven years beyond the proposed age limit — than McGuire did.

"I'm not optimistic or pessimistic on that," the veteran president said about the age-limit resolution last night after his win over McGuire. "I will abide by what the delegates say."

RETIREMENT ISSUE

Some observers at the behind-closed-doors convention expressed the view the relative closeness of the vote on the McGuire fight

Grain Embargo To Be Lifted

WINNIPEG (CP) — An embargo on grain loadings for the Lakehead, imposed when a strike threatened to tie up terminal operations, will be lifted today.

John Rayner, Winnipeg representative of the federal transport controller, announced the plan following an announcement from the Lakehead that the strike had been averted.

Mr. Rayner said the transport controller would continue control of shipments to the Lakehead, which was in effect before the embargo was imposed Tuesday.

Tito Announces New Marriage

BELGRADE (AP)—A noted bridegroom was told yesterday by another bridegroom of his recent marriage, a secret until now.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden of Britain, here on a diplomatic mission, was told by Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia of the latter's third marriage.

Tito's bride is the former Jovanka Budisavljevic, a shapely, long-haired, 28-year-old major still in army service.

Unofficial sources reported she is a Serb. Almost her entire family was wiped out during the war.

Apparently, the marriage to the 60-year-old premier took place early this year.

But she has remained in the background since then, although she has turned up at official appearances with Tito.

Tito was first married to a Russian girl he met in Omsk, Russia, in 1919, after his liberation as a prisoner of war. His second marriage was to Slovene schoolteacher.

6 Canadian Pilots Destroy Red Jets

SEOUL (CP) — Six Canadian pilots flying jets are credited by the United States Fifth Air Force with five Communist MiGs destroyed, two probably destroyed and five damaged.

Six of the claims are credited to Flt. Lt. Ernest A. Glover of Leaside, Ont., who destroyed one each on Sept. 8 and 9. His fourth damage claim was posted Tuesday.

Other Canadian exchange pilots credited with kills or damage to Communist MiGs are:

FO. Bruce Flemming of Montreal, two planes probably destroyed.

Flt. Lt. Claude A. Lafrance of Loretteville, Que., one destroyed.

Flt. Lt. Omer Levesque of Mont Joli, Que., one destroyed.

Flt. Lt. Lawrence Spurr of Middleton, N.S., one destroyed.

Sqdn. Ldr. James Lindsay of Arnprior, Ont., one damaged.

Mosher Asks Price Controls To Protect Wage Increases

OTTAWA (CP)—A.R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, today called for price controls to protect wage increases won by unions.

"There is need for government action to see that we are not robbed of the value of each improvement in wages as a result of the lack of proper controls," he said in a speech at the triennial convention of the C.B.R.E.

Mosher, who also is president of the Canadian Congress of Labor, called for a united front with unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor in negotiations with the railways.

"We must wholeheartedly cooperate with other unions in the transportation industry by avoiding every semblance of raiding or other activity which might be regarded as unfair practice by those unions with which we act jointly in collective bargaining," he said.

With a sound co-operative arrangement among unions there was no opportunity for management to play one union against another.

The veteran labor leader also called for protection against unemployment and increases in unemployment insurance benefits. These were needed because of changes taking place in the transportation industry due to modern equipment.

Health insurance, another aim, was "the biggest gap in our social security system."

Mosher also proposed support for legislation to protect workers against unfair practices in the trucking industry; an increase in basic retirement pensions of Canadian National Railways employees, and an increase in government old-age pensions, with an escalator clause to balance the cost-of-living index.

Strange Suicide Plane

Uncanny To Watch New Guided Missile

By FRED WATERS
(Delayed by Censor)

ABOARD THE U.S.S. BOXER (AP)—Aboard this ship we watched the first take-off of a guided missile in actual combat. And on a television screen we watched its flight into flak-ridden North Korea toward a target more than 150 miles away.

Hundreds of crew members tingled with excitement Sept. 1 and so did I as we watched a pilotless suicide plane—carrying a 2,000-pound bomb—roar off a catapult. The Second World War Grumman climbed northwestward in a sweeping turn and was herded to its target by a mother plane.

As both ships sped from sight we rushed to the television screen of a secret room. The experts crossed the Sea of Japan and watched the jagged peaks of eastern Korea loom in the distance and grow larger.

From the cockpit of the suicide plane a television camera peered out to record the plane's last hour and transmit the picture back to the U.S.S. Boxer.

The craft throbbed toward its goal as the seconds ticked away. The missile lost altitude and nosed into a final dive.

TROOPS HIT

The target—an enemy concentration in a valley between two shadowy hills—was indicated on the receiving instruments now. Seconds to go now—the signal on the instruments grew stronger as the guided missile dived straight at the target, at hundreds of miles an hour.

Then the instruments suddenly went blank. The screaming dive had ended, squarely on the target, and the missile had crashed to oblivion.

Before the flight a Douglas Attack plane, laden with secret electronic equipment, was launched off the Boxer, soared to 2,000 feet and began a steady circling.

One of the crew started the missile's engine, released the brakes and it moved on to a catapult.

A second Attack Douglas with a pilot at the controls, was parked alongside the catapult. The mission of this Douglas pilot was to take the missile off the catapult, with electronic controls. It was a fantastic thing to watch as a crew member gave the "rev-up" signal to the pilot of the Douglas—for the engine that "revved-up" was that of the guided missile. Then the missile shot along the catapult and zoomed out over the waves.

It was still under control of the Attack Douglas on the flight deck of the Boxer. But when the missile reached 1,000 feet the circling Douglas took control. The missile swept into the northwest with the guiding plane just above it and slightly behind it. The guide plane would steer it to the target area but in doing so would maintain an altitude well out of flak range.

I watched the missile and its guide plane shrink to mere specks and disappear in the distance. But down in the secret room the electronic experts rode along on this epoch-making flight—rode along to the last grim appointment in the Communist valley.

Got Raw Deal Man Freed After 25 Years

NEW YORK (AP)—James Carroll, who proved that the courts gave him a raw deal when they sent him to prison 25 years ago, was freed yesterday.

Now 57, Carroll stood before Judge Louis Goldstein to hear the words he had earned by studying law books in his cell.

"You are a free man," the judge said. "What I like about you is that you didn't become anti-social because of the injustice that was done you."

Carroll acted as his own counsel.

In 1927, when he was 32, he was convicted of stealing an automobile and sentenced to life as a fourth offender.

In Dannemora prison, he began to study, gave himself a high school education and then delved into law.

He concluded that two Brooklyn felony convictions against him, one in 1913 and another in 1916 when he was not yet 21, were unjust because he had no lawyer and was not advised of his rights.

The courts agreed with his petition, which meant he was not a fourth offender when sentenced in 1927, and thus not subject to a life sentence. A judge cut the time to 10 to 25 years. He already had served 25.

Cruiser Comes Back From Watery Grave

ABOARD H.M.C.S. QUEBEC OFF NORWAY (CP)—This Canadian cruiser came back from Davey Jones' locker yesterday to renew briefly her happy-go-lucky role as an "enemy" raider in the big Atlantic Pact naval exercise Mainbrace.

One of her last acts in this role was to swing back into action in pounding seas after being technically "sunk" by a carrier task force that had been trying for a couple of days to catch her off the Norwegian coast.

Later the 8,000-ton Quebec switched allegiance to the force she has been harrassing. In this new, second phase of Mainbrace, she will partake in an attack on the Kiel Canal.

New York Man Will Stand Trial

KITCHENER (CP)—Ira Betzner of Ossining, N.Y., was committed for trial yesterday on a manslaughter charge arising from the death three months ago of Mrs. Adam Kalbfleisch, Stratford.

A previous charge of manslaughter stemming from the death of the woman's husband was dismissed earlier for lack of evidence.

Evidence centred around a two-car crash near here June 22. Kalbfleisch died in hospital shortly after and his wife 10 days later.

might indicate the President would be in trouble on the retirement issue. The executive was trying to have the 65-year resolution passed only on a deferred-action basis to take effect from the time of the next triennial convention in 1955.

In the event the resolution should be passed effective immediately, it would leave Mosher in a shaky position in the Canadian Congress of Labor, which he was largely instrumental in founding a dozen years ago. But he said last night he is not worried about that.

McGuire had no comment after the convention vote that set back his attempt to climb back into the No. 2 spot in the brotherhood and perhaps take over its presidency.

DIDN'T SEE ANYTHING

Engineer Roy said: "I did not see anything on the track. I can't imagine what may have happened. Probably they had their lights off. I heard a noise and stopped the train to see if something was wrong with the engine. Then I spotted the car at the front of the engine."

Mrs. Hermine Smith, who arrived at the scene shortly after the accident, said that she was awakened by a noise which sounded like pots and pans falling down. Then, she heard the bell ring on the train. Other witnesses said that the train whistle had blown.

The bodies were taken to Sturgeon Falls and were to be transported to North Bay this morning.

Haskins and Lapworth had attended the French River Resorts meeting along with Dr. Ross Harkness, chief of the Wild Life Division at Toronto. Along with conservation officers from North Bay, Parry Sound and Sudbury, they had engaged in wild life conservation discussions with the tourist outfitters. Lakehead Grain Strike Settled Before Deadline

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—A strike of 1,500 Lakehead grain handlers was averted early today after all-night negotiations. Representatives of the 15 elevator companies and the workers' union reached a settlement of the wage dispute with the strike deadline of 8 a.m. barely three hours away.

The negotiators, with Deputy Labor Minister Arthur MacNamara as chief conciliator, met from 1 a.m. to 5:45 a.m. with three adjournments.

SETTLEMENT REACHED

Mr. MacNamara announced that a settlement acceptable to both parties had been reached. No details were disclosed immediately but officials said a statement would be issued later.

The workers, members of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship clerks (A.F.L.), were informed by radio broadcasts that the strike had been called off.

Mr. MacNamara was smiling when he came out of the conference room and appeared pleased with the outcome of the talks.

"I told the committees they had done a wonderful piece of work for Canada," he said. "I compliment them for the high plane on which the discussions were conducted."

Frank Hall, vice-president of the union said "great headway has been made for the employees."

All grain shipments through the Lakehead, which handles 70 per cent of the western grain crop, would have been tied up had the strike gone on as scheduled. The workers had drawn up lists for picket lines and arranged other details in event the 11th-hour talks failed.

Board Names Jail Committee

TORONTO—Appointment of a special committee to examine the physical structure of the Don Jail was recommended by Board of Control Wednesday on the suggestion of Mayor Lamport. The mayor added, however, he was willing to wager the committee would not recommend a new building.

"There is nothing wrong with the bricks and mortar, it is just the personnel," he declared. "The jail is better than 95 per cent of similar institutions on the continent. A new jail would cost $500,000 and all we would have would be the same bricks and mortar only they would look a little sweeter."

The committee, he suggested, should consist of Chief Justice McRuer, Reforms Minister Foote, his deputy Col Hedley Basher, Chief Constable Chisholm, Con. Brand and Property Commissioner Woods.

"Let these men decide and if they say we need a new jail, we'll build one," added the mayor. "But I venture to say they won't."

In the base metals list, Bellekeno continued active, moving more than 150,000 shares for penny gains and United Asbestos lost pennies in a turnover of 85,000 shares. Higher-priced issues mixed.

Western oils recorded a majority of losses although most price changes were small. General Pete A and Peace River gained.

The exchange's 1 p.m. indices showed industrials up .87 at 321.98, golds up .80 at 89.46, base metals down .07 at 189.76 and western oils down .14 at 129.78.

Drive Chinese Reds Off Finger Ridge

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—South Korean soldiers drove the Chinese Communists from the bitterly-contested southern arm of Finger Ridge in a pre-dawn battle today.

The Republic of Korea infantrymen rooted out the entrenched Reds with bayonets and hand grenades and recaptured the central front positions they lost nearly two weeks ago.

United Nations fighter-bombers had softened up the dug-in Communists with bombs, rockets and fiery gasoline. Then two columns of South Koreans stormed the ridge in the chill of early morning. Aided by thundering artillery fire, they captured it three hours later.

In Tokyo, the navy reported five men missing and seven seriously injured when an explosion shook the United States destroyer Barton Tuesday nearly 100 miles off northeast Korea. Presumably a Communist mine, probably blown far out to sea by typhoon weather, caused the blast, the navy said.

Machine-Gun Bullets Spray Trenton Farm

TRENTON (CP) — A mother and her daughter-in-law were frightened yesterday by machine-gun bullets which sprayed their farm one mile north of the R.C.A.F. station.

It was the second time in two weeks that farmers have been frightened by flying bullets fired from an aircraft.

Two weeks ago the cocking mechanism on a machine-gun went out of order, causing the gun to spew 150 bullets before it was stopped. A similar accident was understood to have happened yesterday as armorers loaded the guns on a Mustang fighter.

Canada Admits 114,744 Citizens

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada admitted 114,744 new citizens in the first seven months of this year, 15 per cent more than in the corresponding period of 1951.

A monthly report, issued yesterday by the Immigration Department, showed that immigration from the United Kingdom was 57 per cent higher than in the corresponding seven months of last year. A total of 27,795 were admitted from Britain compared with 17,662.

Report Blast Was Intentional

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP)—An explosion from the Dominion experimental station at Suffield, 30 miles northwest of here yesterday rocked the Medicine Hat area.

Officials at the station, where secret armed forces weapons are tested, said the blast was from a scheduled explosion. They said no further information could be divulged.

The force of the blast shook buildings here, rattled windows and dishes and caused the ground to quiver.

Residents of Medicine Hat said that immediately after the blast they observed a huge mushroom-shaped cloud rising from the direction of Suffield. It was clearly visible for some time.

Two hours after the explosion, light rain fell in the area although no precipitation had been forecast.

The navy announcement gave this description:

1. The new missile, armed with a powerful warhead, is sent aloft from a catapult aboard the carrier.

2. There are two guide planes, one on the carrier and one in the air.

3. The first guide plane sends the missile skyward. At a predetermined altitude, the airborne guide plane takes over and directs the missile to the area of its target.

4. By the time the missile goes into its dive, the guide plane is miles away out of anti-aircraft range.

5. All during its flight, from the carrier deck to the target, the missile records its progress via telecast aboard the ship.

TARGETS UNIDENTIFIED

The navy would neither identify the targets nor assess the damage inflicted.

The release said the missiles are primarily for use "against heavily-defended targets." Waters wrote that the one he watched flew into "a flak-trap for any hapless Allied pilot"—hardly a place for close reconnaissance.

Steals $2,600 Gets 6 Months

BARRIE (CP)—Robert S. Robertson, 46, of Angus, was sentenced yesterday to six months in reformatory when he pleaded guilty to theft of $2,600.

It was Robertson's first offence. An accountant at the provincial reforestation department at Angus, west of here, he was charged with falsifying accounts over the last five years.

The court was told that heavy family responsibilities drained Robertson's salary which had been $2,100 for a large part of the five years. He supported his wife, two daughters and two grand-children.

Lebanon's President Quits Army General Takes Over

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Lebanon's president, Bechara el Khoury, resigned today and the army's commander, Gen. Fuad Shebab, took over the presidential functions pending election of a new president by Parliament.

El Khoury's resignation came after a three-day general strike in Beirut, called by opposition groups pressing for a clean-up of government "corruption."

El Khoury was the first and thus far the only president of Lebanon. He was elected in 1943 after France ended its League of Nations mandate over the country. He was re-elected for a six-year term in 1948.

The general strike culminated a lengthy opposition campaign, led by Socialist leader Kamal Jumblatt, to limit the president's powers and institute electoral, social and economic reforms.

The government fought back with a crackdown on Lebanon's press, using a constitutional provision placing the president above criticism. Thirteen newspapers, including the Socialist organ Al Anba, were suspended and three editors were sentenced to prison terms.

Amid the mounting opposition, Premier Sami Solh on Sept. 9 failed to get a vote of confidence from Parliament and resigned.

Alberta Feels Sharp Tremor

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE, Alta. (CP)—Ann Daeley, 14, is in hospital suffering from severe shock as the result of an earth tremor or earthquake felt by residents over an eight-square-mile area in the Cheddarville district 20 miles south of here Saturday.

Rocky Mountain House is in the west-central Alberta foothills about 160 miles southwest of Edmonton. Word of the tremor was delayed reaching here due to poor roads and lack of telephone service.

Ann said she was alone in her parents' farm house when the building shook violently and seemed to lift and swing around. Her brother found her clinging to a tree where she was screaming in terror.

Residents said chimneys were damaged, all clocks stopped and dishes rattled.

"If there is any publication of matters that may tend to interfere with a fair trial of these two accused men I shall deal with it very sternly; and it will be strict now that I have given this warning.

"Two men on trial for their lives in a court of justice are entitled to have a verdict based on evidence given in court, and on that alone."

Special precautions were taken for the transfer of the four men from North York police station where they were held Tuesday night. Strong police escorts accompanied the car bringing Suchan and Leonard Jackson to the court and then to the jail. An equally strong escort took Boyd and William Jackson to the jail. They were lodged in cells with new locks. Saw-resistant bars were put on the windows.

CURIOUS CROWDS

Crowds of curious were at the North York station when the men left. Another crowd gathered at the jail in Toronto to watch them being taken inside the building from which they escaped Sept. 8.

A Royal Commission inquiry into the escape was scheduled to open yesterday, but Judge Ian Macdonell adjourned the hearing until after the court trials of the four are completed. He said taking of evidence by the commission might prejudice the trials.

Meanwhile, police in the Toronto area pressed their search for a car carrying three men which shot at a suburban Scarboro police car and touched off the intensive search to the north of the city which wound up with the capture.

Police believe that the men in the 1951 model car, its licence plate turned up and unreadable, were in some way connected with the escapees.

CLAIM REWARD

A claim was made yesterday for the $26,000 reward offered for the capture of the four. The claim was made by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Beauchamp who operate a store at the community of Oriole. They said they phoned police about 6 p.m. Tuesday to say they suspected some of the men were hiding in the barn where they were found.

However, police said another person phoned earlier with the same tip and this first caller did not want the reward, made up of $10,000 offered by the Canadian Bankers Association, and $4,000 for each of the men offered jointly by the City of Toronto and the Provincial Government.

R. L. CROMBIE, MANAGER

Council Hires New Constable

CAMPBELLFORD — (ENS)—Five applications for the position of temporary constable were considered at a special meeting of the Campbellford town council this week.

Applications from Charles Fraser, William A. Hay, Harold Peters, George A. Scott and Darrell Duncalf were received, and the latter man, Mr. Duncalf was chosen for the position. Duncalf, 30, was the only one whose application stated he had military service, and this fact was largely responsible for his success in obtaining the job. He has had four years police duty with the forces of Brockville and Smiths Falls, and served four years with the R.C.A.F.

Duncalf will assume his duties on September 22, under acting chief W. E. (Fred) Cargin. Chief of Police George H. Hardy of Campbellford is confined to his home by his doctor and has been granted a three month leave of absence by council.

Fooled By Smoke Worker Reports Crash

COBOURG — (ENS)—Report from a worker at the ordnance depot construction job here that he thought he saw a plane crash a few miles east of the depot, touched off a search in which R.C.A.F. planes and provincial police took part for several hours yesterday afternoon. After a detailed search of a large area of countryside, the hunt was called off.

The ordnance construction worker said that he saw a low-flying two-motored plane apparently in difficulty. It disappeared from sight to the east followed by a burst of smoke. The information was passed on to Trenton and a searching party of planes was sent out which flew over the area repeatedly without success.

The plane was noticed over the town around one p.m., flying low as if doing reconnaissance. It is believed that hills to the east of the town hid it from view and that the smoke the workman saw came from a locomotive.

Auxiliary Shows Chest

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — September meeting of the Hospital Auxiliary was held at the home of Mrs. Earl Craighead, with the president, Mrs. R. E. Fox in the chair. It was decided to show a hope chest at the fall fair, with Mrs. George Palliser and Mrs. A. McConnell in charge.

CANADIAN CANCER SOCIETY'S car with "The Little Red Door" is a familiar sight on Peterborough's streets these days. A free information centre has been set up at the Public Library with nurse-in-charge Miss Isabel McEwen, seated in car above, in attendance; she is shown with president of the Peterborough Unit, Mrs. Maurice Holt. To date 11 people have called at the centre. The car, which was the gift of the Landseaair Club of Toronto, will be leaving the city Friday.—(Examiner Staff Photos).

Tourists On Increase Cobourg C. Of C. Says

COBOURG (ENS).—Over 1,000 more tourist enquiries were handled by the tourist information booth in town hall in July and August than during the same months the year before.

H. O. Taylor, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce, said in July this year there were 4,351 enquiries handled and in August, the total was 4,569 or 8,920 for the two months. Last year in July the number was 3,706 and in August, 4,178 for a total of 7,893.

The number of tourists who stayed overnight or longer during the summer in 1952 was 26,662. These figures apply only to those who stayed at motels and cabins and do not include tourist homes, hotels and private homes.

Cattle Rancher Admits Slaying

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A cattle rancher has confessed the strange killing of a Yaqui Indian woman suspected by her neighbors of being a witch, Sheriff Cal Boies said yesterday.

Boies identified the rancher as Joe S. Chavez, 42, of Mesa, Ariz.

"Sure I killed her," Chavez was quoted as saying. "She was a witch."

"She sprinkled powder on my wife back in 1942 and she started to go blind. Doctors, healers and all the others couldn't help her.

"There was no cure but this."

The dead woman, Mrs. Maria Estrella Miranda, 41, was found last Friday, shot through the neck and arm.

Chavez, jailed without bond, claimed there had been marked improvement in his wife's condition since the slaying.

Rumour, Apprehension And The Boyd Gang

Now that the Boyd gang are safely back in prison it will not be out of place to look at one or two of the curious results of their escape from jail. Perhaps the most remarkable of these was the widespread and essentially unreasonable public apprehension which was aroused; there were people who appeared to think that the gang had broken out of jail specifically to enter their houses and do them bodily harm. The fact that these men were at large gave them a peg upon which to hang a weight of fear and anxiety which appears to be ever present with them. Hardly less surprising was the belief which many people held that the escape was so carefully planned that Boyd and his associates would reach Western Canada or the U.S.A. within a day or so of their getaway. Even the resolute determination of Toronto's underworld not to be associated in any way with the gang failed to shake this conviction.

* * *

Understandably the knowledge that four desperate men are at large makes everyone cautious about any unusual circumstance. But there is a difference between reasonable caution and unreasonable dread, and there is no good reason to attribute unusual intelligence and cunning to these men. True, they escaped from prison, which showed cunning and resource, but it takes friends, money and brilliance to make a complete escape, and it is harder for four men than for one. It is unreasonable to suppose that criminals are, as a class, cleverer than the police; the police have every advantage on their side: It may take time, but the chances are very strongly in favour of their finding a criminal who has escaped from jail.

* * *

As for the escape itself, we shall learn in time how it was done, and the chances seem very strong that it will prove to have been done with the assistance of some jail employee. Certainly it looks as though the Boyd gang were treated rather casually in the Don jail, and were given privileges which greater wisdom would have denied them. Therefore we repeat what we have said before: not a new jail, but better jailers, are the immediate need in the Don. There are many jails in Ontario older than the Don jail, but as they have not its record of escapes it looks as though they were better managed.

* * *

While the Boyd gang have been at large it has been said in several quarters that sterner tactics should be used in the treatment of criminals. Perhaps this is true, but we do not like the way in which every jail break is followed by suggestions that great severity is characteristic of a good penal system. It is now generally agreed that the discipline of a good jail or penitentiary is firm, but just, and that familiarity with the staff and unusual privileges are harmful to that discipline. If we have advanced at all in our ideas about penal institutions we must have faith in our humane practices; we must not be panicked into extreme severity, and we must not pay attention to the small minority which thinks that a jail should be a place of suffering rather than a reform institution. We must hold fast to what we believe to be right. Neither the slack methods of the Don jail, nor a reversion to the inhumanity of the eighteenth century is proper to a modern Canadian prison.

Soldiers' Conscience

The Nuremberg trials have been assailed on many grounds by lawyers, soldiers and laymen alike. Though it is not our purpose to defend the validity of the proceedings of that court in every aspect it is our opinion that the precedents established by Nuremberg constituted a great and significant advance in international law. Even if these precedents are abused it would not necessarily invalidate them.

There is one aspect, however, which caused lively controversy at the time, especially amongst military men, and which once again is a burning topic. There is the question whether obedience to a superior officer is of itself an answer to the charge of committing a war crime. Naturally enough the majority of officers feel that they should be officially absolved of responsibility for war crimes committed under direct orders from their superiors. The soldier is accustomed by his training to obey promptly and without question. The first thing told a recruit is to obey first, and to ask questions afterwards. If the stringent requirements of army discipline were relaxed the whole safety of the army would be jeopardized. The soldier is bound by the nature of things to surrender a great measure of his freedom of judgement.

Yet he cannot give up all responsibility for his actions, even when under direct orders. There are occasions when it is his duty to disobey. Unfortunately the opposite principle was incorporated into the British Manual of Military Law in 1912, and this duly found its way into the corresponding textbooks of other countries and even into Oppenheim's International Law. This mistake was cleared up in 1940 in the sixth edition of Oppenheim and later, in 1944 in the Manual of Military Law. It is not correct to state that the 1944 revision was made when and because the post-war trials were being planned.

It is a fundamental of the rule of law that no man should be given unlimited authority over his fellows, and in spite of totalitarian regimes that deny this principle it holds good so long as there is a single free nation on this earth. It has been embodied in British and American law and also in formal documents of international law, such as the Treaty of 1922 regarding the use of poison gas, signed by the U.S.A., the British Empire, France, Italy and Japan, in which it is stated," . . . any person in the service of any Power who shall violate any of those rules, whether or not such person is under orders of a governmental superior (editorial italics), shall be deemed to have violated the laws of war and shall be liable to trial and punishment . . ." Nothing could be more explicit than this.

The soldier, though under discipline, is a free man, and his conscience is respected by the law, which can resolve the dilemma of the conflict between law and order along the lines of common sense. This conception of the duty of a soldier demands a higher standard than brute obedience, though full allowance is made for a soldier who unwittingly commits an unlawful act in obeying his superior officer. In our free and democratic society such safeguards are always present, for the soldier never ceases to be a citizen, with all the essential rights and duties entailed. He is employed to kill, yet he is forbidden to murder, even when ordered to do so. The ultimate test is that of conscience. In countries that do not recognize any but a utilitarian standard of morality, to be changed to fit the expediency of the situation, the position of the soldier is quite different. The role of conscience is denied. It would be useless to attempt to protect our soldiers from enemy vengeance should they become prisoners of war by laying down bad law in our manuals, for the enemy is able to misuse the precedent created by Nuremberg.

It is essential that a proper definition of a soldier's responsibilities as a soldier and citizen form part of his military training. He rarely has the time or the mentality to make fine legal distinctions, but he should be given an opportunity of hearing in as simple a way as is compatible with the nature of the subject the limitations placed on his obedience by law.

They Don't Know

As our readers know, we follow with keen interest the interviews which are given to the press by men and women who have lived to be at least a hundred years old. It is common newspaper practice for a reporter—usually a young one—to be sent to ask these oldsters what they attribute their great age to; the answers, from Canadian centenarians are usually full of good, but well-worn, advice—don't drink, don't smoke, go to bed early, love God, honour the King, etc. It is usual to ignore the fact that many people who observe all these rules drop off before they have reached the Psalmist's span of seventy years.

The only observation we have been able to make in some years of observing centenarians is that they are, in the main, people who have never distinguished themselves in any other way. Their best efforts seem to have gone into surprising the census-taker.

We have at hand, from the pages of the New York Times, some remarks collected among people who have reached, or exceeded, the century. Their comments on their great age are, as usual, unhelpful. The one Canadian of the lot advises, characteristically, a g a i n s t drinking anything but water or milk. An Australian, at 103, suggests two tots of rum daily, bacon and eggs for breakfast, and strong tea. An old lady of 102 advises plenty of sleep. Three advise optimism. An aged Norwegian attributes his 103 years to drinking coffee from dawn till dusk, and eating sweet cake with it. An old gentleman from Ohio tells us to eat slowly, which is good advice, but we have followed many a slow eater to his grave. In all, the old people do not seem to know why they have lived to be old.

Lord Byron told Tom Moore that nobody had much chance of living to a great age unless at least one of his parents was also an old-timer. That is where the truth seems to lie. Length of life is, as much as anything, a matter of inherited constitution. Given that, a man may survive even a lifetime of coffee and sweet cake.

A U.S. physician says that hairs in the ears are aids to hearing. And they lend a rugged dignity, especially to politi-

On The Orient Express

By DINGLE FOOT

FOR THOSE of us who were born in the first decade of the twentieth century—for the generation, that is to say, who never waver in their conviction that the greatest American soldier of all time was General Custer—nothing can ever replace the railway train.

We cannot altogether dispense with the motor-car. We are occasionally constrained to fly. But we are never fully reconciled to the Georgian forms of transport. Whenever the opportunity offers we gladly exchange the excruciating boredom of filling stations and airports for the infinite variety of the permanent way.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE ORIENT Express meets all our Edwardian requirements. There is no attempt on the part of the French railway authorities at streamlined modernity. The wagons-lit and restaurant car look precisely the same as they must have done in the days of William Le Queux. We have little doubt, as we climb on board at the Gare de Lyon, that our fellow travellers will mainly consist of Queen's Messengers and international spies. It is only to be expected that one or two of them will mysteriously disappear as soon as we reach the Balkans. But who cares? We ourselves shall, of course, behave with traditional insular phlegm, provided that the promise of solid comfort continues to be fulfilled.

We leave Paris at 8:20 on Monday evening. Having enlightened the Swiss and Italian Governments in advance as to our names, occupations, places and dates of birth and the Christian names of our parents, we are allowed to sleep unmolested until breakfast time at Milan. Then we glide through the Lombardy Plain until we reach Trieste in the late afternoon. Here the French wagon-lit attendant hands over to "mon camarade Yugoslav". Most of the original passengers have already left the train, but we are joined by a Turkish lady and gentleman returning to their home in Alexandretta after a trip to the British Isles. They speak in glowing terms of the cooking in Liverpool.

✧ ✧ ✧

AFTER twenty minutes or so we steam on into Yugoslavia. The train stops once more and we crane through the window for our first glimpse of the Yugoslav People's Republic. A wayside vendor comes along with a tray of bottles. He is selling Coca-Cola.

Next morning we stop for an hour and a half at Belgrade and set off through the streets with our Turkish friends, who desire to send a telegram from the Central Post Office. The traffic policeman outside the station is unable to understand English, French, German, Greek or Turkish. The situation is miraculously saved by the driver of a van labelled "The United Nations". This deus ex machina overhears us as he drives by. He pulls up, with a screech of international brakes, and gives us the necessary directions.

At five minutes to nine we are back in the wagon-lit waiting for the train to move. Suddenly there is an altercation at the end of the corridor and we hear a transatlantic feminine voice exclaim: "Say, isn't there anyone who can speak English around here?" We intervene. The newcomer and her companion are two American ladies, natives of the Deep South, who have travelled from Munich and had reserved their berths on the Orient Express from Ljubliana. They had missed the connection by ten minutes and have since been travelling all night in a third-class carriage. It appears that the chief characteristic of third-class travel in Yugoslavia is the absence of ice water.

The Yugoslav attendant is obstructive. With a dogmatic stubbornness worthy of the other side of the Iron Curtain he maintains (in French) that the American ladies have tickets from Ljubliana and that he has no authority to admit them at Belgrade. Our own French proving unequal to the refinements of this dispute, we enlist the aid of our Turkish neighbour. He joins in with a wealth of gesture and invective and for a few minutes the corridor resembles the Chamber of Deputies. The result is a triumph for Nato. The American ladies are duly installed in their bunks.

✧ ✧ ✧

AFTER Belgrade the Orient Express completely changes its character. Instead of a main-line express carrying long-distance travellers it becomes a local train stopping at every wayside halt. The first-class carriages vanish. The wagon-lit is flanked on each side by carriages with wooden seats. Every carriage is packed to suffocation with Serbian peasants and their bundles.

Now that the Turkish-Bulgarian frontier is closed it is no longer possible to travel via Sofia, and passengers for Istanbul must change at Salonika. So the train puffs in leisurely fashion towards the Greek frontier through seemingly endless fields of uncut maize. Contrary to all prognostications in London and Paris there is a Yugoslav dining-car. Lord Palmerston, it will be remembered, recorded in his diary on his eighty-first birthday that he had breakfasted off two chops and a half glass of old tawny port, and was amazed that he had lived so long without discovering what an excellent breakfast it made. We make the somewhat similar discovery that even bacon and eggs taste infinitely better when preceded by a glass of slivovitz.

Dinner on Wednesday evening, after we have bulldozed our way through the human barrier in four corridors, is excellent. The only contretemps occurs during the meat course, when all the lights suddenly fail. My wife produces from her bag an electric torch and a candle, and the service is resumed. British prestige stands higher than at any time since Gladstone.

The Greek train into which we change on Thursday morning is even more leisurely. It takes twenty-six and a half hours to dawdle from Salonika to Istanbul, four hours over the scheduled time. This ought not to vex anyone, for the whole journey up to the Turkish frontier is a magnificent panorama of mountains, woods and rivers. At lunch-time our American ladies seek topographical information from the friendly Turk. The conversation goes like this:—

"Those mountains! Are they the Carpathians?"

"No, Madame, those are the Perin Mountains."

"Oh, of course, the Pyrenees."

✧ ✧ ✧

AFTER LUNCH the restaurant-car disappears. During the next twenty-four hours the problem of water becomes acute. At some halts children appear with pitchers, selling water by the cupfuls. At others there is a spring or a tap and the more enterprising or thirsty passengers race towards it with bottles. But the train seldom remains for more than two or three minutes and invariably moves off without the slightest warning. The stragglers race frantically towards the steps of the nearest wagon.

The chief feature of this landscape is soldiers. With Bulgaria only a few miles to the north, this must be the most closely guarded railway line in the world. Every four or five miles there are pairs of sentries, each with a rifle and a revolver. They hold their revolvers at the ready while the train goes past.

Next morning we are in Turkey. There are still more soldiers. But instead of being posted along the line they are engaged in various exercises. The military note continues to be struck as we draw into Istanbul. The Turkish flag hangs from nearly every window and even the ferry-boats across the Bosphorus are adorned with bunting to celebrate the thirtieth anniversary of the victory of Doumloupinar, when Mustapha Kemel finally routed the Greek Army in Anatolia.

The train draws in. We part from our travelling companions with expressions of mutual esteem after the usual exchange of invitations to our respective homes in Miami, Alexandretta or Cornwall when any of us happen to be passing those ways.

Letters To The Editor

EXHIBITION BUSINESS IS SHOW BUSINESS

Sir: Trotting races had some appeal for folk up to 30 years ago when there still existed some appreciation for a horse and some interest in a proper test of speed and pace of good local "hosses" against those of outsiders. But this is the machine age and no one now is talking about Grattan or Patch progeny. To them to-day trotting races can only be a spectacle and not a contest, and as a spectacle they are sadly wanting. Take the betting off the tracks, even for the "runners", and they would all fold in a month.

To draw the crowd interest again the Exhibition directors need to get away from their pre-war thinking and get some "zing" into the show. There hasn't been a member who had the feel for showmanship since the days of Reg. Turner, Chris Graham, and Rollie Glover.

The directors are sincere, but let them appreciate they are in show business and folk to-day react quickly to what is good or bad. Let them admit they need help and call for it in the proper quarters. If they started with the readers of Variety or Billboard in the city, it would be a begining. A sense of showmanship can not be acquired over night.

The Exhibition could and should be made again one of the most important weeks in the year for all in this part of Ontario.

OLD EX-GOER

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE EXHIBITION

Sir: Your editorial in yesterday's paper was very refreshing as I was beginning to think that I was out of step with the times in thinking that the Ex this year was decidedly boring. While the grandstand performance was apparently styled to cater to the horse and buggy crowd, the rest of the show was not very interesting either.

I do not know just how the Exhibition Board is constituted; I would think that City Council, Service Clubs, Churches, School Boards, etc. appoint the members. If so, then these members are at fault, and if the show is not successful, then the board should be replaced. To my mind, a first class sports director is essential and also a good general manager. These people should try to plan their program now for next year keeping in mind that the paying public are largely young people now, not interested in horse racing as a grandstand feature except on "agriculture day".

Use local talent,—High School Glee Club, Charlie Allen's Choir, a live wire M.C., local if possible, mass singing by the spectators, a few good vaudeville acts, ending not later than 10:30 p.m. with fireworks. That might be worked up to a nice grandstand show with additions of say, old time fiddlers' contest or an amateur contest.

The rest of the show could be brightened up with a track meet on one afternoon, fly casting contest, table tennis competition, an art exhibit in a special building, a more up-to-date midway, a parade of veterans and militia on opening day, some band concerts, etc. This would all mean lots of hard work for the planning committee, but if a job is worth doing it is worth doing well.

Here's to a bigger and better Ex. next year!

Yours truly,
PETE

On the Lone Prairie

(Calgary Albertan)

The next big industry for Western Canada, it seems, will be the potash fertilizer plant at Unity, Saskatchewan. A contract has already been let to sink a shaft, seven feet by 12 feet, more than two-thirds of a mile into the earth, for the extraction of the potash mineral.

Half way down the shaft will go through a high-pressure natural gas zone. How it will be sealed off during the excavation we would like to know, but presumably the engineers have it all worked out.

This is but one of many such ventures that will be undertaken in the West in the next few years. Big things are ahead. What more fortunate country than Canada?

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Then Joshua called the Reubenites, and the Gadites, and the half tribe of Manasseh, and said unto them, Ye have kept all that Moses the servant of the Lord commanded you, and have obeyed my voice in all that I commanded you: ye have not left your brethren these many days unto this day, but have kept the charge of the commandment of the Lord your God.

And now the Lord your God hath given rest unto your brethren, as he promised them: therefore now return ye, and get you unto your tents, and unto the land of your possession, which Moses the servant of the Lord gave you on the other side Jordan. But take diligent heed to do the commandment and the Law, which Moses the servant of the Lord charged you, to love the Lord your God, and to walk in all his ways, and to keep his commandments, and to cleave unto him, and to serve him with all your heart and with all your soul. (Josh. 22:1-5.)

✧ ✧ ✧

If ye fulfil the royal law according to the scripture, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself, ye do well: but if ye have respect to persons, ye commit sin, and are convicted of the law as transgressors. For whosoever shall keep the whole law, and yet offend in one point, he is guilty of all. (James 2:8-10.)

✧ ✧ ✧

No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon. (Matt. 6:24.)

Unconsidered Trifles

On a card in the front window of a suburban home appeared the following notice:

"A piano for sale."

In the window next door another card appeared with just one word:

"Hurrah!"

"Is this health resort all they claim for it?

"Sure is. When I came here first I couldn't walk across the room, had to be lifted in and out of bed, couldn't even feed myself."

Nope. Born here."

An expectant father—a commercial traveller—not desiring the post office to know his secret, arranged that the nurse should, on the happy day, send him a telegram in code If a boy: "Saturday's joint arrived." If a girl: "Sunday's joint arrived."

Imagine the father's surprise upon receiving a telegram: "Saturday's and Sunday's joints arrived. Expecting a rabbit on Monday."

Two circus lions were tired of doing the same act night after night. One said to the other: "You know that part of the act where the trainer put his head in my open mouth; well, I'm going to bite it off at this evening's performance."

At night the crucial moment arrived, and instead of biting, the lion went through he show as usual. Afterwards his companion said: "I thought you were going to bite his head off?"

The other answered: "I couldn't. He'd been eating onions—and you know how I hate the smell of onions."

Say Monastery Converted Into Fun Fair

HONG KONG — (Reuters). — A Buddhist nun and 3 Chinese widows declared in Supreme Court Wednesday that "a present-day Rasputin" had turned a monastery into a restaurant "where people could eat, drink, and be merry."

The four women claimed possession of the monastery.

Their counsel, Brook A. Bernacchi, told the court:

"If my clients' story is true, this is a story of a monk whose adventures one can only consider as being something similar to a present-day Rasputin."

"The defendant's conduct is such as to make the monastery a place of complete disrepute, seduction and now indeed, fraud.

"There is a deliberate attempt to oust these ladies—one of whom will frankly tell you that she had been his mistress."

Buddhist monk Wong Chin, the defendant, denied all the allegations. Chin claimed he was the founder of the monastery.

Bernacchi said the story started in 1927, when Wong Yu Kin, the nun, met Wong Chin.

Bernacchi said they lived together for a number of years. She had two children by him. Her money was used to buy a piece of land and build the monastery.

"The story becomes more involved," Bernacchi said. "Not content with my client, the defendant took unto himself another mistress, and yet again another one of the young nuns who came to stay there."

Bernacchi said Wong Yu Kin and the monk later rebuilt the monastery, offering shares to other women to raise funds.

The three widows took up shares. In return they were to get a room, to be fed for life, and to receive a coffin and due funeral rites on death.

They returned to the monastery after an absence during the Second World War to find that it had been turned into a vacation resort "where people could eat, drink, and be merry regardless of the sanctity of the surroundings" Bernacchi said.

The hearing is continuing.

Jitney Service Spoils Bus Patronage—Claim

WELLAND (CP).—Because of what they term "jitney service" operated by local taxicab concerns and "pool" car arrangements, bus patronage here has become unprofitable, Canada Coach Lines has informed Welland city council.

An increase in bus fares that went into effect last April has not provided sufficient revenue to meet operating expenses and the company now desires to discontinue a number of city bus runs, a letter to council advises.

The company was asked by council to make no changes until the city's bylaws committee had an opportunity to review the matter.

Welland's police commission has been petitioned by local cab company owners to restrict the number of taxi licences.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

Full credit for winning the C.O.B.L. crown this season must go to hustling playing manager Joe Stewart and all the players. Also to Ray Tanner, George Bennett, and those chaps who aided 'em financially in putting on TV nights when the going was rough. And to the executive, comprising: President, Max Swanston; vice-prexies, Dr. Cliff McKee and Bill Edger; secretary, Jack McNamara; treasurer, Lloyd Grose; committee, Tom Holyman, the late Bill Ovens, Cy Whatley, Dr. Ralph Clark, Hugh Campbell, Cliff Cadd and Clare Collins. We hope these fellows stay in there and reorganize early in 1953 so as to supply better ball in a larger loop next summer.

Coach Tony Kotowski has his Orfuns ready and rarin' to go against Cobourg's Galloping Ghosts. The local gridders figure they can take the starry Ghosts. Addition of several Orillia aces has made the Peterborough pack a pretty potent one. Some fine footballers adorning the Orfuns' roster. Guys like Huntley, Beatty, Hodson, the McGillis Boys, Fitzgerald, the Wildes, Armstrong, Jeansen, Berry, White, Ouelette, Naismith Thompson, Russells, DeCarlo, Beavis, Fraser, Burns, Collin, Menzies, Howe, Newark, Milligan, Wasson, Trudell, Kloetter, Spragg and a few more. We think they'll dump the cocky Ghosts right on the seats of their pants here Friday night. It's the official grid opener here of the '52 season.

Local Minors In Finals

In the excitement of Eastern Canada senior lacrosse finals, gutted-stick followers shouldn't forget that we have two minor clubs now in O.L.A. finals. Our bantam "A" boys, under Coach Gary Robinson, are trailing on points as they meet St. Catharines in the final fray of "A" play here Saturday night. They'll have to hop to it to grab the title. Our juves, under Doug Miller Jr., have a lead o'er their St. Kitts' opponents in O.L.A. juvenile "B" finals, and that series will be settled here Saturday night, too. Yeah, it's an O.L.A. playoff twin bill, and these future senior stars should have some real support in their final drive. Not just the next of kin.

* * * * * *

That's one peanut in the Eastern Canada senior lacrosse final bag. The 13-5 count was a good indication of play, the Timbermen notching nine of them in the last half as Toronto tallied but three. Locals finished much stronger, having a 5-1 margin in the fourth to earn it going away. Close enough the first two quarters and a lot of nifty lacrosse seen by some 2,000 fans. Checking was close for quite a portion of the melee and stiff enough in spots, too. Several roughing penalties, and there could have been a few more—but no fights developed. Speedy play here and there, yet careful at other times as the rivals fought hard for that first win. They go tomorrow in Mimico and back here Monday.

Strong Squad On Deck

It was the best squad Coach Bobby Thorpe has put on the floor in some time. Ross Powless was back and hustling, and Don Ashbee and Russ Slater proved valuable again after recent injuries. Hildebrand turned in a sound effort, as did Wipper, Garbutt and O'Hearn. Whole crew clicked okay before some brilliant goaltending by the one and only Moon Wootton. He was happy being picked on the all-star O.L.A. team again, and it was also his birthday! Rough Don (Scotty) McPhail, the Yorkers' opportunist, didn't notch a point, being held well in check all the way. Yorks fought hard and will be tough yet ere the series is o'er, but Petes had too much for 'em last eve.

Oshawa Bronks beat Seabrooke's 5-2 in the Motor City last gloaming, and the local softballers have to take the eight p.m. joust here Saturday or they're through in O.A.S.A. senior "B" playdowns. Big Hootch Muelmeester threw a three-hitter and fanned 13, besides getting excellent support. Lefty Doris kept nine hits pretty well scattered on the Sullivan slab, whiffing six, but his backing wasn't perfect. Neil Thompson bashed out a homer for the visitors, and Bill Lewis clouted a three-bagger. Bill also came up with a nifty fielding performance, as did Speedy Curry. Seabrooke's play a seven p.m. exhibition with Parish Loop all-stars Friday night in the Bowl.

Marines Draw With Rays In 11 Innings

Raybestos and Outboard Marines dished up a dazzling 0-0 draw in 11 innings at Quaker Park last night in a vain effort to settle the Industrial Fastball League final series. Each team had won two close ones in the best-of-five series and last night's abortive attempt compels another game tonight at 6.15 in Quaker Park between the same classy and well-matched clubs.

Halliday hurled three-hit ball for Marines, fanning eight, while Batley on the other slab allowed but six hits as he whiffed five. Both sides dished up brilliant fielding to keep the platter clear. One runner was nipped at the plate after a three-base smash in the dying minutes of the melee. Halliday got three of his side's hits Mongraw two and Gordonier one. Caccavella, Batley and Greenhalgh notched the Ray's bingles. Teams:

Raybestos: Crampton cf, Catcavella ss, Batley p, Crary 3b, Greenlaw 2b, Giles c, Fennell lf, Northcott 1b, Greenhalgh rf.

Marines: Gordonier 1b, Plumpton 2b, Downer 3b, Halliday p, Corrigan cf, Blakely lf, Wellwood rf, Mongram c, Broadhurst ss.

Queen Alexandra Seniors defeated Queen Elizabeth 3 to 0 at the Oval on Wednesday in their opening game of the public school soccer schedule.

Nelson scored for Queen Alex early in the first half with an accurate angle drive which didn't give the Queen Elizabeth goalie a chance. Fine teamwork in the second half enabled Johnston to score twice to complete the count.

Teams:

Queen Alex.: Kilborn, Sherk, Johnston, Hamilton, Sanderson, Nelson, Stewart, McGee, R. Druce, Seifried, Macklin, K. Druce, Cooney, Ingram, Downer.

Queen Elizabeth: Tighe, Whitnell, Taylor, Lymburner, Sage, Harrison, Lyons, Welsh, Perry, Gilders, McConkey.

LACROSSE ACTION IN BIG SERIES—After a close first half here last night, the local lacrossers pulled away from Toronto Yorks to win the opener of the Eastern Canada senior finals by a 13-5 count. Top picture shows Stew Scott, of Yorks, having a hot shot deflected by goalie Moon Wootton, the big netter turning in a starry performance throughout to celebrate a birthday. Below, Bruce Webster, of Toronto, is seen coming in in a vain effort to halt Ike Hildebrand, who a moment later blazed the ball by goalie Gordie Johnston in the third quarter. Ike also had three assists in the game.—(Examiner Photos).

Petes Beat Toronto Yorks By A Count Of 13 To 5 To Open Eastern Final Set

Unleasing a furious attack in the last half of the game here last night, the Petes' Timbermen trounced Toronto Yorks 13-5 before about 2,000 fans. It was the opening game of the best-of-seven Eastern Canada senior lacrosse finals. Next game is in Mimico Friday, and the third one back here next Monday. Petes led 1-0 in the first frame, 4-2 at halftime and 8-4 to end the third. They threw in five to one in the windup stanza to make it convincing. Goalie Lloyd (Moon) Wootton celebrated his 26th birthday and his nomination to the first all-star O.L.A. squad again by turning in a brilliant performance to let but five by him. He also had some good protection over most of the route, as the Petes played a sound game of lacrosse. Toronto never quit battling, either.

It was a close-checking contest and marked at times by some stiff checking. Centre Leo Teatro of Toronto retired in the first frame with a broken toe. Goalie Gordie Johnston of the same squad stopped a ball with his face once, but resumed play shortly. Don Ashbee was cut on the face by a stick in the fourth quarter, a minor penalty being handed out on it. Yorks drew seven of the 13 penalties, which included several roughing affairs with players going off in pairs. Play was fast and exciting in spots, but slow and careful in others, with both goalies good.

Al Garbutt sparked the attack with three neat goals, Don Ashbee and Harry Wipper each hitting the hemp twice, with singles racked up by Bob Thorpe, Nit O'Hearn, Lou Nickle, Dootch Vitarelli, Bill Killingbeck, and Ike Hildebrand. The latter also aided on three in a classy showing, Thorpe helping twice, and Vitarelli, Mason, Wipper and Ashbee once apiece.

Bruce Webster and Stew Scott each had a goal and an assist for the losers, Bill Timpson, Bob Hillson and Jack Kapasky getting the other markers, and an assist each going to Nick Ferri and Jim McNulty. Rugged Scotty McPhail was checked closely all the way, and he drew two roughing penalties with Thorpe and Hildebrand.

A CLOSE PERIOD

Nickle notched the only one of the first from Hildebrand on a pass back and high shot. Webster evened it early in the second after fighting fiercely for the ball. O'Hearn got that back on a quick break around defence and, with Nickle off in the sin bin, Thorpe tallied a beauty on pretty passing from Ashbe and Hildebrand. Garbutt cuffed in a rebound and Scott narrowed it to 4-2 on neat combination with Jim McNulty and Ferri. Play was faster and more open in the second quarter and the rival netmen had to hop.

Wipper's hard shot was partly stopped to begin the third heat, but it trickled in. Kapasky scored on a free shot but Hildebrand rapped home Thorpe's rebound. Slater and Facto roughed it, and then Thorpe and McPhail to get the gate. Wipper later checked McPhail hard and picked up the loose ball to trot in and score. Garbutt was away when Hillson tallied from Scott, and Al came back to take a long pass from Wipper and single it to make the count 8-4. Apart from a goal by Timpson from Webster in the final frame, it was pretty much all the Thorpe team. Garbutt got the first from Mason and Killingbeck whistled one home on Thorpe's pass. Ashbee got the next from Vitarelli, and the latter added another with Hildebrand and Thorpe in on it. Ashbee wound it up with seconds to go on a solo dash.

Teams:

Toronto — Goal, Johnston; defence, Webster and Banks; centre, Teatro; wings, Facto and Jim McNulty; rover, Timpson; alternates, Hillson, Joe McNulty, Croft, Ferri, Kapasky, Scott, and McPhail.

Petes — Goal, Wootton; defence, O'Hearn and Wipper; centre, Mason; wings, Salter and Powless; rover, Garbutt; alternates, Nickle, Killingbeck, Thorpe, Vitarelli, Ashbee, Hildebrand, and Burns.

Oshawa Captures Opener Over Seabrooke, 5-2 In Neat Senior "B" Fray

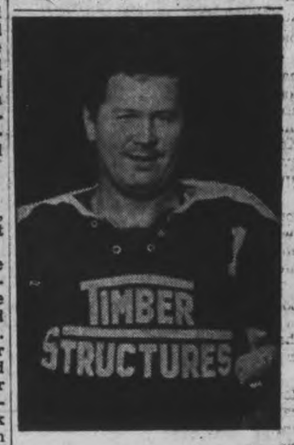
U.A.W.A. Bronks of Oshawa defeated Seabrooke Motors 5-2 Wednesday night in the Motor City in a thrilling opener of their best-of-three senior "B" softball playoff series. The second game will be played at the East City Bowl Saturday night at eight p.m.

Mel (Hooch) Muelmeester, veteran left-handed slab artist, toiled the route for the victors opposing Lefty Doris who also pitched masterful ball, in defeat. Mel limited the usually hard-hitting Sullivan squad to three safeties, including a triple by Bill Lewis and a long homer by Neil Thompson in the ninth with none aboard; he fanned 13 and walked none. Errorless support afield and timely stickwork coupled with four costly visitors' fumbles enabled Bronks to rack up the victory, though Seabrooke's battled hard in a tense game.

STRUCK OUT SIX

Doris was touched for nine hits, struck out six and passed one but on earned runs gained a tie.

Seabrooke's scored first in the third, when Bill Lewis, who played an outstanding game for the losers, tripled to right and scored on Doris' well-placed bunt. Bronks came back for two in their half when Bill Yourkevitch and Norm McGee singled and Keeler tripled. Muelmeester held the Peterborough sluggers well in check till the ninth when Thompson hammered a Sunday pitch well over Yourkevitch's head for a homer. Bronks meanwhile added three runs, all unearned, in the fifth and seventh to edge out a small but vital margin.



Norm McGee proved Oshawa's big sticker with four safeties in four trips with Mel M. next with two for four and a good fielding display. Other good fielding features were supplied by Lewis with three brilliant putouts and Speed Curry with five and two sparkling assists; John Weatherup and McDermott were good for the homesters.

ALL-STAR GOALIE — Once again Lloyd (Moon) Wooton of the Petes has been named to the O.L.A. all-star first squad, Moon being the only one of the locals to make it this year, despite the club winning the provincial title. Wootton celebrated this—and a birthday—by turning in another grand performance here last night as Petes beat Toronto Yorks 13-5 to lead the Eastern Canada senior finals by a game.

Sarnia Smears Windsor In 31-0 Game

SARNIA (CP)—There's one sure-thing bet in the Ontario Rugby Football Union senior series. Play Windsor Royals to lose—if you can get any takers.

The Royals did it again last night, going down 31-0 to the high-powered Sarnia Imperials. Windsor hasn't won a game in the O.R.F.U. since 1950, its winless streak now running more than 20 games.

The Imperials had all the best of it as they rolled to their fourth straight victory of this year's campaign before 3,000 spectators.

Corky Duchene, the hard-running halfback, led the Imps with three touchdowns on runs of 25, 15 and six yards. Archie McAffer got a major on a pass from Jack McKelvie and John Sells rammed over from the one-yard line for another.

Sarnia converted all five of its touchdowns, Dutch Davey kicking two and McKelvie three. Davey got a single on an attempted placement.

The Imps started off with seven points in the first quarter, got 12 in the second and another 12 in the third. They were held scoreless in the fourth.

The winners rolled up 18 first downs and completed six of 22 passes. Windsor got 10 first downs and quarterback Bobby Lee completed nine of 27 passes.

Remember When—

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

C. R. (Sandy) Somerville of London, Ont., became the only Canadian to win the United States amateur golf championship 20 years ago today at Baltimore. Somerville defeated Johnny Goodman 2 and 1. He won the Canadian amateur five times between 1926 and 1937.

Giants Shut Out Cubs 2-0 Closing On Brooks; Yanks Club Detroit

By ORLO ROBERTSON, Associated Press Sports Writer

Leo Durocher's losing gamble loomed larger and larger today with his New York Giants trailing the pace-setting Brooklyn Dodgers by three games in the National League and time rapidly running out. The Giants closed in on the Dodgers yesterday as big Jim Hearn shut out Chicago Cubs 2-0 while the Brooks were dropping a 4-1 decision to the cellar-dwelling Pittsburgh Pirates. But the second-guessers are saying the Brooklyn lead might be only two games if Durocher had not chosen to throw an untried rookie, Jack Harshman, against the Cubs Tuesday. The Dodgers posted another win that day while Harshman was driven from the box and the Cubs went on to win.

"GAMBLED AND LOST"

"I just gambled and lost, that's all," was Durocher's retort to his critics.

With each team having nine games to play, the Dodgers need any combination of seven victories or Giant defeats to assure them of their first pennant since 1949.

New York Yankees, meanwhile, closed the door a little tighter on Cleveland Indians in the American League race.

Only 2½ games separate the pair today, following the Yanks' 12-3 victory over Detroit Tigers and the Indians' 6-1 conquest of Washington Senators. But the Tribe has only eight games left. The Yanks play nine more.

The four pennant contenders, along with the other clubs, rest today before plunging into the final 10 days of the season. Brooklyn opens a three-game series tomorrow against the Braves at Boston.

The Giants begin a three-game series at Philadelphia and then come home to wind up the season in three-game series with the Braves and Phillies.

Philadelphia Athletics will furnish the Yanks' opposition in a three-game home set. The Indians stay at home for four against the Tigers and two with Chicago White Sox.

HEARN'S FIVE-HITTER

In closing in on the Dodgers yesterday, Hearn threw a five-hitter at the Cubs, struck out four and walked three to record his first shutout in three years. Al Dark, New York captain, figured in three double plays, had five put-outs and eight assists.

Veteran Howie Pollet hurled six shutout innings against Brooklyn. He was relieved by Murry Dickson in the ninth after Gil Hodges had opened the frame with a single. Dickson quickly ended the threat by getting Bobby Morgan to hit into a forced play and forcing Rube Walker to bounce into a double play. George Metkovich accounted for three of the Pirates' runs with a pair of homers.

The Yankees racked up their sixth straight while dooming the Tigers to last place for the first time in their 52-year American League history.

Manager Casey Stengel pitched Ray Scarborough and Bob Kuzava, who held the Tigers in check while the Champs were pounding out 11 hits off loser Virgil Trucks and reliefers Bill Wight and Dave Madison. Two of the hits were homers by Hank Bauer and Mickey Mantle.

LEMON'S 20TH WIN

The Indians backed Bob Lemon with nine hits for his 20th victory in the triumph over the Senators. The triumph gave the Tribe three 20-game pitchers.

In the only other games played, St. Louis Browns rapped out 16 hits to beat the Red Sox 10-4 and the Phillies downed Cincinnati Reds 7-4 with Stan Lopata and Willie Jones backing up Karl Drews' shaky pitching with home runs.

Davey Outclasses Graziano In Lopsided Fight Victory

CHICAGO (AP)—Rocky Graziano last night was completely outclassed and a spectacle of bewilderment as Chuck Davey piled up a tremendously lopsided fight victory.

Through 10 rounds, welterweight Davey sailed into Graziano, the former middleweight champion, with left hooks to the body and face and a jabbing, cuffing right. At the end, the sensational southpaw was awarded a 61-to-39 edge on points by judge Edward Kelin, 58-42 by judge Harold Marovitz and 56-44 by referee Frank Sikora.

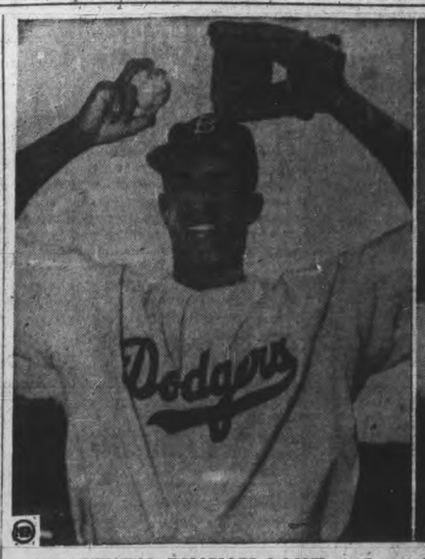
It was Davey's 37th straight win since turning pro.

The nationally-televised and broadcast bout drew a ringside crowd of 11,970 that paid a gross of $33,630. The net was $64,331, of which Graziano received 30 per cent and Davey 22½. Television receipts for each fighter were kept a secret.

The International Boxing Club would not commit itself on where Graziano will go from here, but it is certain of the road ahead of the 26-year-old Davey.

After bringing the scholarly star along for two years, the I B.C. thinks he is ready for a crack at the welterweigh championship.

The date, depending on the outcome of champion Kid Gavilan's title match with Billy Graham in Havana, Cuba, Oct. 4, is tentatively set for February. It probably will be in Davey's home town of Detroit.



Davey's cave-in lefts to the body and hooks to the jaw looked as if they hurt Graziano in the third, sixth, seventh and ninth rounds. Although Rocky's mouthpiece went flying, he later wouldn't admit he was jolted.

"He never hurt me," said the Rock, nursing a slight cut above his right eye. "I just didn't have that old feeling—didn't have no zip."

Davey came to the point like a professor giving a final examination.

"I don't like to give away 10 pounds and I don't think I'll step up against a middleweight again," he expounded. "I won with my right, not my left. I kept him off balance with it and he couldn't hit me."

Graziano had a 158-to-150¼-pound official weight edge at noon, but added about three more thrugh nourishment by fight time.

PRACTISING PSYCHOLOGIST — Joe Black continues his study of psychology while applying it to the science of pitching. Black, showing the way he grips an unusual curve, has accounted for 30 victories as Brooklyn's best relief pitcher since Hugh Casey. The Morgan State alumnus is a strong candidate for either or both National League awards — rookie-of-the-year and most-valuable player.

Lists Changes In Canada's Food Legislation

SAN FRANCISCO (CP)—R. E. Curran, legal advisor to Canada's Department of Health, today outlined changes proposed in Canadian food and drug legislation.

"The proposed legislation does not seek adversely to affect, hamper or impede the reputable or honest manufacturer, but rather to control the careless, the dishonest and what has been described as the 'hit and run' operator," said Mr. Curran.

He addressed the food, drug and cosmetic division of the American Bar Association's committee on banking, commerce and business Law.

STRENGTHEN REGULATIONS

The new legislation will strengthen the department's power to enforce food and drug regulations. It also will increase penalties for breaches of the act.

Since many of the changes are highly technical, a special Senate committee will hear the evidence of all interested parties.

The legislation contains express provision against false, exaggerated, misleading or deceptive labelling, packaging, treating, processing, selling or advertising of food, drugs, and therapeutic devices.

"The bill," said Mr. Curran, "seeks not only to guard the consumer but also the manufacturer and distributor against dishonest unfair competitive practices."

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — A rookie line made up of centre Bob Hassard, right wing George Armstrong and left wing Gordie Hannigan stole the show yesterday at Toronto Maple Leafs' pre season training camp for the National Hockey League campaign.

The rookie threesome — Armstrong played in 20 N.H.L. games last season but the others were in the American Hockey League with Pittsburgh Hornets—was in on two of the four goals notched against goalie Harry Lumley.

Armstrong potted one goal set up by Hassard. Hannigan made another possible by sheer fight in getting the puck out to rookie defenceman Frank Sullivan who got the counter.

Tod Sloan, Harry Watson and Howie Meeker had a big day. Watson got two goals in a hot performance.

WON'T RELEASE LAPRADE

GUELPH (CP)—Manager Frank Boucher said yesterday New York Rangers of the National Hockey League are in the market for a centre and a left winger.

After three days of pre-schedule workouts here, Boucher said he doesn't contemplate a deal to get the players he wants to round out the squad. "We'll find them in our own organization."

The big gap is left by Edgar Laprade's decision to retire.

The Rangers boss said he won't release Laprade to play amateur. "It cost us a great deal of money to turn Laprade pro and if he goes back to amateur I think somebody else should pay too," he said.

Laprade is reported as wanting to play amateur hockey for Fort William this season.

KINGSTON (CP)—Manager Bill Wright of Queen's Golden Gaels in the Intercollegiate Football Union announced yesterday that the squad of hopefuls for the 1952 campaign now stands at 72 with the arrival of half Don Dawdy from St. Thomas and snap Nick Seminuk from Ottawa. The team gets its first test in an exhibition game with Toronto Balmy Beach of the Ontario Rugby Football union here Saturday.

He breezed home in the second in 2:22.3, shaking off a strong finish by Pastime Vern, driven by Jim McIntyre, which won second money by finishing second in each heat. Third in the first heat was Elgin Winger, owned by S. Elliott of Indian River, and in the second it was Amelia Brook, owned by Mrs. J. F. Vniecnt of Oshawa and driven by Dave Dowson.

BETTERS WORLD RECORD

LONDON (AP)—Valerie Ball of England bettered the world record in the 880-yard women's run at a special event last night of the London-Paris-Brussels intercity track and field meet before 20,000 at White City Stadium.

Miss Ball ran the half mile in a driving rain and cold in the time of two minutes, 14.5 seconds, 1.1 seconds under the listed world mark set in Stockholm in 1945 by Ann Larsson of Sweden. Enid Harding of Britain was second in two minutes, 15.3 seconds, also under the old world mark.

NEW YORK (AP)—Greentree Stable's Tom Fool, 1951 two-year-old champion, tossed a roadblock into the three-year-old championship ambitions of Calumet Farm's Mark-Ye-Well by romping to a seven-length victory in the $24,350 Jerome Handicap at Belmont Park yesterday. Mark-Ye-Well finished third by a neck to the Saxon Stable's Madara rc52at-1.s-ho Stable's Marcador, a 52-to-1 shot.

Walcott Ready For Next Fight

By JACK HAND

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Return bout contract or no, Jersey Joe Walcott calmly goes about the work of preparing for his heavyweight title defence Tuesday at Philadelphia, against rugged Rocky Marciano.

"I leave those business details to my manager," said the 38-year-old champ. "If he (Felix Bocchicchio) says 'fight' okay. If he says 'no' then we don't. I do think we're entitled to a return as consideration for being champion."

Marciano is reported balking at signing for a return bout in the event he wins. Bocchicchio threatens to cancel Tuesday's fight.

Despite reports that Jersey Joe has made disparaging remarks about the young challenger, Walcott labeled Marciano "a good rough puncher with a rough and tumble style."

"I fought that kind of fighter a lot of times," he said.

How does he expect Mrciano to fight?

"It will be a question of knowing what to do and how to do it," he said. "He's a different kind of fighter than Ezzard Charles. I won't have to spend so much energy chasing him. He comes in swinging."

Fine Three Coaches In Western League

SASKATOON (CP)—The Western Interprovincial Football Union revealed yesterday it has fined three of its four coaches and a quarterback. The amounts were not disclosed.

League Commissioner Kent Phillips of Saskatoon said fines were assessed to George Trafton of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Les Lear of Calgary Stampeders, Frank Filchock of Edmonton and quarterback Jack Jacobs of the Bombers.

The levy against Filchock was made for publicly criticizing the work of game officials.

Lear was disciplined for several counts, Phillips said, including improperly approaching and abusing game officials during and immediately following a game in Edmonton Sept. 1.

Platt Rolls High

J. Platt led Major League bowlers this week with an 852 triple and 369 single, as Plaza led teams in singles with 1285 and Bickell totalled 3609. Wins by 7-0 counts went to Herb's over Brewers, Stud. over Selkirk, Revenoors against Edwards', and Bickell over O.P.P.; 4-3 victories were taken by Wonder over Deeth and White, and by Cherney over E. and B.; while 5-2 wins went to U.E., Plazas, Crowley, Flint, Silents and Odeon respectively over Hollingsworth, Irwin-Godson, McLeod, Examiner, Sunshine and Clapper's.

Good scores included: W. Stanbury (332) 806, E. Downer 783, C. Milheron 782, M. Crary (334) 776, W. Harris 757, M. Mackay 743, R. Bennett 741, J. Simmons 739, E. Reynolds 731, G. Walton 732, H. Legrow 719, L. McIntosh (320) 711, R. Bassett 711, M. Akers 709, A. Mattucci 709, J. Wade 708, J. Goodson 707, A. Pilling 704, and G. Baird 701.

Queen Mary Victors

Queen Mary began their School Soccer League senior schedule yesterday at King Edward with a 3-1 triumph over Central. Rushes led by Hum and Mac of Central were held off by goalie McArthur in the first half, with fullback Stewart helping. A quick rush later resulted in a goal for Queen Mary, Dafoe scoring from Hendry.

Haig opened scoring in the second half early. Central got it back on a goal by Hum. Close checking kept the count down until the final five minutes when Haig banged one home for Queen Mary. It was a clean game. Teams:

Q. M.: McArthur, Wilson, Stewart, Staves, Hendry, Bagnell, Dafoe, Reynolds, Haig, Brown, B. Clarke, Jobbitt, Mann, Drury, Crowe, Perritt, C. Clarke, Milne.

Central: Larmers, Aulbrook, Robbins, Sorrie, Mills, Armstrong, Gray, Hum, Lustic, Mac, McNaughton, Barclay, Tunnicliffe, Simpson, Grills.

Referees: J. Burns and J. Murray.

Cocksure Joe Walcott Begs Marciano Fans Not To Bet

By HARRY GRAYSON

PHILADELPHIA (NEA).—Perhaps the best pre-fight story was the so-called experts not being quite so certain about Rocky Marciano after taking a peek at Jersey Joe Walcott.

The last of the red hot papas presented his own case best. He had nothing but the utmost contempt for Marciano as a fighter. This after seeing the challenger four times in the flesh—against Roland La Starza, Layne, Louis and Matthews—and in the frightful affair with Savold.

"If I don't lick Marciano, I want them to take my name out of the record books and forget that I was heavyweight champion," said Walcott, perspiration pouring off his remarkable 38-year-old body in the stuffy dressing room beneath the stand at Atlantic City's Bader Field.

"I was a working man myself, so with Christmas coming up, hope the working people in his home town of Brockton won't be deceived by all they've read, and bet their life's savings on Marciano."

Someone remarked that Marciano threw punches from second base.

"He throws them from right field," replied Walcott.

"He has never fought a fighter who could punch. He has fought nothing but hand-picked opponents. His reputation was built on his knocking out Joe Louis, but time had done that before he got his chance."

HILL GAIL WAS TIRED, TOO

With practically everybody agreeing that Marciano would make The Battle of the Last Look—for Walcott, the Great Father of Camden regarded it is an easy fight.

A boxing writer asked if he believed he could go 15 rounds under Marciano's pressure.

"I went 15 rounds with Ezzard Charles as recently as June 5," answered the highly-articulate Walcott, with a disgusted look.

"But you were dead tired," countered the scribe.

Walcott laughed.

"That reminds me," he said, "of what Edide Arcaro said after winning the Kentucky Derby on Hill Gail. Someone told Eddie the colt was tired, and Arcaro said, 'Sure he was tired. He just won at a mile and a quarter with 126 pounds on his back.'"

Walcott pointed out that training came much easier for Marciano than it did for his last outing with Charles.

"I hadn't boxed for 11 months when I tackled Charles," he stressed, "and any fighter getting along in years will tell you it's tough to start training again after a long layoff.

"The 15 rounds I got under my belt with Charles gives me a big jump against Marciano."

THREE AHEAD OF MARCIANO

Walcott contended that Charles was still the most formidable heavyweight around, added that Clarence Henry and Harold Johnson were superior to Marciano.

He couldn't understand why ringworms were picking Marciano to knock him out.

"Marciano has never been really tested," he said. "He might not know what to do if knocked down and hurt. He might jump right back to his feet to be knocked down again and out."

Walcott pointed out that he went 26 rounds with Louis before being knocked out, had the Brown Bomber down three times in their first fight. His stressed his 52 rounds with Charles, with Ezzard and Gizzard dropping him just once. He brought out the fact that he had been in with other rousing belters.

Jersey Joe Walcott came the hard way, which is not the least reason why to him this one looks so easy.

IN SWEAT FOR VICTORY—Beads of perspiration indicate the rugged training schedules followed by Jersey Joe Walcott, top, and Rocky Marciano below.

Royals Take Semi-Finals Edge Toronto Leafs 6-5

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Royals defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 6-5 in the 11th inning last night to win the International Baseball League best-of-seven semi-finals 4-3. The Royals meet Rochester Red Wings tonight in the opener of the Governors' Cup final.

A long double by outfielder Don Thompson sent Junior Gilliam scampering home from second with the winning run. There was one out at the time.

Montreal seemed to have the game wrapped up in the first inning when they scored five runs by bunching five hits which drove Hal Hudson from the mound.

The Leafs came back with two in the third and then drew even in the eighth with three unearned runs. That was the end of Ed Roebuck of Montreal who gave way to Art Fabbro. Fabbro pitched to one man, giving up a one-run single, and Johnny Podres came in to take over. Podres struck out Grover Bowers, a left-handed Toronto pinch-hitter.

Gilliam got aboard in the 11th with a single through the box off Stubby Overmire, fifth Toronto moundsman. Jim Pendleton's sacrifice moved him to second and set the stage for Thompson's payoff punch. A crowd of 14,187 attended.

Says Toronto "Stuffed" With Retired Ministers

HAMILTON (CP)—Rev. Gordon A Sisco Wednesday told the General Council of the United Church of Canada:

"Toronto is stuffed—I said stuffed, not stuffy—with ministers. Hundreds of retired ministers seem to gravitate there."

He made the observation during a debate on the report of the sessional committee on settlement of ministers.

When asked about the transfer of ministers from one conference to another, Dr. Sisco said there is little chance for a minister to move to the Toronto Conference unless he was prepared to go to Northern Ontario or the outskirts of the conference.

CAN'T GET THEM IN

Rev. James A. Fraser, secretary of the Maritime Conference from Imperoyal, NS., said: "our conference isn't in that position. We have no trouble getting rid of our fellows. The problem is how to get them in."

The auditorium of the church rocked with laughter when Dr. Sisco said the church had taken its new system of calling a minister from the Presbyterian Church of the U.S.A.

"You can't go wrong if you follow a Presbyterian Church," he observed.

BOY CRUSHED BY 'DOZER

Enemy Found Everywhere In Indo-China

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SAIGON, Indo-China (CP)—As Oriental wars go, give me Korea. At least you know where you stand.

It's a clean and tidy war, compared with the civil war in Indo-China.

In Korea there's a front; you know where the enemy is. Here the Communist-led Vietminh are everywhere. You can't tell when or where they'll strike.

Indo-China's war—billed variously as a fight for independence from the French and as an insurrection aimed at forming a Red "people's democracy" south of Red China—has been going on for six years. That's two years longer than the trouble in Korea which erupted in the invasion of South Korea June 25, 1950.

NO CHINESE TROOPS

The Vietminh are helped by the Chinese with ammunition and food. But there are no Chinese troops in the field, as there are in the other war arena.

In Korea it's the Chinese and Red North Koreans against the rest—the United Nations and the South Koreans. Here it is the Vietminh of Red leader Ho-Chi-Minh against the French and anti-Communist Viet Namese, with monetary help and weapons from the United States.

The war is mainly concentrated in Viet Nam state, stretching from Communist China to Cochin-China on Indo-China's southern tip. Places like Saigon and Hanoi are safe, except for occasional grenade or bomb outrages. But 10 miles outside the cities the war starts.

Control posts on every road outside Saigon note vehicle work tickets, including destination and time of probable return, so progress of each car can be checked later if need be.

Cochin-China's policing is the best in Viet Nam. Armed blockhouses are spotted on the highways less than a mile apart. By day the lookouts are to spot Vietminh interference with the traffic. At night they are to guard the blockhouses against attack.

WALLED VILLAGES

Each village is walled and has watch towers manned by six to 20 men. One Vietminh battalion dispersed through a province like Travinh ties down 11,000 French and Viet Namese troops, equivalent to a division.

In Cochin-China, travel is considered safe enough for lone vehicles, though travellers are warned their lives are in peril if they wander from main roads.

In the far-north Tonkin district, cars must travel in pairs for safety. Roads cannot be used, even for military operations, until they have been swept for mines.

In Korea, natives who aren't enthusiastic for the United Nations are generally neutral. Guerrilla bands are few.

In Indo-China it is impossible to distinguish the friendly from the hostile Viet Namese. The gaze of every worker in the rice paddies is hostile. At least the children wave in Korea. Not so here.

OMINOUS ATMOSPHERE

Even the peacetime atmosphere of profiteering Saigon doesn't compensate for the unwanted, uneasy feeling.

In Korea, Seoul is still strugling for survival after two captures and two liberations. Saigon, in contrast, is bloated in luxury. There is no rationing, even of gasoline. The stores are over-stocked with de luxe goods. The theatres, bars, cafes and restaurants are packed with well-dressed natives and free-spending French and Viet Namese soldiers on leave.

The Korean soldier earns a pittance. The Viet Namese is paid by France at the same rate as the French, 10 times the average earnings of a Viet Namese office worker.

Even the military stalemates in Korea and Indo-China differ.

Korea's stalemate is along a front which is patrolled and heavily shelled by both sides. While truce talks continue at Panmunjom, neither side seeks a decisive advantage.

Indo-China's stalemate is the stalemate of two well-matched wrestlers, squirming for an opening that will bring victory. The French and Viet Namese have the preponderance of men and armament, but are held at bay by an elusive, less numerous enemy fighting with nationalistic zeal.

French officers say the pattern of warfare in Indo-China is being studied as a guide to the type of fighting the Communists would use in Europe in a third world war.

It is a three-way fight: Conventionally grouped formations to take on the defenders' armies; regional troops recruited locally to take on garrisons and police forces; and well-trained "fifth columns" to conduct guerrilla warfare and sabotage civilian activities.

Falls From Truck Picton Woman Killed

PICTON (CP)—Mrs. Dorothy Brant, 40, of Picton, was killed early Wednesday when she fell from the cab of a moving truck.

It was believed that the truck went out of control on a turn, the door opened and Mrs. Brant fell out.

Train Rams School Bus 4 Killed, 44 Hurt

MONESSEN, Pa. (AP)—A freight train rammed the rear of a crowded school bus Wednesday at nearby Collinsburg, killing four pupils and injuring 44 others, 13 of them seriously.

The bus, en route to Rostraver high school with about 55 persons, was almost past a street crossing when a Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad train snagged its rear end and dragged it about 50 feet.

TEMPORARY BRIDGE—The civil war in Indo-China is between the Communist-led Vietminh and the French and anti-Communist Viet Namese. The latter have the preponderance of men and armament but are held at bay by an elusive enemy fighting with nationalistic zeal. French officers say the pattern of warfare in Indo-China is being studied as a guide to the type of fighting the Communists would use in Europe in a Third World War. There are conventionally-grouped armies, regional troops recruited locally to battle police forces and well-trained "fifth columns" to conduct guerrilla warfare (blow bridges for example) and sabotage civilian activities.

More Controls Lifted Soon

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government is gradually moving toward elimination of all controls over essential materials, but officials predicted yesterday that it may be many months yet before all are ended.

One of the intermediate steps in the general decontrol move was taken yesterday when Production Minister Howe lifted restrictions on the production of semi-fabricated copper and aluminum products.

The next stage likely will be complete decontrol of primary or virgin copper and aluminum and possibly easing of restrictions in the use of steel and nickel. These two metals, essential in the western world's armament program, are still scarce, even though the civilian demand for most metals has slackened.

Conducts Investigation On Consul Office

WINDSOR (CP) — Herve J. l'Heureux, newly-appointed supervising American consul general for Germany, arrived here yesterday to conduct a personal investigation into irregularities which led to the recent visa fraud investigation.

Mr. l'Heureux, head of the U.S. consulate visa division for the last five years and a former consul in Windsor, said he will compile a report for Washington on the efficiency of the Windsor office and the adequacy of its personnel.

Meanwhile, a grand jury in Detroit returned indictments against nine more Canadians accused of making false statements to receive visas, bringing to 94 the number indicted to date.

11 Killed In Blast

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Eleven Koreans were killed and 200 injured when a locomotive tender exploded yesterday, derailing two coaches and throwing many passengers into a stream 40 feet below. The train was crowded with school children and workmen.

Instalment Buying Soars As Controls Off

OTTAWA (CP) — Elimination of federal consumer credit restrictions has helped spark an unprecedented boost in instalment buying.

The Bureau of Statistics yesterday reported that with elimination of controls May 6, instalment buying in retail stores jumped more than $150,000,000 to $355,700,000 for the three months ended June 30 last, up from $200,800,00 in the same period last year.

"Mr. Pickwick" Debut Good

By MARK BARRON

NEW YORK (AP)—The new theatrical season on Broadway took on a brighter and more humorous reflection last night at the Plymouth Theatre with the premiere of Stanley Young's comedy "Mr. Pickwick."

This colorful story based on incidents in Charles Dickens' "The Pickwick Papers" should be a joy to Dickensian societies as well as the theatrical audiences who enjoy the atmosphere of English life in the 1830s.

Playwright Young completed this dramatization seven years ago but couldn't find a Broadway producer. He took the play to London last spring and it received such an ebullient reception that the Playwrights Company decided upon the production for Broadway.

Although Dickens used 98 characters to relate the misadventures of the Pickwickians, that number has been condensed to 25 for the stage version.

For the role of Mr. Pickwick, the play has a perfect character actor in George Howe, who has distinguished himself in many Shakespearean roles. The cast includes Estelle Winwood as Mrs. Leo Hunter, the ambitious hostess who thinks everyone is a celebrity who attends her parties, and Nydia Westman as the spinsterish lady frantic for a husband.

Jailed On Drug Charge

VANCOUVER (CP)—A housekeeper who held narcotic parties in front of four children she had been hired to look after was jailed yesterday for five months when convicted of a delinquency charge. Mrs. Glenna Simister, 44, admitted to police she and three other suspects took narcotic "shots" in front of the children.

London Summer Stage Leads Montrealer To B'way Role

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON (CP)—Not only has Montreal's Peter Dyneley landed the most coveted role in London's summer theatre season—it now brings him a trip to New York's Broadway.

Dyneley, known to Montrealers as Peter Hessey-White, has played the part of Katharine Hepburn's husband in George Bernard Shaw's "The Millionairess," since the show opened on tour in May.

Now, after packed houses in London's west end since late June, the play is headed for a Broadway opening early in October. It was Miss Hepburn's first London stage appearance and the entire British cast that includes such well-known stars as the one-time ballet dancer, Robert Helpmann, has thrilled to her success.

During the Sadler's Wells Canadian tour of 1949, Helpmann coached the Toronto ballet.

IN CANADIAN NAVY

Peter came to London in 1946 to attend the Guildhall School of Music and Drama. Two years' study in both subjects was made possible by a Canadian war grant earned through five years' service on Canadian destroyers.

His pre-war acting debut was made in Montreal's repertory company. Peter, his sister Gillian, his mother and late father, all shared acting honors in the repertory company. They got the nickname of "The Hessey-White Circus."

Born in Hastings, Sussex, 31 years ago, Dyneley went with his family to Canada at the age of five and in 1939 took an arts course at McGill University before joining the navy.

Prior to "The Millionairess," Peter played in such London productions as "Brigadoon," in which he had four parts including the jealous suitor, and "The Happy Time," a story of a French family in Canada. The latter play lasted only five weeks, closing on the death of King George VI.

It has been an uphill struggle for Dyneley since "Brigadoon" closed in November, 1950. Parts were few and far between and Peter took night work in an ice-cream factory during the lean months of 1951.

"In the end this paid a dividend," he said. Later he landed his own program on Radio Luxembourg, which he said "gave him sufficient to live on." Then, just after accepting his present role he was offered a part in the film production of Nicholas Monsarrat's "The Cruel Sea." He was obliged to turn it down because of his present contract.-

Education Assoc. Discusses Building Schools

TORONTO (CP)—Building of new schools to keep pace with booming enrolment was one of the problems that came up for discussion yesterday at the Canadian education Association convention.

A report predicting future needs showed that a minimum of $78,000,000 would have to be spent on new schools in Canada every year to keep up with enrolment. Ontario's increase in enrolment is estimated at 40,000 pupils a year and for the whole country three times as many.

New, elementary schools could be built at a cost of $650 a pupil, the report stated, making a total of $26,000,000 for Ontario alone. Schools that have extra rooms for physical education and assembly would cost $850 a pupil, making a total of $34,000,000 for Ontario and $102,000,000 for all Canada. Most schools would fall somewhere between the two over-all figures.

The report also stated that building costs for secondary schools would be as high as $1,500 a pupil. All the figures, it added, were based on experience in Ontario.

'Your Own Fault'

TORONTO (CP)—Business firms are largely to blame for existence of charity rackets, Arthur Haskell, general manager of the Toronto Better Business Bureau, told the Optimist Club yesterday. The rackets thrived because firms did not take the trouble to find out who was getting the donations.

TO BROADWAY—Montreal's Peter Dyneley, 31, plays the husband of Katharine Hepburn in Bernard Shaw's "The Millionaires". Dyneley, known to audiences of the Montreal repertory company as Peter Hessey-White, has played this role in London's summer theatre since May. Now the show and Peter are headed for a Broadway opening in October.

New' Virulent Wheat Rust Threatens Western Grain

REGINA (CP)—The appearance of a new and virulent type of wheat-stem rust in Saskatchewan grain fields this summer accelerated interest in the development of a new wheat which would be resistant to the new rust.

Actually, warm dry weather later on retarded development of the rest known as Race 15B, and it did much less damage than was at first feared. The particular wheat strains it had attacked here and in other provinces appeared to develop resistance as they matured.

The fungus known generally as wheat stem rust is capable of developing new strains or "races" as it winters on the barberry bush. The spores can reproduce only on barberry leaves.

The obvious solution was to eliminate barberry bushes, and this has been pretty well accomplished in Canada. But the rust spores reproduce again in the southern United States and Central America.

STARTED IN 1916

The first serious rust attack struck Saskatchewan in 1916. Then Marquis became the popular wheat because of its resistance.

Stem rust attacks followed in 1921, 1923, 1927 and 1935, and the latter year was the worst. A new rust-resistant variety, Thatcher, replaced Marquis wheat in Canada after the 1935 outbreak and has retained its dominant position since.

The development of these rust-resistant wheats is a long and vital chapter in the history of the western grain belt. Thatcher was the product of a "double cross." Kanred was crossed with Marquis, and Lumillo was crossed with Marquis, and the products of these two crosses were themselves crossed. Kanred is a hard red spring wheat, and Lumillo is a highly rust-resistant durum wheat from southern Russia.

Two other well-known rust-resistant wheats have never gained the popularity of Thatcher. They are Apex, developed at the University of Saskatchewan, and Redman, originated by Dr. C. H. Goulden, now Dominion cerealist, and Dr. C. F. Peterson of the federal cereal breeding laboratory at Winnipeg.-

Key Mid-Western States Lean Toward Republicans

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP) — Key Mid-western battleground states are considered by editors on the scene to be half certain, half doubtful, but largely inclined to go Republican at this stage of the 1952 election campaign.

Large numbers of voters still are regarded as undecided between Democrat Adlai Stevenson and Republican Dwight Eisenhower for president. And editors and political writers participating in Associated Press surveys provide all sorts of cross-current estimates as to which way the vital farm vote might go.

TRUMAN'S ACES

This bloc of a dozen states—North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and Ohio—has been given a major share of the responsibility for the surprise victory President Truman chalked up in the 1948 election. So these states, with 153 electoral votes, are sure to hear some heavy political cannonading as the rival parties fight it out between now and the Nov. 4 balloting.

(A total of 531 electoral votes are apportioned among the states, equal to the number of Senators and Representatives the 48 states send to Congress. The candidate winning the majority of votes in a state—even by the smallest margin—gets that state's entire block of electoral votes.)

Four years ago, six of the 12 states went Democratic, some of them by hair-line margins. This year, as newspaper men see it, the Democrats could be reasonably sure only of Truman's home state of Missouri if the election were held today. Among the doubtful states, they believe only Illinois is teetering toward its own Governor Stevenson.

The consensus of newspaper men is that four bed-rock Republican states—North and South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas—will stay Republican. They figure that Iowa, which went Democratic in a stunning upset in the 1948 presidential election, will return to the Republican fold.

ONLY IN '32 AND '36

Except in the Roosevelt landslides of 1932 and 1936, the Dakotas, Nebraska and Kansas have been solidly Republican for 32 years or more.

Wisconsin, Democratic four years ago, is rated such a political puzzle that no pronounced slant either toward Stevenson or Eisenhower is apparent at this time.

That leaves Minnesota, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio on the doubtful list.

The political almanacs of the editors indicate all four are leaning Republican, but by exceedingly slight edges in Minnesota and Michigan.

SURVEY RESULTS

When estimates for the Middle West are added to those of surveys for five middle Atlantic states, 11 mountain and western states, and 14 southern and border states, the collective opinion of newspaper men is this:

1. Thirteen states with 145 electoral votes seem fairly sure to go to Eisenhower and 10 with 130 more votes are leaning his way to one degree or another. If the Republican nominee gets them all, he will have 275 electoral votes — nine more than the 266 necessary to win — and won't need any from New England.

2. Eleven states with 121 votes appear safe for Stevenson and three with 49 votes seem to be edging toward him. If the Democratic candidate gathers in all of them, his total will be 154 electoral votes—112 shy of what he will need.

Trucks, Cars Change Over Istanbul

WASHINGTON—Five centuries after Greeks and Turks engaged in bitter conflict around its ancient walls, Istanbul faces the modern conflict of trucks and cars, street cars and pedestrians, all seeking room to move.

Beside the Golden Horn, automatic traffic signals of U.S. design, parking meters, garages and parking lots are proposed to solve problems having their origins in the topography of a city founded when men rode horses or walked.

Istanbul is a great seaport, but it is menaced on the land side by bottlenecks, says the National Geographic Society. The Galata Bridge over the world-famous Golden Horn is one of the bottlenecks. At rush hours traffic slows to a crawl as commuters jam into an area where there is not only the bridge, but the ferry to the Bosphorus, the street car to Bebeck and the tunnel to the heights of Beyoglu (Pera).

The Golden Horn is a curving inlet into the shoreline of Europe. Even in the days when the great city that straddles this inlet was called Constantinople, the section to the south was known Stamboul. Life in Stamboul once was more Asiatic than that of the northern portions, but today it is taking on European dress.

South from Galata Bridge, the view now includes not only an unparalleled panorama of minarets and mosque domes, but a steel-and-concrete picture composed of the city's leading department stores, its central post office, the railway station for the Orient Express, and fine educational institutions—all in Stamboul.

Left behind on the north bank is Istanbul's most noticeable skyscraper, the Galata Tower, centre of the Genoese colony and office of foreign ambassadors.

Normal business traffic in the Galata bottleneck is swelled by movement of pleasure seekers from the coffee shops and the mosque courts of Stamboul to the movie palaces, night clubs, casino and open-air opera of Beyoglu. Fortunately, airport buses do not use the Galata Bridge, but roll in over a newspan further up the Golden Horn.

Western visitors are intrigued by the city's two-car trams, now facing stern competition from taxis, buses and private cars. So crowded are these Turkish counterparts of the street car that honest passengers pass their fares along to the conductor through several hands, and less honest one ride free.

It is not yet known whether the automobile drivers in the city of Constantine, Theodora, and Mohammed the Conqueror will take kindly to amber, red and green, and the cold regimentation of the parking meter. All the city fathers can do is to try the innovations, and hope for the best.

Juvenile Crime Traced To Home Influence

TORONTO (CP)—All but one per cent of juvenile crime today can be traced to the home, Lt.-Col. Wallace Bunton of the Salvation Army says on his retirement after 46 years in prison work. The youths come from both poor and comfortable homes, and he believes it is a case of parental delinquency rather than juvenile.

Most criminals today are between 16 and 25 years of age, he commented. In his years of service he has had contact with 250,000 criminals. When he began prison work, the majority behind bars were older men, but today most prisoners are under 25.

Col. Bunton blames divorces and broken homes for the juvenile crime wave. Other reasons he gives are crime magazines, books, movie and radio shows flooding the country, lack of religious training and the absence of the family altar, and the general indifference of the community.

As remedies he suggests community supervised playgrounds, recreation centres and entertainment.

During his career he has visited every prison in Canada and many in the United States. He was spiritual adviser to 18 men under sentence of death. He says all confessed their sins before going to the gallows and expressed their belief they were being justly punished.

Canadian prisons, reformatories and penitentiaries have never been so well equipped as they are now, or the prisoners so well cared for, he says.

Say One Year Not Enough For Teacher Training

TORONTO.—A group of educators who lead and staff teacher training institutions across Canada agreed almost unanimously Wednesday that a one-year training period for elementary teachers after they graduate from high school is far from sufficient.

They came to the conclusion that at least one extra year is needed and it should be devoted in large measure to subjects of culture, with professional subjects such as educational psychology being explored more fully than in the first year.

The discussion took place at the Canadian Education Association convention at the King Edward Hotel. Educators from Nova Scotia to British Columbia expressed their views.

Pupils in all provinces except Alberta require only one year of training after high school to teach in elementary schools. Canada is the only major nation in the world where a one-year training program is widely used.

"It seems incredible that Canada should be in that position," said Dr. J. R. McIntosh, professor of education and psychology at the University of British Columbia. "A U.S. commission investigating the problem recommended a training period of five years and a similar commission in England recommend upward of three years."

FOUR-YEAR PERIOD

Dr. M. E. LaZerte, former dean of education at the University of Alberta, said 15 states and the District of Columbia have a training period of four years or more. In 10 states the standards are no higher than in Canada.

"It is impossible to prepare teachers properly in one year after high school," Prof. A. S. Mowat, of Dalhousie University declared. "They lack general background, culture and knowledge."

Dr. LaZerte, who headed a research project for the C.E.A. into the status of the teaching profession two years ago, said the survey revealed that both teachers and general public agreed secondary school teachers should have a university degree or some training at college. But both groups thought a year of training after high school was sufficient for elementary teachers.

"The public still thinks of the secondary teacher as a different type, not socially or economically but intellectually," said Dr. C. E. Phillips of the Ontario College of Education.

NEED SAME TYPE

"Actually, the same type of education is needed by both. I don't see why the elementary teacher should be separated and taught as a technician, while the secondary teacher attends university. I think we will come to it that all teachers are trained in the same place."

Dr. LaZerte thought the Canadian people would have to redefine what they mean by teacher, defferentiating between a real "teacher" and a mere certificate-holder. Graduates of training institutions are granted certificates by the Department of Education.

Dr. LaZerte advanced the theory that the provincial governments could continue granting certification to people going out to teach, but the teacher federations would reserve the right to grant the diploma of "teacher" after the neophyte proved himself, if ever.

"In 10 years the Canadian people would know the difference between a certificate-holder and a teacher," he said.

Dr. S. R. Laycock, dean of education at the University of Saskatchewan, argued in favor of a four-year undergraduate college course to train all teachers. At U. of S., secondary school teachers are trained in such a course, in contrast with Ontario, where prospective high school teachers attend a year at College of Education for professional training after university.

Dr. Laycock said the undergraduate course gives them morale and a maturity which cannot be developed when professional subjects are all crammed into one year.

Dean A. C. Lewis of OCE said he was well aware that one year training was not enough. The great need in Canada was funds to enable teachers to take time off and improve their qualifications," he said.

"A teacher can't have too much general education, and one year doesn't begin to be enough professional training," he added. "We'd like to have a two-year course at OCE, but if it would deprive the student of a year's academic education it would be a step in the wrong direction."

Eisenhower-Taft Meeting Stirs Up Strong Reactions In U.S. Political Parties

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER

NEW YORK (CP) — The Eisenhower-Taft meeting has stirred up strong reactions from Republicans as well as Democrats.

The meeting last week in New York between Republican candidate Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Senator Robert Taft of Ohio, whom Eisenhower defeated in the national convention vote, is viewed by Democrats as an Eisenhower surrender to Taft, and by the majority of Republicans as a move toward harmony in the party.

But some Republicans are wary of the results of the meeting — a statement by Taft which included the dictum that the greatest threat to the U. S. is internal, Senator Wayne Morse of Indiana, described as a "liberal" Republican who had committed to Taft, told reporters 24 hours after the Taft-Eisenhower meeting that he would sit out the election. He made it clear his decision was the result of the Taft-Eisenhower pow-wow.

The Republican New York Herald Tribune, which supported Eisenhower's nomination in opposition to Taft, said editorially there was no reason for the surprise expressed by some at the results of the meeting.

"There is reason to think. . .that as an individual he (Taft) will put loyalty to a new administration above his personal views," the Tribune said.

However, in the same issue, columnist Walter Lippman, a supporter of Eisenhower from the start of the campaign, said Eisenhower's supporters have a "lot to worry about." He referred to what he called the spectacle of Eisenhower, apparently after only two hours' discussion, approving a statement made by Taft after the meeting. Lippman noted especially that the statement insisted the greatest threat to the U. S. is internal.

The columnist insists the greatest threat is external. He says the statement that the threat is internal is the "quintessence of the isolationist doctrine."

The Chicago Tribune, whose owner Col. Robert McCormick divorced himself from the Republican Party after Taft's defeat at Chicago, said of the meeting that Eisenhower called in Taft because he "presumably is becoming aware of his own limitations as a political campaigner. . .Mr. Taft told the general how the election might be won."

The Democratic New York Post headed its editorial on the meeting "surrender at Morningstar Heights." It said:

"The architect of the Atlantic Alliance, who enlisted in politics because he felt our foreign policy was the overriding issue, has now presumably been convinced that the true struggle is 'liberty versus creeping socialism.'"

Firms Trading In Gold Area Will Get Help

LONDON—(Reuters) —To foster dollar trade, Britain will deliberately favor firms exporting to Canada and the United States, Overseas Trade Minister Harry Mackeson said today

"We shall deliberately employ open favoritism, wherever practicable, toward exporters to Canada and the U.S. in the allocation of raw materials and other production facilities," said Mackeson, who flies to Canada tomorrow on an official visit.

"We shall endeavor to provide the best government service to exporters."

Mackeson added that Britain is willing to meet all reasonable requests for dollars legitimately needed for effective and business-like export promotion. He said the government's export credit to give exceptional assistance to firms exporting to Canada and the U.S.

Mackeson will spend several weeks on an extensive tour of Canada and will confer with Britain's trade commissioners there on measures to develop trade between the two countries.

"We fully appreciate the Canadian market is not an easy one to capture," he said. "It is highly competitive, and we shall have to compete with the U.S., which supplies 70 per cent of Canada's imports, and with growing competition from countries such as Germany and Japan."

SUPPLYING WOOL

The minister said the sterling area is already supplying Canada with three-quarters of all her imports of wool and its manufactures, and 30 per cent of the total sales of woollen and worsted cloths.

Britain was anxious to continue and expand these exports of consumer goods.

"But it is mainly in the field of capital equipment, plant and machinery, that we can expect to increase our exports," he said.

Britain is best able to meet competition from other countries in the engineering field where she can exploit her skill and experience in specialized work such as electrical engineering, machine tools and prefabricated building for export, he said.

"We do not ask Canada to buy from us where we cannot offer terms comparable with those of other suppliers, but only to take United Kingdom goods in preference to other imports wherever we can offer competitive terms," he added.

Mackeson said one of the principal difficulties Canada has encountered as an importer has been delays in deliveries of British goods. The British Government is taking steps to make raw materials more easily available to British manufacturers engaged in the export trade.

Suburban Road Expenditures Worry Toronto

TORONTO — (CP). — Mayor Lamport at board of control on Wednesday, accused Toronto members on the Toronto and Yorks Road Commission of falling down in their responsibility to the city.

The men, Norman Long and Kingsley Graham, will be asked to confer with the board next Tuesday to explain their position on certain expenditures undertaken or proposed to be undertaken by the commission on roads outside the city. Under provincial statute, the city is compelled to pay 25 per cent of these expenditures.

"Apparently they put up no opposition to the proposal that we contribute to the Spadina Road extension beyond the city limits," remarked the Mayor. "Now the commission is widening Bayview Avenue in North York and are even putting up mail boxes for residents along the way. We can't even afford to straighten out some of our streets."

Con. Saunders said that with the $300,000 which the city is contributing to the fund this year, Toronto could finance the improvement of many of its own roads.

Janitor Found Dead At Foot Of Stairs

LONDON, Ont. (CP) —Charles Callan, janitor at the Federation of Catholic Charities, was found dead Wednesday at the foot of the basement stairs in the Federation building. He was reported to have entered the building late Tuesday night. It has not yet been determined whether he fell down the stairs, or suffered a heart attack while walking.

Mr. Callan was an Imperial pensioner who served in the First Word War with the Enniskillen Regiment in England. During the Second World War he joined the Canadian Army and served with forces in charge of prisoner of war camps in Glencoe and Monteith.

He leaves a sister, Mrs. Jane Pringle of Detroit.

Service Stations Float On B.C. Coast

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver is believed to be the only seaport in Canada with floating service stations.

The steel barges, called marine stations by the owning oil companies, serve boats just as service stations ashore serve cars. There are five moored to pilings near the entrance to the harbor.

The companies figure there are several advantages in operating these barges in place of the traditional fuel wharf ashore. Big factor is the safety in isolation.

The average station dispenses about 500,000 gallons of fuel a month, 90 per cent going to fishboats and tugs. The rest goes to harbor pleasure craft.

UAW Asks General Motors For New Wage Benefits

DETROIT (AP)—Bound by contract until 1955, the United Auto Workers' Union C.I.O., is asking General Motors to go beyond their historic cost-of-living pact and grant immediate wage and pension benefits. If G.M.—the industry's pattern-setter for years—agrees, the union presumably will ask Ford, Chrysler and other auto companies with similar contracts.

The U. A. W. disclosed yesterday that informal secret discussions on the subject have been held recently. General Motors declined comment on their nature.

The union's national General Motors Council, representing some 350,000 G. M. workers throughout the United States, touched off the drive for contract improvements.

ASK ADDITIONAL BENEFITS

Emphasizing that it was not attempting to reopen the non-reopenable contract, the council said additional benefits were needed to bring the contract abreast of current living conditions. So it adopted a resolution asking the industry's biggest producer to "implement" the agreement by:

1. Boosting the guaranteed annual four-cent-hourly raise — the so-called annual improvement factor—to five cents.

2. Adding 21 of the 26 cents an hour gained in cost-of-living adjustments since the pact was signed to base pay. This would mean that only five cents could be taken away if the cost-of-living dives sharply between now and May, 1955.

3. Adjusting pensions of workers who have retired under the contract to give them the same purchasing power they had when the agreement was signed.

The council said the one-cent increase in the improvement factor was needed to keep that factor at a ratio of 2½ per cent of the average worker's pay—which it was in 1950 but is not now that the average has gone up to roughly $2 an hour.

7-Man Committee To Report On Peace Congress

By CRAIG ARMSTRONG

HAMILTON (CP) — A seven-man committee will report to the General Council of the United Church of Canada this week on dissociating the church from the Canadian Peace Congress and its chairman, James D. Endicott

The committee was set up last night after a motion asking for a "specific statement" from the council on the subject was passed with only three dissenting votes.

The motion was made by Rev. Norman Rawson of Hamilton who said he presented it in view of statements which have been made in the press and elsewhere, Elmer Davis, a lay delegate from Kingston, seconded the motion.

IMPORTANT MOTION

The motion asks the seven-man committee which was appointed by the moderator, Rt. Rev. A. A Scott to report back before this Council ends, to:

1. "Make clear that we do believe in the freedom of speech;
2. "That in the matter of the Canadian Peace Congress, we want a specific statement from this General Council dissociating the Council from any connection whatever with the Canadian Peace Congress;
3. "That we think it is necessary that the General Council of this church with all Crhstian charity, also dissociate itself with statements made recently by Mr. James Endicott and others holding similar views."

Dr. Rawson's motion came after the commissioners had defeated a petition from the Markdale Church asking that disciplinary action be taken against ministers and missionaries who have returned from China and made statements which support Communism, if they do not repudiate their statements.

The memorial, as such resolutions are called in Council, came before the Council with the recommendation that it not be passed. It came with a notice of non-concurrence from both Toronto Presbytery and the Session Committee on Overseas Missions.

Rev. Gordon A. Sisco, secretary of the Council, said the original memorial as presented by Markdale, in Grey Presbytery, deplored those ministers' and missionaries' statements and if they wouldn't withdraw them "the church repudiate these men and request their withdrawal."

"The original memorial asked for their expulsion from the church."

The question of the Canadian Peace Congress and its chairman had been brought up twice before in Council, but no action had been taken on it.

COMPLICATED ACTION

During the afternoon session, Dr. Sisco explained that only by action through the church courts could ministers or missionaries be disciplined. Rev. A. R. Cragg of Watcrloo asked if it was against a church law for a minister to support Communism. He asked: 'Isn't it more important to support the right of free speech?"

Dr. Siscoe said: "Why bring that up?"

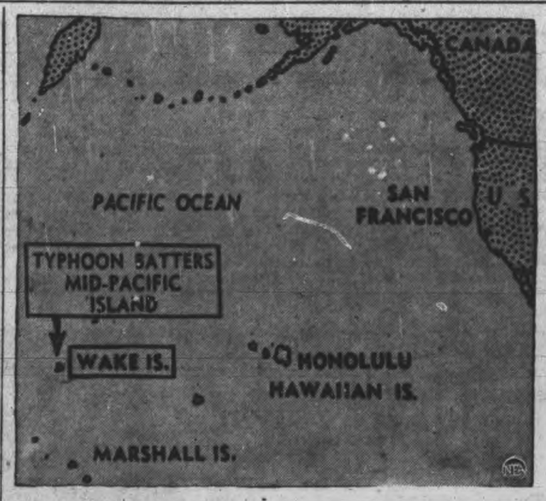
Mr. Cragg: "But the bad word (communism) is here in the agenda."

Dr. Sisco did not reply.

During discussion of the Markdale memorial, Dr. Siscoe said Council could appoint a committee to prepare a statement that the church is not associated with such individuals as the memorial referred to.

"It could be done, but I am not saying it would be a wise thing to do it," Dr. Sisco said.

At the night session only one speaker spoke to the motion to set up such a committee before the moderator pointed out that discussion would again come up when the committee reported.



NOTHING TO LOSE

He was Rev. J. M. Colling of Strathroy, Ont. He told Council that by passing Dr. Rawson's motion there was "everything to gain and nothing to lose."

He said many persons had asked him about the position of the church on the subject and he was unable to answer them because there had been no official statement from the church.

"This motion will clear the air in the Dominion of Canada," he said.

The seven members appointed to the committee by the moderator were: G. W. Mason, Toronto, chairman; Professor L. H. Cragg, Hamilton; Rev. Ross Flemington, Sackville, N. B.; Rev. Wilfred C. Lockhart, Toronto; Rev. J. Lavell Smith Toronto; Mr. Justice H. F. Thompson, Regina, and Mr. Rawson.

Laboratory Produces Million Mice Year

BAR HARBOR, Me. (AP)—"Man's best friend is the mouse."

Visit the Jackson Memorial Laboratory, one of the great United States science centres, and you'll agree with this observation by Dr. C. C. Little, the director.

For here mice are tools in the search for ways to prevent cancer, and for learning the laws that could make it possible to give humans new spare hearts, lungs, kidneys or other organs.

Here mice like humans are heir to chronic diseases such as diabetes and heart ailments. Mice may tell how often human diseases are due to constitutional or in-born defects, and how to delay or prevent human disasters from hereditary defects.

Here is a hairless mouse that looks like a tiny rhinoceros, with a little horn growing from his head, with skin folded and scaly. (His buddies include a dwarf, a waltzer doomed by its own heredity to spin constantly in circles, a piebald mouse, a kinky-tail mouse. They are genetic freaks, different because of a change in some gene or unity of heredity. Each type breeds true its own kind, for study of that greatest mystery—the mechanism and whys of our inheritance.

Each year the Jackson Laboratory produces 1,000,000 mice. There are 50 different strains of pure-bred mice.

The laboratory supplies its surplus of 300,000 of these mice each year to several hundred medical schools and research centres.

Some scientists use these mice to test new anti-cancer drugs. Since all the mice are genetically alike, they know that any effect from the experiment is due to the drug, not to freak differences in the mice they test.

Established in 1929 at this vacation spot on the Maine coast, the Jackson Laboratory carries on its own far-flung research with scores of staff and visiting or co-operating scientists.

Its founding principle is that man, in order to understand himself in health and disease, must know more about heredity.

Rich Californians Give $17,000 To Nixon Campaign

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Republican vice-presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon has been receiving an extra expense allowance from between 50 and 100 well-to-do Southern California political angels ever since he entered the U.S. Senate in 1951.

Over the past two years these contributions have amounted to approximately $17,000.

Nixon gave this correspondent details of the financing and asserted he had nothing to hide. He said Dana Smith, a Pasadena, Calif., attorney, collects and disburses the fund and is the only man who knows the names of all the contributors. It was Smith's idea, to keep him free from financial pressure and outside influence.

One of Nixon's principal reasons for allowing publication of this information at this time is to offset rumors about his finances that have been current ever since the Chicago Republican convention. These reports have been to the effect that Nixon was taking a second salary on the side, contributed by certain rich Californians who might have reason to get something in return.

NO CORPORATIONS

Smith, interviewed by telephone in Pasadena, said contributions are accepted only from individuals. Corporations are out, lest they ask favors.

Nixon said that, to the best of his knowledge, none of his backers had ever asked him for a favor. Smith added that the first time any of the contributors did try to collect a favor in return for his donation he would be dropped from the list.

"Our whole idea," he said, "is to keep Dick in a position where he is not under the slightest pressure from anyone."

✧ ✧ ✧

Smith said $11,000 was paid out during the first year of the arrangement. So far this year about $6,000 has been spent. The money has gone for such things as production and distribution of radio speech recordings and television films for broadcasting in California; extra secretarial help, such as was needed to handle 110,000 letters written by Californians to Nixon about the firing of Gen. Douglas MacArthur; extra printing, stencilling and mailing costs and transportation not covered otherwise.

Congressional appropriations now give senators these allowances: $12,500 a year straight salary; $2,500 tax free expense fund; secretarial help in proportion to the size of the state (California senators have spent about $16,000 a year for this item); transportation to and from home at 20 cents a mile and assorted small allowances for telegrams, postage and stationery.

Nixon pointed out that he does not have his wife or any relatives on his payroll. It has long been the practice of some members of Congress to put members of their family on the office payroll, a practice known as nepotism. Mrs. Nixon sometimes helps out but Nixon said he doesn't pay her because he doesn't think it would be right.

LITTLE PRIVATE INCOME

Nixon's disclosure of the subsidy points up the plight of a young senator without a substantial private income. His alternatives are to make additional income writing magazine articles or making speeches or practising law on the side. That or to let his constituents chip in to meet the extraordinary office expense connected with his job.

✧ ✧ ✧

Smith asserted it would be preferable for the government to pay members of Congress enough to do their jobs but since it doesn't he recommends the California plan to other states.

"If this plan is not generally adopted, it ought to be," Smith said. "One of the most dangerous facts about government is that representatives being subjected to pressures.

"There is nothing in our plan that is discreditable to Dick. It is entirely constructive and public spirited. There is nothing in it that violates any law I ever heard of."

Smith was one of the original group which asked Nixon to run for the senate against Helen Gahagan Douglas. He was finance chairman of that campaign. He is a member of the California Republican State Central Committee and Chairman of the Southern California Volunteers for Eisenhower.

"When Dick was elected to the Senate," Smith said, "we knew he had no money. We recognized it was necesary for him to keep in touch with the people of his state and do it effectively. We therefore proposed to cover his expenses — not his personal expenses but his office expenses in the Senate—so he could do a good job."

Smith made up the list of donors. No family group was permitted to contribute more than $500 and most contributions, he said, were below that amount.

RICHARD NIXON—His is the plight of the young senator without a substantial private income.

Michigan Strike Comes To End After 76 Days

DETROIT (AP)—The Ann Arbor and Wabash Railroads reached a tentative agreement with the Great Lakes Licensed Officers Organization yesterday to end a strike which has tied up the railroads' eight Lake Michigan and Detroit River carferries for 76 days.

Union leaders said a formal agreement to arbitrate the wage dispute will be signed tomorrow and the boats should start running again during the week-end.

Such an agreement would not affect a strike against 12 carferries operated by the Chesapeake and Ohio and Grand Trunk Western Railroads. The Independent Officers' Union walked off all 20 boats as the Fourth of July week-end began.

The Ann Arbor operates five passenger - a u t o-railroad carferries across Lake Michigan between Michigan and Wisconsin ports. The Wabash runs three railroad freight car carriers across the Detroit River between Detroit and Windsor.

Arbitration will involve the union's demands for pay boosts ranging up to $12 a day for captains of the boats. They now get $28 a day.

Beavers Enjoy Rossdale Trees

EDMONTON (CP)—Beavers are playing havoc with housewives' clotheslines in the Rossdale River-Flats area of Edmonton.

The rodents are felling riverbank trees to which the clotheslines are anchored. The angry housewives can't do much about it because the beavers are protected by the game laws.

It is believed the fur-bearers invaded the city last spring when the North Saskatchewan River was near flood level. They built an elaborate house of twigs and branches on the river bank and then set to work on the backyard trees.

The beavers work the midnight shift. Residents have never seen them. But there is no mistaking the rude awakening as another tree crashes to the ground in the middle of the night.

City parks officials say they have no authority to molest the beavers. A provincial Land and Forests Department spokesman says it might not be possible to "live-trap" the beavers this fall due to the depth and swiftness of the river.

Eden Pays Visit To Yugoslavia's Tito

BELGRADE (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden came to Yugoslavia yesterday as an emissary of the west bent on winning tighter co-operation from Premier Tito for preserving peace.

Trieste, the biggest kernel of discord in Yugoslavia's relations with Italy, seemed certain to take a high place in Eden's talks during his six-day stay.

Jailed 15 Years For Killing Husband

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP)—Mrs. Lillian Beatrice Monroe, 35, of St. Clair Shores, Mich., yesterday was sentenced to 15 years in prison for killing her husband, a Korean war veteran, after an argument over the keys to the family automobile last April 11.

Monroe's foster mother, Mrs. Hattie Crommiller, lives in Essex, Ont.

HANGING AROUND—Every day during the shooting of Mari Blanchard's current picture in Hollywood, she gets "hanged." It's on account of her 14-pound jewelled headdress. She can't doff it between scenes, because it takes too much time to readjust on her head. So studio carpenters built the "gallows" seen above to take the weight of the heavy tiara off her head while she waits for a call to the set.

Reparations From Germany May Help Israel Progress

By FRANCIS OFNER

TEL AVIV (OFNS).—The eight hundred and twenty-five million dollars reparations agreement signed with West Germany last Wednesday opens the practical question of how to spend the reparation funds most usefully for the lasting benefit of Israel.

The principal dilemma here is whether the reparations, which are payable over a period of 12 to 14 years, can be invested in long-term development projects, or whether economically hard-pressed Israel will be forced to use the bulk of the reparations as a temporary stopgap to cover the countrys' present needs.

The entire face of the country may change in four to six years if the reparations are implemented strictly according to the agreement. Half of some one hundred million dollars, payable until April, 1954, can be used for the purchase of such basic development goods as minerals, metal products, steel and machinery, and for transportation goods such as railways, ships and timber. Nearly 40 per cent of the sum can be used to buy petrol products, for both development and consumption. Only 10 per cent can be used for straight consumption commodities. A similar proportion must be maintained for the remainder of the reparations period, unless changes are agreed.

MAY NEAR BALANCE

If the German payments are made as agreed — and assuming that the United States Government and American Jewry continue to support this country substantially — the country's present foreign trade gap, with imports eight times larger than exports, may gradually decrease to a proportion of four to one, according to Israeli Government experts. Eventually, in the 1960's, the adverse trade balance may diminsh further.

Government planners here, headed by Dr. S. Trone, whose experience stretches from the United States General Electric Co. to the Soviet Union's Dniepropetrovsk plants, insist that the Israeli Government should give top priority to the creation of cheap transportation, electricity and irrigation. Only after these three basic needs are satisfied could large, profitable cement, phosphate, potash or even textile industries be set up here, with an expanded agriculture.

The planners are worried by the reparations agreement's general terms, which suggest that the Israeli Government should create a supreme planning board with executive powers. Such a body, they say, would be "able to secure continuity of purpose in the use of German reparations only if it does not have to refer each major question to a ministry or department."

The Israeli Government, however, proposes to attach planners in an advisory capacity to a Central Reparations Agency which is to be established as soon as possible. It is proposed that this agency should work through two principal bureaus, one in Israel and the other in Germany, and concentrate all its commercial planning activities in implementing the reparations.

RECOVERY HARD

Although a few optimists here believe that milk and honey will soon flow through Israel's streets as a result of the reparations, economic experts warn that the road to recovery will still be hard. Even if the bulk of the reparations is used for development, large amounts of local money will be needed for the payment of wages and the purchase of local materials. A single wooden hut, for instance, although imported from abroad, still requires two thousand Israeli pounds to pay for the labor cost of its erection and for local cement. Due to reparations investment, large amounts of local currency will have to come out of Israel's national income, which will thus not allow things to get easier here during the next few years. Whether or not benefits will be felt at a later stage, only the government and private experts can say.

The reparations do not expiate German guilt for the atrocities that, under Hitler, led to the extermination of six million European Jews. This is the Israeli official view. But, on the whole, the agreement has been received here with "sober satisfaction."

Road Building Of 21 Years Ago

SPIRITWOOD, Sask. (CP)—A. C. Cadieu finds his job today a far cry from that of 21 years ago when he and his crew first constructed the road they now are rebuilding.

Mr. Cadieu is the contractor for reconstruction of a portion of the highway between Shell Lake and Mildred, straight west of Prince Albert.

When the first road went in, Mr. Cadieu had 50 men working with him. They used man power, horses and mules to clear the brush, move stones and build grades.

Today, eight men equipped with bulldozers, brush cutters and huge mechanical scrapers are doing a much tougher job in less time. Rugged land has to be straightened and huge stones and hills have to be cut and moved to make way for the highway. It will be completed in a few months.

Mr. Cadieu, reeve of Spiritwood municipality for 17 years, owns the Cadieu Construction Company and has done road work in this area for 25 years.

Judge Praises Case Witness

TORONTO (CP)—Chief Justice J.C. McRuer of Ontario yesterday praised a witness who testified for the Crown in a rape case. He told John Pagnello that if more persons "acted as promptly as you did to preserve law and order we would have a happier society."

Pagnello said he was working in a coal yard when he heard a woman's screams at Cherry Beach on Lake Ontario. She was badly beaten and her clothing was disarranged. Pagnello ordered two men not to attempt to move their car and stayed until police arrived.

Charged in the case, which is continuing, are Ernest Davidson and Clarence Noseworthy of Toronto. Complainant is Mrs. Margaret Marriott of Guelph.

Quakers Submit Peace Proposal

LONDON (Reuters) — British Quakers yesterday submitted a new set of proposals to Prime Minister Churchill to end the war in Korea.

The Society of Friends in Great Britain proposed:

1. Immediate cease-fire, on the conditions already agreed upon, leaving unresolved issues on one side.

2. A commission representing Asian governments in which both sides have confidence, or a mixed commission of two appointed by each side to negotiate on the re-screening and release of prisoners of war. Prisoners not wishing to be repatriated to receive asylum in areas where they cannot be used in any further fighting.

3. The good offices of India to be fully used.

4. All governments to practise, and to urge on press and radio, restraint in comment on the dispute.

Peace Conference Talks Take On Air Of Unreality

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN

SEOUL (OFNS) —The armistice talks in Kor[illegible] now [illegible]fortably in the fourteenth month. The delegates have met 118 times in plenary session. The armistice agreement which is to regulate the cease-fire and the exchange of prisoners is ready and the last sub-paragraph is in place. It is waiting only for the signatures. The United Nations and the Communist Military Armistice Commissions are ready to take over and implement it, but the talks are still stalled over one item.

This is the case of the 14,217 out of 20,104 Chinese prisoners of war who have declared that they will resist repatriation. The 105,000 Korean prisoners in United Nations hands present no real stumbling-block and the United Nations negotiators have made no difficulties over the 50,000 South Koreans who have disappeared either into the Communist army or into labor camps. There are still 12,000 European and American prisoners in North Korean custody.

The United Nations' case is largely a moral one, based on the right of political asylum, which is a right that has taken on a more urgent significance since the last war. But at the conference table the United Nations' case is weakened by the fact that it was Western insistence that put the clause stating that all prisoners of war would be returned at the end of hostilities into the 1949 Geneva Convention. This convention has not been ratified by the United States Senate, but at the start of the talks General Ridgway specifically accepted the clause.

It was only later, and after a screening based on seven fair questions, that the surprising fact was discovered that nearly three-quarters of the Chinese "volunteers" did not wish to go home. Some admittedly were Rice Democrats, who valued the better food and conditions to be found in the camp that were not Communist dominated. But even these are now certain of persecution and perhaps death if they return to China.

NOBODY ATTENDS

On this apparently irreconcilable difference, in which morality, politics, and face are all involved, the talks are now halted. So the sharp ends of Eastern and Western diplomacy now meet in a level place in the Korean hills called Panmunjom. But control does not lie with the points of swords and nothing is now originated or likely to be decided in this place. As a result Panmunjom has an air of bright unreality. It is a brilliant circus that nobody attends.

Nobody, that is, except the performers and the hired audience—the Press. Once a week resigned correspondents have been driving through the miniature mountains that look as if they belonged on rice paper or on a scroll, to a whistle stop called Musan. There, surrounded by the Rear Echelons of the United States Marine Division, stands the Press train which never moves, waiting for the news that never comes. It has steam up, but only for light and refrigeration.

A stately convoy, 14 jeeps this week, drives north over the brown Imjin River, past the litter of battles a few months old and down a neutral corridor through the noise of guns. The convoy has become a familiar sight. White and colored marines soaping themselves in shallow streams stop to jeer at what they no longer believe in. The road passes the last bunker and the last line of barbed wire, and then there is this Tom-Tiddler's ground, a thousand yards square, set in the middle of the most active part of the Western front and marked by captive balloons.

On one side of a sunken road are the three or four sagging huts, which is all that remains of Panmunjom. On the other, set on raked silver sand, tricked out with painted ropes and white-washed borders, is a village of tents. It has two entrances. One is guarded by United States military police who look as if they were brought here in cellophane, and the other by North Korean sentries who don't.

There has only been one change recently. The Communists have built a bungalow for the conference. It is a pretty tea-house affair with large sliding windows, walls of unpainted wood and matting, and it has concrete foundations. It has a disturbing, semi-permanent look.

The conference repeats itself even in incident. The "Daily Worker" correspondent is still there, elegant in pale blue trousers, to mock American correspondents and to search rather hungrily for old friends. He concedes nothing in conversation: "I recently grew tired of eating caviar." There is a line of surly Chinese and Cominform correspondents, impenetrably silent and wearing shapeless Peoples' caps on their heads.

The United Nations' team arrive in helicopters, and the opposition, rather late, in Russian jeeps. There is a good deal of saluting, but it has all happened so many times before.

To heighten the unreality, the murmured insults in the tea-house are exchanged against a background of noise from the surrounding hills. Last time American light bombers were striking at the scarred hills, sending up tall columns of smoke and dust and filling the morning with the sound of explosions. Artillery kept up a dribble of shells all morning. But nothing happened in Panmunjom. The doors opened, the police saluted, the opposition drove away. The Americans said there was nothing to report. The helicopters rose into the air. The convoy went back the way it came and the Marines shouted "Who won?"

Breaks Record For Helicopters

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—A test pilot broke the world nonstop distance record for helicopters yesterday with a flight of 1,234 miles from Fort Worth, Tex., to Niagara Falls.

Praises Syntona For Help From Stomach Disorders

This Woman Who Suffered Badly With Gas, Indigestion, Headaches and Dizzy Spells Tells Of Grand Relief. Now Wouldn't Be Without It, She Says.

MISS CHRISTINA PIRIE

When you are suffering from stomach disorders, gas, indigestion, sour, upset stomach and heartburn you may need something more than ordinary alkaline medication to bring relief. Syntona has helped so many people, because in addition to aiding in elimination of excess acids and impurities, it stimulates the action of normal digestive juices, gives better tone to the stomach, and promotes liver, kidney and bowel activity.

That is why Syntona has helped many people like Miss Christina Pirie, Forsyth Place, Hamilton, Ontario, after ordinary things had failed.

"I had indigestion, gas, and sour stomach very badly," said Miss Pirie. "I didn't feel like eating my meals and became subject to sick headaches and dizzy spells.

"A friend told me about Syntona and then afterwards I read about it in the paper, so I decided to try some. Even the very first bottle helped me, relieving the discomfort and I could eat better. As I continued taking this medicine the distress all cleared up and headache and dizzy spells went away.

"That is over a year ago and now I wouldn't be without Syntona. If I have any trouble of this nature it is the first medicine I think of to get relief."

Syntona is effective because it contains no less than 12 of Nature's Finest Herbs and Roots. It is safe, pleasant to take and has no unpleasant after-effect.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. (Advt.)

"COOL CONTROL"

TABLE TENNIS SHOTS

1 The Smash: Usually taken on the forehand, close to the table. Intercept ball at top of its bounce and hit forward and downward with hard, flat swing. Follow-through brings arm across body. Always keep eyes on the ball.

2 Backhand Drive: Ball is taken close to table, intercepted near the top of its bounce. Right side faces net; right foot in front of left foot. As ball is hit, shift weight from left to right leg. Stroke forward and upward, bringing bat above head level on follow-through.

3 The Drop Shot: Played close to the table. Intercept ball forehand or backhand, just after it bounces on table, taking it with blade of bat slightly laid back. Stroke ball easily, laying it just over net in opponent's court. This shot must be controlled for effectiveness.

Yes, it's control that counts in table tennis as in every sport — control which brings the extraordinary quality that sets one performer above the other. In the ability to approach things coolly, to control every move and moment, lies the answer to better results.

This is one of a series designed to increase the pleasure of Canadians who participate in sports.

TO RECEIVE DEGREE

W. M. Patterson, 304 Caddy Street, has received word from Queen's University that he has successfully completed his work for the degree of Bachelor of Arts. Mr. Patterson is a member of the staff of King Edward School. The degree will be awarded at the annual convocation in May, 1953.

Lieutenant-Governor Opens Lindsay Fair

LINDSAY (ENS)—The Hon. L. O. Breithaupt, Lieut.-Gov. of Ontario, officially opened the Lindsay central exhibition here Wednesday afternoon before a crowd of 3,000 in the grand stand. The Lieut. Governor arrived in Lindsay before noon to be tendered a civic reception at the town hall and a luncheon by the exhibition board of governors and town council.

In opening the exhibition, Mr. Breithaupt commented on the long history of the fair and wished it continued success. The official ceremonies were held after a parade from the centre of town to the exhibition grounds headed by the 48th Highlanders band which is featured at the exhibition this year.

At the luncheon B. L. McLean, manager-secretary, and Mayor Charles Lamb welcomed the distinguished guest on behalf of the exhibition board and the town.

Builders Charge Mortgage Corp. Squeezes Profit

Dissatisfaction with certain policies of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation was registered Wednesday night at a meeting of builders, building supply representatives and others with officials of the C.M.H.C.

Builders felt that the margin of profit (5 per cent) allowed them by the corporation was too small. They urged a review in the "end price" paid them, and they urged that the revision should be upward.

SUB-TRADES COSTS

The key to the situation seemed to be in the costs of sub-trades—plumbers, electricians, etc.

One builder asked: "You can control our end price if we deal with you; how can we control what is paid to the sub-trades?"

F. H. Burnaby, regional loans manager for the corporation, said he thought that there should be enough competition in the sub-trades that such costs could be controlled.

Judging from the muttered reactions of some members of the audience of 60-odd, that wasn't the answer they sought. One man said so; he felt that the sub-tradesmen had enough work in view that they could set their own price.

Originally, the meeting was called to explain some features of the land assembly scheme as it affected the Queen Elizabeth subdivision.

Raymond Card, regional architect with C.M.H.C., gave an outline of what the corporation expected from builders. C.M.H.C. had been asked to plan the subdivision and would do so; it would lay it out, and designate the type of house to be built on each lot. It would not specify what the design would be, as long as the contractor built the type of house called for.

Fifteen city builders had been allocated lots in the subdivision. A practice followed in other cities had been that builders discussed with Central Mortgage which type they wished to build, then went ahead with that type.

Mr. Card reiterated that the corporation would not ask the contractor to build to a specific design, but said it would request builders to build in good taste and in harmony with the other homes being erected.

In the question period that followed the talk by Mr. Card, the questions gradually were directed away from the subdivision in question until they became a barrage aimed at altering the "end price" structure used by Central Mortgage in the Peterborough district.

City, County Officials Meet At Warden's Picnic

Warm sunny weather again favored the Peterborough county council in their annual outing and dinner, held on Thursday in Otonabee township. Warden and Mrs. Dick Stewart were host and hostess to about 100 city, county and township officials, as well as other guests, at their home on R.R. 11, Peterborough.

It is the first time that city council has been invited to the "warden's picnic."

Speakers, including the warden, said they thought this was a progressive move as it permitted an exchange of ideas and eliminated the "jarring" between municipalities.

MOSTLY SOCIAL

This utilitarian aspect of the reception and dinner remained in the background, however. The accent was on making the gathering a social occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart received their guests, informally, on their spacious front lawn. And the afternoon was spent in chatting and some minor diversions, such as darts and horseshoes.. Later cocktails were served.

The guests then drove to Stewart Hall, half a mile away, where a chicken dinner was served by women from the Stewart Hall district.

Everybody then went upstairs and Warden Stewart welcomed the guests and gave a brief account of Otonabee's history and the part it has played in the county's affairs.

Entertainment was provided by Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Spurway who showed colored slides of their visit this summer to England, Scotland and France. Mr. Spurwas was the photographer and Mrs. Spurway did the narrating.

Among the guests were Judge John deNavarre Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon K. Fraser, Mayor and Mrs. Hugh Waddell, the county and city councils with their wives. Otonabee township council, Warden and Mrs. Harry Campbell from the United Counties of Northumberland-Durham, the Rev. I. G. Pollock of Grace United Church, Ewart Marston, district engineer, and Mrs. Marston, and other county officials.

Reeve Elwood Northey of Lakefield was the master of ceremonies.

Hit By Bike Child In Hospital

Five-year-old Ronald Gardner, 231 Bethune St., is in St. Joseph's Hospital with a possible fractured skull, received Wednesday noon, when he was struck by a man riding a bicycle along Bethune St.

Police are hoping the man will turn up, as his identity is not known at present. Constable Harold Andrew who is conducting the investigation said today it is quite possible the man went on his way, believing the child was not injured.

Ronald, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gardner, was playing catch near his home, with two other children, Carl and Betty Jacobs, 213 Bethune St., when the accident occurred.

The man stopped, and picked the boy up, standing him on the curb. In hospital today, the boy told Constable Andrew he was crying and told the man to put him down. The man did and rode off. Later, the boy became unconscious and was taken to hospital.

The two children described the man as about five feet seven inches tall, wearing a pin stripe shirt cut off at the sleeves, dark pants, and a shop cap, similar to the type worn by railroad employees.

Sault Gets Agreement

TORONTO (CP)—Planning Minister Griesinger said today that the city of Sault Sate. Marie had entered into an agreement with his department for the construction of 100 houses under the national housing act. The houses will be erected under a low-rental plan recently authorized by the government.

Council Members Inspect City Property

Only one member of the council was unable to make Mayor Waddell's tour of the city, to the accompaniment of intermittent rain, Tuesday afternoon.

"I think we all gained something in objective information," Mayor Waddell said.

Parks were included in the itinerary, and time was spent at the city yard on Townsend St., the new office of the board of works in the remodelled horse barn that is being converted into a garage, the weigh scales in their removal from the old market square, the operation of the incinerator and its new ramp.

Capacity of the incinerator is overtaxed. The north end subdivision area was examined, but the council omitted the sewage disposal plant. It was inspected early in the year. Nicholls Oval and its use for Collegiate rugby was considered on the grounds. Parks committee has suspended active sports there to restore the sward.

SIDEWALKS LAID

City Engineer Chalmers pointed out that his department had laid this year 20,000 lineal feet of sidewalk, and there is another 20,000 feet to be done, one of the responsibilities of the board of works department.

The mayor's outing went as far as the city dump in North Monaghan township. It was probably the first time the members of the council set foot on the big bonfire site.

Army Exercise

158 New Patients Taken On By V.O.N.

Members of the staff of the Peterborough Victorian Order of Nurses made 1,207 visits during June, July and August.

Miss Harriet McGeary, nurse-in-charge, reported at the board of directors meeting Wednesday that 153 patients had been admitted to care during the summer period.

To date this year, 486 new patients have been admitted and 3,355 visits made. Of this total 28 per cent of the visits were free; no charge visits were 32 per cent; part-pay were 16 per cent, and full pay were 15 per cent.

CLUCKING CHICKENS disturbed the court-room decorum today when three hens were brought into court in a bag, by O.P.P. Cpl. Fred Rawlings, along with a pair of chicken thieves. Cpl. Rawlings is seen above with one of the hens, after Lloyd Peacock and Donald Clarke pleaded guilty to stealing them Wednesday from a farmer near the dump in North Monaghan township. Neither Clarke nor Peacock knew the name of the man they stole them from, but they said they remembered where they took them and the chickens are being returned.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Community Starts Erect Centre

Apsley District Men To Do Most Work On $20,000 Arena

Foundations for the $20,000 Burleigh - Anstruther Community Centre are now being laid. A bulldozer has already excavated the basement for the dressing rooms and heating system and today the footings are being poured.

"We're coming along nicely but there's still lots of work to be done," Reeve Norman Wilson of Burleigh - Anstruther township said today.

"If all goes well we should have skating in the Community Centre by Christmas."

The building, 190 feet by 80 feet, is similar to the rink at Warsaw. As soon as the frame is up a compass roof will be put on. Roofing will be of aluminum sheeting.

The rink will have an ice surface of 172 feet by 70 feet but there will be no artificial freezing plant.

Two dressing rooms, two lavatories, and a furnace that will burn either coal or wood, will be built in the basement at one end of the building.

VOLUNTEER LABOR

Apart from special contracting jobs and some skilled help the work on the community centre is being done by volunteer labor in the Apsley area. A planing machine, operated by Martin Reddick, is being moved in to plane the wood right on the spot.

Roland Payne of Warsaw is overseeing the job.

To raise their portion of the $20,000 the people of the district have staged street dances, run raffles and pledged subscriptions. Debentures will not be issued by the municipality, all financing is voluntary.

The site in Apsley was donated by the Burleigh-Anstruther school board; it is where the old school used to stand.

A grant of 25 per cent of the approved expenditure of $20,000 (i.e. $5,000) has been promised by the Ontario government. And the Peterborough County Council have offered an additional $500 to be paid as soon as the community centre is in operation.

Firemen Squelch Two Small Fires

City firemen went to two small fires Wednesday but extinguished the flames before damage was heavy. A five-gallon hand pump was used to snuff out a fire that broke out in a kitchen shed at the rear of Milton Holden's home, 775 Romaine Street. Some laundry and an ironing board was damaged, the room was smoked up, and two patches on one wall were burned. Cause of the fire is not known.

Later in the evening a fire broke out in the rear of a garage at 254 Munro Avenue. The cause of the fire, that caused $50 damage, has not yet been determined.

One end of the garage was burned through. It is owned by Joseph Rice of Detroit, and is up for sale by Sands & Bateman.

Early today a chimney fire caused slight damage to a partition at the home of Jack Burfield, Bell Avenue, located at the south end of the Tommy Hughes wrecking lot. Firemen used an extinguisher to extinguish the blaze.

First Time On Bench

Judge John deNavarre Kennedy presided at the sittings of the Peterborough county court for the first time today. There was no mention made of the event, either by the judge or opposing counsel, and he proceeded with a civil action: a motor accident case. Elmer McKee of Warkworth is suing Fred Nelson of Keene and Harold Adley of Havelock for damages as the result of a two-truck collision in Havelock on Oct. 31, 1950. McKee claims that Adley, driver of the Nelson truck, made a left turn into the side of McKee's truck that was trying to pass.

Jewish Year 5713 Begins Friday At Sunset

With sunset on Friday, the Jewish community of Peterborough in accordance with age-old tradition will usher in the year 5713 with special services in the Beth Israel Synagogue. The celebration of Rosh Hashanah (New Year) will continue until sunset Sunday, September 21, with services held thrice daily. The services will be conducted by Rabbi A. M. Babb, assisted by Cantor Toby.

The Biblical name for the festival is called Yom Teruah (Day of Blowing the Trumpet). Hence the blowing of the Shofar (Ram's Horn) during the two days of Rosh Hashanah. In ancient Israel the Shofar was blown in times of distress as well as on joyful and solemn occasions. The Shofar calls to the mind of the Jew the glorious history of its people.

According to the Talmud the shrill voice of the Shofar calls: "Awake, awake, you Israelites from your slumber of indifference and carelessness. Arouse from your pleasures and sins. Examine your ways and remember your God and return to the path of duty and righteousness."

The second Biblical name for Rosh Hashanah is Yom Hazikoron (Day of Memorial). On these days the individual Jew is called upon to recall his actions during the past year. If he has done wrong, he must endeavor to obtain pardon for his shortcomings and resolve to improve himself in the New Year.

The day is also called "Yom Hadin" (Day of Judgement). Contrary to other religions, New Year's Day for the Jew is a day of serious thought, a day of religious awe. According to the sages it is a day in which the world came into being, and a day on which God calls all His creatures to stand in judgement before Him. The Book of Life and Death is opened and on its pages is inscribed the fate of all men for the coming year.

YEAR GONE BY

The paramount thought that Rosh Hashanah awakens in the Jew is the flight of time. A year of life's journey has flowed into the ocean of time. How was the year spent? How many good and noble deeds are inscribed in the pages of his book of life? Has he improved in goodness, knowledge

3 Chickens Squawk On Thieves

Two Men Fined Live Chickens Evidence In Court

When O.P.P. Corporal Fred Rawlings brought two prisoners into police court today charged with stealing chickens he brought the evidence along.

Three live Plymouth Rock hens clucked audibly in a bag, as Magistrate W. R. Philp heard the evidence. Lloyd Peacock, Bethune St., and Donald Clarke, 16, of Hurley Ave., pleaded guilty to stealing the chickens on Wednesday.

COMPLAINED TO POLICE

The arrest of the pair resulted from a complaint that the two had stolen chickens in their possession which was received by the city police department today.

Patrol Sergt Gordon Trennum, and Constable Douglas Farthing, investigated and a small boy pointed out the chickens to the officers, which were in a bag under a tarpaulin. They learned the hens had been stolen from a North Monaghan farm, near the city dump and turned Peacock and Clarke over to the provincial police.

Both Clarke and Peacock were given a week to pay their fines of $15.00 and $2.50 costs each, or five days in jail.

Loaded Rifle Kills Child 9

WELLAND (CP) — Patricia Ann Rogers, 6, was fatally injured last night by a rifle which her brother thought was unloaded.

The accident occurred a few minutes ater the five children of Mr. and Mrs. Stan Rogers went out to play. They had been watching a cowboy program on television.

William Rogers, 15, had been target shooting outside his farm home but unloaded his rifle and joined his brothers and sisters to watch TV. A younger brother, Allan, 12, apparently put a bullet into the rifle, planning to fire it at the end of the program.

William, unaware the rifle contained a bullet, grabbed it from his brother. It discharged, the shot hitting Patricia Ann. She died en route to a Toronto hospital.

JOHN DERRY, the first British aviator ever to exceed the speed of sound and live to tell about it, was killed when a De-Haviland 110 — Britain's new wonder jet fighter—exploded before a crowd of 120,000 people at Farnborough air show.

Tass Representative Recalled To Moscow

OTTAWA (CP)—Arcardi Ogorodnikov, Tass News Agency representative in the Parliamentary Press Gallery, has been recalled to Moscow and is expected to leave here shortly.

Ogorodnikov spent some months in Ottawa before occupying quarters in the Press Gallery. The Gallery voted to admit him, although some members felt that he should be barred on the grounds that Tass is a government and not an independent news agency.

SWEEPSTAKE WINNER — Matchilda Dupuis, 52-year-old charwoman at Montreal's Notre Dame Hospital, looks at the sweepstakes ticket that won her first prize of $44,000 by Tulyar's victory in the running of the St. Leger at Doncaster, England. A hospital employee for 21 years, Miss Dupuis said: "I guess I will move now."

No Surprises Expected Sweden's Socialists To Win

By E. MICHAEL SALZER

STOCKHOLM (OFNS). —This week the Swedes will once again decide whether they approve of the welfare state or whether they feel that the growing power of bureaucracy is stifling their liking for free enterprise and an individualistic life. Previous elections in Sweden have contained few surprises: in the last 20 years the Social Democrats have kept a steady working majority in both Houses.

In few other countries are the odds so heavily against the non-socialist parties; nowhere else — except perhaps in neighbouring Norway — can one find such dull election campaigns or hear speeches so mild in tone; nowhere else do rival parties agree so cordially upon election schedules and regulations. The whole procedure seems one of polite smiles and cordial handshakes. All this, of course, tends to baffle the voter in search of a stirring cause.

SERIOUS STRUGGLE

But beneath the dullness one can detect the serious struggle that goes on in this nation, whose present generation has grown up in the spirit of the "middle way." That the gradually evolving "welfare state" of the Swedish type need not necessarily strangle all expression of free enterprise and individualism is shown by the progress of the virile People's Party (Folkpartiet): This party, sailing under the liberal flag, has in recent years become something more than a nominal opposition to the reigning Socialists, who are now in danger of losing some of their more independent voters who find themselves at loggerheads with the party ideas on taxes, licences and other restrictions.

The Socialist majority seems assured only by a narrow margin, best demonstrated by the fact that in the 1948 elections the party gained a mere 46.1 per cent. of the total vote, whereas the commined percentage of the three non-Socialist parties was 46.6 per cent, which, turned into parliamentary seats, resulted in a Socialist majority of 196 against 173 seats. Since then, however, the Agrarians have joined with the Social Democrats to form a somewhat uneasy coalition; but this is not likely to strengthen the Government as much as might be expected, since Agrarian voters with diehard sympathies will probably now leave their party in protest against this collaboration with socialism.

The People's Party has gained its recent successes largely by recruiting former Conservatives who left their party in search of a bridge between Socialist welfare planning and entrenched Conservatism.

NO ALLIANCES

All parties are agreed on Sweden's foreign policy of "alliance-free neutrality," although slight rifts have been noticeable lately in the interpretation of this slogan: all parties are committed to reducing the heavy burden of taxation — yet none have suggested a practical way of doing this, since the present welfare state machinery is too intricate and too popular to allow for cuts or saving. The main point of difference between the parties of the left and right is the limitation of the State's powers. But Swedish Socialist have been most careful not to alienate the middle classes by undue zeal. "Social democracy without Socialism," jeered the Conservative press after the recent Socialist congress, when all suggestions for nationalization of industries, insurance companies and banks were flatly turned down by the party executive as being "inopportune." (Judging by the expression on his face, this resolution astonished the British Labor leader, Clement Attlee, who was there as guest of honor.) But this Socialist adroitness has, in fact, confounded the opposition on several occasions.

A factor that makes a Socialist victory in the coming election almost certain is the discord among the opposition parties. There is at present no question of a concerted anti-Socialist group. The Communist party, too, has lost much ground since the recent spy trials and the downing of Swedish planes by Russian fighters in the Baltic.

"In Sweden few have too little and fewer too much," said a Socialist leader some years ago. "No beggars and no millionaires" was his ambition. That there are no beggars can be seen by any visitor to Sweden today.

Name Miss Milkmaid At Ancaster Fair

ANCASTER (CP)—Eileen Butters, an 18-year-old blue-eyed blonde from this Hamilton district town, yesterday was chosen from nine contestants as Miss Milkmaid of 1952 at the Ancaster fall fair.

Contestants appeared in home-made costumes and bonnets and carried three-legged milking stools. They were asked five questions on the technical side of dairy farming as part of the test, but weren't required to milk a cow.

Alberta's Polio Toll Now 38

EDMONTON (CP)—Death of a 32-year-old Edmonton man and a high school girl of 15 in Medicine Hat raised Alberta's 1952 polio toll to 38 yesterday and the Western Canada total to 115.

The western case total reached 1,696 as Alberta reported 10 new cases, British Columbia six and Manitoba nine.

A week ago there were 103 polio deaths and 1,479 cases. Alberta, Saskatchewan and B.C. all are experiencing their worst years in both cases and deaths.

The disease totals, with record figures in brackets, are: Saskatchewan 716 cases and 41 deaths (512 and 22 in 1937); Alberta, 452 cases and 38 deaths (380 and 28 in 1948); B.C. 322 cases and 21 deaths (312 and 12 in 1947); Manitoba, 198 confirmed and 196 suspected cases and 15 deaths (1,011 and 20 in 1941).

New Ruling On Farm Tax

OSHAWA (CP) — The Exchequer Court has ruled that a gentleman farmer who pays farm losses out of other income may deduct such expenses in calculating net income for tax purposes.

The ruling was handed down in the case of the estate of Ray Mc Laughlin, who operated Elmcroft farm north of here until he was killed in an explosion five years ago.

The minister of national revenue would not allow the executors of the estate to charge farm losses in 1944 and 1945 against other income. The executors appealed.

The amount involved in the tax claim was reported at a previous hearing as $28,500.

Ask For Conference

NEW YORK (AP) — The Evangelical Confederation of Colombia, a Protestant mission group, has asked the Colombian government, the United Nations commission on human rights and the Roman Catholic Church for conferences on what it termed persecution of Protestants in Colombia, it was disclosed Tuesday. The disclosure was made during the fall meeting of the board of foreign missions of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A.

18 Second-String Reds Arrested In Three States

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation nabbed 18 second-string and lesser Communist party leaders from three states yesterday in a series of arrests stretching from Detroit to Los Angeles.

All were charged with conspiring to advocate overthrow of the United States government by force.

The arrests came—possibly by design—on the 165th anniversary of the ratification of the U. S. constitution, a fact noted by Attorney-General James P. McGranery in a statement praising F.B.I. Director J. Edgar Hoover for the swiftness and completeness of the roundup.

Hoover identified those arrested as the Communist party leaders in Missouri, Michigan and the state of Washington.

The best-known among them:

Helen Mary Winter, 44, Detroit, wife of Carl Winter, one of the 11 top-ranking Communist leaders convicted in New York in 1949. She has been state organizational secretary of the Communist party in Michigan.

William Sentner, 45, St. Louis, an official of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America since 1937. The union has been expelled from the C.I.O. on grounds of Communist domination.

Testify Kelsey Talked Of Slaying

WELLAND (CP)—Two witnesses testified yesterday that James Alfred Kelsey talked to them about the slaying of Sam Delibasich.

Kelsey is being tried on a charge of murder in the slaying of Delibasich, bludgeoned to death Dec. 14, 1949. His body was found a week later.

Mrs. Blanche Benner of Welland testified that she saw Kelsey, 28, almost every week-end in the last half of 1951 at Niagara Falls, N.Y. and that he told her a story about the killing while they were drinking in a bar.

Aubrey Merritt of Welland testified that Kelsey talked to him about the slaying while they were driving from Niagara Falls to Buffalo.

The Crown's case concluded yesterday and eight defence witnesses gave character evidence on Kelsey's behalf.

4 Defence Projects Approved By Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government has approved four civil defence projects proposed by the Saskatchewan government and will share half the $88,000 cost, the Health Department announced yesterday.

The projects are the first approved under a new program of federal-provincial cost sharing. The federal government will pay half the cost to a maximum of $1,445,000 a year.

South Alberta Produces 130,000,000 Lbs. Of Butter

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Southern Alberta is keeping a good part of the nation sweet, producing 130,000,000 pounds of refined white beet sugar annually.

Sugar beet production has become a big part of Alberta's agricultural and industrial fields. Each year some 35,000 acres of farmland yield a $7,000,000 sugar beet crop, and with the enlarging of irrigated areas production is steadily increasing.

The industry was started in southern Alberta in 1901 by Jesse Knight, who erected the Knight Sugar Company factory at Picture Butte in 1902.

First production totalled only 800,000 pounds, which could not be marketed in Alberta because of prejudice against beet sugar. The lot was sent to Winnipeg and found an immediate market, but the venture ended in 1914 when farmers decided wheat raising was more profitable.

THREE OPERATING

Another company opened a factory in 1924 and later sold out to Canadian Sugar Factories Limited, which now operates three refineries within a 40-mile radius of Lethbridge. One is at Picture Butte, another at Raymond and the third at Taber. The last was completed in 1950 at a cost of $5,000,000.

The number of growers steadily increased until now more than 1,500 farmers are harvesting more than 400,000 tons of beets annually. In 1925 the beet harvest yielded 41,500 tons. Sugar production jumped by 13 times from 1925 to more than 130,000,000 pounds expected this year.

By-products of beet sugar refining—beet molasses and wet and dry pulp—are largely used in the livestock industry. The molasses can be used to make alcohol, but more often it is mixed with beet pulp for stock feed or shipped for feeding as a livestock supplement.

Annually more than 30,000 beef cattle and 100,000 sheep are conditioned within a 20-mile radius of the factories. Cattle are put on the fields to eat the beet tops and later are fed pulp for conditioning for market.

LIVESTOCK FODDER

Dried pulp, a livestock feed ranking with alfalfa hay, is shipped to the Prairie Provinces and Eastern Canada.

Beets are planted in rows about 22 inches apart on farmland where irrigation assures ample moisture. During early-growing they are thinned, hoed and cultivated. Much of this work is done by hand, but harvesting is a modern task. Beets are dug by machines, topped by hand and loaded by machines.

Egypt Cuts UN Bills

CAIRO (AP)—A state official said yesterday Egypt's United Nations delegation will go on an austerity budget this year. The leader of the delegation will be allowed $15 a day to spend in New York. This is the amount a servant with the delegation got two years ago.

County Jails In Dark Ages In Nova Scotia

HALIFAX (CP)—Nova Scotia has made up its mind that its county jail system is ready for a house-cleaning—but a host of dilapidated buildings, a staggering financial burden and a wide difference of opinion will make it a tough problem for the province.

Eric Dennis of the Halifax Chronicle-Herald presented the prison picture in a series of articles recently and came up with this chilling conclusion:

"The majority of county jails of the province, to which three-quarters of the convicts are sent, are still in the Dark Ages in condition, management and attempts at reformation."

21 COUNTY JAILS

Dennis says the province's 21 county jails, which house prisoners serving terms under two years, can be divided into the good, the fairly good and the bad. Cells range from bright, clean steel to dirty and smelly concrete. Some of the buildings are firetraps.

Overcrowding is a chronic ill. Cape Breton jail, condemned four years ago but still in operation, was originally built to hold 48 prisoners. It now averages around 70 and had as many as 141 a few years ago.

The reporter found some hopeful signs in his survey.

Lunenburg county scrapped its dingy county jail two years ago and replaced it with a brick structure four miles out in the country.

Hired to run the new jail was Moyle Wagner, who tells his prisoners they have to work in return for recreation that includes fishing, swimming and softball.

EXPENSES HALVED

The prisoners have been co-operative. Using products of a big prison farm, Wagner has chopped the jail's former $10,000 yearly operating expenses by half.

Dennis found lack of segregation and constructive work of rehabilitation the two worst evils.

Officials interested in prison reform claim the only solution is to start from scratch with new country jails along the lines of the Lunenburg institution. A central prison farm or the substitution of four or five regional prisons for the 21 county jails have also been sugested.

These proposals tend to run up against a financial barrier One provincial official said he didn't think the province was big enough to support a central institution.

Municipal authorities counter with the claim that they can't afford improvements and should never have been saddled with the jail burden in the first place.

SINCE 1939 there have been a few changes in the Communist Party hierarchy in Russia, but some top-ranking officials are still active. Georgi Malenkov, who will keynote this year's Congress, was seated (fifth from right on rostrum) at the 18th Congress, and Stalin (extreme right) seems interested.

LAST CONGRESS of the Russian Communist Party, in 1939, paved the way for the outbreak of World War II. This year's meeting is seen, by some students of Communism, as a threatening parallel.

New Policies Shaping Up In Red Conference In Oct. May Follow 1939 Pattern

By LEON DENNEN

PARIS (NEA)—Vital Soviet decisions affecting relations with the West are expected to come from the 19th Congress of the Russian Communist Party.

The Red conclave, scheduled to open in Moscow on Oct. 5, has been described by the Soviet newspaper Pravda as a "great event in the life of the Party and the entire country."

According to labor sources behind the Iron Curtain, it will be followed by a secret session of the Cominform at which "momentous military and political decisions" will be made.

Top Cominformists—from Red China and Japan to East Germany—are already converging on the Soviet capital ostensibly as "fraternal delegates" to the Congress.

Why has Stalin decided to revive the Communist Congress as the supreme authority in Russia after having kept it in cold storage during 13 extremely critical war and postwar years?

The last Communist Party congress was held early in 1939, following five years of blood purges and political strife which consolidated Stalin's grip on the country. It paved the way for the Stalin-Hitler pact and the outbreak of the Second World War.

PARALLEL 1939?

Some European students of communism see a threatening parallel between the 1939 congress and the one to be held in October. They believe that the current Soviet-Chinese negotiations, the continuous purges of tope satellite Reds, forthcoming "peace" congresses in Vienna and Peking, and the recent reshuffle of Russian ambassadors may be signs that, under the disguise of peace, the Soviets are making hostile preparations.

Others, particularly the British, believe the Russians have realistically decided to strengthen their domestic economy and satellite alliances before risking any aggressive adventures.

The truth may be that pro- and anti-war elements are still struggling for power in the Soviet hierarchy.

No report on the Politburo's motives and secret moves is foolproof. Few ordinary mortals have ever penetrated the secret chambers under the onion-shaped domes of the Kremlin. But the consensus of experts who have long been observing and following the tortuous twists and turns of Russian strategy is:

1. The Soviet Empire is being geared and strengthened to match the growing muscle of the western powers.

2. In anticipation of continued world tension, the Kremlin rulers seek to tighten their grip on Russia and the nations within their orbit.

Far reaching "reforms" will undoubtedly be inaugurated at the Red congress. Even the word "Bolshevik" which is so closely associated with Lenin, the founder of the Soviet state, will be eliminated from the new title of the "Communist Party of the Soviet Union."

The Kremlin's "American experts" reportedly take a gloomy view of the U.S. presidential elections, classing Republicans and Democrats alike as "aggressive circles."

Stalin's sensational proposal to substitute a "presidium" for the Politburo—intensely hated by a vast majority of Russians—is obviously a gesture in the direction of those who want more democracy in the party. But in the view of experts on communism, this change does not indicate any lessening of control on the part of Stalin and his men. The contrary is true.

STRONGER THAN POLITBURO

The "new presidium" which is to be formed in October to "guide the work of the central committee between sessions" will perform both the tasks of government more power than the Politburo and will comprise the same Kremlin dignitaries with the possible addition of a few "younger elements."

It seems certain that, with the aged dictator suffering from heart trouble, preparations will also be made for his gradual withdrawal from the exercise of supreme control.

But the fact that burly Georgi M. Malenkov will deliver the keynote address—a job hitherto performed only by Lenin and Stalin—should not be overemphasized.

Dynamic and ruthless Malenkov has been built up by Stalin over the years as one of the "super-architects" of the "new world" the Reds believe they are building. At 50, he is secretary of the Communist Party, Vice Premier of the Soviet Union and member of the Politburo.

But Vyacheslax M. Molotov, Stalin's constant companion and associate throughout the bloody years, is still very much in the race. One of the few "old Bolsheviks" to survive Stalin's purges, Molotov, though a decade older than Malenkov, remains for the present the Number Two man after the dictator.

Say Diamonds Being Smuggled

DUBLIN (CP)—Widespread investigations have followed allegations by the National Jewellers' Association of London that gangs, operating high-speed launches with wireless and radar sets, have been smuggling diamonds out of Britain.

The report was followed by offers of rewards up to £17,000 by the International Diamond Manufacturers' Association for information leading to disclosure of illicit traffic and recovery of smuggled gems.

The authorities now are probing a theory that the scientifically-equipped smugglers have been operating along the coast of Ireland. One report said the gang was believed to be using a radar-carrying truck which kept in touch with ship movements and relayed information to fast launches.

Wants Careful Draft Of New Constitution

STRASBOURG, France (Reuters)—Paul Henri Spaak of Belgium last night told the six-country European Federation to avoid drafting a constitution which would "drive us apart from Britain."

"Although we may be forced to enter on this union without her aid, we should not do anything to hinder her eventual adhesion, or that of other countries of Europe," Spaak told the lower house of the Council of Europe.

His speech was the climax to a two-day debate in the 15-country assembly on the question of European unity. He is the father of the scheme for the federation.

Adventure-Seeking Girls Hike To Alaska and Arctic

CALGARY (CP)—Two venturesome young women, Sylvia Taylor of London, England, and Corrine Young of Hawkes Bay, New Zealand—struck out from Calgary recently to hitch-hike to Alaska and the Arctic Circle.

The two, from opposite sides of the globe, have travelled thousands of miles in search of adventure. Equipped only with rucksacks they left Calgary on the last leg of a journey that resulted from a chance meeting in Vancouver.

The girls, in their early 20s, will reach their goal when they skirt the perimeter of the Arctic Circle.

By the time they get back to their homes, both girls will have been round the world.

For Sylvia Taylor this was not her first hitch-hiking experience. She has visited almost every country in Western Europe in this fashion and once passed through the Iron Curtain into Russia. It is Corrine Young's first trip outside of New Zealand.

Sylvia had planned to cruise the Carribean Sea, but her boat was found unseaworthy. As a result, she visited Eastern Canada and the United States and then came west to Vancouver.

Corrine, on the other hand, just wanted to see the world. So she booked passage for Canada with the intention of going on to England and Africa before returning home.

On the Alaska hike, the girls plan to go up through Alberta and return along the coast of British Columbia to Vancouver.

Canada's west impressed both girls during their trip from Vancouver to Calgary. They said they wanted to come back and settle, probably in Vancouver, a city they say is the most beautiful they've seen.

In the meantime, before they make a choice, Sylvia from London wants to spend a Christmas in Australia while Corrine from New Zealand wants to spend a Christmas in Canada.

Soups

EMEM'S YELLOW SPLIT PEA SOUP

One pound yellow split peas, 2 quarts cold water, one-half pound ground onions (about 1½ cups), 2 bay leaves, 4½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 stalks celery cut up including the leaves, 4 to 6 ounces ground sweet pickled cottage roll or peamealed back bacon or smoked side bacon or smoked end slices of ham.

Sort over and wash peas. Soak them in a large kettle in one quart of cold water overnight. They should stand in a cool place. I have had them go sour overnight on a hot night in the summer.

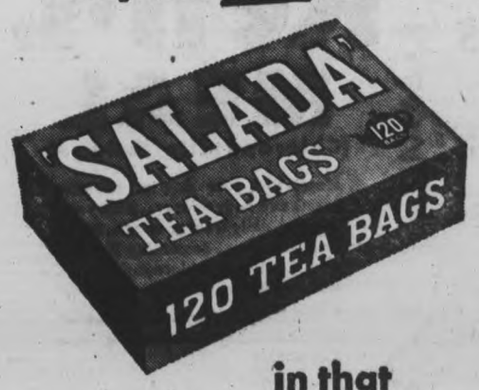
Add all remaining ingredients including the other quart of water and let simmer, covered, over very low heat, until peas are tender and mushy. Leave in all of the ingredients except the bay leaves. If you have a deep-well cooker be sure to use it for this, for the soup sticks to bottom of soup pot unless carefully watched.

If you cook this on gas you should be an asbestos mat over the burner.

If your family is accustomed to you being unorthodox and you can get away with serving this soup as the main hot course, pass whole wheat rolls, hot of course, to be eaten with it.

Then, make an especially attractive salad plate: in nests of lettuce place a small portion of shrimp salad mix, put celery hearts and gherkins and tomato wedges and cucumber slices on the plate too. Pumpkin pie is an ideal dessert for it boosts the protein content of the total meal.

CLEAR TOMATO SOUP



To one 28-oz. tin of tomatoes add 2 oxo cubes, 2 slices onion, 1 cut up stalk celery with leaves, 2 cloves ½ teaspoon peppercorns ½ to 1 teaspoon salt and simmer covered, for 15 minutes. Strain. Have ready 2 tablespoons melted butter with 1 teaspoon flour stirred into it. Stir this into the soup until it thickens, then simmer a few minutes to cook the flour. Serve in bouillon cups with a little mound of salted whipped cream on top.

The Smoked Cottage Rolls we buy these days come to us tied with a lot of string. Boil it first in water to cover, about 20 minutes to the pound. Drain and remove string and cover with mixture of ½ cup brown sugar mixed with 2 teaspoons dry mustard and ½ teaspoon cinnamon. Tie with enough string to keep it from spreading apart and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour, with parboiled yams around it.

The yams have a better flavor and softer consistency if parboiled before roasting.

The Crisp Green Salad contained 1 cup finely shredded cabbage, about 1 cup tops of sprigs or watercress well washed, slivers of green and red sweet peppers, and one-half a small head of lettuce. A clove or garlic had been left in the French dressing bottle and was noticeable enough to flavor the salad but not to linger on the breath. We used lemon juice instead of vinegar in the French dressing, for at this time of year we should think of boosting our vitamin content. Remember that all of the citrus fruits and tomatoes, contain Vitamin C.

Women who KNOW from experience say:

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Offer Relishes For Pickling Fans

This is not my rut.

You pushed me into it.

I was so relieved today to find one letter in the mail from a lady who said: "Mary, you seem to be up to your eyes in pickles, but they really don't interest me, because there is no family here — only my man, three dogs, one cat, myself, and hundreds of birds which come to get fed twice a day."

I don't think I've ever known such a year and when I was in such a pickle.

There's no need to make a list of your names or initials who want these relishes because there are dozens of you who will gobble them up. All I can say is you have more pep than I have at the present moment — but you also have my blessing.

You want more relish recipes—"mine not to reason why...."

CUCUMBER RELISH

Thirty small cucumbers (3 to 4 inch), 6½ quarts cold water, 2 cups salt, 10 medium onions, 2 sweet red peppers, 6 cups vinegar, 1 cup sugar, 4 teaspoons mustard seed, 2 teaspoons each celery seed and turmeric. Wash cucumbers. Soak them overnight in the water and salt, which have been combined to make a brine. Drain. Dry cucumbers and slice into slices not more than ¼-inch wide. (If desired, cucumbers may be pared.) Peel and thinly slice onions. Wash and remove the seeds from the peppers and chop finely. Combine all ingredients and boil uncovered for 10 minutes. Pour immediately into hot sterile jars and seal at once. Makes about 5 to 6 pints, depending on whether you use wine or imperial pints.

GREEN TOMATO RELISH (Piccalilli).

One peck green tomatoes (a peck is 8 quarts as you doubtless know), 5 lbs. cabbage, 6 sweet peppers, 4 medium-sized onions, 1 cup salt, 6 cups vinegar, 2-3 cup sugar, ½ lb. mustard seed, 2 tablespoons celery seed, 1 tablespoon ground horseradish, and 1 to 2 teaspoons curry powder is optional. Chop and mix tomatoes, cabbage, sweet peppers and onions with the salt, and let stand 12 hours. (I've put these through the food chopper to save time—use the coarsest knife.) Mix vinegar, sugar, mustard seed, celery seed and horseradish. Bring to boiling point. Add vegetables and bring just to boiling point. Pack into hot sterile jars and seal at once.

❖ ❖ ❖

Here is a cnutney recipe that I am throwing in all unasked for—simply because I like it. Pete and Marianne do too, and sometimes those two rascals aren't easy to please.

TOMATO APPLE CHUTNEY

Twenty medium-sized tomatoes, 15 medium-sized apples, 2 large green peppers, 8 medium onions, 2 cups seedless raisins, preferably white sultanas, 4 cups brown sugar, 4 cups vinegar, 5 tablespoons mixed pickling spices, 1 tablespoon salt. Peel the tomatoes by dipping in boiling water for one minute, then chilling in cold. Pare apples and onions and chop all of them. Add chopped peppers, sugar, vinegar, salt and spice bag (spices should be tied loosely in it). Cook slowly 1½ hours, stirring very frequently. Remove the spice bag when you think the spice flavor is strong enough to please your crowd. Pour into sterile jars and seal. Packed carefully into pint jars this makes lovely Christmas gifts.

SWEET CHILI SAUCE

This is a pip. I think I give it to you nearly every year. Fifteen medium-sized choice red tomatoes, 3 large onions, 5 hot red pepper, 1 pint white vinegar, 3 peaches, 3 pears, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 oz. whole mixed spices, 2 cups brown sugar. Cut up the peeled tomatoes, peel and chop onions; peel and chop pears and peaches coarsely, but chop pepper fine. Mix vinegar, salt and brown sugar, then stir the mixture into the fruits and vegetables, add the whole spices tied loosely in a cheesecloth bag. Cook gently 2¼ hours, stirring frequently. Pour into sterile jars and seal. Best chili sauce I know.

That's all for today—I'm going to bed. You can make pickles far into the night if you like.

Jams

SUGARLESS PEACH JAM

Four cups, well packed, chopped, fully ripened perfect peaches. (Peal peaches by dipping for 1 minute in boiling hot water); 16 sucaryl tablets, 4 ounces glycerin.

Simmer peaches over low heat for 30 minutes, then add remaining ingredients and simmer 10 minutes, stirring frequently. Using sterile spoons and other equipment, pour into pint jars which have been sterilized by boiling in boiling water 20 minutes with rubbers, tops and rings—all sterilized Seal tight, invert until cool.

❖ ❖ ❖

LOMBARD PLUM JAM

(This recipe may be used for Prune plums too.)

Six cups washed Lombard plums, well packed—after they have been stoned and cut up. Do not peel the plums.

Boil gently over low heat for 35 minutes, stirring often to prevent sticking. After 35 minutes add 12 tablespoons (¾ cup) glycerin, 36 sucaryl tablets, and boil gently 15 minutes longer, stirring almost constantly.

If you think your jam is not thick enough for jam consistency boil 5 minutes longer, stirring. However, when the jam is cold it is much thicker than when it is hot.

Pour into sterilized pint jars and seal with sterile rubber rings and glass tops.

❖ ❖ ❖

SUGARLESS BLACK CURRANT JAM

Wash, drain and mash 4 cups ripe black currants with potato masher. Simmer gently in flat-bottomed saucepan 15 minutes. Add 18 sucaryl tablets (to be bought in large drug stores), 6 tablespoons glycerin and ½ teaspoon certo crystals. Stir over low heat until juice is a little thickened. Pour into sterile jars and steal perfectly.

❖ ❖ ❖

CHILI SAUCE, SUGARLESS

Eighteen medium large fully-ripe tomatoes, 3 cups chopped one half hour and discard it. 4 cups spirit vinegar, 25 sucaryl tablets, 1 teaspoon each ground allspice, black pepper and cayenne pepper (reduce these last three ingredients to half if you want very mild chili sauce), 2 tablespoons salt. Peel tomatoes after scalding, cut in quarters. Let excess liquid drain off for Peel and chop onions, wash and chop celery in ½-inch pieces. Add them and all remaining ingredients except sucaryl tablets and boil over medium heat one and one-quarter hours. Add sucaryl tablets, stir for 5 minutes over low heat. Pour into sterile pint jars and seal with sterile tops. Seal with great care.

❖ ❖ ❖

PINEAPPLE MARMALADE

Mix together 6 cups chopped or ground fresh pineapple and juice, 2 cups sugar, and boil for 15 minutes hard. Then add 1½ cups orange juice and boil until you get the pectin test rather weak,—that is put 1 teaspoon of the juice from the jam into 1 teaspoon of methyl hydrate (wood alcohol and poisonous), stir a little. If a slight clot of jelly forms jam has been boiled enough. Discard this. Remove from heat at once and pour into small sterile jam jars and seal at once with hot paraffin, adding a second coating when cold. Cover with lids. If desired you may shorten boiling time by using directions on commercial pectin package and commercial pectin.

❖ ❖ ❖

CANNED PINEAPPLE

Scrub pineapple with a coarse brush, peel them, remove eyes and shred with heavy meat fork or cut into slices, then into ½ inch cubes. Pack into sterile tin cans or glass jars, and fill with boiling hot syrup (light syrup which is 1¼ cups sugar to each 4 cups water). Seal to within 1-8 turn of tight for jars. Seam if in tin cans. Process glass in boiling water counting 30 minutes from time water starts to boil after jars are immersed in it. No. 2 or No. 3 tin cans require 25 minutes processing at 212 deg. Fahr. (boiling). Cool tin cans 30 minutes at once. Cool glass jars at room temperature as soon as they can possibly be handled without a draught.

PINEAPPLE HONEY

For each cup of freshly grated pineapple and juice take 2 cups sugar and 1 cup water. Boil water and sugar together just until it will "thread". Add the grated pineapple and cook until as thick as honey—maybe a trifle on the thin side. Just before removing from fire add ⅛ teaspoon cream of tartar for each 2 cups sugar used, stirring it in well. Pour into sterile pint sealers and seal while boiling hot. This is best if stored in a dark cupboard.

LADY FINGERS

Three egg whites, ½ cup icing sugar, 2 egg yolks, ½ cup sifted all-purpose flour, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Sift the powdered sugar over them a little at a time, while beating, until it is all added. Fold in the egg yolks which have been beaten for at least 5 minutes to make them thick and light colored. Fold in the sifted flour and salt which have been sifted together. Stir in the vanilla extract. Using a pastry bag with a plain hole tube (these must be bought at large hardware stores or restaurant supply stores, for the purpose) shape the dough into strips 1" wide and 4½" long on a cookie sheet covered with plain or parchment paper. Sprinkle lightly with powdered sugar, then bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 12 minutes or until lightly browned. Cool about 5 minutes then remove, from paper with the help of a spatula, and press them together in pairs to cool on a cake rack. If these are to be used for moulded desserts they would be cooled separately.

DUTCH APPLE PIE

Quarter and dice tart apples. Line a pie tin with a good crust, sprinkle with flour and place apples in crust to nearly fill it. Mix 1 beaten egg with 1 tablespoon flour, pinch of salt, dash of nutmeg and about ½ cup whole milk or cream. Sprinkle over from ½ to 2/3 cup sugar and sprinkle again with a little nutmeg. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. until custard is set and apples are tender. This method may be used with cherries or plums or peaches instead of apples. It is a delicious pie and not quite so filling as a 2-crust apple pie.

❖ ❖ ❖

SOYBEAN BREAD

Four and one-half cups sifted soybean flour, 8½ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2¾ cups whole milk, 2 cakes yeast, 4 tablespoons sugar, 4 teaspoons salt, 2 tablespoons fat. Sift together the soy and wheat flours. Add 1 cup water to the milk and heat. Add the fat, sugar and salt. Disolve the yeast cakes in ½ cup lukewarm water and add to the mixture when it (the mixture) is lukewarm. Stir in 7 or 8 cups of the mixed flours and beat thoroughly. Cover and stand in not-to-warm place to rise overnight. In morning add enough flour to make a firm dough and knead until firm and elastic and squeaky. Cover and stand in warm place to trebel in bulk. Knead again. Shape into 3 loaves (which will weight about 1½ pounds when baked). Let rise in buttered loaf pans until double in bulk. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 60 minutes. You may make pan buns of any shape or size from this dough. Shape the buns when you shape the loaves.

CORN FRITTER

A good vegetable meal that is popular with men is:

Corn Fritters
Boiled Onions with Cheese Sauce
Baked Tomato Casserole
Hot Buttered Toast
Salad of Cabbage, Cottage Cheese
Celery and Chives
with Real Mayonnaise
Banana Cream Pie Coffee

You will notice that this meal contains plenty of protein in the eggs in the fritters, the cheese in the sauce, the cottage cheese in the salad and the milk and eggs in the pie. So it will be very satisfying.

I will give you the recipes for the corn fritters and the cheese sauce.

❖ ❖ ❖

CORN FRITTERS

Three eggs, yolks and whites separated, 1 2/3 cups canned kernel corn, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ¼ cup flour, 6 tablespoons melted margarine or cooking oil. Beat the yolks until light then add the corn, seasonings and flour. Lastly fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Drop by spoonfuls in hot fat in frying pan. Cook both sides until dark gold and cooked in centres. Serve with butter or margarine or syrup or jam or clear tomato sauce sweetened with a little sugar or syrup.

CHEESE SAUCE (for onions or broccoli or cauliflower or sprouts).

Melt 2 tablespoons butter, add 2 tablespoons flour and when blended stir in 1¼ cups hot milk, until thick. Add ¼ lb. cheese — either processed or grated old. Stir in until cheese melts. Taste for salt and pepper and add as desired.

Plan Korean Relief Campaign For Fall

By CECIL SMITH

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian relief worker has returned from a visit to South Korea with a three-way plan for Canadians to help alleviate the sufferings of war-ravaged Korean children.

Dr. Lotta Hitchmanova, director of the Canadian branch of the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada, made a two-week visit to Korea on the invitation of the United Nations Reconstruction Agency to get first-hand information on living standards.

She spent four days in Pusan, the only major South Korean city not ravaged by the Communists, and 10 days in Seoul, capital of South Korea.

Dr. Hitchmanova told a press conference that the Unitarian Service Committee will appeal this fall for milk, quilts, scribblers and pencils for the children of that country.

She said conditions among the children south of the 38th parallel are so incredible that it is "something you have to see to believe."

"Despite all the hardships I found the Korean people very charming, shy and proud."

Dr. Hitchmanova said that of the 20,000,000 people in South Korea, 10,000,000 have been uprooted and of these 3,500,000 are war sufferers—people who have lost their property.

Approximately 100,000 children had been orphaned since the war started and half were wandering the streets and countryside. She said:

"Some 25,000 children are attending primary schools in Seoul and the majority of them attend school all day without any lunch because their people haven't got it to give to them. For this reason I place milk as No. 1 on the list."

Dr. Hitchmanova said tuberculosis is the No. 1 killer in Korea. An estimated 45,000 sufferers have died each year since the Korean campaign started and at present the number of "open" tuberculosis cases is 750,000.

Bake Variety Of Cookies With Minimum Effort

By MARY MOORE

There seems to be a rash of teas breaking out all over the countryside, and while I am invited to some of them I cannot figure how I can have one myself.

So I will have to take my urge out in talking about it, and the cookie that belongs in the afternoon tea category.

If you are geared for high speed you know the advantages of making cookie press cookies.

The reason I mention these little number is because of the variety you can produce with a minimum of materials and effort.

COOKIE PRESS COOKIES

One-half cup high quality shortening or butter, 1 cup sugar, 4 egg yolks, well-beaten, 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ¼ teaspoon vanilla. Cream the shortening until fluffy and light, then add the sugar creaming well, until the mixture is light. Add the yolks and beat well. Add the sifted dry ingredients and vanilla, and mix thoroughly. Press through cookie press as directed on manufacturer's instructions and bake on ungreased cookie sheets. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. about 10 minutes.

Note: It is advisable to use one-third of the dough for two shapes; divide remaining two-thirds of dough in two parts. To one part add 1 teaspoon cinnamon to the other add red or green coloring. Change cookie disc and make different shapes for each flavor of cookie. Before baking, press a blanched almond on top of each spice cookie.

Now you have four egg whites left over so they should be used up in:

COCOANUT MERINGUE KISSES

Beat the four egg white (left-over from the cookie press cookies) until stiff but not dry; then gradually add 2/3 cup of sugar while continuing to beat. Add ½ teaspoon vanilla, then fold in another ½ cup sugar. These may be baked as they are now, but are best if 1 cup moist shredded cocoanut is added, and better still, one-half cup sliced red and green cherries or ¼ cup sliced glace cherries and ¼ cup chopped or broken pecans. Shape with a spoon in small mounds on cookie sheet covered with plain parchment paper. Bake at 250 deg. Fahr. (very slow oven) for about 30 to 35 minutes, then cool them. Remove from the paper with a spatula when cool.

THE ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

Question: I hope that you can help me. Recently I had dinner at the —— and they served hot rolls that were lighter than Parker House rolls. They were flaky with rather large holes in them. I think they are made with yeast because a friend makes rolls very much like these rolls with yeast, but she refuses to give the recipe.

If you have such a recipe I will appreciate having you send it to me.

While I am writing, will you please tell me why the very outside of my angel food is tough and hard to cut. I would like to know where I make my mistake because I follow directions carefully in the ——. Mrs. W. J. W.

✧ ✧ ✧

Answer: There may be some of our readers that know bread-making secrets we do not know; if so, I hope they will reveal them to you and me.

But—when I want my hot rolls to be the finest I know how to make I am careful to let them rise a little higher than double their volume when shaped, and then I chill them outside. When the oven is heated to 400 deg. Fahr., I put in the rolls and reduce the temperature to 375 deg. Fahr. until they are baked and golden. This gives very light rolls, but is an unorthodox way of handling yeast mixes.

I hope readers of this column will write to me if they have other methods of making yeast roll light and airy. I will print their replies in this column, if they do.

My first guess about the crust on your angel food cake is that your oven may be registering 325 deg. Fahr., but may not be this hot actually. When I have what I call a "gummy" crust on my angel foods that make them hard to cut or pull apart I find the oven heat has receded too much before they are finished baking.

Could you check your oven by standing a small portable oven thermometer inside and comparing it with the outside thermometer?

Here is the Angel Food cake recipe I recommend.

ANGEL FOOD

Sift good quality cake flour twice and measure 1 cup less 2 level tablespoons; 1¼ cups fine white sugar, 1 cup egg whites—(about 8 large eggs), ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon each cream of tartar and vanilla, ¼ teaspoon almond extract. Measure the twice-sifted flour and put it into the sifter with ¼ cup of the sugar and sift 6 times. Put back in sifter. Add salt to egg whites in large bowl and beat with flat wire whip or rotary beater until foamy. Add the cream of tartar and beat until glossy and stiff, but not dry. Add the remaining 1 cup sugar 2 tablespoons at a time, folding and beating after each addition until just blended. Fold in flavorings. Sift one quarter of the dry ingredients over the whites and gently fold and cut in with shallow spoon. Fold barley enough to incorporate whites and flour. Repeat until the flour mixture is used up. Pour into ungreased tube pan which is reserved for sponge cakes only. It should not be greased or lined. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour. Turn upside down on cake rack and let cake hang this way until cool. Loosen sides with sharp narrow knife and shake from pan.

See recipe elsewhere on this page for Cooked Chocolate frosting, which is recommended for this cake.

✧ ✧ ✧

Question: I have a problem and I wonder if you can tell me what I am doing wrong. I just can't make rolls.

Recently I made a batch of Parker House rolls using the recipe that comes with dry yeast. The crust was hard, the rolls tough and the folded over part was sticking straight up when I took them from the oven. Would appreciate it if you could help me.—Mrs. R. McK.

✧ ✧ ✧

Answer: Let's change your entire routine with rolls. I make them every weekend from the recipe which follows:

PARKER HOUSE DOLLS
(2 Dozen Rolls)

Soak 1 package of granular yeast (making sure it is dated right) in ½ cup warm water a little warmer than your wrist, and 2 teaspoons sugar, for about 15 or 20 minutes, or until it fills a measuring cup.

Scald ½ cup milk until very hot. Meanwhile sift bread flour and measure 4 cups and put in large mixing bowl and make well in centre. When milk is hot add a scant 1/3 cup cold water to it and 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 tablespoons shortening. Beat then add 1 egg and stir. Add the yeast to these liquids and pour this liquid mix into well in centre of flour. Stir until liquid disappears then remove spoon from dough, and knead doug in bowl for about 5 minutes. (This may be done on the board but since more flour has to be added by board-kneading, and since more flour makes rolls hard, this should be avoided for rolls.) Brush top of dough with melted butter, cover with cloth, then with plate and let rise at room temperature for 2 hours. Do not stand on radiator or on stove or near a register. When dough has risen to about double in bulk punch it down several times in the bowl. Tip dough out on greased bakeboard and pull off pieces about the size of an egg, flaten them on board to ½-inch thickness, spread one-half with butter, and fold other half right over, like a sandwich, and press down hard. Let rise to double in bulk, covered, brush tops with melted butter, bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for about 15 minutes. Brush again with melted butter.

✧ ✧ ✧

MOTHER'S CHERRY PUDDING

One egg, 1 cup each sugar and flour, ½ cup milk, 2 teaspoons baking powder, another ½ cup flour, 1 pint canned pitted cherries drained. Cream egg and sugar together. Add milk, flour and baking powder with the ½ cup flour first. Heat the cherries (adding ½ cup sugar if fresh) in buttered pan, then pour this batter over them and bake in 350 deg. Fahr. about 20 minutes. Serve with Cherry nutmeg sauce: Heat up to 2 cups juice from canned cherries. Meanwhile mix 2½ tablespoons cornstarch with ¼ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon freshly grated nutmeg, shake of salt. Add to hot cherry juice stirring until thick. Butter and lemon rind may be added if desired.

Mix ½ cup sugar, with ¼ teaspoon each cinnamon, nutmeg and salt. Grease a 1½-quart casserole and put in it ½ cup soft breadcrumbs in a layer. Put in 1 cup drained canned or fresh stoned cherries (if fresh cherries are used they must be sprinkled with an additional ½ cup sugar). Sprinkle these with half of the sugar mixture. Repeat. Mix together rind 1 lemon and pour it over. Cover with another ½ cup soft crumbs and do this with 3 tablespoons butter. Cover and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 1 hour, when uncover for about 10 minutes. This same method is good with raw apples, rhubarb, peaches. Serve with pouring cream, or cherry sauce made as for above pudding.

I cannot conscientiously recommend using canned cherries in cake.

Staff Boycotts Dining Room At Hospital

ENFIELD, Middlesex, England (CP)—Fifteen doctors and 200 nurses won a dining-room boycott at the Chase Farm hospital—but it took 24 hours' absenteeism from the eating department to bring it off.

The staff at this rural hospital claim the food has been bad for two years. Not only bad but not sufficient. So a "food complaint committee" was formed and registered four representations this year. None was recognized so an organized boycott of the dining room took place.

Nurses made tea and toast in their rooms. Doctors ate from tins in their quarters. Local people sent food parcels in to them and the cook had many rations uneaten in her larder.

A doctor said there is a budgeted amount for food for staff and patients. When a special menu has to be prescribed for a patient, it comes out of the one amount and so reduces the food for staff, he said. But he hastened to point out that the situation did not prejudice a doctor making proper food arrangements for a patient.

So management got together with staff and suddenly boiled ham appeared on the menu. The staff went to the dining room and, with a smack of lips, said: "Best meal we've had in a long time."

Speaker was Miss Nellie Lewis of Toronto and the rally was held in the new Trinity Church Hall on Tuesday evening. Miss Lewis urged the young people to develop a hobby to "ward off loneliness in later life." After her address she gave added meaning to her words by leading in a bright period of recreation, and the YPU members were soon enjoying themselves thoroughly in performing a series of games which Miss Lewis introduced with such enthusiasm. A good attendance from both city and country unions was welcomed by the Trinity Young People who showed them through their new hall. The rally came to order with a sing song led by Miss Marion Brown. Visitors Stream Into Trinity Hall For "Open House"

A steady stream of visitors passed through the doors of the new Trinity Church Hall throughout Wednesday afternoon and evening when "open house" for all members and friends of the congregation was held. Their remarks in tribute to the beauty of this modern, simply designed structure, particularly the auditorium, were most gratifying to the committee members who have supervised the building, and further to the donors of memorials, furnishings and money gifts.

Members of the board, as they guided the visitors through the rooms, found the ladies much impressed by the very well-equipped kitchen, as well as by the kitchenette which adjoins the upstair parlour. Many baskets of flowers enhanced the scene in every room and the auditorium stage was banked with flowers and ferns.

Tea was being served by the Women's Association and a beautifully laden tea table did justice to the occasion. Centrepiece on the handsome damask cloth was an artistic arrangement of large white chrysanthemums and pale yellow gladioli and two candalabra held matching lighted tapers. Silver tea services and plates completed the effective setting, done by Mrs. Robert Allen and Mrs. C. C. McIntyre.

Tea pourers in the afternoon were Mrs. J. W. Pierce and Mrs. D. B. Gordon, Mrs. J. E. Girven and Mrs. N. D. Seaton. Six members of the Women's Association served while other members were in charge of supplying the table.

During the evening the tea was poured by Mrs. R. Clayton and Mrs. B. MacFadden and Mrs. C. H. Huffman and Mrs. M. Elliott. Servers were women teachers of the Sunday school and members of the Baby Band Mothers' Auxiliary.

KING GEORGE SCHOOL

King George Home and School Association meeting was held on Tuesday evening in St. Luke's Parish Hall with president Mrs. H. Morrison presiding.

Principal Mr. C. D. Munro introduced the new teachers, Mr. G. Murray, Mrs. P. Hutchins, Mrs. Cross, Miss N. Wartman, Miss L. Barker and Miss B. Merritt and also introduced the other staff members present to the parents.

Murray Mander entertained with three musical numbers on the accordion, "Come Back to Sorento," "Marionette March" and "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling."

Mr. C. Bullock then introduced the four top students of the graduating class who received the Board of Education and Home and School awards. Nancy Townsend, Arthur Clarke, Helen Walker and Patricia Elliott. Each replied with a suitable address. Lieut. Col. M. E. Clarke read a poem entitled "Father's Prayer."

Ann and Murray Mander played a few duets on the marimba which was very much enjoyed by all.

Guest speaker, Mr. C. E. Potts of the Normal School staff was introduced by Miss Eastwood. He spoke to the graduating class and told of things that stood out in his mind in the early years of his schooling. "Schools of today have greater opportunity for varied activities such as sports, music, dramatics, library club, cadets and so on," he said. "Leaving King George you take more than memories—one of the most important may be remembered by the word 'Grip.' The G stands for get along ability; the R, responsibility; the I initiative; the P, perserverance."

"A bigger school and a school much different in many ways seeks to help you develop desirable attitudes—skills and knowledge but even when your period at this school is over your education is not finished," he concluded.

Mr. C. Ferguson thanked Mr. Potts.

Mrs. H. Morrison announced a rummage sale will be held on Thursday, September 25, at 392 Water St.

Mrs. Rothschild's afternoon class won the attendance prize.

Lunch was served by the executive and a social time enjoyed.

Simple sewing plus a small amount of time are all that's needed to transform a corner of your kitchen into a breakfast nook. A breakfast nook, these days, is a time-saver and a short cut to easier living. You may use a table (left) or just a long shelf fastened to the wall. We used a print fabric, working with shirring tape, to make place mats, chair backs and seat covers, cafe curtains and even a lamp shade (lower right). For trim, we used cotton fringe in bright colors. The result is a rich, co-ordinated look at a tiny cost.

Fashions For Your Home Fun To Make Provide Help In Balancing Budget

In these times of cramped apartments and tiny houses, with the accompanying need to utilize every inch of space, the informal breakfast nook is a mighty handy thing to have.

If you can possibly squeeze out space in your kitchen for one, it's a step-saver and time-saver, too. To start, use a table if you fit it in. If not, just attach an adequate sturdy shelf to the wall and you're in business.

Now, to remove any possible chance of the homemade decor look, give the chairs, table (or shelf), windows and nearby lamp, if you have one, some real window dressing. You'll need just a few yards of fabric, print or plain, plus some shirring tape and inexpensive trim.

We made cafe curtains because they're attractive and simple to do.

In measuring and cutting material to fit your windows, allow double width for fullness. Then fold the fabric at the top, three-eighths of an inch down the wrong side. Use inch-wide shirring tape, available at the trimmings counter in the drapery department of any large store, at top and bottom on the wrong side of the fabric, concealing the hem.

Shirring tape comes with two cords woven in. By pulling these cords to whatever fullness you want, the curtains fall into perfect miniature cartridge pleats. Then, when you're ready to launder the curtains, fabric will lie flat when you release the cords.

Using the right side of the material, stitch on the heading along top fold. Heading comes in bright colors with the cotton loops woven right in. Match the color of the fringe trim to the heading and stitch the trim to the bottom of the curtains. Here again, just fold fabric for a hem and attach trim on the wrong side.

Now, you're ready to do the seat covers and chair backs. For seat covers, put your material over knife-edge pillows. Cut two pieces of fabric to fit the shape of the pillow, allowing an extra half-inch on each side for the hem. Using the wrong side of the fabric insert trim between the two pieces.

Be sure that the correct edge of the trim shows through on the right side. Stitch trim and fabric together, leaving one side open. Insert snap tape or zippers there so that seat covers can be easily removed for washing.

Next, the chair backs. Take measurements and cut your fabric, again allowing for hemming. Sew the two pieces together on the wrong side and attach trim on right side.

Place mats may be cut any shape you prefer, then trimmed with the same cotton fringe used for the chairs and curtains.

A finishing touch for your breakfast nook can come from a fringe-trimmed lampshade. You can make it yourself, using the shirring tape.

Measure the top circumference of your lamp, then double the figure to get the correct width. For length, add one-half-inch length plus an inch for trimming. Use shirring tape at the top of the fabric, hem at the bottom and attach fringe.

When you've finished, you'll have an indispensable corner that your family and friends will like for late snacks and light meals as well as for breakfast.

DOROTHY DIX

Find Advice Of Oldsters Does Not Always Apply

DEAR MISS DIX: Why are our children unwilling to profit by the experience of their parents? And why won't they listen to our advice instead of learning too late and via the hard way?

I am a self-supporting widow, with two married daughters, each with children of her own. When I try to point out to them the unattractiveness of their surroundings and suggest methods for improvement, instead of being thankful that I take an interest and being grateful for my advice, they seem to resent it.

The same goes when I call their attention to faults in the management of their childen. On one occasion one of my sons-in-law all but ordered me from the house when I tried to tell them the proper manner in which to handle a certain situation concerning one of the children.

Please say a good word for us mothers whose hearts are breaking because they can't stand to see their children following the wrong road, when just a little cooperation on the part of the younger generation would be of such assistance.

ANSWER: One of the hardest facts for oldsters to face is that while the ways and methods of their generation were fine for them, they are neither always expedient nor wise for their children. This is the chief reason why it is so hard to bridge the gap between generations, and for them to live harmoniously together.

THINK BACK

Think back a bit, Mrs. I. H. Were you docilely willing to accept all the suggestions given by your mother or mother-in-law? In fact, if you, or any of us, lived solely on the advice handed down by elders, where would the path of progress lead? To a dead end, you may be sure. You had the pleasure of bringing up your children in the theories and methods best suited to you; don't you think they, in turn, are entitled to the same privilege? Sensible young people will take the advice of their elders—but with certain modifications. A great deal of it is good, a great deal of it doesn't fit in with modern living.

The principles of right living go on unchanged, and if you imparted them to your children, they will impart them to your grandchildren. Questions regarding the mode of living, however, have and will continue to change from generation to generation. Just as in your youth there were no rules concerning the etiquette of television, and in your grandmother's day there were no automobiles or movies to bring up arguments, so in today's home these problems, and many others arise that can best be handled by the generation that evoked them.

Suggestions may be made, of course, and are welcome in accordance with the manner in which they are given. Out-and-out criticism of your daughters' housekeeping, child-rearing and home management are bound to result in discord. Instead of letting your heart break because you aren't allowed to have a finger in their household pie, be grateful that the years have brought you the privilege of ignoring the irksome details of life, and enjoy the freedom time has given.
